GENERAL REPORT.

Report of the Superintendent of Education, 1924-1925.

EDUCATION OFFICE,
VICTORIA, B.C., November, 1925.

To the Honourable J. D. MacLean, M.D., C.M., LL.D., Minister of Education.

SIR,—I beg to submit herewith the Fifty-fourth Annual Report of the Public Schools of British Columbia for the school-year ended June 30th, 1925.

The enrolment in the schools of the Province increased during the year from 96,204 (48,712 boys and 47,492 girls) to 97,954 (49,621 boys and 48,333 girls), and the average daily attendance from 79,262 to 82,721. The percentage of regular attendance was 84.45, the highest reached in any year.

The number of pupils enrolled and the number of teachers employed in the different classes of schools are shown hereunder:—

	Number of Pupils enrolled.		Increase in Enrolment.	Number of Teachers employed.		Average Number of Pupils per Grade Teacher.
	1924–25.	1923–24.		Grade Teachers.	Special Instructors.

Springbend	North Okanagan.
Jervis Inlet, Kleindale	North Vancouver.
Tintagel	Omineca.
Meadow Creek	Salmon Arm.
Four Mile	Skeena.

SURVEY OF SCHOOL SYSTEM.

The survey of the school system of the Province, which was begun last year by Dr. J. H. Putman, Senior Inspector of Schools, Ottawa, and Dr. G. M. Weir, Professor of Education, The University of British Columbia, was completed on May 30th. The Commissioners have submitted an exhaustive report covering almost every aspect of our educational problems and have made recommendations which, if carried into effect, will result in material improvement to the school curriculum, the training of teachers, and the inspection and supervision of schools, will make more equitable the incidence of school taxation and will provide for the superannuation of teachers. They emphasize the importance and value of domestic science and manual training as regular school subjects and recommend that a policy of paying bonuses to rural school districts be adopted with a view to securing and retaining the services of good teachers in rural schools. In the matter of the curriculum the Commission recommends the establishment of middle schools, or junior high schools, for pupils between twelve and fifteen years of age, embracing Grades VII. and VIII. of the elementary school and Grade IX. of the high school, and suggests that a more elastic programme of studies be provided for those grades as well as for senior high-school classes. The survey which has just been completed has been the most thorough examination of a school system ever made in Canada, and the educational worker will find the report a chart of progress for the next decade.

NEW TEXT-BOOKS.

During the year new Music Readers were prepared for Grades III. to VIII. by Miss E. M. Coney, Music Mistress of the Vancouver Normal School staff, assisted by Mr. F. T. C. Wickett, A.R.C.O., Victoria. For many years American text-books, adapted for Canadian schools, were prescribed for use in the schools of this Province, but the books were expensive and not largely used. The various parts of the new Canadian Music Course are within the means of every child. The price of Book 1 is twenty cents and Books 2, 3, and 4 twenty-five cents each. There is no good reason now why music should not form a part of the regular programme in all the elementary schools of the Province.

The "Public School Speller" was replaced in September of this year by a new text entitled "Spelling for the Grades." This book was prepared by this Department in conjunction with the Department of Education of Alberta and is now being used in the elementary schools of both Provinces. The supply for British Columbia was printed by the King's Printer at a cost of sixteen cents per copy. The price of the old book was fifty-five cents. "Spelling for the Grades" contains a list of 4,000 words carefully graded to suit the attainments of the pupils.

Cornish's Chemistry, which has been used in Grades X. and XI., will gradually be replaced by Black and Conant's Practical Chemistry, which has been adapted for use in our high schools by Professor R. H. Clark, of The University of British Columbia. The new book was selected after a careful examination of all available text-books in chemistry.

The High School Fifth Reader, which had been used in the Province for over twenty years, has been replaced by "Narrative English Poems," compiled by Drs. MacDonald and Walker, of The University of British Columbia, with the advice and assistance of representative high-school teachers.

MUSIC FOR HIGH-SCHOOL STUDENTS.

High-school students, other than those taking the course of study which leads to Junior Matriculation, may now select music as an optional subject in lieu of geometry, botany, agriculture, physics, or chemistry. Music lessons are not provided by the high school and are not given by music-teachers during school-hours. Students intending to select the music option are required to pass a preliminary test in June, at which they must give proof of natural aptitude for the subject and enough native talent to make success probable. At the preliminary test the examiners determine what section of our Music Syllabus the different candidates will be required to study during the following school-year.

AGRICULTURAL INSTRUCTION.

For a period of eleven years the Dominion Government met a considerable part of the funds required to provide instruction in elementary agriculture. This source of support has now been discontinued and as a result it became necessary to bring about a change in the District Supervisor system. Each of the Supervisors is now a member of the high-school staff of his district and he devotes his time almost entirely to teaching agriculture and other science subjects. Langley, Surrey, Salmon Arm, and New Westminster are the only municipalities which now maintain a service for the elementary schools. During the year a Course in Agriculture was taken in eleven high schools by 591 students. This shows a gain of seventy-five over the number receiving instruction in the subject the previous year.

Manual Training and Domestic Science.

There were eighty-one manual-training and fifty-five domestic-science centres in the Province, with seventy-one manual and fifty-four domestic-science instructors. The pupils attending the manual-training centres numbered 14,223 and those attending domestic science 11,193.

Technical Education, Night-schools, and Correspondence Classes.

Technical schools were in operation in the Cities of New Westminster, Trail, Vancouver, and Victoria, with a total enrolment of 1,676 students. In addition, ten other cities conducted commercial courses with an attendance of 434. Teacher-training for technical work proceeded satisfactorily in the Technical School, Vancouver; and teacher-training for commercial subjects was undertaken by correspondence and at Summer School, Vancouver.

Night-schools were conducted in thirty-five cities and rural municipalities in the Province, with an enrolment of 7,386 students. These numbers, according to the latest report of the Dominion Organizer of Technical Education, rank the Province third in the Dominion.

Instruction by correspondence was given to 250 pupils who live in localities in which schools have not yet been opened, and also to 202 coal-mine workers who wish to qualify as shotlighters, overmen, mine-surveyors, and mine-managers.

In 1924–25 the total amount spent by the Department for night-schools, correspondence-work, teacher-training, and technical education generally (not including manual training and domestic science) reached $108,219.25, and of that sum the Dominion Government paid $54,124.62. Excerpts from the latest report of the Dominion Organizer of Technical Education show that the Province of British Columbia takes fourth place for the total amount of expenditure on technical education, fourth place for the number taking correspondence classes, and second for the number of students being trained as technical teachers.

Summer Schools.

The sixth summer session of The University of British Columbia was held in Vancouver in July and August under the direction of Dr. H. T. J. Coleman, Dean of the Faculty of Arts, University of British Columbia. About 300 teachers and other students were in attendance. Instruction was given in educational theory and method, in commercial work, and also in the regular University courses.

A Summer School for teachers was held in Victoria at the same time. There were in attendance 350 teachers, the majority of whom were from rural districts. A demonstration school of five divisions with an enrolment of 150 pupils was organized for the service of the Summer School students. In these classes the most approved educational methods were practised.

Teachers' Bureau.

The Teachers' Bureau, organized in connection with the Department of Education in 1920, continued to give free service to Boards of School Trustees and to teachers. For the first time in several years the supply of fully qualified teachers was found to be equal to the demand for them. The knowledge of this fact no doubt prevented many teachers from relinquishing their posts at the end of the school-year 1923-24. Consequently a much smaller number of vacancies were reported to the Bureau, and fewer requests were received from School Boards for assistance in securing suitable teachers.

Teachers' Certificates.

Four classes of certificates are issued by the Department of Education—namely, Academic, First-class, Second-class, and Special. Special certificates are issued to teachers of manual training, domestic science, and commercial subjects.

Sixty-eight Academic, 178 First-class, 365 Second-class, 36 Special, and 16 Temporary Certificates, a total of 663, were issued during the year, as compared with 70 Academic, 197 First-class, 562 Second-class, 43 Special, and 24 Temporary Certificates, a total of 896, in 1923–24.

The following statement shows the number of teachers of each sex employed during 1924–25 and 1923–24, and also the number of certificates of each class held by the teachers:—

SPECIAL TESTS.

Written examinations for admission to high school have been confined, for several years, to the subjects of arithmetic, grammar and composition, geography, drawing, penmanship, dictation and spelling. From time to time reports were received by officials of this Department to the effect that the other subjects of the prescribed course were, in some of the schools, not receiving adequate attention. It was therefore decided to give an objective test to Entrance pupils in the subjects of Canadian history, British history, hygiene, and nature-study. This test, which was conductd by the Inspectors, was taken in May and June last by more than 5,000 pupils. There were fifty-five questions in the hygiene paper and sixty each in the other three subjects, 235 questions in all. The table which follows shows the average number of correct answers that were received from pupils of various schools throughout the Province. Schools in which the average number of correct answers per pupil reached 50 per cent. of the whole—that is, where it exceeds 117 in the four subjects—may be said to be doing at least fair work.

INSPECTORS' REPORTS.

HIGH SCHOOLS—INSPECTORATE No. 1.

VICTORIA, B.C., August 3rd, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,
Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I beg leave to submit herewith the following report on the high and superior schools of Inspectorate No. 1 for the year ended June 30th, 1925:—

There has been a marked increase in the number of teachers in this inspectorate during the past year. Additional teachers were appointed at Chilliwack, Kamloops, Nanaimo, Oak Bay, King George V. (Point Grey), Port Alberni, Prince George, Prince Rupert, Revelstoke, Salmon Arm, Surrey, West Vancouver, and Victoria. Superior schools were established at North Saanich, at Kitsumgallum (Terrace) in the northern part of the Province, and at Union Bay on Vancouver Island. At the beginning of the fall term the newly organized Lord Byng High School was opened with a staff of five teachers in the old Lord Kitchener Public School in West Point Grey. The corner-stone of the new building was laid in September by His Excellency the Governor-General of Canada, after whom the school is named, and it was formally opened in January by the Honourable the Premier of British Columbia. A new high-school building was also opened in Langley Municipality at the beginning of the calendar year. This school is situated on a well-paved portion of the Yale Road between Langley Prairie and Murrayville. The erection of these new schools brings the total number of buildings in this inspectorate to forty-six. Thirty-five of these are high schools, ten are superior schools, and there is one junior high school. The year's increase in the number of teachers was twenty-five, bringing the total number in Inspectorate No. 1 to 213 teachers.

Under ordinary conditions the duty of inspecting and reporting upon so large a number of teachers would be a very heavy one, but when one takes into consideration the facts that these teachers have had academic and professional training, that the majority change their positions very seldom, that the children come from English-speaking homes, and that the principals, almost without exception, have their schools well organized, it can be readily understood that under such favourable conditions my duties as Inspector were considerably lightened.

Although my regular work was impeded by the time spent in giving the Educational Survey Tests in twenty-one schools of this inspectorate, yet I found time to inspect all schools but two, and even there I conferred with the principal or the teachers regarding class-room procedure, the limits covered, and any difficulties encountered in school management. I cannot speak too highly regarding the spirit of co-operation manifested by the teachers in every school where the Survey Tests were given and in the extra work which they undertook in checking and tabulating the results. The detailed tabulation was in some schools so heavy that it chilled for a time all desire on the part of the teachers for giving further tests. In the majority of schools, however, a real interest was aroused in their study and use. Some principals now give at least one test a term to each grade, and they compare and check the Intelligence and Achievement Quotients with the teachers' estimates of their pupils' ability and with the results of the ordinary examinations.

In connection with the Language Tests furnished by the Survey Commission, some teachers were disappointed in the very few Henmon Latin and French Tests that were given their pupils, the number being insufficient for the purpose of forming a fair estimate of their knowledge of these two subjects. In the few schools in which these tests were given the results were not as satisfactory as the language instruction, which the students received in these subjects, would warrant. A few teachers in our high schools contended that in order to make the tests absolutely fair their students should have studied the same texts as those which were used by the pupils in the United States who took the same tests. According to the Directions for Scoring prepared by Dr. Henmon, of the University of Wisconsin, these Latin Tests were based upon "A tabulation of all the different words occurring in thirteen recent or widely used beginners' books, Caesar, Cicero, and Vergil. The 239 words common to all the books were given a thorough try-out and a scale value or weight was determined for each word." The pupils in the high schools of this Province had studied only portions of Caesar, Books IV. and V., and lines 1–505 of Vergil's Aeneid, Book II. They had not studied any part of Cicero. The quality of the instruction given in Latin and French in the high schools of this Province and the knowledge acquired by our students in their three years' course may be judged in part from the papers set at the end of that time and from the results obtained. Last June 934 pupils wrote on the Grade XI. papers in Latin authors and Latin grammar and their average mark was over 62 per cent., while 1,565 wrote on the Grade XI. papers in French and their average mark was above 60 per cent. The average of these two subjects was higher than that in any other subject except mathematics. To those who are interested in language surveys I would recommend a perusal of the New Hampshire Survey of "Latin in Secondary Schools," completed in 1919 by Mr. H. A. Brown, head of the Bureau of Educational Research in the New Hampshire Department of Public Instruction. A copy of this report may be obtained from the Provincial Librarian, Parliament Buildings, Victoria.

The publication in the press report of the average mark made by all the high-school pupils of the Province in each subject of the Grade XI. examination was appreciated generally by high-school principals and Boards of School Trustees. It gave school authorities a basis of comparison upon which they could estimate the standing of the pupils of their school, their teachers individually, and the school as a whole. These averages give value to the examination in much the same way as the average or norms for mental tests make it possible for teachers to compare the standing of their schools with that of the Provincial or State average.

All students who were granted supplementals in the Matriculation examinations received with their statements of marks information to the effect that these examinations would be conducted this year not only in Vancouver and Victoria as formerly, but also in the high schools at Kamloops, Kelowna, Nanaimo, Nelson, Prince George, Prince Rupert, and Revelstoke.

In the course of the year new libraries were established in several high schools, in others the number of books was increased, and in still others a better use was made of the books already in the library. Many teachers are encouraging their pupils to do more general reading, knowing that in training them in the use of good books they are introducing their pupils to a perennial source of information and enjoyment.

As I review in restrospect the schools which I have visited during the year with their 5,000 or more students, I cannot imagine a healthier, more intelligent, and happier group of high-school boys and girls anywhere within the bounds of those countries where the English language is spoken.

I have, etc.,
A. Sullivan,
Inspector of High Schools.

HIGH SCHOOLS—INSPECTORATE No. 2.

Vancouver, B.C., October 5th, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,
Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

Sir,—I beg to submit the following report on the high and superior schools of my district for the school-year ended June 30th, 1925:—

Owing to the work done in connection with the Educational Survey I was unable to visit all my schools. Two high schools and one superior school were not inspected last year.

New superior schools were established at Dewdney, Procter, and Kimberley, while Vananda was reduced from superior to public-school status.

The new high-school building at Grand Forks was opened early in the school-year. The citizens and pupils of this city are justly proud of their new building, which fills a long-felt want.

Practically all my time during the fall term was spent in conducting tests in connection with the work of the Educational Survey. Tests were given to 2,015 pupils (965 boys, 1,054 girls), distributed among the grades as follows: Technical, 195; Household Science, 88; Commercial, 72; Grade IX., 711; Grade X., 498; Grade XI., 430; Grade XII., 21.

While it was impossible to include all pupils of all the schools of my district, yet tests were distributed in as fair a proportion as possible. One rural school, six rural-municipality, three Vancouver schools, and four city schools outside Vancouver were included in my testing programme. Four Hotz Algebra Tests, one Henmon French, and two Henmon Latin Tests were made use of; while special tests in Geography, History, General Science, and Intelligence were prepared for the Survey. Last year I obtained copies of the same Hotz Algebra and Henmon French and Latin Tests and used them in some of my schools during my visits of inspection, but I found them unsatisfactory in my work of inspection because of the fact that they were prepared for schools in the United States and hence were not altogether suitable for schools such as ours, which use different texts and have a different system of organization.

I found the testing-work most interesting and appreciate very highly the opportunity accorded me for giving intelligence and achievement tests on such an extensive scale. It was very interesting to note that the schools which took leading places in the departmental tests of this summer almost without exception occupied places at or near the top of the list in the majority of the tests given. I wish to take this opportunity to thank the teachers who willingly gave so much of their time and did such careful, efficient work in marking papers and tabulating results.

My report of last year contained a table giving the average marks made in the different Grade XI. papers, as well as the percentage of failures on each. As a large proportion of the teachers seemed interested in these figures, I am giving a similar table this year.

Subject.	Candidates.	Average.	No. of Failures.	Percentage of Failures.
Composition	1,703	55.70	82	4.81
Literature	1,701	57.40	127	7.46
General History	1,652	60.33	80	4.84
Algebra	1,660	74.31	111	6.68
Geometry	1,648	61.02	220	13.34
Chemistry	1,287	60.19	105	8.15
Physics	718	59.79	81	11.28
Botany	158	55.27	10	6.32
Agriculture	194	65.28	.....	.....
Latin Authors	935	54.05	162	17.32
Latin Grammar	933	70.07	30	3.21
Greek	20	71.35	.....	.....
French Translation	1,570	58.70	157	10.00
French Grammar	1,560	62.94	77	4.93
German Authors	24	59.67	.....	.....
German Grammar	24	57.00	7	29.16
Geography	514	50.28	54	10.50

I have often felt that an analysis of the answers to the different questions of the several subjects of examination would be of material assistance to the teachers. It is obviously impossible for me in the space at my disposal to analyse the answer papers in all subjects and grades. No doubt teachers of French will be interested in the following detailed analysis of the Grade XI. French papers.

Out of 271 papers in French translation selected at random, four candidates failed on Question 1, twenty-nine on Question 2, twenty-five on Question 3, and fifty-five on Question 4.

A similar study of 387 papers in French grammar showed that three candidates failed on Question 1, thirteen on Question 2, twenty-six on Question 3, eighty-seven on Question 4, eighty-seven on Question 5, seven on Question 6, and nineteen on Question 7.

This summer two important changes were made in connection with supplemental examinations. In the past, September supplementals in Grades XI. and XII. were written only in Vancouver and Victoria; this September centres were established at Kamloops, Kelowna, Nanaimo, Nelson, Prince George, Prince Rupert, and Revelstoke, as well as at Vancouver and Victoria. Students of Grades IX. and X. for the first time were granted supplementals in the June examinations. The Superintendent of Education has informed such students that they must satisfy their principal by oral or written examinations given at the opening of school in September that they have gained a fair standard of proficiency in the subjects in which they failed in June, and then may be promoted to the next grade without further Departmental Examination.

I have, etc.,
J. B. DELONG,
Inspector of High Schools.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS—INSPECTORATE No. 1.

VICTORIA, B.C., October 7th, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,
Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I beg to submit the following report on the public elementary schools in Inspectorate No. 1 for the school-year ended June 30th, 1925:—

The definition of the district remained the same as for the previous year.

The school-grounds at Ganges Harbour have been cleared and an additional class-room was in course of erection at the end of the school-year for use at the beginning of the autumn term; the teachers at Beaver Point, Ganges Harbour, and Vesuvius continued school-gardening on a small scale. Apart from these few improvements, nothing was done towards the beautification of school premises by the rural and assisted districts; in fact, some of the school-yards are still uncleared, while others have yet to be fenced. The majority of school premises in the City of Victoria are rendered attractive to the eye through the labours of the school gardener, assisted in some instances by the teachers and janitors; the teachers and pupils of the Burnside, George Jay, Kingston Street, and Oaklands Schools had another year of success with school-gardening.

The school-work of the teachers was much the same as in former years; if any criticism is to be offered, it is that the teacher is still inclined to do too much for the pupil and to do too little in the way of directing his studies. Many of the teachers have yet to realize the importance of silent reading on the part of the pupil, and those who have realized the importance of it are sadly handicapped through an insufficient supply of reading material. A pupil retarded one year is an extra cost to the community of at least $60, a sum of money that would have purchased a considerable amount of good reading-matter. When School Boards recognize the fact that poor reading ability on the part of pupils is the cause of much of the retardation in our schools, they will then, perhaps, realize that it is a wiser and better policy to provide a goodly supply of supplementary readers and other reading-matter than to provide the funds required for repeaters.

Full-time teaching was exacted of all but one of the principals; the one, with part time free from class responsibility, secured much better results at the Entrance Examination than in previous years. This increased pass-list alone, I have no doubt, paid the salary of the additional teacher required.

The following were recommended for excellence in the teaching of physical exercises under the provisions of the Strathcona Trust:—

Mr. Ivor Parfitt, 1st Division, Ganges Harbour School.
Miss Doris B. Graves, 6th Division, North Ward School.
Miss Kathrine McKay, 14th Division, Oaklands School.

I have, etc.,
W. H. M. MAY,
Inspector of Schools.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS—INSPECTORATE No. 2.

VICTORIA, B.C., August 31st, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,
Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit the following report on the public elementary schools of Inspectorate No. 2 for the year ended June 30th, 1925:—

For the year just closed there has been no change in the extent of territory covered, while the number of teachers engaged has remained practically the same as last year.

The period under review may justly be characterized as one of general and substantial progress all round. Trustees and teachers generally worked in harmony and in the best interests of education. The attendance of the children was comparatively regular and in only a few cases was it materially interfered with by epidemics of any kind. The health of the teachers was such that in only one case am I able to recall where a substitute was in charge owing to the illness of the regular teacher.

If there is one factor more than another that has contributed to the general progress and advancement of the cause of education during the past year, it is the universal law of supply and demand. The operation of this inexorable law is largely responsible for the fact, especially during the last few years, that there were fewer changes in the personnel of the teachers in control of the rural and assisted schools in this territory. Even this degree of permanency of tenure was plainly evident in the results of this year's work.

Examinations of pupils for entrance to high schools were held at seventeen centres throughout the inspectorate for the convenience of parents and children. At these centres 475 candidates wrote, of whom 352 were successful. For the first time the candidates from rural and assisted schools scored as high a percentage of "passes" as those from the cities and municipalities. To me personally, I am free to confess, this is always a gratifying result.

I have, etc.,

A. C. STEWART,

Inspector of Schools.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS—INSPECTORATE No. 3.

NANAIMO, B.C., October 5th, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,

Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit the following report on the public schools of Inspectorate No. 3 for the school-year which ended on June 30th, 1925:—

This inspectorate, whose boundaries remain unchanged, includes seventy-four schools with 177 divisions and 179 teachers. New divisions were opened in Alert Bay, Courtenay, Nanaimo, and Union Bay during the year; a new school was opened at Clayoquot, while Suquash remained closed.

It was found impossible to visit all the schools during the year, as the first term was entirely devoted to the Provincial Educational Survey. However, that term's work was most valuable from all points of view. Teachers, even those of schools which were not tested, had an interest aroused which will lead to incalculable benefits, and the demand of the public for light upon the subject shows an awakening and an entirely new and sympathetic attitude. Many teachers from this inspectorate spent their vacations in search of further light.

At the Entrance Examinations 310 pupils presented themselves from the public schools. Of these, 211, or 68 per cent., were successful, while eighty-seven were promoted on recommendation. Thus out of 397 pupils in Grade VIII., 298, or 75 per cent., were passed into high school. Twelve more were passed from private schools, and it is worthy of note that, of these, four were Indians—three from Alert Bay and one from Ahousat. The higher percentage of passes this year is largely accounted for by the fact that the large number of teachers available has kept teachers from changing schools and so increased efficiency. Florence Ferguson, of Nanaimo, won the Governor-General's medal with a total of 450 marks.

Local conventions were held in Courtenay and Ladysmith. The one held at the latter centre was attended by the teachers from the southerly portion of Inspectorate No. 3 and the northerly part of Inspectorate No. 2. These conventions are found to be most instructive and inspirational.

I have, etc.,

J. M. PATERSON,

Inspector of Schools.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS—INSPECTORATE No. 4.

Vancouver, B.C., September 30th, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,
Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

Sir,—I have the honour to submit the following report on the public schools of Inspectorate No. 4 for the school-year 1924–25:—

This inspectorate comprises nine assisted schools along the Coast and five along the Pacific Great Eastern Railway; the graded schools at Howe Sound and Squamish; the Rural Municipalities of North Vancouver and West Vancouver; the City of North Vancouver; and the following schools in Vancouver City: Aberdeen, Bayview, Beaconsfield, Block 70, Dawson, Charles Dickens, Simon Fraser, Franklin, Grenfell, Hastings, Kitsilano, Livingstone, Mount Pleasant, Macdonald, and Strathcona.

During the year an assisted school was opened at Kleindale, near Pender Harbour, and another at Jervis Inlet, near Egmont.

It is pleasing to report that in the rural and city municipalities the respective Trustee Boards were able to carry out extensive building programmes. At both the Charles Dickens and Hastings Schools in Vancouver City twelve additional class-rooms will be provided; at Lonsdale, North Vancouver City, four additional class-rooms were also provided.

The regular work of inspection and supervision was much delayed, as practically all of the fall term was occupied in conducting Intelligence Tests, Standardized Tests, and other tests in connection with the recent School Survey. These tests were fairly distributed over all the schools of this inspectorate. All the class-rooms in the assisted and rural schools, in the Rural Municipalities of North Vancouver and West Vancouver, and in North Vancouver City were visited and reports issued according to regulations.

Supervision of the schools in Vancouver City was confined to new teachers, those holding interim certificates, and to the general organization and conducting of High School Entrance Examinations.

The results of the High School Entrance Examination held in June, on the whole, show improvement over those of last year. Of the candidates who wrote from rural and assisted schools over 75 per cent. were successful. The following table for schools in the Cities of Vancouver and North Vancouver presents interesting and significant information when conditions are considered. Owing to the consolidation of Entrance pupils at some centres no figures are given for the two rural municipalities.

Inspector of Schools.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS—INSPECTORATE No. 5.

VANCOUVER, B.C., October 5th, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,
Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit the following report on the schools of Inspectorate No. 5 for the school-year ended June 30th, 1925:—

During the year under review Inspectorate No. 5 comprised a group of eighteen rural and assisted schools on the Northern Coast; Port Moody, Ioco, Lake Buntzen, and Sunnyside No. 2, on Burrard Inlet; the Rural Municipalities of Maple Ridge, Matsqui, Mission (with rural and assisted schools adjacent), Sumas; Abbotsford Rural School District; and in Vancouver City the General Gordon, Grandview, Model, Florence Nightingale, Cecil Rhodes, Laura Secord, Seymour, and Lord Tennyson Schools. The inspectorate included 245 divisions in a territory stretching from districts in the Fraser Valley, 70 miles east of Vancouver, to the head of Loughborough Inlet, over 200 miles north of Vancouver, and including types of schools varying from the large graded city school of over twenty divisions to the little logging-camp school-house with an enrolment of pupils barely sufficient to maintain an average of six.

As the fall term from October until the close of the term in December was given over to the work of the testing programme of the Educational Survey, no inspectorial or supervisory work was possible during that period. On the reopening of the schools in January the regular work of inspection was resumed.

A visit of inspection was made to all rural and assisted schools and to the divisions in Vancouver City schools to which new teachers had been appointed.

As a great many special visits to rural districts were necessary in connection with matters of departmental administration the regular visits of inspection were of necessity brief.

There was no time to make a thorough visit of supervision to all of the schools during the past year. In the visits of inspection made to the schools an attempt was made to measure objectively the achievements of the pupils, particularly in the "tool subjects."

In arithmetic the Woody-McCall Mixed Fundamentals and Otis Reasoning Tests were used. Columns from the Ayres' Spelling Scale (Buckingham Revision) were employed to test achievement in spelling. To measure comprehension in silent reading, the Ayres-Burgess Scale, the Pressey Attainment Scale, and Thorndike-McCall Reading Tests were employed.

The results of this objective measuring were typed on the regular official report forms forwarded to the Department periodically. In every case the median score for each class was given as well as the range and the norm for the grade tested. It would be noted in the returns forwarded that a very wide range existed in a given grade among the varied types of schools found in this inspectorate.

It is possible, however, to make a few generalizations that will bear scientific investigation. In our graded urban schools and in many of our rural schools, where there is some degree of permanency of the teaching staff, median class scores are above the standard norms for the grades in arithmetic and spelling. Writing, too, is much above the grade standards. The results generally in comprehension in silent reading, however, are disappointing. While in the primary grades very good work is being done as the results clearly indicate, above the second grade, however, particularly in Grades III., IV., and V., the class medians fall below standard norms. This is especially true of our rural and assisted schools. In many of the larger city schools where teachers have become students of the new education and where a silent-reading technique has been mastered, class medians are well above the grade norms.

Intelligence tests and certain standardized achievement tests are of very great value in diagnosing the wretched grading and classification found in many rural schools.

Speaking of tests recalls a reference at the beginning of this very brief summary of the work of Inspectorate No. 5 to the testing programme of the Educational Survey.

Being somewhat constrained to write at some length on observations made during the work of inspection and supervision, I am reminded that for the space of nearly one year an Educational Survey has been testing, observing, and weighing in the balance teacher and taught, inspector and inspected, supervisor and supervised, and that it were well, rather than attempt to elaborate upon all of the good and all of the evil, the advantages and shortcomings of our educational system, to adopt the fatalist attitude of the conquering Saracens in reference to the library of Alexandria and the Koran. It will be recalled that the Mohammedans defended their action of burning that priceless repository of Greek and Egyptian wisdom and culture by claiming that if the books in the Alexandrian Library were at variance with the Koran, then truly they must be burned; and if, on the other hand, they were in agreement with the teachings of the Koran, then truly they were superfluous and should be destroyed.

So, in like manner, if what I might write in a lengthy annual report concerning our elementary schools should be at variance with the findings of the Educational Survey, then truly such writings should be destroyed; and, contrariwise, if such writings should happen to be in entire accord with the report of the Survey, then truly they would be superfluous.

I have, etc.,

H. H. MACKENZIE,

Inspector of Schools.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS—INSPECTORATE No. 6.

VANCOUVER, B.C., October 5th, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,
Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I beg to submit the following report on the public schools of Inspectorate No. 6 for the school-year ended June 30th, 1925:—

This inspectorate comprises the following schools in Vancouver City: Alexandra, Central, Fairview, Henry Hudson, Lord Nelson, and Lord Roberts; also those in Burnaby and Point Grey Rural Municipalities, ten schools in and near Powell River, ten schools near Lund, four schools on Howe Sound, and the Provincial School for the Deaf and the Blind. During the year schools were established at Kelly Creek and Southview, and the number of teachers increased thirteen in Point Grey and two in Burnaby. There were in all fifty-seven schools, with 342 teachers.

Much of the first term was spent applying the Educational Survey Commission's tests, and some of the second term in testing Eighth-grade classes in subjects not covered by the Entrance Examination. One hundred and ninety-five visits of inspection were made. All the rural schools and all the schools of Burnaby were inspected. All but two of the schools of Point Grey were inspected, and in these two schools visits were made to the teachers who had been appointed since the previous inspection.

The teaching as a whole continues to improve, particularly that of the teachers just out of Normal School. Taken by subjects, the greatest improvement is in the teaching of arithmetic.

An evil in the ungraded schools is the tendency to promote pupils before they are ready, while many graded schools go to the opposite extreme and require all their pupils, however brilliant, to spend two full terms in each of the eight grades.

I have, etc.,

LESLIE J. BRUCE,

Inspector of Schools.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS—INSPECTORATE No. 7.

VANCOUVER, B.C., October 2nd, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,
Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I beg to submit the following report on the elementary schools of Inspectorate No. 7 for the school-year 1924–25:—

For the year just closed there has been no change in the boundaries of this inspectorate. The number of schools remained practically the same, but there was a slight increase in the number of teachers employed. The assisted school at Hope Station was closed down during the year and a new school was opened at East Richmond.

Two hundred and thirty-nine visits of inspection were made to the various schools during the year. A few schools received no inspection. The Commission appointed to conduct an educational survey of this Province was engaged in its work during the year. The services of the Inspectors were required in carrying out a programme of "Standard Tests." Over 1,600 pupils of all grades were given these tests in this inspectorate. The results were very interesting. They will, no doubt, be embodied in the report of the Commission. Little time was therefore available for inspection and supervision until the second term.

In June 445 candidates wrote on the High School Entrance Examination, and of these 333 were successful. In addition to this number, 306 were given High School Entrance standing on the recommendation of their principals. These results show a decided improvement over those of the previous year.

The following were allotted the three prizes assigned to this inspectorate by the Strathcona Trust for excellence in physical training:—

Miss G. W. Killip, 5th Division, Gordon School, South Vancouver.
Miss M. Martin, 2nd Division, Secord School, South Vancouver.
Miss M. A. Ford, English School, Richmond.

The tests prepared by the Department in Canadian History, British History, Nature Study, and Hygiene were given during the last week in May and the first week in June. Seven hundred and forty-four pupils in Grade VIII. were examined. The results obtained in these tests revealed the fact that in a large percentage of the schools in this inspectorate these subjects were taught with the same earnestness and care as those prescribed for the written examination for High School Entrance. The average scores in the different subjects were as follows:—

Municipality.	Canadian History (Maximum 60).	British History (Maximum 60).	Hygiene (Maximum 55).	Nature Study (Maximum 60).
Delta	29.75	26.8	39.0	24.6
Kent	25.50	24.8	41.0	27.3
Richmond	30.60	26.7	43.1	29.8
South Vancouver	29.10	31.9	41.9	27.1
Averages for the whole inspectorate	29.10	31.2	41.7	27.1

During the year considerable use was made of standardized tests in my inspection-work. These proved of valuable assistance in gaining a better knowledge of the standing of the classes in the various grades. They proved especially helpful in the rural ungraded schools. The principal or teacher who wishes to increase the efficiency of his school will do well to use them, but he must guard against any illusion that they will prove to be the panacea for all educational ills. Good organization, good methods in presentation, good technique, are still essential to success, but the results of these can be judged only by efficient methods in testing.

In the Programme of Studies splendid bibliographies have been prepared. Many principals and teachers, I find, are making careful study of the latest methods prescribed in these references. A few teachers, it is quite evident, are still content to pursue antiquated methods and exhibit little interest in the changes that are taking place. Needless to say, such teachers should be eliminated from the profession. In these bibliographies, lists of supplementary books for pupils are also given. Some Boards of Trustees are making an earnest effort to provide their schools with these essential supplies for class-room work, but in a number of schools little in the way of supplementary readers and other equipment so necessary has as yet been provided.

I have, etc.,
F. G. Calvert,
Inspector of Schools.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS—INSPECTORATE No. 8.

New Westminster, B.C., September 8th, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,
Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

Sir,—I beg to submit the following report on the public elementary schools of Inspectorate No. 8 for the school-year ended June 30th, 1925:—

Throughout the year seventy-five schools were in operation with a staff of 206 teachers.

Owing to the fact that for three entire school-months I was engaged in work connected with the Educational Survey, it was impossible to visit every class in this inspectorate. All classes in rural and assisted districts and in rural municipalities were inspected once; while all city classes, excepting a number in each of three New Westminster schools, were given at least one visit.

The special tests in British History, Canadian History, Hygiene, and Nature Study were given to 567 Entrance pupils, and results showed that, while some teachers were giving definite and valuable lessons in these subjects, in other cases they were receiving too little attention.

The High School Entrance Examination was held in June at nineteen points. A total of 645 candidates were examined, 586 of whom were recommended for promotion by principals and teachers. Of these, 478 were successful, making a pass-list of 74 per cent. of all who wrote, or 81 per cent. of the recommended pupils. Twenty-three schools passed 100 per cent. of their recommended pupils.

The Governor-General's medal for this district was won by Gordon Sheldon Rothwell, whose aggregate was third highest in the Province. As in the case of last year's medallist, he was a pupil of Miss B. M. Bournes, Central School, New Westminster.

On pages 27 and 28 of the last Annual Report it may be noted that in four municipalities, out of sixty in this Province, the average annual salary in the elementary schools was below $1,000 per year. Of these four municipalities, three are included in this inspectorate with 103 teachers on the staffs. Speaking generally, the result is that any teacher whose work is particularly efficient has little difficulty in securing a position in nearby municipalities where average salaries are as much as $600 per year higher.

To keep pace with demands for accommodation and modernization, various building projects have been carried out by the School Boards. In New Westminster a four-room wing has been added to the Richard McBride School, completing the sixteen-room plan. The Langley Board has replaced the old schools at Lochiel and Glen Valley with larger, more modern, and more comfortable buildings. In Surrey Municipality the Board has had constructed a new school at Woodward's Hill, while the White Rock School has been enlarged by the addition of another class-room.

At Lindell, south of Cultus Lake, a new building, after some six months of use, was burned as a result of a forest fire, but such was the enthusiasm of the people, and such the generosity of the management of the Campbell River Mills, Limited, that another equally modern and well-equipped school was erected within a few months.

The fact that there has been a considerable surplus of teachers has changed the attitude of many Boards toward their employees. A demand for greater efficiency and a tendency to dismiss the less efficient have been particularly noticeable. On the other hand, it should be stated that teachers as a body have never realized more fully their responsibilities. Many are making a definite effort to keep abreast of the times, thereby setting an excellent example to their less ambitious fellow-workers.

Without exception, the Boards with whom I have had the pleasure to co-operate have shown increasing zeal and good judgment and are making a contribution to the public welfare that is difficult to valuate.

I have, etc.,
E. G. DANIELS,
Inspector of Schools.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS—INSPECTORATE No. 9.

KAMLOOPS, B.C., September 29th, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,
Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I beg to submit the following report on the schools in Inspectorate No. 9 for the school-year ended June 30th, 1925:—

The number of schools in operation in this inspectorate throughout the year just closed varied very little from that of the preceding year. No new schools were established, but the schools at Big Bar Creek, Big Bar Upper, and Bridge Lake were reopened. The school at Criss Creek was closed at the beginning of the first term.

One hundred and forty visits of inspection were made to schools in this inspectorate during the year just closed. All schools in the inspectorate were visited once at least, with the exception of three schools in isolated localities. In addition to these visits of inspection, over 400 Intelligence and Achievement Tests were given to various schools in order to supply information to the Educational Survey Commission.

The number of experienced teachers in charge of rural schools was higher than it has been for some years, and the number of new teachers engaged in these schools has been lower. This is attributable in a large measure to the increase in the number of teachers available for positions in this Province, making, as such a condition does, for a keener competition for teaching positions throughout the Province.

Owing to the shifting of school population it has been found necessary to make new adjustments in the boundaries of a number of school districts in this inspectorate during the past two years. Such a proceeding is generally the source of some controversy on the part of the residents in the districts affected. A good deal of this controversy is due to the disparity that often exists in the mill-rate which is imposed for school purposes in contiguous districts. However, in every case where district boundaries have been changed, every endeavour has been made to adjust these boundaries in accordance with the interests of the children who are attending the public schools and to place assessable property within that school district to which it is naturally tributary.

Entrance to High School Examinations were held in eleven centres in the Kamloops Inspectorate in the month of June. A total of 238 candidates wrote at the various centres, and of these over 69 per cent. were successful. This is a creditable record for the schools sending up candidates for the examination when it is considered that the percentage of successful candidates for the whole Province was 64. The Governor-General's medal for this district was won by Leslie A. Cameron, a pupil in the Lady Byng School, Ashcroft.

Prizes for excellence in physical training were awarded as follows:—

Schools of five or more divisions—Miss Kathleen Lawrence, 14th Division, Kamloops Public School.
Schools of two to four divisions—Miss Grace Meredith, 3rd Division, Fruitlands School.
Schools of one division—Miss Vera Palmer, North Thompson, West, School.

I have, etc.,
A. F. MATTHEWS,
Inspector of Schools.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS—INSPECTORATE No. 10.

KELOWNA, B.C., September 1st, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,
Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I beg to submit the following report on the public schools of Inspectorate No. 10 for the year ended June 30th, 1925:—

The number of schools in operation within this inspectorate during the past year was sixty-one; the number of teachers employed was 156, of which number eighty-four were employed in city and rural municipality schools and seventy-two in rural and assisted schools. The assisted schools at Allen Grove, Despard, Heywood's Corner, and Copper Mountain were closed during the year, while the Armstrong, Summerland, and Mission Creek Schools were each reduced one division. The schools at Reiswig and Nickel Plate Mine were reopened, and an additional division was in operation at Blakeburn. The increased number of high-school pupils at Oyama led to the raising of the status of the superior school at that place to that of a high school. During the year the Department of Education provided a new standard building in the Falkland Rural District; new buildings were also erected by the Fir Valley, Jura, and South Kelowna Assisted Districts.

As practically two months were given to duties in connection with the educational survey of the Province, the regular work of inspection was considerably curtailed; in all, 153 visits of inspection were made.

School property and equipment were for the most part well maintained and most School Boards continue to manifest the commendable interest in educational matters noted in previous reports. A few Boards furnish marked exceptions, and it seems difficult to overcome the indifference which causes ratepayers to acquiesce in such a situation. Many Boards, both rural and urban, deserve credit for their generosity in the matter of supplying books of reference and supplementary reading material.

The majority of teachers continue to make an honest effort to render good service; in most cases presentation of lessons indicated careful thought and planning, and in an increasingly large number of class-rooms there was reflected an effort to keep in touch with modern developments in education through reading and study of current professional literature. There are still, however, too many cases where systematic preparation of work and definite effort to improve standing by the means referred to are lacking; certainly no teacher questions the obvious importance of taking such measures as will give to her pupils the best in educational practice, and failure to make reasonable effort to this end can be attributed only to indifference.

Prizes for excellence in physical training were awarded as follows:—

Large graded schools—Mr. T. Aldworth, 1st Division, Armstrong and Spallumcheen Consolidated School.
Small graded schools—Miss Kathleen Corry, 2nd Division, Hedley Superior School.
Ungraded schools—Miss Thelma Hobbs, Kaleden Public School.

Instruction in this important branch of school-work shows a slight improvement over previous years, but in many cases still leaves much to be desired. In the larger centres generally, and in a few of the smaller centres, there has been a gradually developing interest in school athletics; interest in this direction has been greatly stimulated by the annual Okanagan inter-school athletic meet, the promoters of which deserve credit for the good work done.

The most recent consolidation of schools in this inspectorate, that of Vernon and Okanagan Landing, has proved an undoubted success; the arrangements for transportation are excellent and have had much to do with the successful inauguration of the scheme. I am pleased to be able to report a further development in the way of centralization; arrangements have been concluded whereby some thirty pupils who have been attending the Glenmore School will, with the opening of the fall term, be conveyed to the Kelowna School. This makes the ninth move toward centralization in this inspectorate, and I think there can be no question of the benefits accruing in each case.

I have, etc.,
T. R. HALL,
Inspector of Schools.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS—INSPECTORATE No. 11.

REVELSTOKE, B.C., August 29th, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,
Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I beg to submit the following report on the public schools of Inspectorate No. 11 for the school-year 1924–25:—

During the year an assisted school was opened at Meadow Creek, a little to the north of Shuswap Lake, near Celista, and another at Springbend, on the Enderby–Salmon Arm Road, south of Grindrod. The Moberly School, which had not been in operation for some time, was reopened, while the school at Twin Butte remained closed throughout the year. In all, there were ninety schools in operation in this district, with a total staff of 122 teachers, a net gain over 1923–24 of two schools and two teachers. Of these totals, three were graded city schools with a staff of twenty-five teachers; seven were rural municipality schools (one graded) with a staff of eight teachers; four were graded rural schools with a staff of eleven teachers; nine were ungraded rural schools; one was a graded assisted school with three teachers; and the remaining sixty-six were ungraded assisted schools.

The standard of efficiency noted in previous reports has been well maintained. The percentage of candidates passing the Entrance Examination in June was higher than for some years past, and it is gratifying to note that many of the rural and assisted schools contributed to the improved standing thus obtained.

The tendency on the part of teachers to change positions all too frequently seems to be on the wane somewhat, and it is to be hoped that a desire for reasonable permanence of tenure may soon prove to be the rule rather than the exception.

I have, etc.,
A. E. MILLER,
Inspector of Schools.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS—INSPECTORATE No. 12.

NELSON, B.C., September 30th, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,
Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I beg to submit the following report on the schools of Inspectorate No. 12 for the school-year 1924–25:—

This inspectorate includes the City of Nelson; the area along the Great Northern Railway southward to the International Boundary; the valley of Slocan Lake and River; the Kootenay Valley to the west of Nelson; and the Electoral Districts of Rossland-Trail and Grand Forks-Greenwood.

During the year there were in operation sixty schools, employing in all 136 teachers. Of these, nine were city municipality schools with a total staff of seventy-six, eleven were regularly organized rural schools employing eighteen teachers, and forty were assisted schools employing forty-two teachers.

At the beginning of the school-year the school at Anaconda was closed, an arrangement having been made whereby the children of that district were to attend at Greenwood. The school at Gilpin did not reopen, due to the lack of a sufficient number to maintain the required attendance. One division at Grand Forks was closed, while three more divisions were added to the Trail schools. A new district was created at Gibson Creek and a very creditable building erected by the residents there.

Due to the very nature of the Kootenay country, many schools are opened that cannot be permanent. The mining or lumber camp is usually the nucleus around which the settlement grows. Employees in these industries bring in their families and a school is established. In some cases when the timber has all been cut, or when the mine has failed to fulfil its original promise, the population moves on, leaving the school as one of the monuments to past activity. In others, the mine becomes a steady producer, and in districts favourable to agriculture farms are located where the forests once stood, and the little school continues to fill its mission or to grow as the settlement grows. This inspectorate contains at least a dozen closed schools. In one or two areas good permanent buildings were erected, but in most instances the pioneer settlers, with commendable discretion, erected temporary structures at no great expense. The equipment of such closed schools is moved on to do pioneer duty in another area. In my opinion a pioneer school of this sort, established in a cheaply constructed building, justifies its existence even if it remains open only for a few years.

Since the months of October and November were devoted to the testing programme for the School Survey Commission, it was impossible to make the usual number of official inspections. All the schools were visited at least once during the year, many of them receiving two or more visits. The distance travelled in connection with official duties was 10,767 miles.

High School Entrance Examinations were held at nine centres. Of the 303 candidates who wrote on the examination, 187 were successful in passing, a percentage of 61.7. Sixty-nine others were granted certificates on recommendation of their principals. From the rural schools there were 111 candidates, of whom fifty-three were successful, the percentage being 47.7. It would be interesting to know how many of the fifty-three are making use of their certificates to attend a high school. I have noted with some concern how few of the boys who graduate from the rural school are able to proceed to high school. In this regard girls have a decided advantage in opportunity over boys. Girls in the interior towns can usually defray at least part of the expenses of board and lodging while they attend high school by performing light housekeeping duties after school-hours. The teachers in some rural areas, with commendable zeal, are taking time after school to give instruction in the secondary school subjects.

Early in November the teachers of the Kootenay held at Nelson a two-days' convention, at which most of the teachers of the district were in attendance. The general discussions and the several model lessons, most of which took the form of socialized recitations, were interesting and of great practical value. In view of the benefits which accrue to those teachers who attend these conventions and to their class-room work after the convention, it is really worth while for School Boards to insist that the teachers in their employ should attend such gatherings.

It is fitting in this report to refer to the distinguished service of Miss Elizabeth Thom, Principal of the Trail public schools, who in June retired from the profession. After several years of teaching in Eastern Provinces and eight years on the staff at Nelson, Miss Thom in 1908 assumed the principalship of Trail, then a school of three divisions, and for seventeen years continued to guide its destiny. On June 26th the citizens of Trail in a public function expressed their appreciation of her long and able service as principal and presented her with a purse of most substantial amount.

The prizes for excellence in physical drill according to the conditions of the Strathcona Trust were awarded as follows:—

Large graded schools—Miss M. Constance Martin, 11th Division, Nelson Central.
Small graded schools—Miss I. H. Strathearn, 3rd Division, New Denver.
Ungraded schools—Mr. Earl Marriott, Myncaster.

In some few cases teachers are giving too little attention to health education and physical drill, while in other areas the importance of this subject is recognized. In the City of Trail this year a specialist in physical training was added to the school staff, and every child in the school whose physical condition permits is required to spend two periods a week at drill or at games under supervision in the gymnasium of the splendid Memorial Building.

Generally the teachers of this inspectorate have made during the past year a sincere and determined effort to teach the various subjects of the curriculum to the best of their ability. School Boards, too, are showing a growing and commendable desire to seek the advice of the Inspectors and of the departmental officials in the selection of their teachers, which, with the present surplus of teachers and the large number of applications made for every vacancy, has become all the more necessary.

I have, etc.,
P. H. SHEFFIELD,
Inspector of Schools.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS—INSPECTORATE No. 13.

CRANBROOK, B.C., September 1st, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,
Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I beg to submit the following report on the public schools of Inspectorate No. 13 for the year ended June 30th, 1925:—

The boundaries of this district remained unchanged, the inspectorate including all the schools of Fernie and Cranbrook Electoral Districts and part of the schools in the Electoral Districts of Creston and Kaslo-Slocan. In all, there were sixty-five schools in operation during the year, employing 136 teachers.

A new school was opened during the year at Echo Lake, a logging camp 35 miles north of Cranbrook. An additional teacher was added to the Cranbrook staff and three new teachers to the Kimberley staff. At the latter school all the accommodation in the new wing was in use, and the Board has had to prepare plans for another addition to take care of an ever-increasing attendance in this fast-growing mining centre. In Fernie it was found possible to reduce the staff from twenty-four to twenty-two teachers without impairing the efficiency. The Cooper Creek School did not open in September owing to an insufficient number of pupils.

Superior schools were established during the year at Procter and Kimberley, which with the Waldo Superior School provided high-school instruction for Grades IX. and X. pupils in areas where no high schools existed. Grade IX. pupils were taught also in the Camp Lister, Fort Steele, Three Forks, and Riondel Schools, and from the successes obtained in the Departmental Examinations in June it would appear that this policy might well be extended to other public schools where, on account of distance or lack of means, pupils would be unable to attend a high school.

The dangerous and unsanitary school buildings in the Michel School District continued to be used throughout the year. However, at the present, plans for a new twelve-roomed fire-proof building are so far advanced that it is hoped first-class accommodation will be available at that point by the opening of school in the autumn of 1926.

Much of my time in the early part of the year was spent in giving the intelligence and other tests prepared for the Educational Survey Commission. The wealth of testing material made available at that time convinced me that it would be well at all times for Inspectors to have a convenient source of supply from which they might requisition the tests required.

High School Entrance Examinations were held at eleven centres. Of the 226 pupils who wrote the examination, 160, or 71 per cent., passed, which compares favourably with the average for the Province of 64 per cent. The showing made by the Fernie Public School was particularly creditable, all the candidates qualifying either by recommendation or examination. Thomas Miard, of this school, won the Governor-General's medal for the district, making 442 marks out of a possible 500.

The following teachers were awarded the prizes for physical training under the provisions of the Strathcona Trust:—

Large graded schools—Miss N. P. Douglas, 12th Division, Fernie School.
Small graded schools—Mr. H. F. Reynolds, 1st Division, Procter Superior School.
Ungraded schools—Miss C. A. Douglass, Harrop School.

I have, etc.,
V. Z. MANNING,
Inspector of Schools.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS—INSPECTORATE No. 14.

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C., September 15th, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,
Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I beg to submit the following report on the schools of Inspectorate No. 14 for the year ended June 30th, 1925:—

The boundaries of this inspectorate remained unchanged during the year. They include the Electoral Districts of Atlin, Prince Rupert, Skeena, Omineca as far east as Endako, and Mackenzie as far south as Namu. Within this district seventy-eight schools were in operation, employing 120 teachers. These schools were classified as follows:—

High schools	4
Superior schools	2
Schools of more than seven divisions	2
Schools of from four to seven divisions	4
Schools of two divisions	4
Schools of one division only	62

Since two months were taken up in work for the Survey Commission, not all these schools were twice inspected. But all except three received one visit and wherever possible a second inspection was made.

Schools were opened for the first time at Namu, 40 miles from Ocean Falls; at Tintagel, east of Burns Lake; and at Four Mile Settlement, in the Kispiox Valley, 16 miles from Hazelton. On account of diminished attendance the Pratt School and the Hanall School were closed. The Glentanna School also remained closed during the year.

A new three-room school building was built at Burns Lake at a cost of $15,000. The school at Ocean Falls was remodelled and enlarged to accommodate the increased attendance.

Kitsumgallum was raised to the status of superior school at the beginning of the year and made a fair showing at the examinations in June. Stewart Superior, as usual, did well. In addition to the twelve who passed at Stewart and Terrace, four pupils from the following elementary schools successfully completed the work of Grade IX., three that of Grade X., and one that of Grade XI. in the June examinations: Francois Lake, 1; Southbank, 2; New Hazelton, 2; Pacific, 1; Driftwood Creek, 1; South Bulkley, 1.

For the fourth year I have had the additional pleasure of inspecting the high schools in this district. The number of pupils is steadily increasing. This year another division was opened in Prince Rupert. Ocean Falls and Granby Bay will likely each employ a third teacher during the coming year. A higher average of marks in the Matriculation Examination should be aimed at in the northern high schools.

Examinations for Entrance to High School were held at sixteen centres. Of the 167 candidates, 124, or 74 per cent., were successful, a decrease of eleven candidates compared with last year, but a 3-per-cent. increase in the proportion of successful candidates. The Governor-General's medal was this year won by the neighbouring inspectorate of Prince George, but some very creditable marks were made in this district, Essington, Ocean Falls, and the Alex. Manson School of Ootsa Lake making 419, 417, and 416 respectively.

Prizes for excellence in physical training were awarded as follows:—

Large graded schools—Mr. D. H. Hartness, 1st Division, Booth School, Prince Rupert.
Small graded schools—Mr. H. D. Southam, 2nd Division, Granby Bay.
Schools of one division—Mr. J. S. Wilson, Houston.

Through the initiative of Mr. Donald Cochrane, of South Bulkley, a teachers' convention was held in March at Smithers, with an attendance of twenty-eight teachers, when plans were laid for a school fair at Burns Lake in September. Mr. V. Crockett, principal of the schools at Smithers, contributed largely to the success of this venture.

Each year sees fewer changes among the teachers in this inspectorate. This means in general better results. School Boards recognize the value of the Teachers' Bureau and are more and more depending upon this branch of the Department to secure for them competent men and women for outlying districts. As a result fewer disappointments have marked the past year and more effective teaching has been done. In most schools there is a fine spirit of co-operation between trustees and teachers and a fair attempt on their part to put into effect the recommendations of the Inspector.

I have, etc.,
H. C. FRASER,
Inspector of Schools.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS—INSPECTORATE No. 15.

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C., August 28th, 1925.

S. J. Wilis, Esq.,
Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I beg to submit the following report on the schools of Inspectorate No. 15 for the school-year ended June 30th, 1925:—

The boundaries of this inspectorate remain unchanged from last year. It comprises the schools in the Canadian National Railway Belt east of Endako; those in the Cariboo District as far south as the 100-Mile House; and those in the Peace River District.

During the year the following assisted schools were opened: Alexandria, North; Lone Butte; Loos, West; Charlie Lake; Swan Lake, North; Fort St. John, East; Pouce Coupe, East. The four last-named schools are in the Peace River District. Schools were authorized and should soon be in operation at Reid Lake and at Tabor Creek. An additional teacher was appointed to the Prince George staff and a second teacher to the Giscome School. The Pineview District was abolished. Ninety-nine schools, employing 119 teachers, were in operation during all or some portion of the year. All but nine of the schools are assisted.

A large portion of my time during the first term of the past school-year was occupied with work in connection with the recent School Survey. However, during the year all schools which were in continuous operation received at least one visit of inspection. In addition, a large number of specials were dealt with.

Although there is still much to be desired, the general standing of the schools in this northern inspectorate is steadily improving and school conditions generally are gradually becoming more satisfactory. With few exceptions, results as measured by Departmental Examinations held at the close of the year were commendable. The Governor-General's medal, awarded to the pupil making the highest mark in the Entrance Examination in the Prince George and Prince Rupert Inspectorates, was won by Miss Roberta Bogle, a pupil of the Dome Creek Assisted School.

I have, etc.,

G. H. GOWER,
Inspector of Schools.

REPORTS OF MUNICIPAL INSPECTORS.

NEW WESTMINSTER CITY SCHOOLS.

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., October 8th, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,
Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I beg to submit the following report on the schools of New Westminster for the school-year ended June 30th, 1925:—

The school attendance for the past year showed an increase of 181.

Month.	Public Schools.	High Schools.	Total.
February, 1925	2,484	581	3,065
February, 1924	2,316	568	2,884
Increase	168	13	181

To accommodate part of this increase it was necessary to have a part-time class at the Richard McBride School, which condition was eliminated by a four-room addition, erected at a cost of $11,000, one room of which was opened in September.

We feel that in every department of school-life splendid progress has been made; each teacher has felt his or her responsibility to the citizen of to-morrow and has thrown whole-hearted energy and thoughtfulness into each day's tasks; the results of which are manifest throughout our whole school system.

The results of the June examinations were pleasing; 94.6 per cent. of Entrance students were successful in passing their examinations, Sheldon Rothwell, of Central School, winning the Governor-General's medal for this district; Stewart Reid, of Duke of Connaught High School, was successful in winning the Governor-General's medal on the Matriculation Examinations.

In obtaining such splendid results on examinations the physical and literary side was not neglected. Perhaps never in the history of our school system has as much emphasis been placed on the all-round development of our boys and girls, the work of the teachers in this respect being most commendable; especially those teachers who unstintingly gave of their time after school-hours and on Saturdays in order that the various activities of the students might have proper direction.

Organized recreation has been a feature of the year's work; basket-ball, football, baseball, lacrosse, field sports, and gymnastics have all received due attention.

During the year Miss Mabel McIntosh, B.A., of the Trapp Technical High School, taught in London, England, while Miss Emily Horwood, of London, was filling a position on our public-school staff most acceptably.

Agriculture has been carried on successfully by the public schools of the city and the showing made in competition at the Provincial Exhibition was commendable. Through the courtesy of the Royal Agricultural and Industrial Society, Grades VII. and VIII. of the schools of the city were permitted to spend the mornings of Exhibition week on the Exhibition grounds studying poultry, live stock, agriculture, and horticulture under the supervision of their teachers. The judges of the various departments gave every assistance in making these excursions profitable and interesting.

Music has received careful attention in the schools of the city and the results were all that could be desired.

Evening classes were carried on at the Trapp Technical School in day-school continuation-work, woodwork, workshop mathematics, machine construction and design, steam for engineers, gasolene-engines, commercial subjects, dressmaking, millinery, sheet-metal, drawing and design, electricity, mineralogy and assaying, physics, advanced mathematics, china-painting, basketry, literature, lumbering, and first aid.

Three hundred students took advantage of the courses offered and much enthusiasm was manifest.

To Dr. D. A. Clark and Miss A. S. Stark, R.N., special credit is due for the satisfactory health condition of our school-children.

We have in the city five Parent-Teacher Associations. These associations have worked hard in the interests of the schools and have given of their best to every worthy object which would make the school-life of the children better and brighter. Other organizations have also interested themselves in our schools and to them our thanks are due; each year, through co-operation, our schools are becoming a greater factor in community life.

For the success of our school-year we must also thank each and every member of the Board of School Trustees of this city, busy men who have given freely of their time and their ability for the betterment of the schools.

I have, etc.,

R. S. SHIELDS,

Municipal Inspector of Schools.

VANCOUVER CITY SCHOOLS.

VANCOUVER, B.C., August 21st, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,

Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I beg to submit the following report on the public schools of Vancouver for the school-year ended June 30th, 1925:—

The increase in the school attendance for the year just closed has been greater than usual, the maximum enrolment for the year being 787 in excess of that for the previous year. This increase was for the most part in the elementary schools, as the following table indicates:—

Month.	Public Schools.	High Schools.	Junior High School.	Total.
February, 1925	17,884	2,636	144	20,664

School Accommodation.

With an increasing school population to care for and the defeat of all school money by-laws in May, 1924, the School Board faced, at the beginning of the past school-year, what appeared to be an impossible task—the providing of adequate school accommodation. Weary of erecting cheap, one-room school buildings, and fearing the public might become satisfied with that as a permanent policy, the Board resolved to build no more. The only alternatives were to rearrange school boundaries, to fill every available class-room—some too full—and to crowd a few more classes into basements. By these questionable methods, accommodation, by no means adequate, was provided; while an attempt was made to fully inform the public as to how serious the lack of proper school accommodation had become. The results of this policy were most gratifying, for it led to the emphatic endorsement of all school money by-laws submitted by the Board in December. The splendid majorities polled for each of the three by-laws, coupled with the consideration that no moneys had been voted since 1913 for the erection of permanent school buildings, seem to presage a better day for Vancouver schools. If the present Board give the public the school accommodation promised for the amounts voted, as I believe they will, one is justified in anticipating this as a beginning of a sane school-building programme. The details regarding the by-laws are set forth in the following table:—

By-law.	Amount.	Votes for.	Votes against.
Twelve-room addition and auditorium to the following schools:—
(1.) Hastings	$105,000	4,438	1,843
(2.) Charles Dickens	105,000	4,245	1,925
(3.) General Gordon	105,000	4,209	1,921

Contracts have already been let for these buildings and they will be completed in the near future. When they are, the present congestion will be relieved in the eastern, southern, and western portions of the city, where these schools are situated.

During the year over $100,000 was expended on the repairing and renewing of school buildings which had been neglected for several years. Among the schools to benefit were Alexandra, Britannia High, Fairview, Grandview, Henry Hudson, King George High, Kitsilano, Kitsilano High, Macdonald, Model, Mount Pleasant, Nelson, Roberts, and Tennyson. The School Board Office Building also received much-needed attention, and a splendid wood- and metal-work shop was erected at Kitsilano High School. With this shop completed a year ago, it was possible to give all high-school students in the city the same opportunities throughout the year in manual training.

School-sites.

Another forward step was taken by the Vancouver School Board last year in the purchasing of school-sites. Six very good sites were secured in the now comparatively unoccupied eastern and south-eastern portions of the city at a total cost of only $8,750.26—a price less than half of that paid for a single east-end school-site purchased twelve years ago. While these sites may not be needed for some years, the good judgment of the School Board in purchasing them, with the concurrence of the City Council, cannot be questioned.

Vancouver's First Platoon School.

A platoon school was opened in Vancouver in September last—the first school of the kind in Western Canada. This was made possible by making certain structural changes, at a cost of approximately $3,380, in the Tennyson School—a sixteen-room building, with a small gymnasium and a large auditorium. By organizing this school on platoon lines it was found possible to accommodate twenty-one classes of forty pupils each instead of sixteen classes as formerly. This consideration alone might have been sufficient to warrant the change; but there was another consideration (and a more important one), the hope that better work could be done. After observing this school's operations for a year, I am only the more confirmed in opinions I formed after studying the platoon schools in Eastern Canada and the United States two years ago. These opinions may be briefly summarized as follows:—

Given a principal with a genius for organization and a clear understanding of platoon-school methods, a staff of teachers with enthusiasm for the teaching of their special subject or subjects and strong in discipline, and a school plant specially planned for platoon work, and the platoon school will render splendid service; but just to the extent these or any of these are lacking, to that extent will weaknesses develop that in time will make good work less possible than in the ordinary type of school. I may conclude these references to platoon-school work by pointing out that the three schools we are now enlarging are planned for work on platoon lines. This is good evidence that, despite the special difficulties we believe the platoon school has to encounter, we feel assured these difficulties are surmountable. Tennyson has done a good year's work and is expected to do better in future.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

The school attendance throughout the year was exceptionally good, notwithstanding the fact that we had the services of an attendance officer for only three months, and infectious diseases, notably smallpox, chicken-pox, scarlet fever, diphtheria, and whooping-cough, were prevalent. For the good attendance much credit is due the teachers and nurses for keeping so closely in touch with the homes—a comparatively simple and pleasant task in this day of telephones. After teachers and nurses have done their best, however, to secure regular attendance, I am convinced, after observing our school system without even one attendance officer for a whole year, that at least one such official is required to deal with difficult cases of non-attendance.

MEDICAL INSPECTION.

The connection between school attendance and medical inspection of schools is so close that the latter is entitled to careful consideration. The more efficiently medical inspection is carried on the better the school attendance, and only with good school attendance, in turn, is teaching of the highest order possible. School administrators are consequently very sympathetic with any schemes of medical inspectors calculated to reduce non-attendance to a minimum.

The most fruitful single cause of absence from school last year was the prevalence of smallpox in the city. To reduce, as far as possible, its interfering with school attendance, our medical staff did all they could to have school-children vaccinated. The number of parents, however, who failed, for various reasons, to have their children vaccinated was very large, particularly during the first term of the year. This resulted very detrimentally to the schools. To illustrate by a concrete example: In the month of October the loss of school-time by reason of smallpox and contact with cases amounted to 1,310 school-days, an average of sixty pupils per day. When it is understood that the absences due to smallpox were confined entirely to unvaccinated children, one can understand why those desirous of having better attendance in school are advocates of vaccination. In October there were twenty-one cases of smallpox among school-children—all unvaccinated; for the entire year there were 149 cases, with a proportionately large number of contacts and broken attendance at school.

Under such conditions, we welcomed the Order in Council, dated March 19th, 1925, that made vaccination of all who were not "conscientious objectors" obligatory. That order was honoured in our schools with most gratifying results. Exclusions on account of smallpox or contact with the disease was reduced to a minimum before the close of the school-year. It is gratifying to be able to report, on the authority of our school medical staff, that no serious case of "bad arm" occurred among the 5,056 children vaccinated in the school clinic.

SCHOOL DENTAL CLINIC.

Four dentists, working for ten months of the year, from 9 a.m. to 12 m., and two working the same hours in the month of July, have enabled 1,371 school-children to live more happily, attend school more regularly, and do better work in school than would have been possible without dental treatment. This department of school activity is contributing very materially to child-welfare in Vancouver at comparatively small cost.

VIOLIN CLASSES AND SCHOOL MUSIC.

The violin classes referred to in my last report have been conducted throughout the year with gratifying results. There are great possibilities for this work.

Music in our schools has made a better showing than in any previous year. At the annual musical festival held in the city last spring several school choirs and individual pupils did credit to their teachers and schools as well as to themselves. To Mr. F. W. Dyke and his recently appointed assistant, Miss E. Lloyd Roberts, much credit is due for the good work in music so many of our teachers are doing.

May I add, in speaking of school music, that the Department's making it possible for certain high-school students to take music as a high-school subject was a commendable step; and may I express the hope that this step will soon be followed by others. Music instruction, for all music-loving students at least, it seems to me, should be provided from the kindergarten course to university graduation.

Physical Training and Cadet-work.

The usual care has been taken during the year with all work calculated to develop children into robust men and women. Formal drill in class-rooms has been regularly taken; organized play has been encouraged and is becoming more general; our cadet organization has grown till it now has a total of 3,863, as compared with seventy twelve years ago. When it is pointed out that a thousand of our cadets to-day cost the ratepayers less than a score did in 1912, we should hear no charge against cadet-work as "another expensive frill."

The remedial work carried on by Miss L. Cotsworth has been encouraging. Of the 1,285 cases needing expert treatment to safeguard against serious results later, 386 were discharged after satisfactory treatment, ninety left the city, and 809 are still receiving treatment. It is impossible to overestimate the value of this work. The placing of a single child on the road leading from deformity to vigorous, happy life is a great act—who can state its value in dollars?

Night-schools.

No branch of our school-work manifested more vitality last year than our night-schools. In them the final enrolment was 1,842, as compared with 1,100 the previous year. The enrolment per class was also good and the attendance fairly regular. The subjects taught included accounting, book-keeping, shorthand, typewriting, cabinetmaking, plumbing, cookery, millinery, dressmaking, china-painting, English, arithmetic, music (vocal and instrumental), drawing, show-card work, design, engineering, machine-shop practice, ignition, electricity, printing, carpentry, drafting, mathematics, sheet-metal work, machine-construction, wireless telegraphy, French, elocution, geology, and mining. To teach these, thirty-six instructors were engaged.

Class-room Work.

I saw more class-room work during the past school-year than usual, having visited each of the 472 elementary classes at least once and a number of the ninety-nine high-school classes once. After the completion of the inspection of each school a brief written statement was made, both to the principal and to the School Board, of the impressions formed. This left me but little time for office duties, which include, among other things, the perusal of reports on class-room conditions made by Inspectors, supervisors, and principals. Such reports, however, I found time to read, and their contents, taken in conjunction with my own personal observations, gave a very good idea of the work being done in the different schools. For the most part, I am pleased to report favourably on class-room instruction. There was a splendid tone in nearly all the schools—a spirit of earnestness, making for real progress.

Intelligence Tests.

The tide of interest in Intelligence Tests has been rising somewhat during the past year. One might even venture to suggest that faith in their value, even for promotion purposes, may be finding a place with teachers now who formerly regarded them with suspicion. At any rate, it may be reported that, on the request of the public-school principals of the city, they were all supplied with certain Intelligence Tests to be given their Entrance pupils to see what light these would throw on the difficult problem of arranging pupils in order of merit as is now required by departmental regulation.

The principals were asked to make returns showing how their students ranked on the Intelligence Tests, how they ranked when tested by ordinary examinations on the promotion subjects, and how they were ranked, finally, in the light of both methods of measuring their fitness for High School Entrance.

These returns have come to hand and have been found intensely interesting study. One would require a considerable time to study them all minutely. Having had but a few days to spare on them thus far, I have examined only a limited number—ones done with extreme care. My observations, as far as I have gone, incline me to the conviction that a passport into high school should be issued not to those of intelligence (ability to do work) merely, but to the intelligent who have actually achieved something creditable on their public-school work.

GENERAL OBSERVATIONS.

In conclusion, I am pleased to report that the attitude of the Vancouver citizens to their schools has been that of intelligent interest during the past year. This interest they showed in many ways other than by their endorsement of the by-laws. Whereas in other years the trusteeship of the schools went almost abegging, last year ten candidates offered themselves for election. There was a spirited campaign and a good vote was polled, resulting in the return of the three trustees who stood for re-election.

Utmost harmony between the City Council and the School Board, between the City Health Department and the School Medical Department, and between the School Board and its officials and teachers did much during the school-year 1924–25 to make the administration of school business—both financial and educational—an agreeable duty.

VANCOUVER, SOUTH, SCHOOLS.

SOUTH VANCOUVER, B.C., October 3rd, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,

Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit the following report on the schools of the Municipal District of South Vancouver for the year ended June 30th, 1925:—

ENROLMENT.

	1923–24.	1924–25.
Elementary schools—Pupils enrolled	7,343	7,433
High School—Pupils enrolled	655	744
Totals	7,998	8,177

During the year several schools have been overcrowded. Chief of these are High, Carleton, Selkirk, Gordon, Moberly, Mackenzie, and Van Horne. Half-time classes were established in Selkirk, Van Horne, Moberly, and Mackenzie Schools, while a basement room had to be occupied in Gordon School. Relief from overcrowding at Carleton and Selkirk will be obtained by the building of a six-room addition to Norquay School, now under construction. A proposed two-room annex at Mackenzie School and one at the High School will give temporary relief at each of these. Relief at Gordon, Moberly, and Van Horne will have to be considered for the coming year.

The staff consists of the following:—

	Male.	Female.	Total.
High-school teachers	11	7	18
Elementary-school teachers	35	168	203
Manual-training teachers	9	.....	9
Domestic-science teachers	....	7	7
Supervisor, primary grades	....	1	1
Doctors	1	.....	1
Inspectors	1	.....	1
Attendance officers	2	.....	2
Totals	59	185	244

The work in general has been satisfactory throughout the year. Teachers are giving their best to the work and are constantly seeking to improve.

Singing.

This subject has received due attention. A class for teachers was organized and was well attended. The result of this training has been very effective teaching by those who took the course.

Domestic Science and Manual Training.

Increased accommodation is necessary for the better carrying-on of work in these subjects, as we are unable to train all Grade VI. pupils in the present centres. Effort will be made in the coming year to provide more centres.

Sports.

School sports are carefully organized and efficiently supervised by the teaching staff. Inter-school competition gives zest to the work of the playground.

Physical Training.

Satisfactory work in this subject has been done throughout the year. School principals are giving this subject the attention it merits and results are very convincing.

Night-schools.

Attendance at night-school classes increased from 318 in 1923–24 to 582 in 1924–25. The demand for technical training in night-schools is increasing perceptibly and better provision for handling this work is essential.

Health.

During the year an epidemic of smallpox of a mild type swept through the schools and increased the work in this department to such an extent that extra nurses were engaged to assist in coping with the situation. An additional nurse would make for closer checking-up of contagious and infectious diseases. At present each nurse has to inspect approximately 4,000 pupils. Much more efficient work could be done if another nurse could be provided.

Municipal Inspector of Schools.

VICTORIA CITY SCHOOLS.

Victoria, B.C., October 20th, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,

Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

Sir,—I beg to submit the following report on the schools of Victoria for the school-year which ended June 30th, 1925:—

The total enrolment in the graded schools and the High School was slightly below that of the previous year, but there was a marked increase in the number of students who attended Victoria College.

The School Board continued its policy of strict economy, but supported every effort to promote efficiency in the schools and the general welfare of the pupils. Further improvements were made to the High School grounds, which now provide ample facilities for rugby, soccer, tennis, hockey, and other athletic activities. Additional improvements were also made to the grounds of the Oaklands, Quadra, and Girls' Central Schools respectively. Certainly, the School Board and the City Council are deserving of commendation in their efforts to provide adequate playground facilities and thus encourage organized games and field activities.

While the general character of the work throughout the year was satisfactory, certain conditions obtained which will require careful attention during the forthcoming school-year. In some of the grades there were too many over-age pupils and it is becoming more apparent that the bright pupil is suffering from the "lock-step" method of classification and promotion. As the correction of this defect depends mainly upon careful organization and efficient supervision, the principals of our larger graded schools should have more time for supervisory duties.

The percentage of High School Entrance passes was satisfactory, but the High School Matriculation results were disappointing. Victoria College continued to grow in numbers and maintain its standard of efficiency. The subject of biology was added to the curriculum for the year 1925–26. This addition not only gives a greater number of options, but provides for students who intend to graduate in the department of applied science or nursing.

With but few exceptions, the Victoria teachers performed their duties efficiently and were unsparing of time and effort in assisting community activities. Undoubtedly the most attractive feature of the July 1st parade was the school-children's display.

The question of providing the opportunity of a high-school education to pupils who live in a district which does not maintain a high school is one deserving of serious consideration. At the present time there is in attendance at Victoria High School a number of students whose parents reside in such districts. The expense of supporting their children away from home is a great burden on the parents concerned without paying a per capita high-school maintenance fee. To encourage residence in the country districts, children in these districts should have, as far as possible, the same educational opportunities as the children in municipal districts. Possibly the problem might be solved by additional grants from the Department to Boards admitting these students.

GEORGE H. DEANE,

Municipal Inspector of Schools.

PROVINCIAL NORMAL SCHOOLS.

VANCOUVER PROVINCIAL NORMAL SCHOOL.

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 28th, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,
Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I beg to submit the report of the Provincial Normal School, Vancouver, for the year ended June, 1925.

The following will show the enrolment for the preliminary term, September to December:—

	Enrolled.	University Graduates.	Regular Students.	Teachers taking Short Course.
Females	305	30	274	1
Males	74	14	59	1
Totals	379	44	333	2

During the preliminary term two young ladies of the regular students withdrew. The lady taking the short course also withdrew. At the close of the term four students who had received Normal School training in Eastern Canada were granted diplomas. One teacher from England was recommended for the usual interim certificate. The class of University graduates who had received training in elementary-school work left to finish their training at the University. Twenty-nine students whose work during the term was not up to standard were asked to withdraw at the close of the term in December.

At the opening of the advanced term in January 297 of those attending during the fall term returned. These were joined by sixteen students with previous Normal School training and in March an Alberta teacher enrolled for an eight-weeks' course to supplement her Alberta training. Thus the total enrolment for the advanced term was 314—259 young ladies and fifty-five young men. During this term five students withdrew because of unsatisfactory work. Two discontinued the course. I regret to report the death of two students during the session—in November a young lady of the University class and in March a young man from among the regular students.

The advanced term closed with an enrolment of 306. At the close of the session 213 students were granted regular diplomas, sixty were recommended for interim certificates, and thirty-three failed.

The following summary will show clearly the enrolment and results of the entire session, September to May:—

	Females.	Males.	Total.
University graduates	30	14	44
Regular students	288	61	349
Teachers taking short course	2	1	3
Total enrolment	320	76	396
Withdrew, work unsatisfactory	28	6	34
Discontinued course	5	....	5
Died	1	1	2
Failed	27	6	33
Interims recommended	51	10	61
Diplomas granted	178	39	217

The instruction in physical training was conducted during the session by Sergeant-Major Wallace and Sergeant Knox. Very satisfactory work was done in this department. Of the 336 students examined, 310 qualified for Grade B certificates.

The enrolment was again very heavy. We have been hoping for some years for an enrolment which the Normal School can comfortably accommodate, but each year sees our hopes deferred. The introduction of the very wise regulation of excluding all students who have not fully completed their non-professional standing will serve to reduce considerably the enrolment during coming years.

Mr. A. R. Lord joined the staff during the year.

Our thanks are extended to the teachers in the Model, Cecil Rhodes, and Lord Tennyson Schools for their very hearty co-operation in the training of our students. Our thanks are due also to the principals and staffs of the Lord Roberts, Dawson, Central, Strathcona, Mount Pleasant, and Simon Fraser Schools for their courtesy and kindly assistance during periods of observation.

In closing my report, I wish to thank Miss Weld for her services as Secretary during the year. Her work has been most acceptable to members of the staff and to the student body. I regret that she is leaving the service.

I have, etc.,
D. M. ROBINSON,
Principal.

VICTORIA PROVINCIAL NORMAL SCHOOL.

VICTORIA, B.C., September 25th, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,
Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I beg to submit the following report on the Provincial Normal School at Victoria for the school-year which ended June 30th, 1925:—

The total enrolment for the year was 252. The details of this enrolment and the final results are set forth in the following table:—

	Women.	Men.	Total.
The number awarded diplomas	143	31	174
The number granted interim standing	56	8	64
The number who discontinued attending during year	8	....	8
The number who failed	5	1	6
Totals	212	40	252

Of the eight who discontinued attending during the year, one, an Arts graduate, transferred in January, 1925, to the High School Teachers' Training Class in the University of British Columbia; one, whose parents moved to Vancouver, transferred to the Normal School there; six left school.

At the opening of the session in September, 1924, one addition was made to the staff in the person of Mr. C. B. Wood, formerly Principal of Cumberland High School. The work of instruction was apportioned as follows: The Principal—Arithmetic, class management, school law, and psychology. Mr. V. L. Denton—History and geography. Mr. Hy. Dunnell—Art and writing. Mr. B. S. Freeman—Literature and nature. Mr. C. B. Wood—English grammar, language, and reading. Miss G. G. Riddell—Music and primary work. Miss L. B. Isbister—Household science and hygiene.

The physical training was conducted by Sergeant-Major Bain and Sergeant Frost. Two hundred and fourteen students were awarded certificates in this course.

Under the able direction of Colonel Lorne Drum, instruction in first aid to the injured was given to the men. Twenty-five of these men did the work successfully and were awarded St. John Ambulance Certificates.

The plan followed for the practical teaching of the students during this year was a new one. Instead of confining the work to a few schools, all of the elementary schools in the City of Victoria were used. The students began their practical work in Grade II. Several lessons were taught by each student in each grade before proceeding to a higher grade. Teaching in Grade I. was reserved until some experience had been gained. This plan had the advantage of not requiring students to teach in the higher grades until experience in lower grade work had been gained. It had the disadvantage of distributing the work among a large number of critic-teachers. It seems probable that a plan can be adopted that will retain the advantage mentioned and lessen the disadvantage of too wide distribution.

It gives me pleasure, however, to state that the most hearty co-operation was given to us in our work by Mr. George H. Deane, Municipal Inspector of Schools for Victoria, by the principals of the Victoria schools and their staffs, and by Miss Scanlan and Miss Barron, of our own Model School.

I have, etc.,
D. L. MacLaurin,
Principal.

SCHOOL FOR THE DEAF AND THE BLIND.

REPORT OF THE PRINCIPAL.

POINT GREY, B.C., September, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,
Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I beg to submit the following report on the School for the Deaf and the Blind for the year ended June 30th, 1925:—

The total enrolment of pupils for the year was eighty, of whom sixty-two were in the department for the deaf and eighteen in that for the blind.

These constituted nine divisions or classes, and eight teachers besides myself were employed, two for the blind and six besides myself for the deaf. As in previous years, I found it necessary to take full charge of a class.

Only one change occurred in the teaching staff. Miss Sims, who had the primary class, retired at the close of the previous year on account of ill-health, and her place was filled by Miss Miller, who proved herself a valuable assistant.

Throughout the entire year I had a band of loyal and painstaking helpers, who spared not themselves in their efforts to fit their pupils to enter upon the enjoyment of all the rights and privileges belonging to them and to make them God-fearing and law-abiding citizens.

The course of study followed was practically that of the public and high schools of the Province. The only exception being drawing—with the blind.

With the deaf we are compelled to make haste slowly. The language of the text-books being too difficult for them, much of the subject-matter had to be simplified, especially with those in the lower grades. It therefore took a longer time to cover work that the blind readily finished.

Some criticism has been advanced, both through the press of Vancouver and by other means, respecting keeping both these classes in one common school. This might have some force in a school where the numbers of both were large. But in a small school, such as ours, my experience has shown me several distinct advantages, apart from the saving financially.

During the year the general health of pupils was good. Apart from occasional colds, there were only two cases which called for medical treatment. One was that of a boy who contracted chicken-pox at home and it developed after he came back. Fortunately by prompt attention it was not communicated to any other pupils. The other case was that of a girl who returned after Christmas with skin eruptions of eczema. This latter defied treatment for a long time, but was ultimately arrested and before the term ended in June it had entirely disappeared.

This excellent health record is, in my opinion, due to the ideal location of the school, which has a bountiful supply of fresh air and ample room for exercise, in addition to the splendid sanitary conditions, well-balanced meals, and regular habits of living.

Mrs. Lawrence, the matron, and her assistants are unceasing in their efforts to do everything possible to make the children comfortable and happy and create an environment of home atmosphere.

The addition of our new gymnasium, which was completed early in 1925, has proved a valuable asset. It is not yet fully equipped, but new apparatus is being continually added.

I am hoping this report may meet the eye of some who may be moved by our need to help us along this line as the Gyro Club, the Elks, and other organizations have done in the past. I can assure them that any gift will be thankfully received and faithfully applied. There is reference made in Holy Writ about faith being shown by works, and this is a case where it can be exemplified.

Since my last report a room for manual training as well as one for sewing, dressmaking, and millinery have been fitted up and equipped. These will enable the school to turn out pupils better equipped to engage in the battle of life than with merely a literary education.

Before closing I wish to make mention of the enlargement of the living-room in the principal's quarters. It affords undreamed-of comfort and enables us to receive delegations which come from time to time to inspect the school and discuss ways and means of helping on the work.

I also want to express deep appreciation of the help at all times generously given by the Honourable the Minister of Education, and to thank you, sir, for your patient and kindly treatment of my shortcomings.

I have, etc.,
S. H. LAWRENCE,
Principal.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION.

REPORT OF THE ORGANIZER.

VICTORIA, B.C., September, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,
Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I beg to submit the following report on the work of manual training; domestic science; technical high school courses, including technical course for boys, household science course for girls, and commercial course; Junior High School; teacher-training; night-schools; correspondence classes; and technical education generally for the year 1924–25:—

MANUAL TRAINING.

Classes in the above subject are conducted in the following cities: Armstrong, Chilliwack, Cranbrook, Kelowna, Nanaimo, New Westminster, Nelson, North Vancouver, Prince Rupert, Port Moody, Rossland, Trail, Vancouver, Vernon, and Victoria. Similar classes are also held in the following municipalities: Burnaby, Chilliwack, Esquimalt, Maple Ridge, Penticton, Point Grey, Pitt Meadows, Richmond, Summerland, South Vancouver, Surrey, South Wellington, West Vancouver, and in the Rural Districts of Rutland and Harewood.

A summary of manual-training statistics from these places is as follows:—

Manual-training centres	81
Manual instructors	71
Elementary-school pupils attending	12,231
High-school pupils attending	1,992

In the varied centres mentioned above we do not insist upon the adoption of one specific course of models. Instructors are encouraged to send original courses of work to the Department of Education for approval; these should conform to the character of the community in which the centre is placed and to the equipment which has been installed there. After a certain number of tool exercises have been taught everything possible is done to respect the wishes of the pupil to make objects into which he can bring his heart and soul and mind, but in construction-work, as might well be supposed, much judgment is required to guide him from projects which would undoubtedly turn out to be fiascos. An honest attempt is being made in most centres to run a middle course between the hard-and-fast mechanical list of models and the absolute freedom of making whatever the pupil desires. Manual instructors often encourage unselfishness and an interest in the school community by permitting groups of workers to make necessities for the school-rooms and the schools.

Classes for training manual instructors are held every Saturday afternoon in the Technical School, Vancouver. These are open to both craftsmen and public-school teachers, and the total number of training-hours amount to 775. While 275 hours at the bench are required from the schoolmen, very little is required in practical teaching. The disposition of hours is reversed, however, with the craftsmen, 200 hours being given to general education and seventy-five at the bench. The training classes have provided us with teachers who have a good conception of the educational value of creative work and who invariably return course after course to increase and broaden their knowledge.

The course of work for teachers in training is as follows: Entrance examination in English and arithmetic, mechanical drawing and solid geometry, drawing and design, blackboard drawing, light forms of hand-work, bench-work in wood, theory of woodwork, theory of education, three years' course of projects, one year's successful teaching.

When men have graduated as manual instructors for elementary schools they have the opportunity and privilege of proceeding onward and upward for the high-school certificate. The programme of studies is as follows: (1) Furniture-making; (2) wood-turning; (3) sheet-metal work; (4) art-metal work; (5) machine-shop bench-work, design, educational methods, course of work; 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5, thesis on manual training, use and care of woodworking machinery, science relating to wood and metal work.

It is owing to the sterling qualities of the manual instructors that the work has been so stable during the past economic period and to them entirely should be given the credit of our position in the Dominion; for British Columbia still holds second place for the number of teachers engaged in the work and the number of centres in operation.

Diplomas have been awarded to school pupils who obtained 400 of the 600 marks possible in the woodwork and drawing of the course and who completed at least the first four groups of models, particulars of which may be found in the programme of studies for elementary schools.

In the Ontario course for qualifying manual-training instructors established at Hamilton Technical School it is observed that they also admit two classes of students: (a) Normal graduates—holders of second-class professional certificates; and (b) skilled mechanics. This course extends from October 5th to June 18th.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE.

Classes in the above subject were conducted in the following cities: Armstrong, Chilliwack, Kelowna, Nanaimo, New Westminster, North Vancouver, Port Moody, Prince Rupert, Vancouver, Vernon, and Victoria. Similar classes are also held in the following municipalities: Burnaby, Esquimalt, Penticton, Point Grey, South Vancouver, and in the Rural District of Rutland. A summary of domestic-science statistics from these places is as follows:—

Domestic-science centres	55
Domestic-science instructors	54
Elementary-school pupils attending	9,231
High-school pupils attending	1,962

The work of domestic science is conducted in the Province under various conditions—(a) the simplest form being sewing and needlecraft only, taught by the grade teachers in the class-rooms (such classes are not included in above statistics); (b) cookery taught with a simple equipment of oil-stoves, the girls working in groups; (c) classes taught in fully equipped rooms with individual equipment. There is still another economical way which has been adopted with success; i.e., the demonstration method where the teacher with one or two girls do the actual cooking while the class take notes. They, in turn, cook at home and bring their result tabulated on a credit card.

Considerable headway and many changes have been made in the teaching of domestic science during recent years and the work of the centres visited show a greater appreciation of the value of home quantities and of linking up the lessons of the school with the actual work of the home. Health lessons form an important part of domestic-science work, but great care must be taken not to let the domestic-science lessons evolve into talks. "Learn by Doing" should be the motto. Correct and common-sense methods of cooking and clothing embrace a knowledge of textiles and wearing-apparel, of foods and their functions, all of which can be taught more effectively during active participation in cooking and sewing than by lecturing to the children and having them make copious notes on the subject-matter.

Teachers should also be careful to adopt proper methods for ventilating their kitchens while cookery is in operation. Windows should be open at the top. Fly-screens should be fixed outside the windows. There is no reason I can see why the manual-training boys should not assist in making necessary things for the domestic-science work. There are excellent purposeful home projects right in the domestic-science centre worthy of careful consideration, and, moreover, they are thoroughly educational in character. Good habits in sewing are also a necessity; perpetual vigilance is required on the part of the teacher against the child tendency to work without a thimble, to hold the work the wrong way, and to dream over it.

One cannot conceive of subjects more desirable for girls than those embraced in home economics or domestic science. One cannot imagine any educational subject more important than the management of a home. The breadth and scope of the work ranks it as worthy of inclusion in the University of British Columbia just as it has found a place in many a similar institution. We still find, however, those who state that this subject can be taught by the average mother in the home.

Last year a series of lessons to domestic-science teachers on costume design were taught in the art-room of the School Board office, Vancouver. The class was well attended and a splendid introduction was made to a subject which is vast in extent and has many educational ramifications important to teachers of home economics. It would be highly desirable to continue this course, as its importance to this branch of the teaching profession cannot be overestimated. Arrangements were made to conduct other classes in domestic science and it was thought the following programme, which would give teachers in elementary schools an opportunity to qualify for high-school work, would meet with approbation, but unfortunately most of the classes did not materialize. The list of subjects was as follows: Sewing, stitchery, design and home decoration, dressmaking, millinery, mechanics of the household, physics of the household, chemistry, bacteriology, physiology, psychology.

Through such classes we had hoped to graduate teachers who would be prepared to teach in a girls' technical or vocational school. While we have an ample supply of well-equipped men ready to staff a real technical school for young men, it would be hard to find the right kind of technical teachers for young women.

Perhaps I may be permitted to again call attention to the great work awaiting a Provincial supervisor of home economics, one who would champion the ideals of the movement among women and correct many popular misconceptions and misunderstandings.

TECHNICAL HIGH SCHOOL OR DAY VOCATIONAL SCHOOL COURSES.

Technical courses in high schools are organized in the Cities of New Westminster, Vancouver, Victoria, and Trail. In the T. J. Trapp Technical School, New Westminster, may be found the four divisions—academic, home economics, technical, and commercial—which go to form what is known in Ontario as a composite high school. The three-year technical courses of study in these schools embrace the following subjects:—

Technical Course for Boys.—English, citizenship and economics, history, French or Latin, mathematics, applied mechanics, physics, chemistry, drawing and design, electricity, physical culture, shop-work in wood and metal.

Household Science Course for Girls.—English, citizenship and economics, history, French or Latin, mathematics, chemistry, physics, physiology, dietetics and cookery, needlework (dressmaking and millinery), drawing and design, household art, vocal music, physical culture.

Commercial Course—(a) Secretarial; (b) accounting—English business correspondence and filing, arithmetic, book-keeping and accounting, commercial geography, shorthand, typewriting, commercial law.

At the conclusion of these courses examinations are held for the Technical Leaving Certificate, Junior Matriculation Certificate, and Commercial Certificate, all of which are issued by the Department of Education.

The following table gives the number of students attending the technical, household science, and commercial courses:—

	Technical.	Household Science.	Commercial.

Total, 2,110 students.

Representations have been made to make the Technical Leaving Certificate stand in lieu of the Junior Matriculation. This seems to be a reasonable request in order to admit students to the applied science course at the University. The subjects of English, mathematics, and chemistry of the Technical Leaving Examination are already accepted for Junior Matriculation. Trigonometry, drawing and design, practical woodwork, metalwork, and machine-shop bench-work of the technical course are not required for matriculation, but the boy who aspires to University must add history and a foreign language.

If a special technical examination in industrial history and economics could be provided instead of the history taught in the academic course, this would meet the needs of the technical boys. To equalize the expense of this step, let the present three technical papers—electricity, mechanics, and physics—be supplanted by the ordinary matriculation physics paper which now includes mechanics. In regard to the foreign language it could be commenced in the first-year university and treated as a supplemental.

While there is no doubt in my mind that this link with the University should be forged, yet the main objective of a technical course should be a technical school and specific vocational studies, or direct entrance to industrial work. The great field for technical education is among the 80 per cent. who do not enter high school and the additional number who leave the high school during the first year, and should direct the thoughts of those to industrial training.

Technical Courses.

The high school technical courses are still gaining steady favour in the cities where such are in operation.

When the School Boards of Burnaby, Point Grey, and North Vancouver make up their minds to enrich their courses of study by embracing technical work, a regular and fully equipped technical school can be successfully established in Vancouver. Such a school is highly desirable, for, as Dr. A. N. MacCallum, chairman of the Research Committee of Canada, states, "What we need is a highly skilled population having every scientific means of adding value to the raw material." It is at technical schools where skill in creative work is fostered. It is there that the people are trained to establish high standards of taste and skill in production. The technical school is the basis of industrial prosperity and the time is ripe for its erection. Already the question of apprenticeship is taking form with various trade organizations; already schemes have been formulated whereby boys will be trained systematically in the building trades; and included in the indenture drawn up by business-men and employers of labour is a proposal that "The apprentice be paid full time throughout apprenticeship and allowed off duty at least one day per week during the winter months to attend a technical or vocational school." Thus we see the arrival of the method already adopted in Ontario, in the United States of America, in Great Britain, and in Germany. Here educational authorities may obtain a glimpse of how they can best serve the people who are entering industrial life and who are going to be the producers of wealth. No better paying investment could be made to-day in Vancouver than equipping a school where all the necessary knowledge could be obtained and skill developed in order that productive trades might be successfully conducted. When the large technical school was built in Toronto a few years ago, croakers said it would be a "white elephant." Since its erection, however, it has become necessary to build two more technical schools, so great has been the call from the inhabitants of the city.

Aid in planning a technical school should be sought from an advisory committee. A well-selected body of business-men would be in a position to lend valuable assistance and guidance to the school trustees in making expenditures on mechanical equipment. The Advisory Board of New Westminster have been assiduous in their endeavours to assist the school trustees in their manifold duties. In Vancouver the selection of men has not been so happy and with two or three notable exceptions their attendance at meetings has been disappointing.

Extension of facilities in the Vancouver Technical School for studying motor mechanics is urgently needed. The gasolene-engine plays such an important part in modern life that an opportunity for a thorough understanding of its mechanism forms a tremendously valuable part of a man's stock of knowledge.

The introduction of a three-year technical course in South Vancouver High School failed to materialize owing, in a great measure, to the fact that South Vancouver and Vancouver were likely to join forces. It is hard to understand what difference such an amalgamation would make in the situation, for, even if the populations combined, the best thing that could be done for South Vancouver would be to organize a high school with four departments—academic, technical, commercial, and home economics. This kind of school is certainly the most suitable type for a democratic community and one which would lend itself admirably to the introduction of the Junior High School system.

The City of Victoria might also with great advantage seriously consider such a change in her high school. In Vancouver City a school of applied arts and design has been formed with a view to raising the standard of taste among producers and of training designers for industries. Industrial countries are fully alive to the importance of such training, for a school of design always accompanies a technical school. The combination of satisfactory design with good technique produces a work or art; i.e., "The well-doing of what needs doing"; in other words, art is thoughtful workmanship, and the success of the Vancouver School is assured.

A students' follow-up system should be started without delay. Something must be done not only to guide the boy into his proper vocation, but to keep track of him and mark the practical value of his training on his progress. By means of a follow-up system we could check up the school-work and keep adjusting it to meet the real needs of the people. Record-cards have already been printed for a systematic check-up and we shall soon be endeavouring to glean information which must prove exceedingly interesting and helpful and will do much to prevent undue attention being paid to secondary issues.

HIGH SCHOOL COURSE IN HOME ECONOMICS.

Only two high schools in the Province provide a three-years' course in the above subject. These two schools are the T. J. Trapp Technical School, New Westminster, with forty-two students attending, and the King Edward High School, Vancouver, with ninety-nine students on the roll. Members of these classes may graduate to the Normal School, but their standing is not yet recognized by the University of British Columbia, as the subjects of their final examinations are not accepted as equivalent to the Junior Matriculation Examination. It would seem, however, that by a very slight adjustment a reasonable educational basis could be arrived at by which the students of the Home Economics Course would not be handicapped for matriculation to university and yet preserve the present standard of their practical work.

Dressmaking and millinery in the Home Economics Course should be taught with a view to vocational efficiency. In the usual high school domestic science course the sewing, dressmaking, and millinery should be taught from quite another angle. The teachers in the Home Economics Course should boldly attack their work with workshop methods and practice always in mind. Draughting patterns for clothing, designing costumes, studying colour schemes and harmonies, etc., are all included in the three-years' course. These practical problems, together with a scientific study of chemistry, physiology, and physics, make this high school course of great importance.

COMMERCIAL COURSES.

The above courses are attended by 1,179 students and this number will continue to grow because the merchandising and trading firms are still on the upward grade. The rearrangement of the three-years' course is proving a great success and there is no more thorough office training to be obtained anywhere. It has been suggested that school trustees should put on a short intensive course such as people demand and receive at commercial schools conducted by private enterprise. Intensive work is commendable, not only in commercial subjects but in all subjects. The most evident thing in school-life is the fact of pupils being permitted thirty minutes to do a fifteen minutes' job. In all technical training, be it in commercial, home economics, or industrial lines, the time element should be seriously reckoned with.

The commercial courses are straight vocational. Unlike those who attend the technical and home economics classes, the students do not clamour for an examination to admit them to university. The commercial students find a direct avenue to office-work and in their real working environment they seem to acquit themselves creditably. At open tests in typewriting and stenography held in the Province the students from the high schools can hold their own with other competitors and each year they carry a good share of trophies to their schools.

While the name of this school is a misnomer, yet the school is one in which excellent work is being accomplished. The greater proportion of the students pass out into industrial life, while a few pass into various high schools. Pupils undoubtedly find themselves and discover their capabilities in this school. They obtain an insight into active life outside the school by visits to factories and workshops, and by listening to regular talks from successful business men and women. By being occupied during 50 per cent. of their time with hand-work of the most up-to-date character they are prepared for industrial life.

There is no more commendable educational work being done in the Province to-day than that in the Junior High School and the staff is well chosen. The work done by the girls in home economics has a true ring to it, and in child-welfare studies the children in the orphanage are visited and all the necessary work of the day undertaken from cooking the meals to washing and bedding the children. Such practical exercises as are found in the Junior High School reach a high level in education for girls. "We need to invigorate and reinvigorate education," says H. G. Wells. "We need to create a sustained counter-effort to the perpetual tendency of all educational organizations towards classicalism, secondary issues, and the evasion of life."

Teacher-training.

Teacher-training for technical-school work is proceeding satisfactorily and the members of the class, twenty-five in number, are composed entirely of practical craftsmen, who either are engaged at present as manual instructors or have passed through the manual-training instructor's class and thus have caught the educational view-point.

The success of technical education will depend upon the attitude, training, skill, and educational background which the instructors possess. So far the teachers in the Province are far above the average and the opportunity to attend such classes as have been organized will tend to keep up the standard. The teachers find a way of advancement through these classes; they return year after year to continue their studies. They have a vision of ever-increasing technical work being undertaken by Provincial educational bodies and they are determined to be prepared for the work of instruction. In having men of this attitude we are singularly fortunate, for it gives one confidence in dealing with School Boards who wish to participate in the advance which is being made along the lines of technical education.

Technical teachers' certificates are of two kinds—interim and permanent. After two years' successful teaching experience the interim certificate may be made permanent. The course of study is not so general but more specific than that for the manual-training teachers' high-school certificate. Part I. consists of a study of trade analysis and a study of teaching methods and principles, during which they chart out a course of work. Part II. consists of practice teaching.

Notice has come from the Hamilton Technical School that the Ontario Training College for Technical Teachers has been opened and the syllabus shows that an excellent system of training is now being undertaken. It is improbable, however, that successful craftsmen teachers will be attracted to the East, as the salaries are not sufficiently high to warrant a man in stopping his wage-earning occupation to run into great expense in order to attend college.

The training of first-class certificated teachers as commercial teachers is also undertaken by class-work and by correspondence. Twenty-two students are enrolled in shorthand, typewriting, book-keeping, and teaching methods. The work is conducted at Summer School classes, and by correspondence lessons as a means of continuing the studies and linking up the Summer School. The growth of commercial work in high schools and the difficulty of obtaining efficient practical teachers lead to the idea of training instructors. The step has been pronounced an unqualified success and the men in charge deserve great praise for the faithful way they have held to their purpose. This opportunity for training should be continued, as the success of high school commercial courses depend entirely upon it.

Commercial certificates are of two kinds—interim and permanent. After two years' successful teaching experience the interim certificate may be made permanent.

The sum spent on teacher-training, both technical and commercial, for the year October 1st, 1924, to September 30th, 1925, amounted to $8,906.62.

Night-schools or Evening Vocational Schools.

Night-schools were conducted in thirty-five cities and municipalities in the Province, with an attendance of 7,386 pupils.

The following subjects are included in the night-school courses: English, English for foreigners, subjects for Civil Service examinations, subjects for pharmaceutical examinations, subjects for junior matriculation, citizenship and economics, mathematics, mechanics, physics, machine construction and drawing, pattern-making, forging, machinists' work, steam engineering, automotive ignition system, magnetism and electricity, electrical engineering, chemistry, metallurgy, coal-mining, building construction, carpentry and joinery, architectural design, estimating, navigation, forestry, paper-making, printing, commercial English, typewriting, stenography, accounting (elementary and advanced), commercial languages—i.e., Spanish, Russian, Japanese, Chinese, French; salesmanship, drawing and design, modelling, metal repoussé, wood-carving, embroidery, pottery, china-painting, show-card writing, dressmaking, millinery, costume-designing, laundering, bread-baking, canning, cookery, music (instrumental and choral), elocution and public speaking.

The first essential in a night-school is an instructor who is master of his work and consequently has public confidence. The next important feature is for such a man to chart out his lessons for the whole course. This rule is invariably adopted in classes characterized by a high average attendance. After the season's course is planned each individual lesson should be carefully prepared and such a procedure is soon reflected on the class.

School Boards might well study the business methods of private firms who run night-schools. They must remember that the public need to be informed, and therefore advertising is imperative to a successful enrolment. Each boy and girl in the day-schools is a medium for such publicity; each goes to a home and might well carry at least a handbill or programme of studies. Each school-teacher is a point of contact with the general public. The newspapers and churches rarely object to a public appeal. No activity in the community deserves more support, for habitual attendance at night-schools has a tremendous effect on character.

Women's Institutes are more than usually interested in night-schools, but they cannot receive grants direct. Ten institutes under the auspices of the School Boards held classes and 330 students were enrolled. In rural districts it is often necessary to hold the classes during the afternoon and in such cases the meeting is counted as a night class. Unsolicited testimonials to the beneficial effect on efficiency and the spread of knowledge have come from many quarters. The people who have gone to live in outlying rural districts deserve every encouragement to gather together for mutual help and improvement, and it is to the credit of the Department of Education that it stepped into the breach when the Department of Agriculture abandoned its educational work amongst women.

CORRESPONDENCE CLASSES.

Not only is educational work carried on among adults, but in the most inaccessible parts of the Province, where as yet no school exists, the helping hand goes out to the children. The home of the pioneer is invaded with school-work and 250 children conduct their lessons by mail. We have examples of pupils who, though they have never been to school, have passed the entrance to high school examinations successfully.

From the same office are sent out the lessons to those engaged in coal-mining operations. The way is prepared clear and straight for an ambitious boy working in a coal district to step gradually upward to the highest rung of the ladder. Such a youth can start by correspondence at 15 years of age and work to the age of 23 on the fundamental mining subjects. Six separate sections of study at $5 per section will give him ample preparation by the time he is of age to try the shotlighters' examination. With a continuance of his study his papers as overman will not be difficult to obtain, and following these two the aspiring coal-miner may go to any height he desires. There are 202 mining students enrolled who desire to qualify as shotlighters, overmen, mine-surveyors, and mine-managers.

Under the democratic arrangement whereby persons employed in some occupation during the daytime may try the University Matriculation Examination in four parts, it may easily be seen that an ambitious and intelligent young man may even emancipate himself entirely from his environment in order that he may specialize in the directions which call into activity the gifts with which nature has endowed him.

It is surprising that there are not more night-school tutorial classes at which correspondence students could study and receive individual help. The combination of the two would give students a remarkable opportunity for advancement.

Expenditure.

The total amount of expenditure from October 1st, 1924, to September 30th, 1925, on the subjects previously referred to, but exclusive of manual training, domestic science, and correspondence-work with elementary-school children, amounted to $108,249.25, and of that sum the Dominion Government paid $54,124.62.

Excerpts from the latest report from the Dominion Organizer of Technical Education show that the Province of British Columbia takes fourth place for the total amount of expenditure on technical education, third place for the number of students attending night-school, fourth for the number taking correspondence classes, and second for the number of students undertaking training as technical teachers. Considering that the cost of administration is also shown to be one of the lowest in the Dominion, it would seem to prove that the situation is one which might be considered satisfactory.

ELEMENTARY AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR.

VICTORIA, B.C., September 30th, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,
Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit herewith a brief report dealing with elementary agricultural education for the year ended September 30th, 1925.

During a period of eleven years the Federal Government through the "Agricultural Instruction Act" provided a considerable portion of the funds needed to finance the various lines of work conducted in elementary agriculture in this as in the other Provinces. The dicontinuance of this means of support proved a serious blow to the work everywhere and many useful lines of agricultural instruction have had to be greatly reduced if not entirely abandoned. In British Columbia bonus grants to teachers on account of special instruction in elementary agriculture through school and home gardening has been discontinued and other grants somewhat reduced. A fair measure of assistance to School Boards, however, has been maintained towards meeting the expenses connected with agricultural instruction in elementary and high schools, with school fairs, and with school-grounds improvement. If the present policy can be maintained and adequately supported it should be possible to extend the work so as to include new districts in the Province.

CHANGE IN THE DISTRICT SUPERVISOR SYSTEM.

With the cessation of Federal Government assistance a change in the District Supervisor system was brought about, and the District Supervisors have devoted most of their time during the past year to the teaching of science and agriculture in their respective high schools. In the Municipalities of Surrey, Langley, New Westminster, and Salmon Arm it has been possible to maintain a part-time service in the elementary schools, and in all cases where travelling expense became necessary the Department has assisted the School Boards on a 50-per-cent. basis. No special assistance towards the salaries of the instructors in science and agriculture is given under the new plan, but a yearly allowance, not to exceed $300, towards local maintenance costs is allowed to each high school where the authorized two-year course in agriculture is given. Each of the science and agriculture specialists is a member of the high-school staff and carries a full-time teaching programme, including in addition to agriculture such subjects as physics, chemistry, botany, general science, arithmetic, algebra, geometry, history, literature, composition, drawing, etc. The time, therefore, that was formerly given to the teaching and supervision of elementary agriculture in the public schools is now largely occupied in the teaching of high-school subjects.

AGRICULTURE IN HIGH SCHOOLS.

During the past year the regular course in agriculture was conducted in eleven high schools, with a few special students in other schools, giving a total enrolment of 591 students in that subject. This is an increase of seventy-five over last year. On account of the scarcity of funds available for the work, no attempt was made to open up new centres for agricultural instruction; but now that the work has come entirely under Provincial auspices and a more permanent policy has been adopted, it is hoped that the study of agriculture will be included in a larger number of high schools. It is already apparent that one of the chief difficulties will be the securing of competent instructors to fill such positions. In order to have official recognition as a high-school specialist in science and agriculture, the instructor must be a graduate in agriculture from a college or university of recognized standing and must also have teaching qualifications. Such specialists are not numerous in Canada at the present time, and School Boards must recognize the necessity of offering somewhat higher salaries in order to secure and retain the services of men holding such qualifications. Furthermore, it would appear that the time has arrived when young men who have obtained the bachelor's degree in agriculture and who seem well adapted to teaching should be encouraged to take the professional course in the faculty of education and thus become eligible to teach in high schools.

After a period of ten years of faithful and highly efficient service as District Supervisor of Agricultural Instruction at Chilliwack, Mr. J. C. Readey, B.S.A., resigned from the staff of the high school there and has since accepted a position as professor of agricultural education on the staff of the State Teachers' College for South Dakota. The position thus rendered vacant at Chilliwack has been filled by the appointment of Mr. F. J. Welland, B.S.A., formerly engaged as District Supervisor in Surrey Municipality.

AGRICULTURAL INSTRUCTION IN ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS.

Nature-study with practical applications to agriculture in the higher grades is taught in all of the elementary schools of the Province. This season has witnessed a falling-off in the number of school-gardens operated in the elementary schools, due in part to the abandonment of the District Supervisor system and to the cessation of bonus grants to teachers. Some of the larger schools of the Province have continued to operate their gardens and have found them advantageous as part of their educational programme. Several new gardens were started this year in outlying districts, due mainly to the personal interest and initiative of teachers. Practical difficulties will always be found in connection with school-gardening, and until there is a more complete understanding on the part of both teachers and School Boards as to the true educational value of practical nature-studies based upon such practical projects as school and home gardening little progress can be looked for. The daily round of doling out second-hand information from text-book sources still occupies most of the time and attention of a great many teachers. The emphasis which modern education places upon the social and industrial aspects of the work of the school has not yet been realized by them. In our rural schools the work has but scant relationship to the life and interests of the community and the resultant influence is towards city life rather than towards life in the country.

In an official circular recently issued by the Board of Education of England reference is made to the place and value of gardening as an activity for boys and girls as a part of their education, in the following terms:—

"Gardening is, or should be, eminently useful, and as a manual occupation should train the hand to greater skill, the mind to more careful observation, and the character to a fuller appreciation of the virtue of patience and the joys of successful craftsmanship. The school-garden may produce very fine vegetables and flowers and yet entirely fail to achieve the object for which gardening is included in the school curriculum. . . . School-gardening, therefore, rightly understood, is allied to 'nature-study' and should not be regarded as professional training for an industry. . . . While it is not anticipated that there will be any falling-off in the efficiency of the practical work, every effort should be made to develop the school-garden on its observational side for the benefit of the younger children and on its scientific and experimental sides for the older pupils; in a word, to make of it an efficient educational instrument."

Since the inception of this comparatively new branch of instruction nearly twelve years ago this point of view has frequently been set forth, but until it becomes an integral part of the educational belief of our teachers and is emphasized more strongly in our training-schools only slow progress will be made.

During the year a few teachers have reported very satisfactory results from school-supervised home-gardening projects, and unless the horticultural conditions at the school are reasonably good the home-gardening project is to be preferred. Other out-of-school projects of an agricultural character have also been conducted in a number of schools with success, such as the growing of staple field crops, potatoes, mangels and farm seeds, and also the raising of chickens and pure-bred farm animals. Several important agencies as well as private individuals outside of the schools have given valuable support along this line.

SCHOOL-GROUND IMPROVEMENT.

During the year a good deal of attention was given to the work of school-ground improvement. Growing out of the policy and plan of assistance adopted by the Department some years ago, a large number of School Boards have become interested in the general improvement and development of their school properties. It is now the settled policy of many Boards, especially in the cities and rural municipalities of the Province, to do something definite each year along this line. Their plan is to select the most needy schools first and then proceed to put all of their school-grounds into good condition, taking one or two each year. During the past year improvement-work was carried on with the assistance of the Department in no less than sixty-six schools, as follows:—

(1.) Cities.—Victoria High School, Victoria West; Ridgeway and Lonsdale Schools, North Vancouver; Central School, Fernie; Kelowna Central and High; Salmon Arm Central and High; six schools in New Westminster, Courtenay, and Duncan.

(2.) Rural Municipalities.—Agassiz Elementary and High; Mission Elementary and High; Stave Falls and Cedar Valley in Mission Municipality; McBride, Norquay, and Gordon in South Vancouver; North Star in North Vancouver District; Lloyd George, Kerrisdale; Lord Kitchener, Prince of Wales, and Magee in Point Grey; Langley High School, six schools in Burnaby, ten elementary schools in Surrey; Craigflower, Cloverdale, Strawberry Vale, and Tillicum in Saanich; and Summerland.

(3.) Rural and Assisted.—Rutland Superior, Campbell River, Crawford Bay, Ellison, Hilliers, North Bend, Valdes Island, Metchosin, Willow Point, Willow River, Parksville, Dewdney, and Balfour.

In most of the above cases financial assistance was given on a 50-per-cent. basis, and in all cases valuable planting material in the form of trees and ornamental shrubs were supplied from the Provincial Schools Nursery at Essondale. It was found necessary to provide continuous assistance in the nurseries, as the volume of work entailed in shipping material, as well as in propagation-work and general care, has greatly increased. It is important that the full-time services of at least one experienced man be provided in the nurseries all year round, as the time of the regular nursery staff of the Mental Hospital is very fully occupied and they cannot longer continue to give the schools department of the nursery the attention it requires without substantial and permanent assistance. In this connection I wish to make special mention of the valuable co-operation of Dr. Steeves, Medical Superintendent at Essondale; Mr. P. H. Moore, Superintendent of the Colony Farm; and Mr. John Renton, Head Nurseryman. Without the hearty co-operation and skilful services of these men for years past the schools department of the nursery could not have been maintained.

SCHOOL FAIRS AND JUDGING COMPETITIONS.

In order to encourage the holding of school fairs the Department offers financial assistance to the extent of 25 per cent. of the money paid out for prizes in accordance with such prize-list as is approved by the Department. The maximum grant to any one school fair has been placed at $100. The holding of these annual school exhibitions act as an incentive to good work on the part of both teachers and pupils. The better the school fair the more completely representative it will be of all school activities. It helps to establish a high standard of work in any district, in all subjects, by frequent comparison with the work done in other districts.

The holding of school fairs has also served to bring the people of the district into close touch with the work of the school and has led to a greater measure of co-operation in all school enterprises. In many cases such organizations as Women's Institutes, Parent-Teacher Associations, United Farm Women Agricultural Associations, etc., have accepted the responsibility of managing and staging the fair, and all such are deserving of the highest commendation.

Judging competitions for juniors have come to be a prominent feature in connection with many of the larger fairs. These competitions now include the judging of live stock, poultry, field crops, fruit, and vegetables. The largest competitions in judging during the past season were those held at the Vancouver Fair and at the Provincial Exhibition at New Westminster. The outstanding team this year at both exhibitions was trained at Cranbrook by Mr. Angus Hay, B.S.A., and consisted of Maurice Goddens, Margaret McClure, and Ernest Worden. This clever team not only secured first place in stock-judging at Vancouver, but took first place in three different competitions at New Westminster—namely, live stock, poultry, and field crops. The second-prize team in live-stock judging came from Kelowna and was trained by Mr. J. E. Britton, B.S.A., while the third-prize team was from Summerland and was trained by Mr. V. B. Robinson, B.S.A. The second-prize team in crop-judging was from Richmond and was trained by Mr. Harold Steeves, B.S.A., while the Summerland team won the third prize.

In poultry-judging at the Provincial Fair at New Westminster the team from Armstrong won the second prize and the Kamloops team third. This year for the first time poultry-judging by teams of three boys or girls was introduced at the New Westminster Exhibition and was greatly aided by the British Columbia Poultrymen's Association, which organization provided a beautiful challenge cup for annual competition.

The interest shown in the progress of agricultural education generally by different organizations and also by private individuals during the year has been most gratifying; some of the newspapers have also made valuable contributions through their columns in support of the work. In this connection I wish to make special mention of the valuable assistance rendered by the superintendents and staffs of the Dominion Experimental Farms at Agassiz, Summerland, and Sidney. Agricultural classes have benefited greatly by visits to these farms during the year. On the occasion of their last visit to the Sidney Experimental Farm the Victoria High School agricultural class, which is the largest in the Province, also visited the fine farm of Mr. S. H. Matson close by, and were accorded the greatest of kindness by Mr. Matson, including an excellent midday banquet.

The interest manifested in the progress of agricultural education by the Chilliwack Board of Trade has been gratifying at all times, and during the past year they have rendered a valuable service in the interests of agricultural education by sponsoring a special meeting for the consideration of the work in that district.

I also wish to make special mention of the hearty co-operation of several of the officials of the Provincial Department of Agriculture, who always stand ready to assist when the opportunity arises. The assistance so rendered has been greatly appreciated.

One of the best examples of whole-hearted community co-operation noticed during the year was the Surrey School excursion and picnic to Stanley Park, Vancouver. It was a most ambitious undertaking, requiring as it did no less than twelve special cars to bring the children and their friends, 1,200 strong, over the British Columbia Electric Railway, the largest excursion ever handled by the company over that line. The fact that the cost of transporting the children was met by public subscription shows what a genuine spirit of co-operation can accomplish. Much credit for the success of the undertaking was due to thorough organization under the capable leadership of Mr. F. J. Welland, secretary of the Field Day Committee. The children had a wonderful day, combining education with recreation, and all without mishap of any kind, which speaks well for the management throughout. Other districts would do well to mobilize their forces in similar manner in the interests of their young people, and local school authorities might well take the lead in doing so. Parents not infrequently do something of this kind for their own children, and "what the best and wisest parent wants for his own child, that must the community want for all of its children." This is a basic principle in all public systems of education.

SUMMER SCHOOL FOR TEACHERS.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR.

VICTORIA, B.C., September, 1925.

S. J. Willis, Esq.,
Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I beg to submit herewith a report on the Provincial Summer School for Teachers held in Victoria from July 6th to August 7th, 1925.

In the absence of Mr. J. W. Gibson, who has successfully directed the Summer School for many years, the task of conducting its activities was entrusted to me. An earnest student body and a staff of instructors who pursued their work with unselfish devotion made my duties extremely pleasant. Practically the whole staff were unsparing in their efforts to make the school a success. Perhaps the strongest testimonial from students in favour of Summer School is the way they return again and again to their studies. Three hundred and fifty students enrolled and many of these had attended from two to six previous summers. The fact that the students do not live in dormitories, as is customary in many summer schools, makes it difficult to preserve an esprit de corps and have successful evening gatherings. All such difficulties, however, were reduced to a minimum by the efforts of the staff, who rendered whole-hearted support to the school functions. The courses offered and the number enrolled in each were as follows (some students took several courses) :—

Rural Science Course	19
Primary Grade	116
Art Courses (including Applied Art)	100
Manual Training	25
Vocal Music	27
History	25
Civics and Citizenship	14
Geography	58
English Literature	22
Health Education	143
Penmanship	127
Demonstration School	150

Of the number in attendance, 304 were women and 46 men. A further classification may be made as follows:—

From cities in British Columbia	76
From rural municipalities	80
From rural and assisted schools	109
Unclassified and without schools	59
From points outside of British Columbia	26
Total	350

The following is a complete list of the instructors and the subjects taught by them respectively:—

Arthur Anstey, B.A., Instructor, Provincial Normal School, Vancouver—History.

W. Gordon Brandreth, Member of the Institute of Hygiene, London, England—Hygiene and Physical Education.

Miss Elizabeth G. Breeze, Chief School Nurse, Vancouver City.

J. E. Britton, B.S.A., Specialist in Science and Agriculture, Kelowna High School—Horticulture.

Miss Leila A. Burpee, Instructor, Provincial Normal School, Vancouver—Primary Grade Hand-work.

Fred E. Coombs, M.A., Professor, Toronto University, Ontario College of Education—Theory and Practice of Primary Grade Work.

Staff of Demonstration School.—Harold L. Campbell (Head Master), Grade VII.; Miss Charlotte Mazzoline, Grades V. and VI.; Miss Margaret Cameron, Grades III. and IV.; Miss L. Grace Bollert, B.A., Grades I.A and II.; Miss Jessie E. R. Fisher, Receiving and I.B; Frederick Waddington, Instructor in Singing; Miss Vera Cussans, Instructor in Folk-dancing.

Courses of Study, with their Content and Aim.

Rural Science.—The Rural Science Course consisted of studies in the history of agriculture and agricultural education, horticulture, plant-life studies, and animal-life studies. History is a new department in the field of agriculture. It is felt that too little attention in the past has been paid to the story of agriculture in its relation to the progress of the race. Perhaps the agriculturist has profited least by the successes and failures of those who have gone before. The course covered a brief study of Grecian and Roman agriculture and of agricultural practice in England, United States of America, and Canada. The study was correlated with the regular history course as at present taught in schools.

Horticulture, which is the branch of agriculture dealing with fruits, vegetables, flowers, ornamental trees and shrubs, was included in the Course of Rural Science. This department was designed to help the teacher to better understand the selection, growth, and care of cultivated plants. To the child the garden contains a world of wonder and beauty, and plant-life studies should be encouraged. Such studies as the following were carried out: How plants absorb soil water; how plants get rid of superfluous water; how plants economize or store water when they are exposed to arid conditions. Floral structure and its relation to pollination was discussed, noting the presence or absence of nectaries, the colour, size, and arrangement of the floral parts. Following the study of the life of the individual plant, the class took up the study of plant communities or plant associations and the relation of such communities to their particular environment.

Class excursions and much out-of-door work formed an important means of studying plant-life.

Animal-life studies began with a review of the anatomy and functions of the human body and then a comparison was made with animal life and the structure or habits that made these animals particularly suitable to their surroundings. Insect-study was engaged in to familiarize the class with the commoner orders, especially those that are of economic importance.

Primary Grade Course.—The Primary Grade course consisted of Part A (theoretical) and Part B (hand-work). Part A consisted of lectures to give the teachers a broader conception of the nature and meaning of education and of experience, to give an insight into the nature and meaning of the learning process and of the teaching process. In connection with these topics many ideas and theories were discussed, of which the following are typical: Education is (a) the conscious and continuous reorganization and reconstruction of our social inheritance or culture, and (b) the conscious and continuous development of individual capacities along lines of initiative and flexibility, so that the individual may be capable not only of fitting into the changing environment, but also of becoming the wise and directive agent in the changes which the environment and his own capacities undergo. Education is a social necessity. It is the means whereby social life in its most pregnant sense perpetuates itself. A true learning situation when analysed reveals the following steps: (a) A problem; (b) a selecting activity; (c) a relating activity; (d) a test. The main principles inherent in any true learning situation are: (a) Motivation; (b) analysis—synthesis; (c) apperception; (d) self-expression; (e) right to generalize or to infer belongs to the pupil. The laws of learning are: (a) Readiness; (b) exercise; (c) satisfaction; (d) mind set, etc.

In studying the teaching process various lesson types and methods of teaching were fully considered.

Primary hand-work consisted of projects suitable for little children from 5 years of age upward. The joy of creating should always be encouraged, and materials for that purpose, such as paper, scissors, plasticene, clay, crayons, paints and brushes, were used freely. The third and fourth grade work included basketry and thin woodwork. From basketry in particular children gain much skill of hand and eye. A basket, by the very nature of its construction, shows up inevitably any slipshod workmanship.

Art Course.—The Preliminary Art Course covered an extensive field and it embraced nature drawing, design, model drawing, lettering, and blackboard-work.

In nature drawing each student was expected to be able to give a more or less true rendering of flowers, leaves, butterflies, shells, etc., through the medium of pencil, water-colour, and tempera. These drawings were then made the bases for motifs in design for borders, geometrical spaces, diapers, etc., all executed in certain "set" colour schemes as laid out in the lessons on tone and colour. These nature drawings and designs were further used for practice on a large scale on the blackboard, which side of the course is very much stressed, as such drawings are the ultimate medium in the hands of the teacher. Practice is given in the principles of model drawing, with their application to the drawing of common objects, which are done in pencil, crayon, and ink.

The Second-year Advanced Art and Applied Design Course was intended chiefly for high-school and public-school teachers. Commencing with tone studies in pencil, the work proceeded to the use of chalks, pastels, water-colours, black and white chalks on tinted paper, and pen and ink drawing. Nature drawings were made from various plant forms and used as the bases of designs for stencils, gesso, block prints, embroidery, pottery, book-plates, and posters. These designs were carried out in some practical form by the students, thus giving them a good working knowledge of design. There was also a class for etching on copper and zinc, in which the processes of preparing the plates, etching them in the acids, and finally printing the proofs in the etching-press were carried through. Special attention was paid to lettering and printing.

The Third-year Art Course was inaugurated last year in response to those teachers who desired to supplement their artistic knowledge beyond that given in the ordinary school curriculum. It has proved to be a great success. Figure drawing and construction, drawing from life, including action drawing and poster composition, was taught; this also included the painting or drawing of the figure in such mediums as oil-colour, water-colour, pastel, and pen and ink. Landscape painting and picture composition was also included in this course. Students studied landscape drawing and painting direct from nature in conjunction with class-room lectures, and they thereby were impressed with the points which govern the good composition of a picture. The class regularly met on such sketching-grounds as are to be found at Beacon Hill Park, the wharves, Cordova Bay, and other places, all teeming with beautiful colour schemes, as well as figure and action "subjects."

Applied Art.—The course of work in pottery included the building of vases by hand and practice of "throwing" the forms on the wheel. The products were then dried, fired, and glazed; great progress was made during the summer course. Designs were worked out from direct study of the native Indian collection in the Provincial Museum. A growing appreciation of the skill of the native craftsman and of the significance of his work, which was gained from the material found in the Provincial Archives, strengthened the work of the students and justified the opportunity offered by this branch of applied design. For this work local clay was used entirely.

Weaving was demonstrated for the first time and a hand-loom with four harnesses was built and put into operation. Two small table-looms were also used and even a small one of primitive form was made out of a chalk-box. It is intended to use local wools for this work and to card, spin, dye, and prepare the yarns.

Art-appreciation lectures were given and the following course was amply illustrated by slides and reproductions: The Florentine School of painting and art craftsmanship; the Venetian school; the artists of Flanders, Holland, France, Britain, America, and Canada. The lectures were well attended, and as this subject was introduced for the first time this year the success of the lectures warrant the continuance of the course.

Music.—The opportunity to study the New Canadian Music Course Books made the session of 1925 in music particularly interesting and profitable. The music syllabus for schools as suggested in the Course of Study is full and comprehensive. It includes choral singing, sight-reading, ear-training, rhythmic expression, music appreciation, and theory of music.

In addition to making themselves acquainted with the school music for the various grades, the music students of the Summer School were required to reach a certain standard for themselves. Realizing the importance of the subject and the large amount of work to be covered, they applied themselves faithfully and earnestly, and at the close of the session the students, together with the choir from the Demonstration School, took part in a musical evening.

Community Singing.—One of the most interesting characteristics of music is the communal spirit which it engenders. Especially is this manifest where people congregate to enjoy what is termed "community singing"; that is, the singing together of songs that are understood and loved by the people. Believing that a short time spent in singing before starting the more serious studies of the day is of inestimable benefit, the opportunity was given for the school students to meet for singing from 8.45 to 9 a.m. Judging from the good attendance, the morning music-makings appeared to be much enjoyed, many of the students not missing a single morning.

The leader of the community singing also formed a small orchestra from among the students who were able to play musical instruments.

History.—The History class had a slightly larger enrolment than that of last year and was engaged upon the study of subject-matter and of teaching methods suitable to the various grades of the elementary and junior high school. To-day's trend in history-teaching is twofold —emphasizing the social and economic aspects of the story of the past and looking for greater pupil activity in the class-room. New "methods" were studied in their relation to broad principles in the light of the best educational theory, and in the Demonstration classes they were practically tested. Several periods were spent in working over some of the documents and exhibits in the Provincial Archives, and in securing some knowledge of the raw material from which the early history of our Province has been drawn.

Geography.—This class studied not only the subject-matter but the best means of teaching same. During recent years the point of view in regard to teaching geography has changed very materially. Too often in the past geography has been treated as a study of the earth, with emphasis upon location, physical features, and political units. To-day, instead of placing the emphasis on rivers, resources, climate, industries, and commerce as such, the tendency is to stress the relationship which exists between human life and the natural environment. Most of the facts of formal geography, such as position, location, imports, exports, etc., can best be learned incidentally as essential details of interesting problems regarding man's activities in a world which is his home. Teaching that shows the earth as the home of people essentially like ourselves, except as modified by geographic environment and social inheritance, will tend to make the whole world kin.

Civics and Citizenship.—The class studied those institutions which have developed in concentric circles from the home out to the League of Nations. When humanity was first dropped into the pool of existence, the first ring of authority formed was the home. Since then for us five secondary rings—municipal, provincial, federal, imperial, international—have emanated from the first. Among them there is no conflict; each has its own circle of authority, and, taken together, express the totality of human effort.

The course included lectures and class discussions on materials for practical work in civics and citizenship throughout the course of study, and suitable charts, pictures, and diagrams were given a prominent place.

English Literature.—The Course in English Literature was planned to comprehend the study of both language and literature. Realizing the great importance of language as a tool, the vehicle of thought and emotion, a definite effort was made to develop accuracy and precision in its use. This was done by a careful study of words and their exact meaning, by an examination of the principles of sentence structure, and by forming an intimate acquaintance with the language and usage of literary masterpieces. In addition to this practical use, it was realized that the study of language may have the further and even higher function of opening the door to the vast stored treasuries of literary art. The noblest thoughts, the most aspiring hope and vision of great minds of all ages, the records, legendary or historical, of the achievements of heroic souls of all times—these lie within the golden realm which is called literature, and it is believed that to reveal beauty and truth and high idealism to a child is to challenge his nature, and that his response to that challenge will be a conscious, or oftener an unconscious, reaching up to the standard thus set before him. So, in this world of ours, where so much concern is shown about the things physical, the wherewithal to clothe and house and feed ourselves, a greater portion of time and more intelligent attention must be given to the study of language and literature.

Hygiene and the Child Health Programme.—This course was designed to assist teachers in their presentation of health education in the class-room and to supplement their training so that they will be equipped to give sound health training along modern lines. The course included nutrition and fundamental instruction regarding foods and normal growth, personal hygiene and health habits, the prevention and control of communicable diseases, modern methods of sanitation, and the possibilities of the correlation of health-work with other subjects of the curriculum.

Health Exercises.—Keen enthusiasm was seen daily in the gymnasium on a much varied and progressive programme of free standing work, club-swinging, wall-bar exercises, and many other activities.

The hygiene lectures given in the auditorium and class-room were also a source of animated interest. The aim was not to give the students a mere recital of the normal functionings of the human body, but rather to instruct them in the art of manipulating this wonderful machine comfortably and efficiently with a view to gaining whatever is most worth while in life, and, moreover, to give them this understanding so that they may in turn teach the same art to their respective pupils in an interesting manner.

The important branch of swimming was not omitted and fourteen swimmers were trained and passed the tests for the certificate and medallion of the Royal Life Saving Society. The tests took place at the Crystal Gardens. Besides this class, one composed of beginners met regularly at the Y.M.C.A. swimming-pool and made rapid progress in the aquatic art.

Folk-dancing.—By including folk-dancing and games in the Summer School Course it was hoped to bring to the teachers' notice the importance that these subjects should play in the recreational side of school-life, bringing, as they do, an outlet for the child's energy coupled with decided enjoyment.

The teachers all seemed to enjoy their activity. The course covered the work suitable to the various grades, from primary to high school, giving material for class-work and for the numerous concerts that always occur at festival times.

Penmanship.—This was a special course for teachers who wished to improve their own penmanship and blackboard writing and to acquire the most modern methods of teaching handwriting.

A portion of each daily lesson period was devoted to a study of the pedagogy of penmanship. Class-room problems of all grades were discussed and practical suggestions given. The following topics received special attention: Primary Grade writing; rhythm in writing; the story method of teaching writing; blackboard writing; the correct posture, pen-holding, and movement for the development of freedom, speed, and control.

Demonstration School.—In connection with the Summer School there was conducted a Demonstration School of five classes. The 150 children attending were recruited from the city schools, and many more children applied for admittance than could be accommodated.

The purpose of the Demonstration School was twofold. In the first place it was desired to provide the children with a five-weeks' course conducted along recreational lines. Much solid drill-work on essential subjects was accomplished, but it was largely interspersed with interesting and novel project-work. A generous course in singing and folk-dancing assisted greatly in preserving the recreational spirit.

The second purpose of the school was to provide teacher students with an opportunity to observe some of the newer methods put into actual practice with a class of pupils. Demonstration lessons, as they were called, were given by members of the faculty of the Summer School and by the teachers of the Demonstration classes.

The primary department of the Demonstration School was organized and arranged in two groups: (1) Beginners and one-term pupils; (2) second- and third-term pupils, with an enrolment of sixty-five. Here, for three hours each day, the students of the Summer School came for observation and discussion of methods.

As nearly as possible, the usual class-room procedure prevailed, but special stress was given such subjects as number and reading (including beginners' reading and silent and dramatized reading), and in these subjects a course allowing for individual and unrestricted advancement of pupils was outlined and demonstrated.

Projects correlating all the class-room subjects were worked out by the pupils in each division. An additional feature of this term's work was the opportunity given pupils for organized play and a play-room for the little beginners. This play instinct of the child was made the basis for the work throughout all the subjects.

A singing class was conducted as part of the regular work of the Demonstration School, the several classes taking their lessons at the assigned periods daily, with, usually, many teachers present as observers.

Since the demonstration concerts given by the Esquimalt School Choir, 1922–23–24, increased interest has been shown locally in school music, and most teachers are eager to find out how the standard is attained. The present demonstration class was designed to give the teachers exactly that knowledge, and to show how possible it is to lead children to appreciate the intellectual, emotional, and spiritual content of what they are singing.

Manual Training.—These classes met in the Technical School, Vancouver, and consisted of twenty-five manual instructors who desired to work for the Manual-training-teacher's High-school Certificate and also the Technical-instructor's Certificate. The subjects included: Furniture construction, building construction (construction of roofs, stairs, etc.), sheet-metal draughting, art-metal work, and machine-shop work. Many of the students in these classes also regularly attended the lectures by Dr. Weir on "Psychology" at the University of British Columbia.

Concerts, Lectures, Sports, and Pastimes.—Each week of the Summer School saw some evening gathering to which students could bring their friends and at which much inspiration was received and high standards set for individual attainment.

Of these evenings, four were musical and one a lecture. We were particularly fortunate in obtaining an excellent varied programme from the great Russian interpretive singer, Vladimir Rosing. Another song recital was given by Madam Winifred Lugrin Fahey, dramatic soprano. An instrumental evening of great enjoyment was given by the well-known Victoria trio, consisting of Drury Pryce, violin; Harold Taylor, violincello; Ira Dillworth, piano. Three lectures were given by Dr. Charles Upson Clark, Fellow of the Royal Historical Society. These were entitled "With Roman and Moor in Andalusia," "The Russian Situation," and "The Italian Situation." Another lecture by Mr. Maynard, on the "Early History of B.C.," was arranged especially for the History class, but was thrown open to all interested.

The closing concert of the Summer School was given by the Music class under the direction of Miss Coney and a choir from the pupils of the Demonstration School under the leadership of Mr. Frederick Waddington. Part I. of the programme consisted of songs and choruses by the Music class, assisted by solos from members of the class, Mrs. Willcox, A.T.C.M., and Mr. T. R. McLean. Part II. was composed of appropriate songs for school-children from the pupils of the Demonstration School. Following the musical programme the audience gathered in the gymnasium to witness a fine representative display of folk-dancing. Miss Lena K. Cotsworth was responsible for the work of the Summer School students and Miss Vera Cussans for the work of the children from the Demonstration School.

An exhibition of work was held on the same evening, to which the public was invited, and this, together with the concert, brought an audience which overtaxed the capacity of the auditorium. The rooms opened to the public consisted of the following: Art rooms, showing drawings and applied art, posters, needlecraft, pottery, etching, gesso-work, weaving, life studies and sketches from nature; Rural Science rooms, illustrating plant-life studies, table decoration, animal-life studies; Manual Arts rooms, showing hand-work of Primary and Intermediate Grades, including paper-cutting, plasticene modelling, wool-weaving, raffia-weaving, basketry, thin-wood work, sandboard projects; History and Geography rooms, showing the schemes of work and projects for improved methods of study; penmanship of all grades and the work of the pupils in the Demonstration School.

On Saturdays trips were taken to places of interest. A visit was made to the Naval Station at Esquimalt. The Senior Naval Officer, Commander Brabant, very kindly arranged with his officers to show the teachers around, and as a climax to their hospitality refreshments were served at the barracks. This delightful reception was highly appreciated and the company of teachers was deeply sensible of the fine spirit which prompted the officers who accompanied the party. Visits were made to the Museum and the Archives at the Parliament Buildings. Trips were also taken to Butchart's Gardens, the Observatory, and the Meterological Station. The school picnic held at Elk Lake Athletic Association Park was the largest outdoor gathering. A sports programme for students, the faculty, and children was indulged in, and after lunch the distribution of prizes proved a source of merriment. The party then took part in baseball, boating, swimming, etc., and voted the picnic a great success. A picnic was given to the children of the Demonstration School, the staff and pupils spending a delightful day at Elk Lake. The Primary Grade children had a special picnic to themselves in the public park near the High School.

The tennis tournament during the Summer School added considerably to the enjoyment of a large section of students. This was conducted in a manner characterized by fairness and good sportsmanship. A number of the teachers visited the Y.M.C.A. tank for lessons in swimming and also the Crystal Gardens for the course in life-saving. No more desirable accomplishment could be encouraged.

The Very Reverend Dean Quainton very kindly invited the students of the Summer School to a special morning service at the Cathedral, where he honoured them by delivering an inspiring address on education.

It would not be right to conclude this report without extending thanks to all who were instrumental in making the Summer School a success; to the various student committees; to Mr. George H. Deane, Municipal Inspector of Schools, and the Board of School Trustees, who took an active interest in the work of the school and who placed at our disposal the commodious High School building; to Mr. Aude, of the Crystal Gardens, who gave the students special concessions; and to the staff of school janitors, who were ever at hand to arrange and rearrange in preparation for the various school activities.

Superintendent of Education, Victoria, B.C.

Sir,—I beg to submit the following report on the work of the Free Text-book Branch for the school-year ended June 30th, 1925:—

The total number of free text-books, etc., issued during 1924–25 to the public schools (common, graded, superior, high, night, etc.), and in connection with the Correspondence Course established for children in isolated districts where there are no schools in operation, was as follows: 12,162 Canadian Reader, Book I.; 11,347 Canadian Reader, Book II.; 12,012 Canadian Reader, Book III.; 11,846 Canadian Reader, Book IV.; 11,017 Canadian Reader, Book V.; 4,577 20th Century Reader, Book V.; 9,759 First Arithmetic; 9,222 Second Arithmetic; MacLean Method Writing Books—9,374 Compendium No. 1; 10,680 Compendium No. 2; 11,616 Compendium No. 3; 13,954 Compendium No. 4; 10,651 Senior Manual; 833 Commercial Manual; 978 Teachers' Manual; 1,042 Supplementary Readers (Heart of Oak, Book One; Art-Literature Primer; Art-Literature, Book One; Art-Literature, Book Two; Progressive Road to Reading, Book 3A; Robin Hood Reader; B.C. Phonic Primer; B.C. First Reader; B.C. Second Reader; B.C. Third Reader); 292 Essentials of Health; 9,451 How to be Healthy; 2,952 Latin Lessons for Beginners; 23 Canadian Civics; 669 Syllabus of Physical Exercises; 132 World Relations and the Continents; 9,311 History of Canada; 30,975 sheets Drawing Paper, 9 by 12 inches; 756,399 sheets Drawing Paper, 9 by 6 inches; 9,451 Public School Grammar; 135 Union Jacks (3-yard Jack); 44 Flora of Southern B.C.; 29 Maps of Dominion of Canada; 31 Maps of World (in Hemispheres).; 24 Maps of British Columbia; 28 Maps of North America; 24 Maps of British Isles; 21 Scrap of Paper; 21 Fathers of Confederation; 3,536 Teachers' Manual of Drawing and Design.

Three thousand four hundred and twenty-nine requisitions were filled by this Branch during the past school-year for free text-books and supplies. In addition to these, 1,158 orders were filled for those teachers in outlying districts who wished to purchase for their pupils books other than free text-books which could not be secured in their vicinity, and also for private institutions desirous of purchasing books supplied free to the public schools. The sum of $4,525.77 was received from this source and paid into the Treasury for the credit of Vote 88, "Text-books, Maps, etc."

The supplies distributed free by the Free Text-book Branch during the past school-year would have cost the parents and School Boards $115,263.55 at prevailing retail prices. To purchase and distribute these among the various schools of the Province through the Free Text-book Branch required an expenditure of $75,052.42, made up as follows:—

Text-books (laid-down cost)	$61,680 78
Distribution (freight, boxes, etc.)	2,365 63
Salaries of staff	5,203 08
Temporary assistance	608 00
Office supplies	5,194 93
Total	$75,052 42

The saving on the year's transaction is, therefore, $40,211.13.

During the school-year 1924–25 Blair's Canadian Drawing Series was discontinued, and was replaced by the Teacher's Manual of Drawing Design. This accounts for the large number of copies issued during the year, and also accounts to some extent for the reduced cost of operating the Free Text-book Branch during the last year.

The sales of books, not supplied free, to the pupils in rural districts where there are no local book-stores were greatly increased during the past school-year, 1,158 orders being filled for this purpose, as compared to 701 in the previous year. It is quite evident that the plan of stocking and selling these books by the Free Text-book Branch is well appreciated by the people of these districts.

NIGHT-SCHOOLS.

Of the night-schools in operation during the past school-year, three were supplied with text-books of some kind by the Free Text-book Branch on the same conditions as in former years.

RETURNS FOR 1924–25.

The teachers' annual reports of free text-books for the school-year 1924–25 are all on file with the exception of nine. Steps, however, have been taken to secure these, and it is expected that they will be on file at the Free Text-book Branch within the next few days.

From the annual returns and also from the requisitions received, it is evident that many of the teachers believe the books placed in the schools for their use to be their own personal property. A great many orders have been received for such books as the Teachers' Writing Manual, MacLean Method, the Syllabus of Physical Exercises, and the Teacher's Manual of Drawing and Design. These books should be left in the school at the close of the term or school-year, as it causes great inconvenience to new teachers when they arrive to take charge of the schools and find that these books are not in stock.

I have, etc.,
J. A. ANDERSON,
Officer in Charge.

THE STRATHCONA TRUST.

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY, LOCAL COMMITTEE, STRATHCONA TRUST, FOR THE PROVINCE OF BRITISH COLUMBIA, FOR THE SCHOOL-YEAR 1924–25.

VICTORIA, B.C., October, 1925.

SIR,—I have the honour to report as follows on the work of the Local Committee for the school-year 1924–25:—

INSTRUCTION OF TEACHERS IN PHYSICAL TRAINING, 1924–25.

A total of 529 students have qualified for Grade B physical-training certificates since last report, as under:—

Normal School, Vancouver	308
Normal School, Victoria	218
Cadet Instructors' Course, Victoria	3

This is a decrease of ninety-two certificates as compared with the number issued in 1923–24. This decrease is largely due to the reduced number of students attending the Normal Schools during the past year.

About 5,829 teachers and prospective teachers of this Province have now qualified as physical-training instructors.

PHYSICAL TRAINING, 1924–25.

The list of prize-winners of Strathcona Trust prizes for excellence in physical training is as follows:—

High Schools.

P. C. Tees and E. L. Yeo, King Edward High School, Vancouver; Miss Grace P. Smith and G. C. G. Kerr, High School, Kaslo.

(NOTE.—Four prizes in this group not awarded.)

Robertson, South Gabriola Island School; Earl Marriott, Myncaster School; Miss Honora E. Staneland, Sahtlam School.

Three prizes of $10 each awarded to each of the eighteen inspectorates; amount expended under this head, $500.

PHYSICAL TRAINING, 1925–26.

For competition among the various schools during 1925–26 the sum of $30 has been granted to each of the seventeen inspectorates. This sum is to be divided into three prizes of $10 each. For purposes of competition and inspection the schools are to be divided into three groups or classes, namely: Group A, of five divisions or more; Group B, of two to four divisions, inclusive; Group C, of schools containing only one room or division. In any inspectorate where this classification is found to be unsatisfactory the matter of dividing the schools into three groups or classes for the purpose of awarding three prizes of equal value is to be left to the discretion of the Inspector in charge.

In all cases, however, the teacher and the class are to be considered as the unit in making comparisons for granting awards. The full amount of the award is to be expended for a picture or some piece of apparatus (suitably inscribed) for the room is which the prize was won. Only those teachers who are the holders of physical-training certificates granted under the Strathcona Trust are eligible to compete.

SCHOOL CADET CORPS, 1924–25.

The following report on the activities of the school cadet corps during 1924–25 was submitted to the Local Committee by Captain J. M. Cumming, Inspector, Cadet Services:—

"Number of cadets between the ages of 12 and 18 years of age trained during the year	6,275
Number of active school cadet corps	52
Other active corps	20
Total number of active corps	72

"The above totals show a fairly substantial increase both in number of cadets trained and in the number of active cadet units over the previous year.

"By reason of the policy of holding cadet instructors' courses each summer, and by the careful selection of candidates for these courses, an ample supply of excellent instructors is being maintained. It is believed that the standard of discipline and training shows steady improvement.

"While cadet camps could not be held at the public expense during the summer of 1925, every effort has been made to encourage instructors to hold local camps, for which camp equipment is available without charge. A number of these camps have been successfully held.

"A qualifying course for cadet instructors was held at Victoria from July 13th to August 22nd, when eighteen candidates qualified, six being granted 'special' certificates. The majority of these new instructors have already become actively employed on cadet instructional work.

"Fourteen cadet instructors attended a refresher course for two weeks in July at Victoria, while seven cadet instructors attended a promotion course at Victoria during July and August, receiving qualifications of promotion from lieutenant to captain in the C.S. of C.N.P.

"In connection with cadet-work, a very gratifying feature is the added interest which many School Boards and school officials have shown in the work; while there would appear to be a continued lessening in the extent of adverse criticism of the work.

"The withdrawal of rifles from all schools and the abolition of training in manual of arms appears to have had excellent results. The limitation of the training syllabus to those subjects shown on the list of cadet corps attached has resulted in a constantly improved standard in physical and disciplinary efforts."

Hereunder is a list of the various cadet corps in order of merit as at their last annual inspection, June, 1925:—

Twenty-six prizes were awarded in accordance with the schedule adopted at the last meeting of the Local Committee held October 27th, 1925, one-half of each prize to be paid to the corps and one-half to the instructor, provided he is a public-school teacher qualified as a cadet instructor. When the instructor is not a public-school teacher, one-half of the prize reverts to the general fund of the Local Committee.

The expenditure under this head for 1924–25 amounted to $331, and was made according to the following schedule: 1st prize, $25; 2nd prize, $20; 3rd and 4th prizes, $18; 5th and 6th prizes, $16; 7th and 8th prizes, $14; 9th to 13th prizes, inclusive, $12; 14th to 26th prizes, inclusive, $10 each.

RIFLE SHOOTING.

From the grant for rifle shooting, 1924–25, prizes were provided for forty-nine qualified corps or units specified in returns—namely, $3.75 each; this amount to form cash prizes for the three best shots in each corps or unit (1st prize, $1.50; 2nd prize, $1.25; 3rd prize, $1).

The expenditure under this head for 1924–25 amounted to $183.75.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT FOR 1924–25.

The funds at the disposal of the Local Committee for 1924–25 amounted to $1,530.17 and the expenditure for the year $1,015.93, leaving a balance of $514.24. Of the latter sum, $510 has already been voted for physical-training prizes for 1925–26.

HIGH SCHOOL EXAMINATION, JUNE, 1925.

Grade IX.

ENGLISH LITERATURE. (Time, 2 hours.)

Value.

10 1. Quote from one of the following:—

On My Mother's Picture, 10 consecutive lines.

The Ode on the Death of Wellington, 10 consecutive lines.

To a Skylark, 2 consecutive stanzas.

Thanatopsis, last lines ("So live, etc.").

Ulysses, 10 consecutive lines.

4 2. (a.) From what poem is each of the following quotations taken?—

(1.) 'Tis always morning somewhere, and above
The awakening continents from shore to shore
Somewhere the birds are singing evermore.

(2.) A deep distress hath humanized my soul.

(3.) So much for idle wishing—how
It steals the time! To business now.

(4.) For so the whole round earth is every way
Bound by gold chains about the feet of God.

4 (b.) Give the name of the author of each of the four poems referred to in section (a) of this question.

4 (c.) Name one other poem, included in your Fifth Reader, written by each of the poets named in section (b) of this question.

15 3. Explain clearly any three of the following passages of poetry:—

(a.) Yet all experience is an arch wherethro'
Gleams that untravell'd world whose margin fades
For ever and for ever when I move.

(b.) Who gives himself with his alms feeds three—Himself, his hungering neighbor, and me.

(c.) And, while the wings of fancy still are free,
And I can view this mimic form of thee,
Time has but half succeeded in his theft,—
Thyself removed, thy power to soothe me left.

(d.) One writes, that "Other friends remain,"
That "Loss is common to the race"—
And common is the commonplace,
And vacant chaff well meant for grain.

16 4. Discuss, in two or three clearly written paragraphs, your ideas as to the reasons why Socrates was so fearless in the face of death.

15 5. Write a carefully written paragraph on one of the following topics:—

How I Spent My Last Summer's Vacation.

ALGEBRA. (Time, 2 hours.)

6 1. In the equation $x^2 + 2xy = 7y + 37$ find the value of y:—

(a.) When x is given the value 5.

(b.) When x is given the value $3\frac{1}{2}$.

(c.) When x is given the value -8.

9 2. Form perfect squares of the following by supplying the missing term in each:—

(a.) $9x^6 + (\ ?\ ) + 4y^2$.

(b.) $121a^6 - 66a^3z + (\ ?\ )$.

(c.) $(\ ?\ ) - 40hk^2 + 64k^4$.

20 3. Solve the equations:—

(a.) $$\frac{25 - \frac{x}{3}}{x+1} + \frac{16x + 4\frac{1}{5}}{3x+2} = 5 + \frac{23}{x+1}.$$

(b.) $$\frac{2}{7}\left(6x - \frac{5y}{6}\right) - \left(5x - \frac{11y}{2}\right) = 2.$$

$$\frac{x-y}{x+y} = \frac{1}{3}.$$

20 4. Resolve into factors:—

(a.) $a^2c^3 - c^3 + a^2 - 1$.

(b.) $x^4 - 11x^2 + 24$.

(c.) $x^4 - 13x^2 + 36$.

(d.) $x^4 - 11x^2 + 25$.

(e.) $a^3 - 3a^2b + 3ab^2 - 2b^3$.

10 5. The following expression is the product of two equal factors:—

$1 - 22x^2 + 6x^3 + 121x^4 - 66x^5 + 9x^6$.

What are these factors?

15 6. (a.) Find the H.C.F. of $x^3 - 19x - 30$ and $x^3 - 2x^2 - 29x - 42$.

(b.) What is the L.C.M. of these two expressions?
(The result may be left in the factor form.)

10 7. Simplify $$(x+2)\left\{1 + \frac{6(x+2)}{x^2 - x - 6}\right\}\left\{1 - \frac{5(x+1)}{x^2 + 3x + 2}\right\}.$$

10 8. A man agreed to sell 2,500 tons of cement at $16 a ton. What he had on hand cost him $12 a ton. Not having enough he had to buy cement at $18 a ton to fulfil his contract. On the transaction he made a profit of $5,800. How many tons had he to buy?

BOTANY. (Time, 2 hours.)

[All questions are of equal value. Answer five only. Illustrate your answers with carefully drawn diagrams.]

1. Distinguish between a fruit and a seed. Describe the structure of the seed of a monocotyledon and of a dicotyledon. What is the use of each part?

2. Describe a bulb, a tuber, a corm, a rhizome, and a stolon. Give one example of each and bring out clearly the reasons why each is considered to be a modified stem.

3. Give diagrams to illustrate the flower structure of one member of each of the following families, choosing specific examples (label fully): (a) Ranunculaceæ; (b) Liliaceæ.

4. Write a note on the importance of the plant kingdom to the animal kingdom.

5. Discuss the function of green leaves in regard to the manufacture of plant-food materials.

6. Describe and give examples of five different kinds of fruit.

GEOMETRY. (Time, 2½ hours.)

Value.

15 1. If the sides of a convex polygon are produced in order, the sum of the angles so formed is equal to four right angles.

10 2. A quadrilateral is a parallelogram if its diagonals bisect each other.

15 3. Parallelograms on the same base and between the same parallels are equivalent.

15 4. The area of a triangle ABC is 4.5 square inches. The base is equal to the altitude. One of the interior angles at the base is 120°. Construct the triangle and give a theoretical statement of your construction.

15 5. A and B are two points on opposite sides of a straight line CD. Show how to find a point P in CD so that the angle APC is equal to the angle BPC. Give a proof.

15 6. In an obtuse-angled triangle the square on the side opposite to the obtuse angle is equal to the sum of the squares on the sides containing the obtuse angle plus twice the rectangle contained by one of those sides and the projection on it of the other.

15 7. ABC is an acute-angled triangle of which BC is the least side. With B as centre and BC as radius, a circle is drawn cutting AB at D and AC at E. If AD is equal to DE prove: (1) that the angle CED equals the sum of the angle BCA and twice the angle CAB; (2) that the angle ABC equals twice the angle CAB.

CHEMISTRY. (Time, 2 hours.)

18 1. (a.) Name the allotropic forms of carbon and briefly describe their characteristic properties.

(b.) What are the chief gaseous constituents of coal-gas?

(c.) State two chemical properties of carbon dioxide and give its uses.

18 2. (a.) Detail a convenient laboratory method for preparing a few jars of oxygen, illustrating with a diagram. Write the equation.

(b.) State: (1) the chief chemical property of oxygen; (2) two commercial uses.

15 3. Distinguish between the following and give examples:—

(a.) A symbol and a chemical formula.

(b.) A solution and a chemical compound.

(c.) Saturated and supersaturated solutions.

Value.

18 4. Describe, with equations, what takes place in each of the following cases:—

(a.) When charcoal is burned in oxygen and the residual gas shaken with a solution of calcium hydroxide (lime-water).

(b.) When white-hot iron wire is immersed in an atmosphere of chlorine.

(c.) When a lighted taper is brought to the mouth of a jar of acetylene.

15 5. Describe the precautions that should be taken in the following operations and give reasons:—

(a.) Lighting a jet attached to a hydrogen generating apparatus.

(b.) Cutting a small piece from a stick of yellow phosphorus for experimental purposes.

(c.) Testing the odour of a jar of gas suspected of being either chlorine or hydrogen chloride.

16 6. (a.) Briefly describe what is meant by valency.

(b.) What is the valency of copper, phosphorus, and sodium in the following: copper sulphate, phosphorus trichloride, sodium oxide?

(c.) State the law of definite proportions (or constant composition) and explain concisely what it means.

PHYSICS. (Time, 2 hours.)

[Questions are of equal value. Answer five only.]

1. Explain the following:—

(a.) How to find the density of a liquid by using the specific gravity bottle.

(b.) Magnetic declination, electrical repulsion.

2. (a.) By means of sketches explain the different classes of levers. Give a common example of each class.

(b.) Neglecting friction, what is the mechanical advantage of each of the following: inclined plane, screw, single movable pulley.

3. (a.) State the law which is applied practically in the hydraulic press.

(b.) Make a sketch to show the position of the valves of the common suction-pump in the up-stroke of the piston. Account for the upward flow of water from the reservoir to the spout.

4. (a.) Why is mercury commonly used in thermometers?

(b.) Explain clearly heat transference in relation to the following: oven-roasting, snow, the polished surface of a tea-kettle.

5. (a.) State the First Law of Reflection and illustrate by drawing a figure representing an experimental proof of it.

(b.) How is light transmitted?

6. (a.) The similar poles of two bar-magnets are placed near together. Make a sketch showing the lines of force.

(b.) Describe the construction of either a Voltaic Cell or a Leyden Jar.

7. Solve any two of the following:—

(a.) The crank of a windlass is 1 foot long and its drum 7 inches in diameter. What force applied to the handle will lift a weight of 156 lb.?

(b.) On mixing 500 grams of iron at 200° C. with 3 kilograms of oil, the temperature of the oil is raised from 15° C. to 20° C. Find the specific heat of the oil. (Specific heat of iron=0.113.)

(c.) A mass of air whose volume is 210 c.c. when the barometer stands at 760 m.m. has a volume of 240 c.c. when carried up to a certain height. What was the reading of the barometer at the latter height, assuming that the temperature remained constant?

HISTORY. (Time, 2 hours.)

[Answer any five questions.]

Value.

20 1. (a.) Give a brief account of Mohammed.
(b.) Outline the extension of Mohammedan conquest up to the battle of Tours in 732.

20 2. Write a brief essay on Charlemagne, touching especially upon the extent of his conquests, law and government, education and the Church.

20 3. Explain the four chief results of the Crusades to England and to Europe generally.

20 4. (a.) What effect on Middle and Western Europe had the advance of the Mohammedans on the Bosphorus?
(b.) Show how the progress of the Saracens affected trade routes and navigation.

20 5. (a.) Describe briefly the condition of the French people prior to the Revolution.
(b.) What act on the part of Napoleon brought him into prominence?
(c.) Describe in a few words the conflict between Napoleon and England in the war up to the Peace of Amiens.
(d.) Give a short outline of that work of Napoleon which was more important than his military achievements.

20 6. Describe the great advance in agriculture, manufacture, and transportation during the latter part of the eighteenth and the early part of the nineteenth centuries.

20 7. Write a brief explanatory note on each of the following men: Roger Bacon, Martin Luther, Sir Thomas More, Hampden, Cavour.

20 8. Outline the work of Bismarck in Germany.

ARITHMETIC. (Time, 2 hours.)

[All work must be shown.]

8 1. Simplify:—

(a.) $\frac{2}{3} \times \frac{3}{4} \div \frac{2}{3}$ of $\frac{3}{4}$.

(b.) $\frac{.125 \div .25}{.625 \div .375}$.

10 2. A pole of a circus tent is held in place by ropes 111 feet long running from the top of the pole to stakes 105 feet from the base of the pole. How high is the pole?

12 3. How many square yards of tin will be required to make 8 dozen pails, without covers, 9 inches in diameter and 7½ inches deep, allowing 3 square feet for seams and waste on each dozen pails?

12 4. A quart of milk supplies as much of both protein and energy as ¾ lb. of beef or 8 eggs. When milk is 12 cents per quart, beef 25 cents per pound, and eggs 30 cents per dozen, what per cent. is saved by buying milk instead of beef? instead of eggs?

12 5. A man commenced business with $3,000 capital. The first year he gained 22½%, which he added to his capital; the second year he gained 30% of the whole sum and again added the gain to the capital; the third year he lost 16⅔% of his entire capital. How much did he make during the three years?

Value.

14 6. A baseball ground is 480 feet long and 360 feet wide. It is enclosed by a close board fence 12 feet high, supported by posts placed 10 feet apart, to which are attached three stringers 2 inches by 4 inches running the full length of the fence. The top of the fence is covered by a round rail. The posts cost 45 cents each; the stringers, $32 per M.; the boards, 1 inch thick, $32 per M.; and the rail 2½ cents a linear foot. Find the total cost of the lumber.

16 7. Find the proceeds of a note for $900, dated Dec. 1, 1924, at 2 months with interest at 7% per annum and discounted at a bank on Dec. 15th at 6% per annum.

16 8. Mr. Brown owned a farm which rented at $411.45 per annum. He sold the farm for $8,229 and invested the proceeds in 6% stock at 105, paying ½% brokerage. Was his yearly income increased or decreased, and how much?

AGRICULTURE. (Time, 2 hours.)

[Questions are of equal value. Answer six only.]

1. (a.) Write a concise account of how soils were made.
   (b.) Explain the following terms as applied to soils: Loam, sedentary, transported, glacial, alluvial, heavy, light, warm.

2. Scanty rainfall during the summer months is one difficulty with which the farmers and fruit-growers of B.C. have to contend. Mention two ways by which this difficulty may be overcome and explain clearly how each method is carried out.

3. Give brief instructions under the following heads for the growing of an acre of potatoes: (a) Choice and preparation of soil; (b) amount and choice of seed for either early or late crop; (c) preparation of seed (cutting and treating); (d) planting; (e) subsequent care; (f) yield expected.

4. (a.) Garden plants may be classified as annuals, biennials, and perennials. Explain these terms and say to which class the following belong: Lettuce, carrot, asparagus, peas, cabbage, celery, rhubarb, pumpkin, onion.
   (b.) Make a second list of these vegetables and state after each which part of the plant is used for human food.

5. (a.) Name the two types of swine and name two breeds belonging to each type.
   (b.) Sheep are sometimes classed as fine-wool, middle-wool, and long-wool breeds. Give an example of each. Which of the three would also be classed as a mutton breed and why?

6. (a.) England and Scotland have each produced two fine breeds of beef cattle. Name these breeds in each case.
   (b.) Give some of the most important characteristics of a good beef animal.

7. (a.) Trace briefly the life-history of any two of the following species of insects: Locust (grasshopper), cabbage-butterfly, any species of cutworm, codling-moth, tent-caterpillar.
   (b.) Indicate the character of the injury done by each of the two species described and state what remedial measures you would employ to destroy them.

8. (a.) Give directions for the planting and subsequent care of any one of the following: Loganberry, strawberry, raspberry.
   (b.) How are new plants obtained in the case of all three of the above varieties?

9. (a.) Give what you consider to be the essential features of a good poultry-house.
   (b.) Give concise directions for the care and feeding of laying hens during the three winter months.

Grade XI., Junior Matriculation and Normal Entrance.

GREEK. (Time, 2 hours.)

Value.

10 1. Decline in the singular τίς, τί, ἀσπίς, πατήρ, μήν.

12 2. Decline πᾶς and ἀληθής in all genders and numbers.

6 3. Write the imperfect passive indicative, the present active subjunctive, the present active optative of ποιέω.

6 4. Write the second person singular of the imperative (a.) present active, (b.) aorist middle, (c.) aorist passive of τιμάω.

6 5. Decline ἐγώ and σύ.

5 6. State the constructions denoting means, time when, time within which; the form of the past contrary to fact condition.

15 7. Write the principal parts of ἄγω, βούλομαι, πέμπω, νομίζω, καλέω, χράομαι, φεύγω, ἐλαύνω, ἀκούω, λαμβάνω.

20 8. Translate into English :—

(a.) ἔδεισαν μὴ οἱ ἐχθροὶ τιμηθεῖεν.

20 9. Translate into Greek :—

(a.) For this army had been cut to pieces by the same viceroy.

(b.) They voted to send men with Clearchus also.

(c.) Why need these men proceed through the country itself?

(d.) If you should do this on account of friendship, we should justly feel grateful.

(e.) During this night the barbarians withdrew along the river.

ENGLISH LITERATURE. (Time, 2½ hours.)

[Candidates are to write on Parts A and D, and on either Part B or Part C.]

PART A.

10 1. (a.) Explain, as fully as you can, what is meant by the term "romantic" in literary history.

10 (b.) Of the poets you have studied, state which one seems to you the most clearly "romantic" and support your statement by references to that author's work.

24 2. Relate four of the following passages to their context. In each of the four cases show that the passage displays at least one characteristic of its author. And show also, as fully as you can, the beauty and fitness of the lines—with respect to allusions, or diction, or sound, or figure, or in any way you like.

Value.

(a.) The lights began to twinkle from the rocks:
The long day wanes: the slow moon climbs: the deep Moans round with many voices. Come, my friends,
'Tis not too late to seek a newer world.

(b.) Shakespeare was of us, Milton was for us,
Burns, Shelley, were with us,—they watch from their graves!
He alone breaks from the van and the freemen,
—He alone sinks to the rear and the slaves!
We shall march prospering,—not through his presence;
Songs may inspirit us,—not from his lyre.

(c.) and when the deed was done
I heard among the solitary hills
Low breathings coming after me, and sounds
Of undistinguishable motion, steps
Almost as silent as the turf they trod.

(d.) Must we but weep o'er days more blest?
Must we but blush?—Our fathers bled.
Earth! render back from out thy breast
A remnant of our Spartan dead!
Of the three hundred grant but three,
To make a new Thermopylae!

(e.) The world's great age begins anew,
The golden years return,
The earth doth like a snake renew
Her winter weeds outworn:
Heaven smiles, and faiths and empires gleam
Like wrecks of a dissolving dream.

(f.) Five miles meandering with a mazy motion
Through wood and dale the sacred river ran,
Then reached the caverns measureless to man,
And sank in tumult to a lifeless ocean.

(g.) Perhaps the self-same song that found a path
Through the sad heart of Ruth, when sick for home
She stood in tears among the alien corn;
The same that oft-times hath
Charm'd magic casements, opening on the foam
Of perilous seas, in faery lands forlorn.

PART B.

20 1. By whom and under what circumstances was the following speech uttered? Show how the passage is a fitting summary of, or comment on, the life of the speaker.

Hath not a Jew eyes? hath not a Jew hands, organs, dimensions, senses, affections, passions? fed with the same food, hurt with the same weapons, subject to the same diseases, healed by the same means, warmed and cooled by the same winter and summer, as a Christian is? If you prick us, do we not bleed? if you tickle us, do we not laugh? if you poison us, do we not die? and if you wrong us, shall we not revenge? If we are like you in the rest, we will resemble you in that. If a Jew wrong a Christian, what is his humility? Revenge. If a Christian wrong a Jew, what should his sufferance be by Christian example? Why, revenge. The villainy you teach me, I will execute, and it shall go hard but I will better the instruction.

24 2. There are three pairs of lovers in The Merchant of Venice. What reasons have you for thinking, in each case, that the match will be suitable?

PART C.

Value.

20 1. By whom and under what circumstances was the following speech uttered? Show how the passage is a fitting summary of, or comment on, the life of the speaker.

She should have died hereafter;
There would have been a time for such a word.
To-morrow, and to-morrow, and to-morrow,
Creeps in this petty pace from day to day,
To the last syllable of recorded time;
And all our yesterdays have lighted fools
The way to dusty death. Out, out, brief candle!
Life's but a walking shadow, a poor player
That struts and frets his hour upon the stage
And then is heard no more: it is a tale
Told by an idiot, full of sound and fury,
Signifying nothing.

24 2. To what extent do you think that Macbeth was "responsible" for his crime? In the course of your answer show, as fully as possible, the influence exercised upon him by the witches and by Lady Macbeth.

PART D.

12 The following poem is an exercise in "sight-reading"; probably no candidate has read or studied it before. It is intended as a test of your ability to interpret a poem by yourself. Read it carefully and then attempt the questions appended below. You need not try more than three or four of them.

All That's Past.

Very old are the woods;
And the buds that break
Out of the briar's boughs,
When March winds wake,
So old with their beauty are—
Oh, no man knows
Through what wild centuries
Roves back the rose.

Very old are the brooks;
And the rills that rise
Where snow sleeps cold beneath
The azure skies
Sing such a history
Of come and gone.
Their every drop is as wise
As Solomon.

Very old are we men;
Our dreams are tales
Told in dim Eden
By Eve's nightingales;
We wake and whisper awhile,
But, the day gone by,
Silence and sleep like fields
Of Amaranth lie.

(a.) In what respect can the buds of the briar (wild-rose) and the mountain brooks be called "old"?

(b.) In what ways is man like these buds and brooks? What is the significance of choosing these three things to go together?

(c.) Try to explain what is meant by saying that our dreams were "told" long ago in the Garden of Eden.

(d.) Who was Solomon? How can a drop of water be said to be as "wise" as he?

(e.) Comment on the word wild in stanza 1, sleeps and azure in stanza 2, and whisper in stanza 3.

(f.) Comment on the sound and rhythm of the second and third lines of stanza 1 and the last two lines of stanza 3.

HISTORY. (Time, 2 hours.)

[Answer any five questions.]

Value.

5+15 1. Why did the Protestant Reformation begin first in Germany? Tell briefly the story of Martin Luther's leadership.

5+15 2. What led to the launching of the "Invincible Armada"? Recall its fate and estimate its effect upon England.

5×4 3. Write notes on: (a) Sir John Eliot; (b) John Hampden; (c) John Pym; (d) "Cromwell's Ironsides."

20 4. Describe the condition of the peasantry in France before the Revolution.

20 5. Outline the reforms effected by Bonaparte, giving special attention to the Code Napoléon.

7+13 6. What do you understand by the "Industrial Revolution" in England? Contrast the old "domestic system" with the new "factory system."

20 7. Trace the growth of the French colonial empire under the Third Republic.

20 8. After his dismissal of Bismarck, "Kaiser William II. himself directed the policy of the Empire." Sketch the main features of this policy.

20 9. Compare Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir Wilfred Laurier as "builders of Canada."

(a.) He asked me why I had not been faithful to him.

(b.) The enemy attacked so furiously that our men were driven out of the camp.

(c.) The scouts brought back word that the Germans were men of immense size and incredible valour.

(d.) Ambassadors were sent to Caesar by the enemy to say that they were ready to give hostages.

(e.) When the Gauls saw that our legions were being hard pressed they began to cross the river.

(f.) He asked where we preferred to dwell.

(g.) Caesar endeavoured to persuade the Helvetii not to leave their own territories.

AGRICULTURE. (Time, 2 hours.)

[Questions are of equal value. Answer seven only.]

1. Discuss the interrelation between agriculture and the various sciences and show how the farmer may benefit from scientific knowledge.

2. What constitutes soil-fertility?

3. How does water move in the soil, and in what way can the farmer or gardener control or check the movement of water?

4. Why are legumes especially valuable as a farm crop?

5. What are the characteristics of a dairy cow? Mention the most important breeds of dairy cattle in this Province.

6. What are the main points to be considered in the feeding of animals?

7. How would you arrange a storage place for milk and cream so that these commodities may keep sweet?

8. Give the life-history of, and prescribe treatment for, the insect which does the most damage in your locality.

FRENCH TRANSLATION. (Time, 2 hours.)

Value.

25 1. Translate:—

HAYMAKING.

L'herbe coupée, on ne la rentre pas tout de suite, comme vous savez. Il faut d'abord la faire sécher au soleil en la retournant avec des râteaux. Cela s'appelle faner et la fenaison est l'un des plus jolis travaux champêtres et des moins durs. Les femmes et les enfants s'en mêlent; tout le monde fane, en batifolant. Il y a une lettre célèbre de Madame de Sévigné dans laquelle elle raconte la fenaison en Bretagne, de son temps. Excepté dans les provinces où la machine a tout envahi, les choses n'ont guère changé depuis elle. Ce sont les mêmes râteaux, les mêmes cris joyeux dans le foin parfumé, et pour ramener le foin dans les granges, les mêmes chars antiques, empilés jusqu'au faîte.

râteau—rake.
batifoler—to play, to frolic.
faîte—top.

20 2. Translate:—

(a.) We have been sitting in the shade of the green foliage for half an hour.

(b.) When we arrive at the landing point next week, he and I will throw the parcels on the wharf.

(c.) Everybody was delighted with the view when the steamboat passed opposite the lighthouse.

(d.) I know her face very well but I do not know her name.

25 3. Answer the following questions in French (about twenty words each):—

(a.) Quelle est l'étude que vous avez préférée pendant vos années d'école et pourquoi?

(b.) Quelle date tombe votre anniversaire et quels cadeaux aimez-vous recevoir à cette occasion?

(c.) Si un incendie éclate dans votre école pendant les heures de classe, que faut-il faire?

(d.) Que peut-on voir d'intéressant dans un port de mer?

Value.

30 4. Write in French (about a page) a conversation with a friend of which the following is the material to be used:—

You have just returned from a journey—your friend meets you and asks you how you are, whether you enjoyed your journey—you reply that you are glad to see your friend again, that he (she) looks well. You tell him (her) about your journey—he (she) puts in a question or a remark from time to time—finally he (she) says you are very lucky to have had such a trip and that he (she) is very glad to have you back again.

FRENCH GRAMMAR. (Time, 2 hours.)

5 1. In the following phrases replace the noun used by the noun given in parentheses, and make any modifications rendered necessary by this change:—

Une femme tranquille (homme).
Un soldat joyeux (musique).
Un chat roux (dame).
Un gentil petit garçon (fille).

20 2. Put into French:—

(a.) What would have become of us?
(b.) He has been a pupil there for a week.
(c.) You must have seen her.
(d.) That's not worth the trouble.
(e.) We arrived there in less than three hours.
(f.) How glad I am!
(g.) Come as soon as possible.
(h.) I will go there willingly.
(i.) You arrive before the time.
(j.) At the same time.

10 3. Put the italicized portion of the following passage into the plural:—

Le cheval est un animal que j'aime beaucoup. Il travaille bien dans mon pays où il traîne un lourd bateau sur le canal. Parfois il souffre car le clou de son sabot lui fait mal.

10 4. Explain in French the following words:—

Le Midi; la vitre; la mouette; la loge; la plage.

10 5. Make sentences showing the use of:—

Plus tôt; plutôt; pour la plupart; toutefois; d'ici là; où (as a relative pronoun); essayer (followed by infinitive); passer le temps (followed by infinitive); désirer (followed by infinitive); assez and infinitive meaning enough: e.g., There is enough poison to kill a man (du poison).

20 6. Put into French:—

(a.) Give me some.
(b.) Have you a book? Give it to him.
(c.) He is taller than Jean.
(d.) It is half-past two.
(e.) He went to them.
(f.) He introduced them to me.
(g.) Where is your book? This is mine.
(h.) No one loves me.
(i.) Give me another pen. This is no good.
(j.) What you say interests me.

Value.

25 7. I shall send you a post card (carte postale) as soon as I arrive and you ought to receive it a week from to-day. We shall go to bathe in the sea every day and perhaps we shall fall asleep on the beach. I have taught my brother to swim. I gave him ten lessons and after the tenth he swam fifty metres. Now he ought not to fear the sea. We ride our bicycles, skip with a rope, run on the beach and lie in the sun. Soon, alas, the holidays will be over and we must return to school. We pack our trunks sadly and take the train to Paris. As we look out of the window we say good-bye to the fields, the hay-stacks, the farmers and peasants. If I had plenty of money I would live in the country all the year round.

(pack our trunks = faire nos malles.)

GEOMETRY. (Time, 2½ hours.)

[N.B.—Draw neat diagrams; use printed capitals. Authorities may be cited by number or enunciation.]

17 1. Make an accurate construction of the following, omitting explanation or proof, but showing the necessary construction lines:—

Describe a triangle having sides ¾, 1, and 1¼ inches long. Then about a circle 2 inches in diameter circumscribe a second triangle which shall be equiangular to the one you have constructed.

17 2. Make an accurate construction of the following, and give proof:—

On a line 1½ inches long describe a segment of a circle which shall contain an angle of 45°. (Protractor may be used.)

12 3. (a.) The opposite angles of any quadrilateral inscribed in a circle are supplementary.

3 (b.) What theorem may be deduced from the preceding by allowing two consecutive vertices of the quadrilateral to become coincident? Give reasons.

10 4. Construct a square equal in area to five times a given square. Give proof.

16 5. (a.) If the vertical angle of a triangle is bisected externally, the bisector divides the base into segments which have the same ratio as the other sides of the triangle.

8 (b.) In the triangle ABC, AB = 5, AC = 4, BC = 2. The bisector of the exterior angle at A meets BC produced at D. Find the length of BD.

17 6. From any point P on the circumference of a circle PD, PE, and PF are respectively perpendicular to the chord QR, to the tangent at Q, and to the tangent at R. Show that PD is a mean proportional between PE and PF.

CHEMISTRY. (Time, 2 hours.)

[Questions are of equal value. Answer seven only.]

1. State the law of definite proportions and the law of multiple proportions, and show how each is explained by the atomic theory.

2. Give an account of the preparation, physical and chemical properties, and uses of (a) hydrogen sulphide, (b) ozone.

3. Describe, with equations, one method for the preparation of hydrogen chloride. What are the properties of this substance? What is the solution of hydrogen chloride in water called?

4. Explain clearly what is meant by each of the following terms and give one example of each: Acid radical, endothermic reaction, reversible reaction, bivalent element.

5. Describe fully, with equations, one laboratory method for the preparation of carbon dioxide. What are the physical and chemical properties of the substance?

6. After neutralizing a solution of sodium hydroxide with nitric acid and evaporating the solution there remain 100 grams of sodium nitrate. What weight of each substance is used?

7. How many grams of nitrous oxide can be prepared from 20 grams of ammonium nitrate? What volume does the dry gas occupy at 17° C. and 1,520 mm. pressure?

8. Name and give the formulæ of the first two members in each of the three series of the hydrides of carbon you have studied. How is the formula of any one of these substances related to that of the preceding member of the same series? Write the equation for the preparation of any one of them.

Atomic weights: H = 1, O = 16, S = 32, C = 12, Na = 23, N = 14.

ALGEBRA. (Time, 2½ hours.)

Value.

12 1. Factor:—

(a.) $12 - 15a + 16x - 20ax$.

(b.) $27y^3 - 512$.

(c.) $9x^{5n} - x^{3n}$.

(d.) $x^2 - 4y^2 + 9 - 6x$.

12 2. Simplify:—

(a.) $\dfrac{2 - \frac{9}{2}}{(\frac{1}{2})^2 - (\frac{1}{2})^3 - 12(\frac{1}{2})^4}$.

(b.) $\dfrac{2 + \dfrac{a}{b}}{\dfrac{(a-2b)^2}{4ab} + 2}$.

12 3. Solve:—

(a.) $\dfrac{x^2}{2x^3 - 2} = \dfrac{2x}{3x^2 + 3x + 3} - \dfrac{1}{6x + 6}$.

(b.) $.12(2x + .05) - .15(1.5x - 2) = 0.246$.

12 4. (a.) One-sixth of a man's age 8 years ago equals $\frac{1}{8}$ of his age 12 years hence. What is his age now?

(b.) It costs as much to sod a square piece of ground at 20 cents per square yard as to fence it at 80 cents a yard. Find the side of the square.

14 5. Solve:—

(a.) $\dfrac{1}{m} + \dfrac{1}{n} - \dfrac{1}{p} = 1$

$\dfrac{1}{m} + \dfrac{1}{n} + \dfrac{1}{p} = \frac{2}{3}$

$\dfrac{1}{m} - \dfrac{1}{n} + \dfrac{1}{p} = 0.$

(b.) $2x^2 - \dfrac{11x}{2} - \dfrac{15}{2} = 0.$

12 6. One side of a right-angled triangle is 7 feet shorter than the other and the area is 30 square feet. Find the two sides and the hypotenuse.

Value.

14 7. (a.) Simplify: $\sqrt{x^3y^3} - x^2y^2\sqrt{\frac{1}{xy}} + xy\sqrt{2+\frac{x^2+y^2}{xy}}$.

(b.) Find a quantity such that when it is added to each of the quantities 11, 17, 19, 23 the results are in proportion.

12 8. (a.) Is the point (3,4) on the line whose equation is $3x - 4y = 12$? Give the reason for your answer.

(b.) Solve graphically: $2x + y = 1$
$y^2 + 4x = 17$.

Check the result.

ENGLISH COMPOSITION. (Time, 2 hours.)

[Candidates are reminded that they are expected to spell and to punctuate correctly. They are therefore urged to leave some few minutes free for a revision of their papers. They are also reminded that they cannot expect marks for paragraphs and essays that are not well organized and well worked out. They are therefore urged to plan their compositions before they begin to write. The plan of the essay in question 2 should be written in the examination book as part of the answer.]

25 1. Rewrite the following sentences in better form, giving reasons for the changes you make:—

(a.) While admitting my opponent's ability, it is impossible to agree with him.

(b.) I met him on the street, when he told me that I had failed to pass my examination, and yet I studied hard for it.

(c.) I was wandering aimlessly down the street, when I saw a most pitiful spectacle, the other day.

(d.) I admire a good football player because it is such a manly sport.

(e.) He would not reply until he had closed the door, and locking it.

75 2. Write an essay (of about 300 words) on one of the following topics:—

My Opinions on Jaques and Cynics in General.

Eppie's Influence on Silas Marner.

Camelot as a City of Magic.

The Chief Character in Kenilworth.

Nelson as Leader of Men.

British Columbia's Future.

Cross-word Puzzles.

PHYSICS. (Time, 2 hours.)

[Questions are of equal value. Answer six only.]

1. (a.) Make a drawing of a simple lift-pump. By reference to this explain how the pump works and calculate the height to which a perfect lift-pump would lift water when the mercury barometer stands at 29 inches. Indicate this height on your diagram. Relative density of mercury is 13.6.

(b.) An open vessel contains 100 grams of air when the barometer stands at 740 mm. What mass of air does it contain at the same temperature when the barometer stands at 760 mm.?

2. (a.) Describe by reference to a diagram a case of the refraction of water waves. Define refraction and show clearly how it is caused in this case.

   (b.) A certain tuning-fork sets up a wave-length of 100 cm. in air at a temperature of 20° C. If the velocity of sound in air at 0° C. is 332 metres per second and it increases 60 cm. per second for a rise of 1° C., calculate the frequency of the fork.

3. (a.) Define the following terms: Absolute zero, B.T.U., boiling-point, convection currents.

   (b.) If 100 grams of copper, specific heat 0.094, are heated to 100° C. and are then placed in 200 grams of a liquid of specific heat 0.1, calculate the final temperature of the mixture if the liquid at first is at 20° C.

4. (a.) Describe clearly a method of comparing the illuminating power of a lamp with that of a candle.

   (b.) The index of refraction from air to water is $^4/_3$, and from air to crown glass is $^3/_2$. If the velocity of light in water is 139,500 miles per second, calculate its velocity in crown glass.

5. (a.) Prove that the focal length of a convex spherical mirror is one-half its radius of curvature.

   (b.) Discuss the following terms: (1) Induced magnetism (explain clearly how to test the polarity of the temporary magnet); (2) the magnetic field of the earth.

6. (a.) Explain the action of a simple electrical condenser. Make a drawing to illustrate your answer.

   (b.) Plates of copper and platinum are dipped into a solution of copper sulphate and a current is passed through the cell from the copper to the platinum. Describe the effects produced and also what happens when the current is reversed.

7. (a.) Make a diagram of the essential parts and electrical connections of any instrument depending on the electro-magnet. How does it work?

   (b.) A current is flowing through a rigid copper rod. How would you place a small piece of iron wire with respect to it so that the iron may be magnetized in the direction of its length? Make a diagram, mark the direction of the current through the rod, and indicate the north pole of the wire.

60 1. Put into English:—

(a.) Aber die Königin war eine ſehr kluge Frau, die mehr tun konnte als in einer Karoſſe fahren. Sie nahm ihre große goldene Schere, ſchnitt ein großes Stück Seidenzeug und machte einen kleinen Beutel, den füllte ſie mit feiner Buchweizengrütze, band ihn auf den Rücken der Prinzeſſin und ſchnitt dann ein kleines Loch in den Beutel, ſo daß die Grütze den ganzen Weg, den die Prinzeſſin paſſierte, beſtreuen konnte.

(b.) Da war er ganz beſchämt und ſteckte den Kopf unter den Flügel; er wußte ſelbſt nicht, was er tun ſollte; er war ſehr glücklich, aber gar nicht ſtolz. Er dachte daran, wie man ihn gebiſſen und geſchlagen hatte, und hörte nun alle ſagen, daß er der ſchönſte aller ſchönen Vögel ſei. Da hob er den ſchönen, langen Hals und rief: „So viel Glück habe ich mir nicht träumen laſſen, als ich noch das häßliche Entlein war!“

(c.) Jetzt mußten die zwei Öchslein für ihrer drei arbeiten. Was ihnen aber, nebſt Püffen, Schlagen, Hungerleiden, das Leben vollends verleidete, das war das Heimweh nach dem braven Hans. Sie trauerten und wurden verstockt und taten alles verkehrt. Deshalb sprach der Peter leise zu seinem Weib: „Die Ochsen sind mir auch verhext." Bald wurden die Eheleute eins, daß sie das Paar für ein Spottgeld dem Metzger verkauften; der schlachtete sie in der Stadt.

Value.

(d.) Ich fand ein Bett zu süßer Ruh'
Auf weichen, grünen Matten;
Der Wirt, er deckte selbst mich zu
Mit seinem kühlen Schatten.

Nun fragt' ich nach der Schuldigkeit,
Da schüttelt' er den Wipfel.
Gesegnet sei er allezeit
Von der Wurzel bis zum Gipfel!

(e.) Der König stieren Blicks da saß,
Mit schlotternden Knien und totenblaß.

Die Knechtenschar saß kalt durchgraut,
Und saß gar still, gab keinen Laut.

Die Magier kamen, doch keiner verstand
Zu deuten die Flammenschrift an der Wand.

Belsazar ward aber in selbiger Nacht
Von seinen Knechten umgebracht.

(f.) Und als der frühe Morgen in Osten kaum gegraut,
Da hat ein seltnes Schauspiel im Lager man geschaut:
Es öffnet leise, leise sich das bedrängte Tor,
Es schwankt ein Zug von Weibern mit schwerem Schritt hervor.

Tief beugt die Last sie nieder, die auf dem Nacken ruht,
Sie tragen ihre Ehherrn, das ist ihr liebstes Gut.
„Halt an die argen Weiber!" ruft drohend mancher Wicht;
Der Kanzler spricht bedeutsam: „Das war der Meinung nicht."

10 2. Translate at sight:—

Ein Bienchen trank aus einem Bach und fiel in das Wasser. Das sah eine Taube, die auf einem Baum saß. Schnell brach sie ein Blatt von dem Baum und warf es in den Bach. Das Bienchen schwamm nach dem Blatte und half sich glücklich aus dem Wasser. Nach einiger Zeit saß die Taube wieder auf demselben Baum. Da kam ein Jäger und wollte die Taube schiessen. Als das Bienchen den Jäger sah, flog es schnell herbei, stach den Jäger in die Hand, und—puff! ging der Schuß in die Luft. So vergalt das Bienchen der Taube ihre Wohltat.

12 3. Put into German:—

Once there was a lazy boy who did not like to go to school. But he had to go because his father wished it. He could never do his lessons well in class, for when the others were working, he would never pay attention. So he often had to stay in after school and study while the others played.

(c.) Where are four of the largest sawmills?

(d.) Where do the lumbermen sell their finished product?

(e.) What was the approximate timber cut for 1924 (in board-feet)?

(f.) What was the total estimated damage in 1924 through forest fires?

Grade XII., Senior Matriculation.

BIOLOGY. (Time, 3 hours.)

[Questions are of equal value. Answer five only. Illustrate your answers with diagrams.]

1. Write a brief account of the characteristics which are common to both plants and animals. How would you differentiate between plants and animals? Illustrate your answer by a description of a unicellular plant and a unicellular animal.

2. What is meant by the "alternation of generations"? Describe fully the life-history of a plant and of an animal to illustrate your answer.

3. Give five examples of cells (either plant or animal) which have become specialized for the performance of particular functions. By what modifications is each cell dealt with above specially adapted to the work which it performs?

4. (a.) What is meant by osmosis?
   (b.) Discuss the importance of osmosis in the life-processes of plants and animals.

5. Explain what is meant by the "Law of Recapitulation" and give three examples.

6. Describe either the pectoral girdle and forelimbs or the pelvic girdle and hind limbs of the frog.

GERMAN GRAMMAR AND COMPOSITION. (Time, 3 hours.)

Value.

1. Put into German:—

18 (a.) The most interesting thing that the American students did in Germany was to take a trip up the Rhine. The boat left Cologne at half-past nine in the morning and did not arrive in Rudesheim until nine o'clock in the evening, so they spent the whole day on the beautiful and romantic river. The sides of the mountains were covered with vineyards and almost every peak was crowned with an old castle. These splendid buildings, towering up so proudly from out the green forests, were not only picturesque to look at, but also called up many old legends and tales.

15 (b.) During their stay in Germany the two Americans learned many new things about the country and the people, although they found that in such a short time they could not see all that they would have liked to see. If they had been able to stay longer, they would have spent more time in South Germany, for they thought it was most beautiful. But they also found many interesting things to see in Berlin and wished that they could stay there for a whole winter.

16 2. Put into German:—

(1.) Paul's uncle, whose eldest son had been in America, could speak English.

(2.) What they liked best in Germany was the arrangement of the trains.

(3.) They finally succeeded in finding their relatives.

(4.) I am sorry, but I don't care for that book at all.

(5.) One likes to do what is pleasant, one ought to do what is right.

(6.) They had to hurry, for their train was to leave in half an hour.

(7.) They had had their luggage sent to the hotel, because they were not able to carry it.

(8.) We have not been permitted to speak English in our German class.

Value.

9 3. Construct sentences (third person singular) using the following verbs in the present, perfect, and future tenses: hereinkommen; ſich erinnern; überſetzen.

12 4. Put into German:—

(1.) Karl told him that the castle was at the other end of the town.

(2.) Fritz said that he had never seen such a beautiful park.

(3.) His uncle said that he would go with them to Berlin.

(4.) If it rains to-morrow, I shall not go.

(5.) One could see more, if one could travel more slowly.

(6.) If they had gone to Heidelberg, they would have visited the old castle.

6 5. Rewrite in the passive:—

(1.) Sein Freund ſchreibt ihm einen langen Brief.

(2.) Man wird immer das Goethe-Haus beſuchen.

(3.) Man hat den Römer im 15. Jahrhundert gebaut.

24 6. Write in German (about 20 lines) a description of Germany, or the story of the Mousetower.

ENGLISH LITERATURE. (Time, 3 hours.)

14 1. With definite references to incidents in the story, discuss the skill shown in differentiating the characters in "The Sire de Malétroit's Door" or "On Greenhow Hill."

14 2. Within two pages, write a comparison of the two plays, "Electra" and "Julius Caesar," showing the main differences between the drama of the Greeks and that of Shakespeare.

10 3. What is meant by Foreshadowing and Dramatic Irony in the Drama? Illustrate your answer with two examples of each from "The School for Scandal."

14 4. Set forth the principal incidents in "A Doll's House" that show the gradual development of Nora Helmer.

14 5. Within two pages, set forth the chief characteristics of the poetry of Rupert Brooke or of Thomas Hardy.

12 6. On one of the following themes write an essay setting forth some of the ideas found in "An Anthology of Modern Verse":—

(a.) The Poet's Love for the Open Road.

(b.) The Relationship between Man and his Creator.

10 7. Quote a passage of about fourteen lines and write notes pointing out its particular virtues or beauties.

12 8. Write concisely on each of the following:—

(a.) The Setting in "Ethan Brand."

(b.) The Importance of Jupiter in "The Gold-Bug."

(c.) Pathos in "Rab and his Friends."

PHYSICS. (Time, 3 hours.)

[Questions are of equal value. Answer nine only.]

1. An accelerating force of 10 lb. acts on a mass of 120 lb. for 5 seconds starting from rest. Find the acceleration, velocity at the end of the 5 seconds, the distance traversed, and the work done (expressed in two different units).

2. (a.) How long a plank will be needed to enable us to roll an iron safe weighing 1½ tons into a wagon 3 feet high with a pull of 600 lb. parallel to the incline? What is the mechanical advantage?

   (b.) A block of stone weighs 1,656 lb.; its volume is 10 cubic feet. What is its density and how much will it weigh when suspended in water?

3. (a.) Define, briefly, the terms cohesion, viscosity, capillarity, surface tension, and osmosis.

   (b.) How does the molecular theory explain the expansion of a substance when heated and the cooling effect of the evaporation of a liquid?

4. (a.) Define the terms relative humidity, critical temperature, mechanical equivalent of heat and efficiency of a steam-engine.

   (b.) A litre of hydrogen at standard temperature and pressure weighs .0896 gram. Find the weight of a cubic metre of hydrogen at 15° C. and 80 cm. pressure.

5. (a.) Show how the pitch of both open and closed organ-pipes may be determined and why the quality of the sounds given by them is different.

   (b.) A certain stretched wire has a frequency of 256 vibrations per second. What would be its frequency if it were (1) twice as long, (2) stretched with twice the force?

6. (a.) Define focus, index of refraction, bright line spectrum, and magnifying power of a simple microscope.

   (b.) An object is placed 15 cm. in front of a spherical mirror and its image is found to be 40 cm. behind the mirror. Find, from the mirror formula, the focal length of the mirror and whether it is concave or convex; then draw a diagram, roughly to scale, showing why the image is so placed.

7. (a.) Different wave lengths in ether radiations manifest themselves as entirely different phenomena. Name these different phenomena which have been investigated and give some idea of the wave length in each case.

   (b.) When looking at a building through the ordinary glass of a window, why do straight lines of the building appear so distorted? What makes them appear to move as you move your head slightly?

8. (a.) Explain the construction and action of an electrical condenser.

   (b.) What is the fundamental difference in the construction of alternating and direct current dynamos?

9. An electric iron takes 6 amperes at 110 volts. Find its resistance, the cost of operating it for one hour at 6 cents per kilowatt-hour, the number of calories of heat it generates every second, and its power consumption expressed in horse-power.

10. (a.) Draw a diagram of an ordinary electromagnet, showing clearly the direction of the current and the position of the poles. How could you wind a wire around a piece of iron in such a way that no magnetic poles would be formed when a current is passed through the wire?

    (b.) State the laws of electrolysis.

(A maximum of 15 marks will be allowed for a properly certified laboratory note-book.)

TRIGONOMETRY. (Time, 3 hours.)

Value.

12 1. (a.) Express 51° 17′ 45″ as a decimal of a right angle to 5 places of decimals.
(b.) Prove $3 \tan^2 30° + \frac{4}{3} \cos^2 30° = \frac{1}{2} \sec^2 45° + \frac{1}{3} \sin^2 60° + \frac{3}{4} \sin 90°$.
(c.) Prove $\sin^4 \theta + \sin^2 \theta = 2 - 3 \cos^2 \theta + \cos^4 \theta$.

12 2. A man observes a spire in a direction E. 10° N. He walks 500 yards to the S.E. and observes that the bearing of the spire is N.E. How far is he now from the spire? Given $\tan 55° = 1.4280$.

12 3. (a.) Solve $2 \sin A \tan A + 1 = \tan A + 2 \sin A$.
(b.) Prove $\cos (180° - A) = -\cos A$. (Use a diagram.)

16 4. (a.) In any triangle prove $\frac{a}{\sin A} = \frac{b}{\sin B} = \frac{c}{\sin C}$.
(b.) In any triangle prove $\tan \frac{A - B}{2} = \frac{a - b}{a + b} \cot \frac{C}{2}$.
(c.) Prove $\cos (A + B) = \cos A \cos B - \sin A \sin B$.

12 5. Prove $\frac{\sin x + \sin 2x + \sin 3x}{\cos x + \cos 2x + \cos 3x} = \tan 2x$.

18 6. Given A = 37° 27′, B = 72° 11′, $a = 10$, find c.

sin 37° 27′ = .6081	L sin 37° 27′ = 9.7840	log 155 = 2.1900.
sin 70° 22′ = .9419	L sin 70° 22′ = 9.9740
sin 72° 11′ = .9520	L sin 72° 11′ = 9.9787

18 7. Given $a = 681$, $c = 243$, B = 50° 42′, find the angles A and C. (Use 4(b).) log 438 = 2.64147	log cot 25° 21′ = 0.32443

log 924 = 2.96567	log tan 45° 0′ 57″ = 0.00023

LATIN PROSE COMPOSITION, SIGHT TRANSLATION, AND ROMAN HISTORY.

(Time, 3 hours.)

A. LATIN PROSE COMPOSITION.

50 Translate into Latin:—

(a.) We would rather die free than live as slaves.

(b.) You will scarcely venture to deny that duty was sometimes at variance with interest.

(c.) He promised to supply the army with food and clothing.

(d.) The exiles believed that they had reached the locality from which their forefathers were sprung.

(e.) He pretended that it was not for the sake of gain but of friendship that he had given me all the books which his brother had left.

(f.) All the world believes that the moon moves round the earth.

(g.) The island is surrounded by the sea which you call the ocean.

(h.) You cannot, said he, injure your country without bringing loss and ruin to yourself and your own affairs.

(i.) So far am I from having said everything, that I could take up the whole of the day in speaking; but I do not wish to be tedious.

(j.) And therefore, my country-men, do not believe that I, who have so often led you to the field of battle, am afraid to-day of fortune leaving me.

35 Appio Claudio consule coeptum est primum adversus Poenos bellum. Cum Messanam, Siciliae urbem, Carthaginienses et Hiero, rex Syracusanus, obsiderent, Appius Claudius ad Messanam liberandam missus est. Consul primo ad explorandos hostes nave piscatoria traiecit fretum inter Italiam et Siciliam interiectum. Ad quem venerunt nuntii ab Hannone, Poenorum duce, hortantes ad pacem conservandam. Cum vero consul nullas condiciones admitteret, nisi Poeni ab oppugnatione desisterent, iratus Hanno exclamavit, se non esse passurum Romanos vel manus in mari Siculo abluere. Non tamen potuit prohibere, quin Claudius in Siciliam legionem traduceret, et Poenos Messana expelleret. Deinde Hiero apud Syracusas victus est. Qui eo periculo territus Romanorum amicitiam petiit, et in eorum societate postea constanter permansit.

C. ROMAN HISTORY.

15 1. What were the causes of the Plebeian struggle for political equality? Write notes on the Tribunes of the People, and on the Assembly of the Tribes, showing the effects of these institutions on popular liberty.

2. Write a short story of Hannibal's march into, and campaign in, Italy.

3. Give a short account of the trial of Gaius Verres.

ALGEBRA. (Time, 3 hours.)

12 1. Solve: $x^3+y^3=351$
$x^2-xy+y^2=39.$

14 2. The distances which a man travels in successive days are in A.P. At the end of the 5th day he has gone 100 miles and at the end of the 7th day 150 miles. How long will he take to complete 300 miles in all?

12 3. In a G.P. the first term is 7, the last is 448, and the sum is 889. Find the series.

12 4. (a.) If $15x^2+2xy-8y^2=0$, find $x:y$.

(b.) Solve: $\dfrac{(2x+3)^3+(x-1)^3}{(2x+3)^3-(x-1)^3}=\dfrac{65}{63}$.

12 5. The weight of a sphere varies as its density and the cube of its radius. The densities of two spheres are as 2:3 and their radii as 15:7. If the weight of the first is 50 lb., find the weight of the second.

14 6. (a.) Find the equation whose roots are m and n when $m+n=10$ and $mn=16$.

(b.) If $(m-1)x^2-(4m+4)x+7m+1=0$ has equal roots, find m.

12 7. (a.) In how many ways can 7 quarters and 5 ten-cent pieces be given to 12 boys, one coin to each?

(b.) In a town there are three different letter-boxes. In how many ways can 5 letters be posted?

12 8. (a.) Find the coefficient of x^{-15} in $\left(x+\dfrac{1}{x^2}\right)^{12}$.

(b.) Expand $(1+2x)^{-\frac{3}{2}}$ to four terms.

FRENCH LANGUAGE. (Time, 3 hours.)

30 1. Traduction :—

"Molière belongs to no nation," said a great English actor (Kemble); "one day the god of comedy, wishing to write, became a man, and happened to fall in France." I accept this; but in becoming man he found himself, at the same time, a man of the seventeenth century and a Frenchman. Only the French art of the seventeenth century could succeed in amusing honest folk, for it consists in leading by an agreeable path to general notions.

10 2. (a.) Français de :—

The man of whom I speak :
The table of which I think.
The boys whom I see.
Whom do you call?
I give you all I have.

(b.) Corrigez s'il est nécessaire :—

On a joué du violin et on a dancé au marriage du soldat. Après dinner, plusiers persons ont visité l'apartment et la gallerie de tableaux où il y a beaucoup des vielles peintures.

20 3. Français de :—

(a.) Before he has time to come back, will you speak to me about it?

(b.) She has just shut the window and is working near the fire.

(c.) You ought to go and see the wood in autumn.

(d.) The Italian captain was seen advancing towards the French lieutenant.

(e.) He has been speaking in prose for forty years without knowing it.

Value.

10 4. (a.) Placez les adverbes correctement:—

Je le vois (souvent).
Je l'ai vu (rarement).
Il est parti (hier).
Dites lui de parler (ne pas).
Il faut travailler (bien).

(b.) Traduisez pour la comparaison:—

His orchard is the best cultivated in the village and has the best fruit.
There are more than two feet of snow on the mountain.
That boy is not so tall as the others but he is the worst of all.

15 5. (a.) Traduisez avec le verbe faire:—

It is warm. I shall give you pleasure. He had the pupil sing. While you show the farm to the visitor, I shall have cakes made for tea.

(b.) Français de:—

In springtime—in time—in Paris—in Canada—in France—in the country. I have my hat in my hand—the nest is in the letter-box. Return within twenty-four hours. They are in the church.

15 6. (a.) Mettez le verbe au temps convenable:—

mourait, écrirai, prendrions, sache, valût.

FRENCH LITERATURE. (Time, 3 hours.)

20 1. Traduisez le passage suivant; dites qui parle et à quel propos:—

Monsieur, la plupart des gens, sur cette question n'hésitent pas beaucoup. On tranche le mot aisément. Ce nom ne fait aucun scrupule à prendre, et l'usage aujourd'hui semble en autoriser le vol. Pour moi, je vous l'avoue, j'ai les sentiments sur cette matière un peu délicats. Je trouve que toute imposture est indigne d'un honnête homme, et qu'il y a de la lâcheté à déguiser ce que le ciel nous a fait naître, à se parer aux yeux du monde d'un titre dérobé, à se vouloir donner pour ce qu'on n'est pas. Je suis né de parents, sans doute, qui ont tenu des charges honorables. Je me suis acquis dans les armes l'honneur de six ans de services, et je me trouve assez de bien pour tenir dans le monde un rang assez passable; mais, avec tout cela, je ne veux point me donner un nom où d'autres, en ma place, croiraient pouvoir prétendre.

25 2. Donnez les principaux traits de caractère de trois des personnages importants de la comédie.

Value.

20 3. (a.) Mettez en français moderne (surtout les phrases en italique) :—

(1.) L'affaire est dans le sac, donc, nous n'avons que faire du truchement.

(2.) J'en demeure d'accord avec vous, ce coquin de valet donne furieusement dans les vices du temps.

(3.) Par ma foi, c'est un grand dadais, et j'espère qu'il ne s'avisera pas de venir céans.

(4.) Je ne saurais me tenir de rire de le voir fagoté de la sorte.

(5.) Comme je le fus voir, et que j'entends parfaitement la langue, il s'entretint avec moi.

(b.) Formez cinq phrases avec les expressions suivantes : de grâce !—prêter l'oreille—au premier jour—force gens—comme il faut—(donnez l'anglais).

10 4. Traduisez :—

Il ne put en dire plus long, il pleurait. L'empereur, à la lueur des feux allumés de toutes parts, vit que la jument était atteinte d'un éclat d'obus à la cuisse gauche. Il croisa les mains derrière son dos, sous les basques de sa redingote, et dit : " Guérissez-vous tous deux, je le veux ! Quand vous serez guéris, allez-vous en au pays des Côtes, vous m'avez bien servi. Seulement je retiens son premier poulain pour ma garde, et, dans vingt ans d'ici, tu m'enverras ton fils à toi : j'en ferai un officier."

" Oui, mon empereur."

Cette journée rendit fier Jean-Marie pour toute sa vie, qui fut longue.

HISTORY. (Time, 3 hours.)

[Answer any five questions.]

12+8 1. Describe the work of Calvin in Geneva. Estimate his influence upon religion and politics.

15+5 2. What were the main issues involved in the struggle between Charles I. and Parliament? What was the final outcome?

5×4 3. Write notes on : (a) Rousseau ; (b) Turgot ; (c) Mirabeau ; (d) The Declaration of the Rights of Man.

20 4. Discuss the causes of Napoleon's downfall.

10+10 5. What were the early effects of the Industrial Revolution upon the working classes in England? Mention the remedies that have been attempted.

20 6. " The Paris Revolution of 1848 proclaimed, not the ' Rights of Man,' but the rights of the working-man." Explain and discuss.

20 7. Recount the chief steps by which German unification was achieved under the direction of Bismarck.

20 8. Compare briefly the home and foreign policies of Gladstone with those of Disraeli.

20 9. Sketch the maritime and naval background of the World War.

20 10. Give a succinct account of the Russian Revolution of 1917 and summarize its results.

20 11. What appear to you to be the most important results (political, social, economic, etc.) of the World War?

ENGLISH COMPOSITION. (Time, 3 hours.)

Value.

10 1. Point out definitely the particular principles violated in the following sentences, and recast in more satisfactory form:—

(a.) I live two miles from college, which makes the trip to and from a short and untedious one.

(b.) Miss Edwards lectured with stereopticon views, at Chickering Hall, with a musical voice, her broken left arm in a sling, on Egypt, five or six thousand miles away.

(c.) The ship then struck a rock, she began to slowly and steadily sink, and the waves finally enveloped her.

(d.) I doubt very much if anyone has a harder day than this one, especially as it comes on Monday, and Sunday is not a good day for studying, even if you have no religious scruples concerning it.

(e.) We went home, after all our misfortunes, glad to get one night's sleep, anyhow.

20 2. Discuss the principles of good paragraph structure as exemplified in the following, and indicate clearly the means of explicit reference:—

"Every educated person has at least two ways of speaking his mother tongue. The first is that which he employs in his family, among his familiar friends, and on ordinary occasions. The second is that which he uses in discoursing on more complicated subjects, and in addressing persons with whom he is less intimately acquainted. It is, in short, the language he employs when he is 'on his dignity' as he puts on evening dress when he is going to dine. The difference between these two forms of language consists, in a great measure, in a difference in vocabulary. The basis of familiar words must be the same in both, but the vocabulary appropriate to the more formal occasion will include many terms which would be stilted or affected in ordinary talk. There is also considerable difference between familiar and dignified language in the matter of utterance. Contrast the rapid utterance of our every-day dialect, full of contractions and clipped forms, with the more distinct enunciation of the pulpit or the platform. Thus in conversation we habitually employ such contractions as I'll, don't, he'd, and the like, which we should never use in public speaking unless of set purpose, to give a markedly colloquial tinge to what we have to say."

10 3. Discuss the chief points to be considered in the planning and construction of an expository theme. Illustrate your answer by making an outline for your answer to question 4.

60 4. Write an expository essay of at least two pages on one of the following:—

(a.) One Characteristic of Contemporary Poetry.

(b.) Presence of Mind.

(c.) Cross-word Puzzles.

CHEMISTRY. (Time, 3 hours.)

[Questions are of equal value. Answer ten only.]

[Atomic weights and other data are given at end of paper.]

1. What do you understand by the following terms: (a) equivalent weight; (b) chemical equilibrium; (c) dissociation; (d) valence; (e) normal solution?

2. (a.) Mention three different phenomena which indicate dissociation or ionization in solution.

   (b.) Compare the kinds of ions present when an acid, an alkali, and a salt respectively are dissolved in water, and show by means of equations what happens to the ions when an acid is neutralized by an alkali.

3. (a.) Compare the action of hot concentrated sulphuric acid on a chloride, on a bromide, and on an iodide.

   (b.) Write equations for the action of chlorine on (i) water, (ii) an aqueous solution of potassium iodide, and (iii) methane.

4. (a.) Describe the theory and practice of the Haber process for the manufacture of ammonia from nitrogen and hydrogen.

   (b.) Write by means of partial equations the complete equations for the action of (i) concentrated nitric acid and (ii) dilute nitric acid, on metallic copper.

5. (a.) If diamonds are a form of carbon, why are they not manufactured synthetically from carbon on a commercial scale?

   (b.) Write the equation illustrating the solution of limestone in water charged with carbon dioxide. What variety of hardness would this produce in water? Describe with equations two methods by which this hardness could be removed.

6. Describe briefly, with equations, the theory and practice of the manufacture of sodium carbonate or bicarbonate by either the Solvay (ammonia-soda) process or the Leblanc (salt-cake) process. What is baking-powder and how does it act?

7. Write equations for reactions occurring when aluminium hydroxide is dissolved in sodium hydroxide and hydrochloric acid respectively. Would you consider aluminium to be a metallic or non-metallic element? Explain.

8. Indicate roughly the variation of the valence of elements, with respect to both hydrogen and oxygen, as a function of their position in the periodic table. Do the same for basic and acidic properties.

9. (a.) Write the formula for bleaching-powder. What acid radicals does it contain? How is it made? What is the mechanism of its bleaching action?

   (b.) What is "superphosphate"? Write its formula. How is it made and what is it used for?

10. 3 grams of metallic zinc are dropped into 100 c.c. of 1.85 normal hydrochloric acid. What would be the normality of the acid after the zinc had dissolved?

11. What is the formula of a compound having the following composition: Fe=36.761%; S=21.106%; O=42.132%?

12. What volume would be occupied by the hydrogen obtained when 1 gram of metallic sodium is dropped into an excess of water, if measured over water at 21° C. and at 740 mm. pressure?

Atomic weights: H=1, O=16, S=32, Zn=65.37, Fe=55.9; Na=23.

Vapour pressure of water at 21° C.=18.5 mm.

PROVINCIAL BOARD OF HEALTH,

VICTORIA, B.C., June 30th, 1925.

To His Honour WALTER CAMERON NICHOL,

Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of British Columbia.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOUR:

The undersigned has the honour to present the Report of the Provincial Board of Health for the year ended June 30th, 1925.

WILLIAM SLOAN,

Provincial Secretary.

REPORT of the PROVINCIAL BOARD OF HEALTH.

PROVINCIAL BOARD OF HEALTH,
VICTORIA, B.C., July 31st, 1925.

The Honourable William Sloan,
Provincial Secretary, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit the Twenty-ninth Annual Report of the Provincial Board of Health.

The progress that is being made in the work of the Provincial Board of Health permits me to say that satisfactory advance in the different departments is very noticeable, and our principal desire is to so direct the work of the Department that the educational side is emphasized, and, together with this, preventive medicine is given a prominent place.

We must acknowledge there is much to be attained and there still remains, as we all realize, a tremendous task to be performed. The progress that is marked from year to year is not spectacular. We appreciate the fact that progress in getting across to the people a knowledge of the fundamental principles of hygiene is slow, yet by comparison with previous stages we are able to demonstrate that progress is being made. And while it is difficult to describe this progress in a material way by fixing a financial value, which is the usual way of marking progress in human events, yet we know from continued contact with different organizations, with representatives of the profession, and with results obtained through Government agencies that the public mind is being slowly and surely influenced to the value of the work of the Provincial and Municipal Boards of Health.

There is an awakening of a very satisfactory proportion of the people to the importance of health-work and to its possibilities. Not in a theoretical direction, but as demonstrated by actual accomplishment.

Formerly it was the highest ambition of public-health workers to show each year a diminished morbidity and mortality rate from certain named diseases. If the Public Health Officer could show that in a brief period of his incumbency he had cut the typhoid death-rate down to one-fifth of its former proportions and had a steadily diminishing rate for scarlet fever or diphtheria, he felt that he had done a great deal. But within the past few years we have had a higher ambition. We have felt that we must deal with more than the negative side of health, and that it was most distinctly within the province of a Health Officer to put forth every effort to raise the vitality of every human unit in his community to the highest point of efficiency. He must no longer be satisfied with the knowledge that from the result of his efforts a number of individuals have survived who might have died from some preventable disease, but he must also feel that he must lay a foundation for the robust citizens of to-morrow, and so our ideals have advanced, taking in not only the previous field of sanitation, but also that of personal hygiene.

How to reach the individual, however, has been the problem. Health Officers could not personally supervise the daily life of each individual in the community, and he recognizes, therefore, the necessity for educational measures, directed both to the end of securing better understanding, and hence better support to the Health Department, and also to so educate the individual as to furnish him with the knowledge of how to promote his individual health and with the incentive to put that knowledge into effect. To accomplish this we must secure co-operation as between the Boards of Health, the medical profession, and the public.

As regards the medical profession, we hope that we will in time be able to say for the profession in British Columbia what was said in regard to the profession in Denmark, in a report made to the Rockefeller Foundation, that "In Denmark every doctor is a public health officer, and every public health officer is a doctor."

And we find further in this report the following: "In Denmark most of what we are continually insisting on for the protection of the public health is a part of the accepted tradition and routine of daily life. Thus, all engineering that involves public water-supplies is, as a matter of course, sanitary engineering. Cleanliness is a national habit. The reporting of communicable disease is a matter of course. The appropriate measures of control are applied by recognized authority, to which an intelligent population readily submits."

This is a remarkable showing, especially when we consider that Denmark is one of the smallest countries of the world and shows what intelligence, co-operation, and sound social organization can accomplish. They accept the basic principles of public health without comment and it is not necessary to carry on an extensive educational campaign. There is only one full-time public health officer in the country of Denmark, but every doctor considers himself a public health officer.

It may be some time before we are able to write of British Columbia as I have written above in regard to Denmark, but I feel very much encouraged with the progress that we are making with the public. It is to be hoped that we will be able to say that "our methods of control are applied by recognized authorities, to which an intelligent population readily submits."

The different branches of our work have been carried out with careful attention to the enforcement of existing laws and regulations, and still further with an effort to secure co-operation, and we are pleased to be able to record that the efforts of the Provincial Board of Health are recognized as being inspired by motives, the realization of which will produce accomplishment by an enforcement of the law in a manner which receives the cordial co-operation of the public.

I will refer briefly to the different branches of the Department.

Sanitation.

The calls upon the Sanitary Department are a gauge of the economic conditions of the Province. In times of depression, when industries are working half-time or are closed down, the basic industries, such as mining and logging, are affected and there are fewer points which need to receive our attention. During this year, however, I am pleased to note that we have been very busy in our inspectorial work, indicating renewed activity in all branches; added to this economic activity is the great expansion in the summer lives of our people.

The motor traffic as reported on is three times the volume of last year. The peak of the season is over and I am pleased to say that no serious complaint in regard to any communicable disease in connection with this traffic has been reported. We look for continued increase, and when the road along the Fraser River is opened, admitting of easy access to the Interior of the Province, we will be face to face with a problem that will require very serious attention, although I must say the basic regulations we have laid down for the management of our motor traffic are such that an extension of our work is all that will be required.

The problem of handling the motor traffic is one which is engaging the attention of the authorities in the States to the south of us and in Canadian Provinces to the east. The matter has been taken up by the Federal Council of Health at Ottawa and as a result regulations will be drawn up that will be applicable to the whole of the Dominion, allowing for such amendments and changes as may be necessary to meet any peculiar condition in any particular Province. This will be a great boon to the travelling public and give measures of control which will enable us to handle this traffic without any danger to the public.

During our holiday season our people are going farther afield and are utilizing the sea-shore for camping-sites and are adopting plans which contain a potential danger unless properly regulated. I refer to the building of small huts or shacks on the foreshores in the many bays and indentations of the Coast, particularly close to our cities.

This foreshore is "no man's land," although the title is in the Government. There has been difficulty heretofore from the fact that the Federal Government had title to the shore between high- and low-water mark, and we are now informed that this strip now comes under the jurisdiction of the Provincial Government.

Such being the case, I would certainly recommend to the Honourable the Provincial Secretary that the matter be immediately dealt with by the Government and a definite policy laid down which will enable us to control the situation. Many of the beaches in the vicinity of our larger cities are utilized by the citizens for bathing and are also used by squatters, with the result that continued complaints are being made of the restrictions to bathing facilities, in addition to which there is a serious sanitary menace even in their existence; and I would recommend that notice be served on these people that they are there without any title or right, and would further recommend that in the immediate vicinity of the cities our beaches should be entirely cleared of squatters.

Venereal Clinics.

I have to report that the work in the clinics is progressing in a very satisfactory manner. We are at present engaged in enlarging our Vancouver Clinic to three times the present size in order to keep pace with the increasing work. The question of the treatment of V.D. cases shows that since the war there has been a great diminution in the number of cases. I find, in interviewing the drug trade, that they almost unanimously say that the sale of patent remedies for these cases is practically nil, and also point out that there is a great increase in the purchase of remedies as may be used for prophylaxis. They attribute this to what the men learned during the war and to the fact that these men have been acting as educators of others.

We provide in the clinics for the treatment of cases free, including medicines, and we also furnish laboratory service. In addition to this, we furnish all physicians who report a case, whether the patient is indigent or not, with free medicine and laboratory service.

I feel that since beginning the treatment of these cases through the clinics we have made very substantial progress in this work and the results are most encouraging.

Laboratories.

We have been continuing our work in the laboratories and since my last report have established a laboratory at Kamloops, in the middle interior of the Province, and another one has been established at Kelowna, in the southern part of the Province. We find that the co-operation of the municipalities is being secured and they are realizing the fact that the work is being carried out in a more systematic and thorough manner than previously, with lower cost to themselves.

In connection with laboratory-work, vaccines and antitoxins are sent out on request. There were sent out 54,215 points smallpox vaccine, 5,264,000 units diphtheria antitoxin, 100 doses diphtheria toxin antitoxin, 496 doses typhoid vaccine, 29,000 units tetanus antitoxin, 3 packages rabies serum, and 2 c.c. Koch tuberculin, all distributed free.

Tuberculosis.

During the past year we have extended our tuberculosis campaign and as a result we are able to report a continued improvement in the mortality list.

The Sanitorium at Tranquille has been taken over entirely by the Government and an endeavour made to limit as far as possible the patients entering to those in which there is some hope of at least an arrest of the disease. Provision is made for the care of tuberculosis patients in local hospitals, which are obliged to provide 10 per cent. of their bed accommodation for such cases. Our Public Health Nurses are trained in tuberculosis-work and are especially instructed to report all suspected cases.

An appointment was made of a Travelling Diagnostician in Tuberculosis, who co-operates with the members of the medical profession and addresses public bodies in all parts of the Province, and also co-operates with the nurses and receives information from them in reference to suspected cases which they have found.

In connection with the Inspector, arrangements were made for X-ray service and a portable machine under the charge of a technician from the Sanatorium was used. The results from this have been very satisfactory. The Department has been commended both by the medical profession and by the public for the steps that have been taken, and we are publishing in this report a report from Dr. Lamb, our Inspector, which deals more especially with his work.

Infectious Diseases.

I regret to have to report an unsatisfactory condition of affairs during this year, more especially as regards smallpox. The tabulated report of infectious diseases during the year ending June 30th, 1925, shows an increase over last year, especially as regards whooping-cough, scarlet fever, chicken-pox, and smallpox. In scarlet fever 1,500 of the 2,000-odd cases reported occurred in Vancouver and suburbs. We trust that within the next year, and certainly within two years, the application of the prophylactic treatment for scarlet fever will make a very substantial reduction in these cases. It is difficult to understand the endemic nature of the attacks of scarlet fever, but we are carrying out treatment under the direction of the Connaught Laboratories of Toronto and we feel confident that we will be able to master this situation.

In regard to whooping-cough, 55 per cent. of the cases reported occurred in Vancouver and vicinity. This is to be expected, as 70 per cent. of our Provincial population are within the immediate vicinity of Vancouver.

In regard to smallpox, we received a very severe criticism in the form of a ban being placed upon the City of Vancouver and suburbs by the United States Government.

The authorities in Vancouver had been warned and rewarned six months previously that this would occur unless some preventive measures were taken and support given to the City Health Officer. The City Council and Board of Trade were interviewed on different occasions, and it was pointed out clearly that monthly reports of cases were forwarded to the League of Nations at Geneva and from there broadcasted around the world, and if there was no diminution in the number of cases a ban was only to be expected. All these representations did not have any effect and in March we received notice of the ban being placed. Even then the public, as represented by different organizations and the press, did not seem to realize the seriousness of the United States action, and every effort was made to try and hide the fact that we had a very large number of cases of smallpox in Vancouver and vicinity. We received absolutely no help from the press. Regulations were adopted and published which allowed us to enforce vaccination to the extent permitted by our Provincial "Health Act" in the schools. The transportation companies, representing the shipping interests and large railways, did endeavour to assist us, as a continuance of the ban would have meant entire disruption of the summer traffic.

We have in our midst a number of people who are very strongly opposed to vaccination and the campaign of vilification which was carried on by these people was such that it had to be borne, as replies could not be made to them owing to the attitude of the public press. The ban was continued for some three weeks, and in spite of our difficulties we did succeed in having a large number of the population vaccinated and when the cases began to subside the ban was raised.

There was sufficient interference with the traffic to convince the business interests of the Province that a repetition of the ban during the summer season would cost hundreds of thousands of dollars, and I feel that should there be another outbreak of smallpox we will receive more cordial support.

I am publishing in this report a picture of a smallpox case of a severe type, and I trust that those who will have an opportunity of reading this report will understand the real concern of the Provincial Board of Health, that such a type of the disease would not become rampant.

A table of infectious diseases reported during the year is incorporated in this report, and in addition epidemics were reported as follows:—

Chicken-pox.—Burnaby, Creston, Hazelton and District, Invermere District, Kamloops, Mission and District, Point Grey, Prince George, Queen Charlotte City, Quesnel, Salmon Arm District, South Vancouver, Vancouver, and Victoria.

Diphtheria.—Mission District and Vancouver.

Influenza.—Ashcroft, Corbin, Creston, Hazelton and District, Kimberley, Smithers and District, and Vernon.

Measles.—Port Coquitlam and Salmon Arm District.

Scarlet Fever.—Point Grey, South Vancouver, and Vancouver.

Smallpox.—Burnaby, South Vancouver, and Vancouver.

Whooping-cough.—Kamloops, Williams Lake and District.

PUBLIC HEALTH NURSING.

It is a pleasure to be able to record from year to year satisfactory progress in this department. Last year we published a report of the work as carried out in our central Health Centre at Saanich, and this year we are publishing an account of the work carried out by the Cowichan Health Centre at Duncan, Vancouver Island. The Saanich and Duncan Health Centres are used as part of the Public Health Nursing University Course, and students are given an intensive course at these points to demonstrate the health-work as carried on outside of the cities in British Columbia.

"When the history of the first quarter of the twentieth century comes to be written one of the outstanding features noted will be the awaking of the public conscience regarding the value to humanity and the state of the good health of the individual.

"The Great War opened the eyes of the world to the fact that a vast number of people were suffering from defects that could have been remedied in childhood. The welfare of the mother and child acquired a new significance, and not since the great artists of the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries filled the galleries of Europe with pictures and sculpture of the 'Young Child and His Mother' has so much that is beautiful in art, science, and literature centred around motherhood and childhood.

"Cowichan District covers a large area of some 600 square miles, with the City of Duncan as centre and a sparsely populated unorganized district. If it is true that the progress of a country is marked by the status of its women, it is interesting to note that the movement to obtain a nurse began almost simultaneously in the city and in the country, and in each case it was the Women's Institute that took the lead. In September, 1919, the Cowichan Women's Institute, working in conjunction with the Duncan Consolidated School Board, appointed a nurse whose duties included school inspection and general nursing. In October the Cobble Hill Women's Institute and the Shawnigan Lake Women's Institute appointed a nurse on probation with similar duties. In both cases the result was satisfactory, but the continuance of the service depended on money being forthcoming and it was decided to form an organization that would command the financial support of the whole district. The peace-time programme of the Red Cross to improve health, prevent disease, and to mitigate suffering pointed the way to better things, and the North Cowichan and Cowichan branches worked loyally together to form what is known now as the Cowichan Health Centre. In this work they had the support and sympathy of all the women's societies—i.e., the Women's Institutes, the King's Daughters, and both local Chapters of the I.O.D.E. In addition, the City of Duncan and the North Cowichan Municipal Council have given generous grants. Help was also given by the Department of Education in grants towards the salaries of the nurses and from the local School Boards at the rate of a dollar per pupil per annum in the schools inspected by the Health Centre nurses.

"In August, 1920, the first Public Health Nurse was appointed to the Health Centre and since then the work has increased beyond the brightest dreams of its promoters. On the disbanding of the Red Cross branches the activities of the Health Centre were directed by the local committee, composed of representatives from all subscribing organizations, working under the Provincial Health Officer, with an office in Duncan, two very highly trained nurses, and two motor-cars. This mobile service is carried on with greatest efficiency and the least possible expense to the district.

"(Signed) MARGARET MOSS, President, Cowichan Health Centre Committee."

"The district covered by the Public Health Nurses of the Cowichan Health Centre is large, covering some 600 square miles, including the City of Duncan. The population of the district is approximately 6,000, not including the labour employed in the lumbering industry, with a school population of 1,000 children scattered through sixteen different schools. In such a large, sparsely populated district the great difficulties in attempting a generalized nursing service are that of transportation and providing a central office. The first difficulty is surmounted by supplying the nurses with two Ford cars and the second by obtaining an office in the Baron Block, Duncan.

"Nursing Service.—During the past year the nursing service of the Health Centre has increased greatly, more than doubling that of the previous year. In all, over 3,300 visits were made to homes in the district, and of these 1,075 were bedside nursing visits when actual nursing was done. Four hundred and eighty-four tuberculosis and other welfare visits were made. Phone consultations numbering 996 were held and 429 visitors were received in the Health Centre Office.

"Two hundred and twelve transportations were made by the nurses with the Health Centre cars, including many patients from all parts of the district, who, unable to afford ambulance transportation, were brought into the Hospital by the nurses at the request of the doctor or the patient's family.

"Child-welfare Work.—All babies known by the nurses to be living in the district are visited as soon as possible after birth, and monthly from then on for as long as possible. Eight hundred and sixty-four such visits were made in the past year.

"A well-baby clinic is held once a month in the Women's Institute Rooms, Duncan, the local medical men being in charge, with the exception of during the months of July and August, when a nurse is in attendance at the Health Centre Office every afternoon for the purpose of weighing and measuring the babies and to give any assistance she can to the mothers. This is proving a popular branch of the work, and sometimes as many as six or seven young mothers will arrive on the same afternoon to have their children weighed and to talk over the health and proper summer feeding of the family.

"Social Service.—The Health Centre does not administer material relief to families in need, but as always throughout the world, sickness and poverty are closely connected, the nurses have an intimate knowledge of the home and economic conditions of the different families and are asked from time to time to investigate needy cases. During the year ninety-one such visits were made, and seven cases referred to the Great War Veterans and two to the Women's Institute for assistance.

"School Service.—There are fifteen schools in the district covered by the Cowichan Health Centre, with thirty-three class-rooms; these include the Consolidated School at Duncan; the four-roomed school at Chemainus; two-roomed schools at Cowichan Station, Sylvania, and Shawnigan Lake; and the one-room schools at Genoa Bay, Westholme, Crofton, Glenora, Sahtlam, Mayo, Cowichan Lake, Koksilah, Bench Road, and Cobble Hill. All the children attending these schools are examined yearly by the different School Medical Officers, assisted by the nurses.

"There is an individual class-room inspection of each child once a month by the nurse, and in case of an outbreak of communicable disease in a school the children attending that school are inspected daily until all danger of communication is over. The signs and symptoms of the communicable diseases most readily found in schools are explained to the teachers and they are asked to notify the Health Centre at once of any suspicious case in their school. The child is then visited and, if advisable, taken to the School Medical Officer for examination, who will, if necessary, exclude the child from school. The nurses have not the authority to exclude children from school without the permission of the School Medical Officer. All the pupils are weighed and measured twice during the school-year, and children underweight for their age and height are weighed monthly; a keen interest is then kept stimulated in the children to become normal weight. After the monthly inspection a class-room talk is given on personal hygiene, proper food and drink, etc., covering a routine yearly course of instruction.

"Toothbrush and handkerchief drills are held in the primary classes, and the teachers co-operate with the nurses in having many entertaining and instructive 'Good Health' projects and playlets.

'Good Health' Competition.—During the year such a competition was held throughout the rural schools of the district. Prizes were awarded for the best poster, illustrating a health talk given by the nurse during the year, the best health book telling and illustrating the story of 'Good Health,' and the best essay on a health subject. The competition was most successful; in all, there were over 150 entries and all the schools in the district, with the exception of one, competed in all the different classes. The keen interest displayed by the children in the competition was sincerely appreciated by the Health Centre as demonstrating the fine spirit of co-operation existing throughout the district.

"The Health Centre is indebted in this connection to the Provincial Board of Health, without whose assistance it would not have been possible to have held the competition.

"Dental Clinics.—During the year the School Dental Officer examines the teeth of all the children attending school in the district. Notification is sent the parents of any needed dental work on their children's teeth, with the approximate cost to them of the work, which cost is considerably less than if the work was done elsewhere than at the school clinic. Upon receipt of the parents' consent the work is proceeded with.

"Class Instruction.—Our First Aid and Home Nursing classes are very popular with the Girl Guides and Canadian Girls in Training throughout the district. Last year more requests were received for instruction than it was possible to arrange for. In all, four different groups of girls were instructed, all satisfactorily completing the course and writing the examinations.

"Affiliation with University of British Columbia.—Last year lectures were given the Public Health Nursing students at the University, the students afterwards coming to the Health Centre for their Rural Public Health Nursing field-work.

"Each year the work of the Cowichan Health Centre increases; sometimes one phase perhaps more than another is stressed, but always there is a steady growth, showing without a doubt that the work undertaken is appreciated and of benefit to the public.

"ISABELLE M. JEFFARES, R.N."

In carrying out the work I have again to record our indebtedness to the women of British Columbia and particularly the Women's Institutes. Their quiet, thoughtful reception of suggestions which are intended to secure their co-operation in carrying on our work is stimulating. They are understanding more and more the point of view of the Department, in that we are endeavouring to educate the public to the seriousness of the situation as regards the health of the community and also realizing that preventive measures must be taken if we are to succeed in bringing up the rising generation as healthy citizens.

They have undertaken a further step in the health programme and are co-operating in the establishment of a Solarium. We will make further reference to this in our School Report in this volume.

The work of the Department is growing very rapidly and it is necessary to ask for an increase in our staff. We have been forced to employ temporary assistance in the office during the past year, but the increase in the work has become such that we must have permanent service.

Cemetery-sites approved.—New Denver (extension), Errington, Cowichan Station, Quamichan, Nanaimo (Chinese), and Squamish.

Sewage-disposal Systems approved.—Point Grey (extension), South Vancouver (extension), Vancouver (extension), and Kelowna (extension).

Water-supply Systems approved.—Saanich (Lake District), Point Grey (extension), Coquitlam Municipality (extension), Coldstream Municipality (Antwerp Springs), Summerland (extension), Cranbrook (alterations and extension), Trail (alterations and extension), Vancouver (extension), and North Vancouver City (extension).

We are appending reports from the Tuberculosis Inspector and the Vital Statistics Branch, together with a report of the Medical Inspection of Schools. A careful perusal of these will afford very interesting reading to the citizens of our Province, and our only regret is that the public as a whole do not seem to understand that there is issued from the Government reports dealing with all the affairs of the Province, which should at least interest the shareholders of the company—that is, the taxpayers of British Columbia.

I must be allowed to express my great appreciation of the co-operation which I receive from the members of my staff. Every request is immediately complied with, extra work is cheerfully undertaken, and overtime used. All the staff take a great interest in their work and it has been a pleasure to carry on with them.

I would like, sir, to express for myself and staff our appreciation of the co-operation which we receive from yourself. Your interest in this Department is very stimulating and we are confident that it augurs well for the future, in bringing our work to the knowledge of the public in general.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your obedient servant,

H. E. YOUNG, M.D., C.M.,
Provincial Health Officer.

GENERAL REPORTS.

SANITARY INSPECTION.

SANITARY INSPECTOR'S OFFICE,
VICTORIA, B.C., June 30th, 1925.

H. E. Young, M.D., C.M., LL.D.,
Provincial Medical Officer of Health, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit my Fifteenth Annual Report on the work undertaken by this branch of your Department during the past year.

As predicted in my last report, an era of prosperity has commenced in British Columbia, and with it many new phases and problems requiring prophylactic measures are being met cheerfully and in nearly every case with gratifying results.

This branch of your Department embraces the inspection of mining, logging, and numerous other important industrial plants, together with the supervision of public watersheds and supply systems, fish- and food-canning plants, selection or approval of cemetery-sites, summer resorts, also quarantine and foreshore supervision, covering an important sphere of usefulness.

Eliminating details, which our files would show, I will simply touch on the major points.

Infectious or contagious outbreaks in the unorganized districts have fortunately been few, and at this writing every case has been closely followed up and its spread effectually stopped.

INDUSTRIAL.

Logging, mining, and fishing are the principal industries of this Province and 75 per cent. of these are located along our 6,000 miles of coastal line. The output from these industries runs into scores of millions of dollars and the employment of many thousands of men, yet we have industrial peace and splendid sanitary conditions throughout these far-scattered and remotely located camps. We can not claim all the credit for this condition, because without the cheerful co-operation of the operators our work would be full of strife.

SALMON-CANNERIES.

The salmon-canning industry this year bids fair to be a good average, with a waiting market for the entire output. The canneries are all operating in a manner that brings much surprise and unstinted praise from the many visitors and tourists who are permitted to inspect without restraint the entire canning process from net to the labelled can.

So perfected and ingenious are the mechanical means of handling and cooking the fish that from the time the salmon are caught in the sea to the time they are canned and ready for the consumer's table the fish are scarcely touched by human hands. Yet, in spite of that, our regulations and also the Federal regulations regarding the premises, fish, and health condition of employees are most stringent.

Following the visits of tourists, we are frequently asked for copies of our regulations which visitors have noticed posted around the different canneries. We are informed that they will be used as a standard for food-product factories in many parts of the world.

FRUIT-CANNERIES.

What the salmon-canneries are on the Coast in point of cleanliness and quality of product, the same can be said for the Okanagan and its wonderful fruit. Every year finds this health-giving food better known and recognized by the outside world, and it is gratifying to be able to say that not a single instance of faulty packing or canning of Okanagan fruit has been brought to our notice in the fruit-canning industry of British Columbia.

WATERSHEDS.

The Sanitary Regulations provided especially for watersheds are responsible in a great measure for the freedom of British Columbia from water-borne diseases. These regulations are being observed and the drinking-water for more than one-half of our population is preserved in all its unrivalled purity. The city medical and engineering departments of Vancouver and North Vancouver are entitled to credit for the active and persistent co-operation in enforcing our regulations on the Capilano, Lynn Creek, and Seymour watersheds.

Auto Tourist Camps.

The number of visiting automobile tourists this year has surpassed all anticipations and, whilst those in charge have had a strenuous time, the sanitary condition of these camps has been quite up to the standard imposed by our regulations formulated in 1923.

Seaside Summer Resorts.

British Columbians in general seem to incline towards the open-air life and the seaside resorts are never altogether deserted, but this year seems to surpass all previous years for crowds. The majority of these resorts are located on the Coast in unorganized territory and consequently directly under the supervision of this Department, entailing much travel and attention.

The greatest problem for these places is an adequate and modern domestic water-supply. The camper does not usually feel inclined to expend money on a temporary need and consequently "takes a chance" with water "not above suspicion." The open-air life may add to the powers of resistance, but the carelessness of some campers gives much concern to the visiting Sanitary Inspector. Poster propaganda, however, is having a beneficial effect, and already we are glad to note that a well-known steamship company operating a large resort on Bowen Island has installed a modern piped water system, septic tanks, and a first-aid officer with full kit of supplies and a first-aid depot has been established at this popular summer resort. It is a most commendable step and has already proved its worth to many visitors during the season just passed.

Nuisances.

This has been our busiest year for nuisances located within the confines of self-governing rural municipalities. In every instance the local officers have shown a willingness to accept their responsibility, but in many cases the solution is a serious problem, involving the expenditure of considerable money, which the property-owners object to.

Villages and camps are emerging into the status of towns and the matter of proper drainage or sewerage is overlooked until the danger-point is apparent. One of our most popular seaside resorts located within a rural municipality is becoming so thickly populated as to be a serious problem from a sanitary standpoint. At week-ends the place is so crowded that the usual sanitary conveniences are inadequate and permanent residents are subject to nuisances which baffle the local authorities. It is quite apparent that unless the municipalities affected formulate some drastic plan to cope with the increasing number of visitors to their shores a serious health menace is very probable. Whilst upon this subject, I would beg to remind you of the recent Court decision which places all foreshore (outside the confines of certain harbours) under Provincial control. This will need your most careful consideration in order to meet the sanitary problems presenting.

The number of inspection visits made to logging and mining camps during the past year approximates 300; to canneries, 135; pulp plants and quarries, 35; summer resorts, 40; cemeteries, 6; investigating and abating nuisances, 50.

Owing to the far-sightedness of the Honourable Dr. J. D. MacLean, this branch of your service is equipped with transportation facilities which have enabled me to conduct the work in a thorough and intensive manner at a minimum of expense, but with the rapid expansion of our industrial life in the outlying and coastal districts it is quite apparent that this department will need increased assistance.

I cannot conclude this report without mentioning the unstinted and valuable co-operation of the Provincial Police in looking after the sanitary welfare in their respective districts. Every constable is a sanitary officer and he is often called upon to solve problems only met with in an isolated and new country. Their tact and courteousness has prevented the necessity of resorting to drastic measures in the enforcement of the law.

Chief Sanitary Inspector.

TRAVELLING MEDICAL HEALTH OFFICER'S REPORT.

PROVINCIAL BOARD OF HEALTH,
VICTORIA, B.C., July 31st, 1925.

The Honourable William Sloan,
Provincial Secretary, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit herewith my second annual report as Travelling Medical Health Officer for the Province.

Our plan of the first year, of notification of members of the medical profession individually as to the time of my visits, proving so satisfactory, it was deemed advisable to continue that method for another year. With very few exceptions, I continued as last year to consult with and examine only cases referred to me through the family physician and reported on the cases to them.

In connection with this part of my work I visited sixty-five towns and villages and interviewed 132 different doctors. This does not include meetings with groups of doctors, such as meeting with the Victoria Medical Association and also with the Okanagan Division of the British Columbia Medical Association.

Many of these towns I visited a second and several a third time, and in these cases it is illustrative of the possibilities of the work to see that the more frequent the visits the more cases are referred for examination.

Nanaimo being the largest town in the territory actively served by me, and also due to the fact that there seemed to be a goodly number of cases there, I decided to try out the holding of clinics at regular intervals. So the first week of every third month I spent in Nanaimo. Before beginning that I took up the question of X-ray with the Hospital Committee of the Western Fuel Company, to whom the machine belongs, and also with Drs. Hall, who operate the machine, and both very willingly offered their services free of charge to those unable to pay. Judging by the co-operation I have received from practically every doctor in the town, this service is appreciated by them and it is my intention to continue the same in the future.

I have seen and examined 342 persons, making in all 382 examinations, forty of them being re-examinations. Of these 342, I have classed 126 as positively tuberculous, 68 as suspects, 15 as contacts, and 133 as non-tubercular.

Of the positive cases, there was practically every variety of case, as last year, from the incipient to the far advanced. Many cases were referred to me not so much for diagnosis as for advice as to the best method of treatment to follow.

The increased number of suspects is largely made up of children of school age referred to me mostly by the school doctor or nurse on account of debility of one form or another. These often do not show anything very definite on physical examination as the lungs are usually clear, but we know from experience that a tubercular infection is the underlying cause in many cases. These are the cases for which preventive treatment is indicated. Then there is the border-line case that has many of the symptoms of the disease without any of the physical signs, that class of case which the X-ray is often very helpful in clearing up.

Contacts were cases in whose immediate family some member was or had been tubercular.

Of the 133 classed as non-tubercular, they represented a variety of conditions. The increased percentage of non-tubercular in the total number of cases examined is a good indication of the growing interest in the work, for it shows an effort to get cases in the earlier stages which probably is the most important single factor in the whole tubercular problem.

Of the nationality of these 342 cases, my list is hardly complete, but as far as recorded is as follows: Canadian-born, representing every Province in the Dominion, 195; born in British Isles, 103; American-born, 15; Indian, 4; and other nationalities, 30.

I have been holding clinics at Saanich Health Centre one afternoon a week when in Victoria. Here the cases are referred by the School Nurse and illustrate the case-finding possibilities of a clinic.

THE EDUCATIONAL PART OF WORK.

This work was carried on in a similar manner to last year, meetings being held in localities in which we were unable to make such arrangements last year. In addition, I have paid more attention to the nursing profession, having given talks to seven classes of nurses in training and two to Graduate Nurses' Societies.

The Women's Institutes I again found willing messengers of health propaganda. Ten meetings were arranged through them. Service clubs account for four meetings. The balance, of a total of thirty-six, were arranged through a variety of organizations, as Parent-Teachers; Victoria Medical Society; Tuberculous Veterans' Association, Victoria; high-school classes; and fraternal organizations.

One of the best meetings held was under the auspices of the I.O.F. of Grand Forks. This society donated their hall for the meeting, adjourned their regular meeting early for that purpose, and advertised the meeting well beforehand. We had an attendance of about seventy-five.

While this method of education is important, another method more effective probably is short personal talks in trains, hotel lobbies, etc., for the interest in this disease is almost universal.

As your Department was taken up with the hospitals the advisability of revision of hospital by-laws, or, in cases where no by-laws existed, the necessity for the passing of such by-laws in order to comply with the "Hospital Act," I was asked to go over the existing by-laws and suggest needed changes.

This work is still being continued, as many of the changes suggested were not of sufficient importance to require the calling of a special meeting of hospital societies for the purpose of amending by-laws. Others were in doubt as to what was actually required. In many of the latter cases I have been able to meet with the Secretary of the Hospital Board and in some cases the full Boards, and take up the matter personally with them. This is the most satisfactory way of dealing with it. We hope to have this matter cleared up early in the New Year.

I have inspected thirteen hospitals officially at the instance of your Department, and many others unofficially.

As was the case last year, there are complaints from the doctors of being unable to get cases into the Sanatorium when diagnosed; particularly does this apply to female patients. I feel that we do need increased Sanatorium accommodation either at Tranquille or elsewhere. Personally, I believe if that accommodation was provided at the Coast, either in Vancouver or Victoria, that it would serve the purpose equally as well as at Tranquille. Perhaps the building in Vancouver formerly used by the University, originally intended, I believe, as a tubercular hospital, can be made to supply that need.

That division of my work that has to do with the following-up of cases discharged from the Sanatorium is much appreciated by the patients. In order to keep in touch with patients at the Sanatorium, I spent two periods of a few days each per year at Tranquille.

I am still interested in a survey of school-children in some part of the Dry Belt of British Columbia. I interviewed Colonel Nasmith, of the Canadian Red Cross Society, when in Vancouver as to the possibility of financial assistance for same.

In conclusion, I wish to express my hearty appreciation of the helpful suggestions of Dr. H. E. Young, Provincial Health Officer, and of the co-operation of the doctors, nurses, and the different organizations that have been of material assistance in disseminating knowledge of the fact of the curability and preventability of tuberculosis, the disbelief in the former being largely responsible for the fact that so many cases reach an advanced stage before coming under the care of their physician.

I have, etc.,

Travelling Medical Health Officer.

REPORT ON MEDICAL INSPECTION OF SCHOOLS.

PROVINCIAL BOARD OF HEALTH,
VICTORIA, B.C., June 30th, 1925.

The Honourable William Sloan,
Provincial Secretary, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—Herewith I beg to hand you the Fourteenth Annual Report of the Medical Inspection of Schools for the Province of British Columbia.

During the past year our Nursing Service has been extended and we are pleased to be able to report a very great improvement in the attitude of the people towards the medical inspection of schools. Under the "Medical Inspection of Schools Act," the medical man appointed to do the work diagnoses defects and notifies the parents. He is not allowed to practise on these cases for obvious reasons, and the result has been that in very many cases nothing is done by the parents to have the defects corrected.

With the extension of our Nursing Service we have the means of carrying on follow-up work, and through our trained nurses, who are working in conjunction with the Medical Inspectors, the real purport of the doctor's notice is explained and the parent is shown the folly of neglecting the treatment that will remove defects that in after-life means impairment of health.

The fact that these truths are being brought home is shown by the great interest that is being taken by the Women's Institutes in the crippled children of the Province. The interest that has been taken during the past two years has led to a greater understanding on their part of how the defects have arisen and they are determined that prevention shall be the key-note of the management of the children's troubles.

Between fifty and sixty cases have been taken charge of by the Women's Institute Committee for Crippled Children and cures of the majority of the cases have been effected and great improvement in others. This means that the children must be sent to the hospital, operated on, and then the convalescent period, which sometimes is drawn out and necessitates the child remaining in the wards of the hospital.

This is not good either from the doctor's standpoint or from that of the child. Their education is neglected and they are of necessity thrown into the company of sick people.

There are many cases of defects amongst children that can be cured without operation, and in order to provide a place for such cases, and also to provide a suitable place for those upon whom an operation has been necessary, it has been decided to establish a Solarium, to which these cases can be taken where treatment will be carried on under the very best conditions.

This movement is being sponsored by the Women's Institutes, and under the active management of Dr. C. Wace, of Victoria, is shaping up. A site has been obtained and building will be proceeded with. I am indebted to Dr. Wace for the following account of the Solarium:—

"I have already briefly referred to the activities of the Women's Institutes and to the interest they are taking in the establishment on Vancouver Island of a Home, or Solarium, for the delicate and crippled children of Western Canada.

"The great advances in our knowledge of heliotherapy and the value of artificial sunlight treatment by means of special violet-ray lamps are leading to a very extensive use of natural and artificial sun-baths in all parts of the world. This is more especially noticeable in many of the larger cities of England.

"The south end of Vancouver Island, with its yearly record of bright sunshine and equable temperature, presents an ideal climate for an institution on the lines advocated by the Women's Institutes.

"It is important to realize that this movement aims not only at the cure and education of the crippled child, but also at the prevention of more serious illness in children who are already debilitated from sickness or other causes. A study of the report of the Tuberculosis Survey Committee of School Children in South Vancouver will give conclusive evidence of the need for this preventive aspect of the work.

"The interest that is already being taken in the project to build the Solarium on a site at Malahat Beach is very widespread and increasing. It is probable that before another year's report is issued the Solarium will be an established institution."

In my last report I spoke of the dental work which is being carried on, and I am pleased to say that this work appeals very strongly to the people, and in different points of the Province we are establishing dental clinics. One drawback in the carrying-out of this work is the difficulty of getting dentists to take it up, which is not to be wondered at, as dental work is all office-work and a man in practice does not feel able to leave his office for any length of time, but in respect to the co-operation from the dental profession we are receiving every help from them and we will gradually be able to accomplish very striking results.

Our plan usually is to have a survey made of a school or a number of schools in a district by a competent dentist, which gives the people an idea of the work which is to be done. Each case is reported to the parents and an estimate of the cost is given. The parents may either take the child to their own dentist or have the dentist, who is selected for the work, carry it out. The cost under this plan has been reduced very much. Indigents are taken care of either by the local committees or with some assistance from the Government.

The reports of the schools this year show that there were about 5,300 more pupils examined than last year, and the percentage of defects shows a very substantial decrease, and we have inspected thirty-three more schools than in the former year.

The work in regard to the schools is not spectacular, but I feel very much encouraged with the substantial progress that we are making and the people are coming to realize more the real purport of the work.

Details of the examination for each school follow.

I have, etc.,
H. E. Young, M.D., C.M.,
Provincial Health Officer.

REGISTRAR'S REPORT UNDER THE VITAL STATISTICS ACT.

VICTORIA, B.C., June 30th, 1925.

H. E. Young, Esq., M.D., C.M., LL.D.,
Secretary, Provincial Board of Health, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit the Fifty-third Report of Vital Statistics for the year ended December 31st, 1924

POPULATION.

Revised estimates by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics give the population of the Province, including native Indians, as follows:—

1921 (census)	524,582
1922	535,000
1923	544,000
1924	553,000

Should comparison be made between the rates for the year 1924 and those published in the reports of the immediate preceding years, allowance must be made for this revision in the estimates of population. The Annual Report of the Department of Indian Affairs for the year ended March 31st, 1924, gives the Indian population of the Province as 24,316, as against 25,694 for the year ended March 31st, 1922.

REGISTRATIONS, 1922, 1923, AND 1924 (EXCLUSIVE OF INDIANS).

The following table shows the total number of registrations of births, deaths, and marriages in the different divisions of the Province for the years 1922, 1923, and 1924:—

BIRTHS.

The total number of registrations of births, including 284 still-births, recorded during the year ended December 31st, 1924, was 11,252, as against 10,777 in the year 1923. Of this total, 5,820 were registrations of male children and 5,432 of female children. The births of 8,895 children born alive during the year were registered in 1924. During the six months ending June 30th, 1925, the births of 822 children born alive during 1924 were registered, thus making a total of 9,717 living births for the year 1924, as against 9,585 living births for the year 1923. The population of the Province (excluding native Indians) as estimated by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics was 528,084, and the rate per 1,000 of population for living births for the year 1924 was 18.3, as against 18.1 for the year 1923 and 19.3 for the year 1922.

Of a total of 11,252 registrations of births recorded during the year 1924, 7,949, or 70.6, showed that the fathers were of British origin.

In the following table all registrations of births received between January 1st, 1920, and December 31st 1924, have been segregated and assigned to the actual year in which the births occurred irrespective of the date of registration. It should be noted that births which occurred during the year 1924 but which were not registered until the year 1925 are not included in the total number of births for the year 1924. The number of these births was 822.

REGISTRATIONS ASSIGNED TO YEAR OF BIRTH (STILL-BIRTHS INCLUDED).

NATURAL INCREASE.

The following table is taken from the Preliminary Report, Vital Statistics, Canada, 1924. The report remarks that the betterment shown by the year 1924 over the year 1923 was not due to an increase in the birth-rate, which showed a falling-off, but to a decrease in the death-rate from 10.5 to 9.8 per 1,000 estimated population.

	1924.		1923.		1922.

DEATHS.

The rate per 1,000 of population for registrations of deaths (exclusive of still-born) for the year 1924 was 8.45, as against 8.71 for the year 1923 and 8.75 for the year 1922.

Deaths attributed to respiratory diseases show a considerable decrease on the figures for the two preceding years—namely, 371 in 1924, as against 477 in 1923 and 625 in 1922.

Deaths due to external causes numbered 576, or 12.7 per cent. of all deaths registered.

Of the total number of decedents, 1,225 males and 795 females were given as married, 1,210 males and 535 females as single, 267 males and 303 females as widowed, 14 males and 11 females as divorced, and the balance, 110 males and 2 females, as not given; 1,937 males and 1,352 females (72.4 of all deaths) were given as being of British origin; 291 children were registered as still-births—152 males, 138 females, and 1 sex not given.

INFANT MORTALITY.

Exclusive of still-births, the deaths of 484 children under 1 year of age were registered during the year ended December 31st, 1924, and of these 276 were deaths of male and 208 of female children. As compared with the year 1923, there was a decrease in the year 1924 of 98 in the number of deaths, while the rate per 1,000 of living births has dropped from 67.4 to 54.4. The high mortality of infants can in a great measure be attributed to deaths of children from immaturity or congenital debility. Of the total number of deaths of children under 1 year of age, 205 occurred within the first week of birth, 264 failed to reach the age of 1 month, and 367 died under 4 months old.

The following table gives the rates of infant mortality in various parts of the world:—

Countries.	Year.	Rate.
Chili	1922	240
Ceylon	1922	187
Jamaica	1922	177
Japan	1922	166
Germany	1921	134

Australia	1923	60
British Columbia	1923	54
Queensland	1923	53
New Zealand	1923	43

TUBERCULOSIS.

The number of deaths from tuberculosis registered during the year 1924 was 401, or 8.84 per cent. of all deaths (exclusive of still-born), as against 379, or 8.23 per cent., for the year 1923.

The foregoing figures do not include deaths from tuberculosis received under Indian returns, which numbered 125 during the year 1924 and 133 during the year 1923.

The deaths from tuberculosis among the specified races were as follows:—

	1924.	1923.
Chinese	38	44
Japanese	24	23
Indians (native)	125	133
Other races	339	312

CANCER.

The number of deaths from cancer registered during the year 1924 was 435, or 9.70 per cent. of all deaths (exclusive of still-born), as against 436, or 9.47 per cent., for the year 1923. There were 6 deaths from cancer under the Indian returns which are not included above. Deaths from cancer among the Japanese and Chinese numbered 11 and 9 respectively.

AGES OF DECEDENTS.

The following is a comparative statement re the ages of decedents for the years 1921, 1922, 1923, and 1924:—

MARRIAGES.

The number of marriages registered during the year 1924 was 3,945, as against 3,856 in 1923 and 3,709 in 1922.

ORIENTAL RACES.

Chinese.—The total number of Chinese registrations of birth during the year ended December 31st, 1924, was 493, as against 337 registrations for the year 1923. There were 197 children born and registered during the year 1924, the balance being registrations of children born prior to 1924. The large increase in the number of Chinese registrations of births is due to the fact that under the "Chinese Immigration Act" all Chinese were compelled to register.

The number of Chinese deaths registered during the year 1924 including 3 still-births, was 207, as against 259 during the previous year. The deaths of children under 1 year of age, exclusive of 3 still-births, was 16, as against 21 in the year 1923. There were 38 deaths from tuberculosis and 12 deaths from cancer among the Chinese in the year 1924.

Japanese.—There were 949 registrations of Japanese births during the year 1924, as against 889 registrations in the previous year; 617 Japanese children were born and registered during the year ended December 31st, 1924, as against 595 during the same period in the previous year.

Death registrations of Japanese during the year 1924 were 155, excluding 15 still-births. The number of deaths of children under 1 year of age, excluding still-births, was 40, as against 81 during the year 1923. The number of deaths from tuberculosis and cancer was 24 and 11 respectively, as against 23 and 5 during the year 1923.

INDIAN RETURNS.

The total number of registrations of births of Indians for the year ended December 31st, 1924, was 408, and of these 206 were males and 202 females. Children born and registered in the year numbered 390, as compared with 299 in the previous year. The birth-rate per 1,000 of population was 16.7.

Registrations of deaths among Indians numbered 457 in the year 1924, as against 432 in the year 1923, 252 being deaths of males and 205 of females. The death-rate per 1,000 of population was 18.7. Deaths from tuberculosis and cancer showed a slight decrease as compared with the preceding year, being 125 and 6 respectively, as against 133 from tuberculosis and 9 from cancer in the year 1923. The number of deaths of children under 1 year of age was 95, as compared with 70 in the year 1923; 56.4 per cent. of the total number of decedents were under the age of 20 years. It will be noted that the number of deaths exceeded the number of births by 49.

Registrations of marriages numbered 120, as against 104 in the year 1923.

"ADOPTION ACT."

Particulars of births relating to 111 children adopted under the "Adoption Act" have been received and filed in this office during the year 1924.

With regard to the figures quoted above, I would remark that the large increase of work has been met with comparatively little temporary assistance. The credit for dealing with this increase is in a very great measure due to the efficiency and loyalty of my staff, and to the willing and prompt assistance invariably received from all officials connected with this Department.

I have, etc.,

Deputy Registrar of Births, Deaths, and Marriages.

	$72,498,333 00	$64,677,856 90

(1.) The Government of British Columbia holds first mortgage on all C.N. Railway lines within the Province, and the line is now controlled and operated by the Dominion Government.

(2.) The Government of British Columbia now controls and operates this Railway and provision is made in the Estimates of 1925–26 for setting up a Sinking Fund.

(3.) These guaranteed securities are issued upon the credit of, and constitute an indebtedness of the municipalities within the Sewerage District comprising the City of Vancouver, and the District Municipalities of Point Grey, Burnaby, and South Vancouver. The Sinking Fund as at June 30th, 1925, amounted to $184,924.31, being $16,247.71 in excess of requirements.

(4.) The separate accounts of the Agricultural Credits Commission, now operated by the Land Settlement Board (a Provincial Government Department), show a Sinking Fund and accumulated interest to 31st December, 1924, of $238,909.99 against this liability.

† Of this amount $5,925,195.00 is held by the Province as security for loans to the P.G.E. Railway Co.

I certify that the foregoing Balance-sheet is in agreement with the books of the Government of the Province of British Columbia as at 31st March, 1925.

The amount of "Arrears of Assessed Taxes" shown under Current Assets represents the totals according to the Assessment Rolls, less an ample allowance for items which may prove to be uncollectable.

Advances to the Land Settlement Board are shown at book value, but the accounts of the Board show a deficit of $777,730.16 as at 31st December, 1924, for which no provision has been made. No reserve has been set up in the books of the Board for losses on Cattle Clubs, which collections would indicate to be necessary, nor for advances to Dyking and Drainage Districts, for which the Board act as Commissioners.

Advances to the Industrial Development Fund are shown at book value, no provision being made for losses which will accrue upon liquidation of businesses now closed down.

PROVINCIAL INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL FOR BOYS.

SUPERINTENDENT'S ANNUAL REPORT.

The Honourable William Sloan,
Provincial Secretary, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit herewith the Annual Report of the Provincial Industrial School for Boys, Port Coquitlam, B.C., for the fiscal year 1924–25.

POPULATION.

On roll, March 31st, 1924	127
Admissions during year	62
Total	189
Releases during year	54
Total on roll, March 31st, 1925	135

Making an average of 136 per month during the year.

It is worthy of mention that out of the fifty-four boys released during the fiscal year, none of them have been returned and, so far as our information goes, the majority are doing well, and all would be doing well if the parents or guardians had undergone as great a change as the boys did while in our care.

At present we know of one boy earning over $200 a month as a stenographer by day and by playing a cornet in the evening, both of which he learned while with us. Another is an engineer on board a ship; several are owners of their own cars and many are scattered all over the world making history.

RELIGIOUS STATISTICS.

Every facility is given a boy to practise his own form of religion. Services are held for Protestants every Sunday afternoon in the Auditorium, the local ministers and Salvation Army officers conducting on alternate Sundays. Roman Catholic services are held by a priest from Port Moody. In addition to these services, morning and evening prayers are conducted daily and grace is said before and after each meal.

Religious denominations: Church of England, 18; Presbyterian, 47; Roman Catholic, 29; Methodist, 18; Latter Day Saints, 1; Lutheran, 1; Greek Catholic, 2; Seventh Day Adventists, 2; Baptists, 10; Salvation Army, 1; New Thought, 1; Bible Students, 1; Mission, 2; Christian Science, 1; Russian Church, 1.

WORK ACCOMPLISHED BY DEPARTMENTS.

TAILORING DEPARTMENT.

(One man and four boys.)

In an institution like ours, where boys are ever on the move and being full of life and vitality, and where play has an important part in their daily life, there is of necessity a heavy demand made upon their clothing.

The following will convey how busy this department has been during the year:—

New clothing—

Overalls	432
Uniforms (full)	25
Pants	149
Coats (white)	51
Aprons	72
Aprons (carpenters)	13
Aprons (blacksmiths)	2
Bed-ticks	14
Bed-covers	6
Curtains	5
Total articles	769

Repairs—
Overalls	1,303
Mackinaws	60
Pants	46
Uniforms pressed and repaired	193
Suits pressed and repaired	52
Total articles	1,654

Shoemaking Department.

(One man and eight boys.)

During the year this department did considerable minor repairs to harness, belts, straps, etc., from the Farm Department, in addition to the following:—

Credits.

New boots made, 193 pairs at $5.50 per pair	$1,061 50
Boots repaired, 1,032 pairs at $2 per pair	2,064 00
Total credits	$3,125 50

Debit.

Shoe-finding and replacements	$1,084 03

Blacksmith Department.

In this department all of the minor repairs to farm machinery and implements are carried out. Shovels are rehandled, pickaxes sharpened, bolts made, and a hundred-and-one things attended to that would be expensive if purchased outside. The usefulness of this department will be increased in the future as it is now better housed and equipped.

Paint Department.

(One man part time and three boys.)

The following work has been done during the year by the Paint Department: Completion of auditorium, interior and exterior, all three-coat work on exterior and three-coat work on interior. New blacksmith-shop received three coats of paint. Painting No. 1 cottage, interior only, received three coats of paint throughout. All fence-work around the grounds received two coats of paint. Painting of new calf-barn, interior and exterior, all two-coat work, besides considerable limewashing. All this work being in addition to that done by the Public Works Department.

Garage.

(Two boys.)

In this department all minor repairs and cleaning of cars are done by the boys, which means a considerable saving; in fact, our expenses in connection with the upkeep of cars during the year was very much less than last year, due chiefly to the good condition of the roads and the installation of a new gasolene-pump.

Grading and General Work.

(One man and new-comers and all difficult boys.)

During the year considerable work has been carried out on the sports-field and hundreds of yards of drain dug. We also erected fences around pasture-fields and poultry-runs, as well as excavating for new auditorium and building of roads and parks to same. This group is at present engaged in putting down curbs and general improvements around the buildings under the direction of the Public Works Department.

PLUMBING AND ENGINEERING DEPARTMENTS.

(One man and six boys.)

In this department a great deal of work is accomplished that cannot very well be shown in black and white, but which aggregates in the year to a considerable amount. Appended is an extract from report submitted by our plumber and engineer:—

"I beg to submit report on the plumbing, heating, and electrical departments of your school from May 8th, 1924, to March 31st, 1925.

"To begin with, I find that the care of plumbing fixtures, sewers and drains, regulating water-supply to avoid excessive use of water, watching heating plants and electrical motors in various shops and buildings causes one man to step lively.

"The sewerage system gave us a lot of trouble last year owing to faulty joints. I found cement joints made with plenty of cement, sticking up and never swabbed out, causing drains to block up and the necessity of excavating, taking up and relaying the same.

"Another big undertaking was practically all the catch-basins and cement boxes for various valves, etc., had water-drains leading into them, but no outlet drain, causing boxes to be full and overflowing with water and making it compulsory to put in outlet drains. Five hundred dollars would not cover this work if it had been done by outside help.

"On the general repairs a great deal of mending has been done to avoid laying new traps, etc., in addition to the erection of the large new building (school-rooms and auditorium), causing quite a large job of plumbing with twenty-one fixtures, all the necessary drains, traps, and septic tank, also the necessary separate water-supply with fire-hydrants, a heating plant with 1,000 feet of radiation distributed through the building, with a boiler large enough to heat in addition the proposed swimming-tank and gymnasium.

"Water has been laid to the new blacksmith-shop. Another quite big undertaking has been completed in the way of water-supply, where some 1,600 feet of pipe has been laid, connecting up all the buildings that is supplied (except for a dry season in summer) from a lake above the school.

"In the sick-room and cell-room alterations were done with plumbing and two new bath-tubs installed. In the electrical department a great deal of alterations, rewiring, and extensions have been made with repairs to electrical motors for the various shops, also the wiring of the new blacksmith-shop, sick-rooms, and cell-rooms.

"All of which is respectfully submitted. "(Sgd.) E. KEITH."

PUBLIC WORKS.

During the year considerable improvements have been made around the grounds by the Public Works Department, amongst them being the installation of a road-lighting system, interior decorating of No. 2 cottage, new curbing, and providing plans for the new swimming-tank and gymnasium.

CARPENTER DEPARTMENT.

(One man and seven boys.)

This department has been kept busy during the year with constructive work, amongst the most important being the completion of the new auditorium and class-rooms, a splendid building and a great asset to the institution. New paint and blacksmith shops, calf-pens, as well as several hundred feet of picket fences and trellis-work. In addition to this work, new tables were made and the general appearance of the buildings kept in good repair.

MUSIC SECTION.

As in previous years, we found considerable difficulty in maintaining our brass band to a full state of efficiency, owing to the number of band-boys who were released during the year, resulting at times in making certain sections of our band so weak that it was impossible for the band to play in public. Our band this year was in greater demand than ever, and when we were able to go out with credit to ourselves, we fulfilled engagements at Vancouver, Haney, Burnaby, Point Grey, and Coquitlam.

School.

(Two female teachers.)

We moved into our new school building during the year and with the increased facilities there has been a very marked improvement in the work performed by the boys.

Division I.—In this division we commenced the year with twenty-one pupils. Nine were added from new admissions, seven were released for trades and duties, and four returned home. The total number in this division is now nineteen and their classifications are as follows: Grade VI., 2; Grade VII., 7; Grade VIII., 1; and their average on March 31st, 1925, based on conduct and work, was as follows: Highest, 89 per cent.; lowest, 63 per cent.; medium, 74 per cent.

Division II.—We commenced the year with twenty-nine pupils. Two were promoted to Division I., one was released for trade, and three returned home. The total number of pupils in this division is now twenty-three and they are classified as follows: Grade I., 2; Grade II., 5; Grade III., 6; Grade IV., 6; Grade V., 4; and their average on March 31st, 1925, based on conduct and work, was: Highest, 70 per cent.; lowest, 40 per cent.; medium, 66 per cent.; a creditable showing considering that nearly all of these boys are backward and difficult to handle outside.

Commercial and Business Course.—At the present time we have but two students in the office who study in the free time accorded by the daily office routine. We have no set text-book for commercial law and these boys only take lessons as they rise incidentally in our work.

During the year two boys were returned to their homes. Both these boys made splendid progress in their studies during the time they were employed in the office, one being awarded the Underwood bronze medal and bar for typewriting at a net rate of fifty words a minute, and the other, the Underwood bronze medal for typewriting at a net rate of forty words a minute, as well as certificates for sight tests in typewriting. We hope to continue with the same success in the future.

Sports Section.

I am pleased to say that our boys continue to take a deep interest in baseball, football, and seasonable sports. Our grounds are gradually getting into shape and will in due course be suitable in every respect.

Poultry and Rabbits.

(One man part time and seven boys.)

Credits.

Poultry and eggs supplied to institution as follows:—

Eggs, 16,893 at 40 cents per dozen	$563 68
Rabbits for table use, 32	32 00
Cockerels for table use, 49	49 00
Drakes for table use, 6	12 00
Hens for table use, 7	7 00
Geese for table use, 4	9 00
Roosters sold, 2	8 00
Eggs sold, 2 sittings	2 00
Total credits	$682 68

Debit.

Feed, etc.	$604 25

We were most unfortunate this year with our young chickens and ducklings. A large number were killed by weasels and rats and over 400 died with disease, but in spite of these handicaps the showing on the credit side is very creditable and will improve each year.

DENTAL REPORT.

We regret to announce that our dentist, Dr. N. B. Forrester, was killed on New Year's Eve in an auto accident. During his term with us he performed his work faithfully and well. His successor has not yet been appointed.

MEDICAL OFFICER'S REPORT.

The following is our medical officer's report covering the work for the year:—

"The health of the boys during the past year has been rather better than the previous twelve months. There have been no new cases of rheumatism and heart involvement. There has been, however, a rather striking incidence of acute appendicitis, with recovery in each instance following operations. We have been quite free in the school from contagious diseases, although one boy in hospital for another condition contracted scarlet fever while there, with an uneventful recovery. I regret to record one death from acute double pneumonia.

"Apart from the common run of lesser accidents, burns, abscesses, etc., the admissions to hospital were as follows: Acute appendicitis, 6; crushed fingers, 1; anal abscess and fistula, 2; suppurating cervical glands, 1; suppurative bursitis (prepatellar bursa), 1; extensive burns (before admission to school), 1; tuberculous ulceration of leg, 1; pneumonia (death), 1; gonorrhœa, 1; painful fibromyomata of both feet (excision), 1; tonsillectomy, 4; circumcision, 2.

"The following conditions were noted on examination of the sixty-two new boys admitted: Enlarged tonsils and adenoids, 5; previous heart-disease, 1; impaired vision, 6; inguinal hernia,

1; hydrocele, 1; variococele, 1; undescended testicle, 1; phimosis, 3; scabies, 1; flat feet, 7; large burn, 1.

"I would again call your attention to the fact that almost 50 per cent. of the new boys have never been vaccinated against smallpox.

"(Sgd.) STANLEY PAULIN, M.D."

ENTERTAINMENTS, ETC.

Trip through Shelly's bakery; illustrated lecture on "Trip across Canada" by G. C. Hatt, of Port Moody; St. Marks' concert party from Vancouver; Methodist concert party from Vancouver; Baptist concert party from Vancouver; Salvation Army concert party from Vancouver; Shelly's minstrel troupe; annual concert, opening of new auditorium; picture-shows, baseball matches, etc.

All of these entertainments helped to make life run more smoothly and made our boys feel that they were not forgotten by the big world outside.

DONATIONS, ETC.

Radio set from the Rotary Club of Vancouver; 15 copies of book entitled "Peace Rive Joe" from the author, J. P. Babcock, Esq.; $25 from the North-west Travellers' Association of Canada; 50 pairs of Indian clubs from the Canadian Club; set of war memorial pictures from the Provincial Chapter, I.O.D.E.; Christmas gifts from the Nanaimo Kiwanis Club to boys from Nanaimo and district.

To one and all we say many thanks.

VISITORS.

Hon. W. Sloan; Dr. Rothwell; delegation from W.C.T.U., who were attending convention at New Westminster; delegation from the Ministerial Association, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. Collister, New Westminster; A. Johnson, New Westminster; J. L. White, Deputy Provincial Secretary, Victoria; Miss Olive M. Snyder, Victoria; Mrs. Harry Duker and party from Vancouver; Alderman W. McAdam, New Westminster; A. E. PUBLIC WORKS REPORT.

REPORT OF THE DEPUTY MINISTER AND PUBLIC WORKS ENGINEER.

PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS,
VICTORIA, B.C., July 2nd, 1925.

Hon. W. H. Sutherland, M.D.,
Minister of Public Works, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit my report for the fiscal year 1924–25.

ORGANIZATION AND LABOUR.

Consequent upon the resignation of the District Engineer at Kamloops several changes were necessary. District Engineer Taylor was transferred from Prince Rupert to Kamloops and District Engineer Mackay from 150-Mile House to Prince Rupert. E. S. Jones, Assistant District Engineer, Vernon, was appointed District Engineer at 150-Mile House. R. Lowe, Assistant District Engineer was transferred from Lillooet to Vanderhoof (in which district there is considerable work necessitating the services of an Engineer) and O. G. Gallaher was appointed in his place. Other appointments were that of H. W. Stevens as Assistant District Engineer at Golden, in room of G. C. Tassie, transferred to Vernon.

Labour-supply was plentiful and the employment of our day-labour forces throughout the Province appeared to have given all-round satisfaction. To take care of the unemployment situation during the winter months suitable relief-work was undertaken at various centres.

ROADS AND TRAILS.

Whilst this year did not set any new records either as to the extent or nature of individual projects, the aggregate accomplishments have been very creditable. In addition to 250 miles of new trails, over 500 miles of roads of various types were added to the highway mileage, now approximating 17,000 miles. The extension of many of the main trunk highways again formed a large part of the year's programme. An outstanding event was the awarding of contracts for the construction of the major portion of the Fraser–Canyon section of the Old Cariboo Road. Although comparatively little construction-work was done during the fiscal year, considerable preparatory work was undertaken, both in relocating the highway and in organizing construction camps. With a view to having the highway constructed on the best possible alignment within the maximum grade of 8 per cent., the combined skill and experience of registered professional civil engineers have been concentrated upon this great highway undertaking.

I have personally given this highly important matter a large proportion of my time and attention. In order that this highway may be open for traffic as far as Lytton by the summer of 1926, there were constructed by day-labour 2 miles at Hope and Lytton and 1 mile north of Cheam View. Work was commenced by contract on a most necessary diversion (1.2 miles) at Jones Hill, between Hope and Rosedale. As a relief measure during the winter considerable reconstruction-work was also undertaken by day-labour between Hope and Rosedale.

The Cariboo Road, which links up with the Fraser Canyon section of this great trunk highway, was extended several miles between Quesnel and Fort George. Several stretches of this section were also reconstructed on improved locations and other portions widened and gravel-surfaced.

Similar reconstruction and improvement works were undertaken on the Fort George–Hazelton Highway. On the southern route of the Trans-Provincial Highway the following work was satisfactorily carried out all by day-labour:—

Construction of 2-mile diversion at Genelle, between Trail and Castlegar; extension of macadamizing near Creston; reconstruction of 2-mile diversion between Cranbrook and Goatfell; reconstruction at Hairpin Bend, west of Fernie; and widening, etc., at Crowsnest Pass (relief-work). In addition, several miles of this highway throughout the Province were gravel-surfaced.

On the northern route of the Trans-Provincial Highway several diversions and widenings were successfully undertaken by day-labour between Kamloops and Salmon Arm and between Kamloops and Vernon. Particularly contiguous to those cities an endeavour was made to improve the standard of highway by widening, straightening, and regrading, to the apparent approval of the municipal authorities in particular and the motoring public in general.

The construction of several other important trunk highways was advanced. On the Edgewood–Vernon Road 10¼ miles of heavy construction-work between Inonoaklin Crossing and Kettle River were satisfactorily carried out by contract. With the construction by day-labour of other 2 miles of the highway between Slocan and Silverton, these towns now wholly dependent on boat service were brought nearer each other. The clearing, by contract, of 4.5 miles of the right-of-way of the Nelson-Kaslo Highway between Queen's Bay and Ainsworth brought this highway nearer completion.

The Big Bend Road north of Revelstoke was continued another mile and an additional 4 miles of the right-of-way were slashed.

The highway connecting Golden and the west boundary of Yoho Park, now being developed by the Canadian National Park authorities, was continued by contract another 4 miles.

To eliminate prohibitive grades, etc., on the Nelson–United States Boundary Highway 2.13 miles of a diversion near Ymir were constructed by contract.

An important cut-off at Brookmere, in the Otter Valley, was started by day-labour. The construction of a section of highway between the old wharf, reconstructed by the Dominion Government at Bella Coola, and the 4-Mile Bridge (5.24 miles) was commenced by contract. In order to afford a highway outlet from Prince Rupert, considerable clearing was undertaken by day-labour on the Kaien Island Highway. The road from Fort George to Giscombe and the McBride–Dunster Road were extended by day-labour. On the Morris Valley Road 1.77 miles of new construction were undertaken. The Harrison Mills–Agassiz Highway was extended 0.6 mile by day-labour, the bulk of the work comprising heavy side-hill rock excavation. New construction-work on Vancouver Island comprised extensions of the Hardy Bay–Coal Harbour Road, the Tofino–Ucluelet Road, and the reconstruction of portions of the Island Highway between Parksville and Qualicum. In constructing or reconstructing all such trunk highways the Department did not lose sight of its policy to build roads for bona-fide settlers. Settlers' roads chiefly comprised the following: Colleymont Road (2.50 miles), Lone Butte–Bridge Lake (12 miles), Port Clemens–Tlell (2 miles), Wardner–Casey (5 miles), and numerous short roads in the Peace River District. The sleigh-road constructed for 142 miles between Fort St. John and the Nelson River proved of immense benefit to settlers and traders in this district. To cope with mining development, particularly in the northern areas, many mining roads were either constructed or reconstructed. Chief amongst the mining roads so benefited were Alice Arm Shore Road, Dunwell Mines Road, Telegraph Creek–Dease Lake Road, Salmon River Road, and Bear River Road. Owing to the industrial expansion at Kimberley considerable street construction and improvement works were imperative.

CLASSIFIED HIGHWAYS.

In conjunction with the municipalities the following construction and reconstruction works were undertaken:—

Dewdney Trunk Road (Coquitlam).—3.75 miles of asphaltic macadam (5-inch) 16 to 17 feet in width.

Scott Road (Delta and Surrey).—New Westminster Bridge South (0.67 mile) and Newton Road North (0.47 mile), penetration macadam 16 feet wide.

Boundary Bay Road (Delta).—Parmiter Road to Morley Road (0.85 mile), asphalt macadam.

Hastings–Barnet Road (Burnaby).—At the gravel bluffs near Barnet 1.5 miles were reconstructed and gravelled.

Fraser Street (South Vancouver).—Thirty-fourth Avenue to Fifty-ninth Avenue (east side only), 1.5 miles; Fifty-ninth Avenue to Riverway (west side only), 0.5 mile; total 2 miles 7-inch cement concrete 12 feet in width.

West Saanich Road (Saanich, V.I.).—Continuation for other 2 miles of the bituminous macadam.

Main Street, etc. (City of Armstrong).—Near C.P.R. Depot (0.34 mile), 7-inch cement concrete 18 feet wide. (The only other hard-surfacing work done this year in addition to the above Canoe Pass Bridge, Delta District. Floating 160-foot span into place, June 13th, 1924.

10.08 miles was on the Ioco–Port Moody Highway outside of any incorporated district. To accommodate the greatly increased motor traffic to the industrial townsite at Ioco commencement was made on the surfacing with asphalt macadam (5-inch), 13 feet wide, of this 2.50-mile stretch.)

During the year 0.52 mile of primary highways and 2.88 miles of secondary highways were classified, bringing the total up to 114.38 miles of primary and 189.99 miles of secondary highways.

Maintenance and Improvement.

Road improvements comprising widening, straightening, and surfacing of existing highways occupied the major portion of the activities of the Provincial day-labour gangs. With the aid of trucks and tractors a large mileage of roads throughout the Province were gravel-surfaced, thus fitting them better to withstand the intensive wear and tear of the greatly increased motor-truck traffic.

The tendency of the tourist traffic, of which there was a marked increase in the summer of 1924, is to deviate to our lateral roads either for the purpose of getting away from crowded highways or to explore our varied scenery. This has involved the improvement and surfacing of lateral roads. Amongst the maintenance undertakings special mention should be made of the excellent work done on Vancouver Island towards conserving the gravel-surfacing from the heavy inroads of heavy jitney traffic. Altogether 18 miles of bituminous treatment were undertaken on the Malahat Drive and Colwood Road, at an average cost of 12 cents per square yard of 16-foot width. Portion of the East Saanich Road near Sidney was surfaced 16 feet wide with 6 inches of crushed rock and treated with tarvia.

Bridges.

Continuing its policy of replacing timber structures on important highways by modern steel structures, the Department completed three large bridges during the year. Following are details of these structures:—

Revelstoke Bridge over Columbia River, Revelstoke.—(Total length, 1,140 feet) Steel superstructure consisting of four 154-foot spans; two 212-foot 3-inch spans; roadway, 14 feet 8 inches wide (asphaltic concrete surface); sidewalk, 5 feet. Substructure: Twin steel cylinder piers under span over main channel. Remainder of piers on plain concrete; approaches, 85 lineal feet trestle.

Kamloops Bridge over the Thompson River, Kamloops.—(Total length, 1,036 feet.) Steel superstructure consisting of three 212-foot 4-inch spans; two 154-foot spans; roadway, 16 feet wide (asphaltic concrete surface); sidewalk, 5 feet wide. Substructure: Plain concrete piers; approaches, 80 lineal feet timber trestle.

Terrace Bridge over Skeena River at Terrace.—(Total length, 1,340 feet. Steel superstructure consisting of one 250-foot span; one 163-foot deck span; two 140-foot deck spans; two 90-foot deck spans; roadway, 16 feet wide. Substructure: Plain concrete piers; approaches, 460 lineal feet timber trestle.

Commencement was also made on the construction of a combined steel and timber structure over the Fraser River at Eburne to replace the existing bridges, which were inadequate to withstand the heavy traffic developing between the Mainland and Lulu Island.

A marked feature of the timber bridge construction was the number of important bridges very satisfactorily and economically undertaken by day-labour forces under efficient supervision.

Chief amongst such day-labour undertakings are the following: Chemainus River, 120-foot Howe truss, pile piers; Haslam Creek, 110-foot Howe truss, concrete abutments; McBride (Fraser River), one 130-foot and two 100-foot Howe trusses, pile piers; Yahk (Moyie River), 90-foot Howe truss, pile piers; Telkwa (Telkwa River), two 100-foot Howe trusses, concrete piers; Baxter (Shuswap River), 120-foot Howe truss, pile piers, and 60-foot king truss; Loop (Fernie), 120-foot Howe truss, concrete piers; Eddy's (Fernie), 100-foot Howe truss, concrete piers.

Maintenance, particularly of the decking of timber bridges, still forms a large part of our day-labour programme. Wherever practicable timber bridges are replaced with permanent culverts and fills. Most of the bridge renewals are built on concrete piers capable of carrying steel structures when conditions justify same. To withstand the strain and impact of swiftly-moving motor traffic, and also to prolong the life of hundreds of bridges, three or four planks have been laid lengthwise at each wheel-track. An important improvement was undertaken by day-labour on the Fraser River Bridge at Hope. The highway deck was refloored with 4- by 6-inch timbers on edge and flush-coated with Tarvia "B."

FERRIES.

New ferries were installed over the Fraser River at Quesnel (10-ton standard ferry) and at Isle de Pierre (Nechako River) the scow ferry was replaced with a more modern pontoon. The heavy traffic using the Mill Bay Ferry has fully justified the expense of providing the ferry-landings for the accommodation of the private boat operating under a Provincial charter.

Commencement was made on the construction of landings and approaches thereto of a ferry over the West Arm of the Kootenay Lake, 14 miles from Nelson.

RIVER-BANK PROTECTION.

Beyond minor works necessary to protect bridge approaches, the Department has not undertaken much work of this nature during the past two years. Some work was done this year at Natal to confine Michel Creek within safe limits, and substantial protection cribbing was constructed at West Fernie.

GENERAL.

Fuller details of the various works accomplished by this Department are provided in the reports of the district officials and the Supervising Architect. It is a pleasure to again place on record the splendid assistance so willingly afforded me by every member of the indoor and outdoor staffs in the discharge of my many duties.

In conclusion I take this opportunity of referring to J. E. Griffith (now Deputy Minister and Chief Engineer of Railways) for his unfailing courtesy and advice in solving many executive problems; to John Peck, Chief Inspector of Steam-boilers and Machinery (the administration of whose branch was transferred to the Workmen's Compensation Board), for his advice and assistance in various mechanical matters; and to James Muirhead (who has taken up private practice as a consulting electrical engineer), for his capable management of the electrical branch of the Department.

Permit me to place on record the co-operative assistance and excellent advice so freely and generously afforded me by yourself on every occasion, concerning the better discharge of my duties both in an executive and an administrative capacity. Such whole-hearted co-operation, as yours has always been, has rendered my duties lighter, pleasanter, and more profitable.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

P. PHILIP,
Deputy Minister and Public Works Engineer.

ENGINEERING DISTRICT No. 1.

(NOTE.—There is no District Engineer for this Engineering District. Assistants report direct to Deputy Minister and Public Works Engineer.)

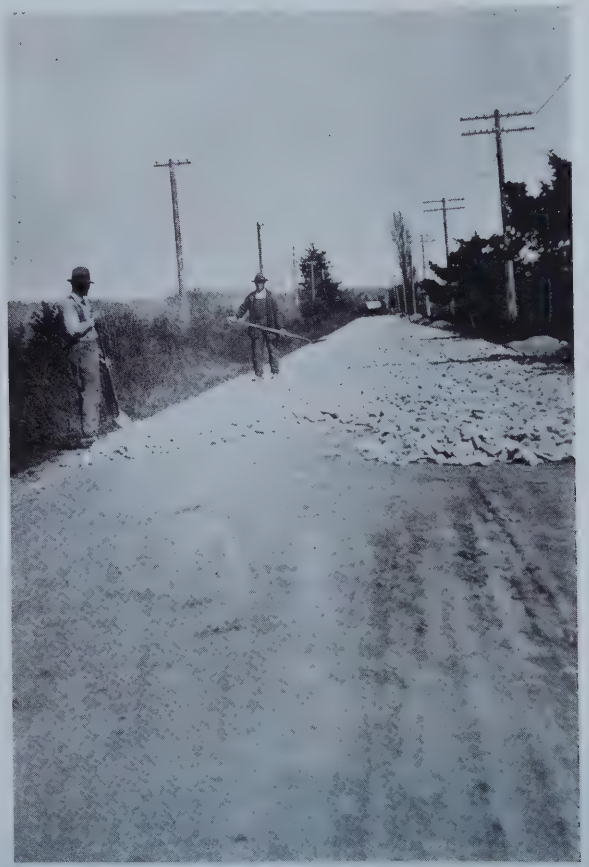
REPORT OF P. J. CAMPBELL, GENERAL FOREMAN FOR THE ISLANDS AND SAANICH ELECTORAL DISTRICTS.

Islands District Roads.—Improvement and reconstruction: Owing to the ever-increasing volume of traffic the main objective during the year was to improve and reconstruct gravel and earth roads. Several miles of gravel roads were regraded and surfaced with crushed rock for a minimum width of 16 feet and a depth of 6 inches. The whole was thoroughly rolled and finally treated with two coats of tarvia and granite screenings.

Five miles of earth roads were partially regraded and surfaced with 4 inches of crushed rock.

Construction: Four miles of new roads were constructed for settlers throughout the district.

THE LIBRARY
OF THE
UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS



East Saanich Road. Resurfaced by day-labour.

Island Highway, Newcastle District.

Maintenance: About 300 miles of roads were maintained in the district during the year, and in some sections patrol gangs were constantly engaged. The severe frost during the winter did considerable damage to the roads where logging and cordwood gangs were operating, but by curtailing operations a large saving in repairs was effected.

Saanich District.—Several roads in the district were gravelled and ditched and treated with asphaltic oil. The road to the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory was regraded and gravelled and a heavy coating of asphaltic oil sprayed, under pressure, over the entire length. This road withstood the heavy traffic and winter conditions splendidly.

Two more miles of bituminous paving were laid on the West Saanich Road (a secondary highway) by the Municipal Works Department and 50 per cent. of the cost was borne by this Department.

Bridges.—A few renewals and general repairs were done during the season.

Ferries.—The Mill Bay and Brentwood ferry-landings were built and the ferry started operating about the end of September, 1924. This ferry gives an all-year-round service between Victoria and up-Island points, doing away with the necessity of travelling over the Malahat Drive during the winter months.

Report of C. A. Helgesen, General Foreman, Esquimalt District.

Roads and Trails.—Construction: The following new roads were completed during the year: Esquimalt Lagoon extension, ½ mile along Lagoon Spit, to afford the general public access thereto. Whiffen Spit Road: This road, commenced last year, was completed and surfaced with gravel this year and has given general satisfaction. Fitzgerald Cut-off: Approximately 0.9 mile of new road has been cleared and partly graded. When completed this road will be a boon to the general public, as it cuts out three dangerous hills on the Summit Road to Shawnigan Lake.

Reconstruction: Eight miles of main road, including heavily travelled sections on Colwood, Sooke, and Metchosin Roads, were tarviated, and 9 miles of Malahat Drive treated with liquid asphalt. This work has stood the wet season exceptionally well and has drawn favourable comment from all users of the roads.

Maintenance and repairs: On main and trunk roads heavy traffic has greatly increased over last year, making it very difficult to keep gravelled roads in good condition with funds available. Only increased use of good mechanical equipment has made possible the uniformly good condition of roads generally throughout the district.

Bridges.—During the past year sixteen bridges have been reconstructed and thirty-five repaired. Wherever possible bridges have been replaced with permanent fills. In all new work special attention has been paid to relocation with a view to improvement of existing grades and curves in approaches.

Report of H. C. Mann, Assistant District Engineer, Cowichan and Newcastle Districts.

Cowichan District.—The roads in this district were maintained in good condition during the year, but unfortunately in some places the stock of suitable road material is becoming scarce.

The Island Highway, due perhaps to a long spell of dry weather in the summer, was rough in many places, and this coming year the method of keeping, wherever possible, a thin coating of fine gravel over the road is being adopted, as well as dry-grading, which has given satisfactory results, allowing of material being properly distributed on the surface of the road before a rainfall.

This district has had its share of "extraordinary traffic," but little difficulty was experienced in controlling heavy haulage during the winter months.

A new Howe-truss bridge was constructed across the Chemainus River near Westholme, the erection of which reflects much credit on the Bridge Foreman, under whose charge it was built.

The bridges over Somenos Creek and the Macintosh Bridge, Sahtlam, were rebuilt. The bridges in this district have been maintained in good condition.

The wooden sidewalk on Wilson's Hill–Island Highway, Duncan City, was reconstructed during the year and the Island Highway tarviated where it passes along Station Street, City of Duncan.

The cribbing protecting the Island Highway at Cowichan Bay was repaired in places during the year, but this cribbing as a whole will shortly require to be renewed. The question of widening the highway seawards will also require to be given consideration.

Newcastle District.—The roads in this district are on the whole wider than in Cowichan District and consequently easier to maintain. In various places beach gravel is obtainable, and as it contains a certain percentage of lime and salt it is excellent material for use during the summer months on roads with little protection from the sun.

On the Island Highway south of Ladysmith a stretch of asphalt was laid down in the summer, but this work suffered severely during the severe frost in December. Repairing with cold patch was resorted to last February and the results have been fairly satisfactory.

Considerable work was done on the road to Nanaimo Lakes, the road having been widened in many places, ditched, and the surface graded. During the months of February and March considerable repairs to South Wellington Road were carried out, under a grant for the relief of the unemployed, and this road is now in good condition.

A new Howe-truss bridge was constructed across Haslam Creek at Cassidy, below and alongside the E. & N. Railway Bridge. The old bridge some 400 yards down-stream is still in use, but only for light traffic.

The roads and bridges in this district have been maintained in good condition during the year.

In conclusion, I would like to place on record the good service rendered by the foremen and the workmen, the majority of whom were returned soldiers.

REPORT OF W. P. BEAVAN, ASSISTANT DISTRICT ENGINEER FOR COMOX ELECTORAL DISTRICT.

Roads and Trails.—Construction-work was light, involving only about 6 miles of new work, all of which work was satisfactorily undertaken by day-labour. In this mileage the chief item was the grading (14 feet wide) of the Powell River–Myrtle Point Road to take care of the increasing settlement. In the Salmon River Valley about ¾ mile of new roads were graded. The Hardy Bay–Coal Harbour Road was extended 1½ miles. The remainder of the new roads were to accommodate settlers on Valdes Island, Read Island, and elsewhere.

Reconstruction-work embraced the regrading and gravelling (15 feet wide) of 0.4 mile of the Cumberland-Comox Lake Road and the reconstruction of ½ mile of the main road on Texada Island.

Maintenance-work featured largely in the year's programme, no less than 342 miles of road having been generally repaired, widened, ditched, gravelled, or otherwise materially improved. Approximately $1,000 was spent on improving classified highways in conjunction with the municipalities. Considering the large mileage of roads (459 miles) to maintain and the greatly increased use of motor-vehicles, even in outlying districts and on the islands, the amount of improvement-work accomplished on the roads is very creditable with the comparatively limited funds at disposal. The enormous increase in motor traffic on the Island Highway between Parksville and Campbell River calls for a very much larger expenditure on this much-travelled road to make it more serviceable for motor-vehicles of all descriptions. This applies particularly to the Campbell River section.

Bridges.—The 50-foot king truss with trestle approach at Wolfson Creek was the only new bridge of importance constructed. Bridges renewed included a 45-foot king truss at China Creek and 50-foot king trusses at Rosewall and the third crossing of Salmon River respectively. Five trestle bridges were reconstructed. All the bridges were kept in good state of repair, chiefly renewal of decking due to the wear and tear of rapid motor-vehicle traffic. Over $4,000 has been spent on general repairs and protection-works.

General.—Over thirty subdivisions were inspected for approval and a large number of applications for permits for logging-railways crossing highways, pole-lines, etc., were investigated.

Following the resignation of O. W. Smith, whose resignation was regretfully accepted by the Department, I was transferred from the Alberni District in September last. I cannot, therefore, report so fully as I could have done had I been in charge throughout the entire fiscal year.

I take this opportunity of recording the assistance rendered me by the local foremen and others under my supervision. The officials at headquarters extended to me the usual support and encouragement.

Chemainus River Bridge. Built by day labour.

Haslam Creek Bridge. Substructure done by day-labour; superstructure done by contract.

OF THE

Report of H. M. Bigwood, Assistant District Engineer for Alberni District.

Roads and Trails.—Generally the year was favourable so far as weather conditions were concerned, the most trying time being in December, when heavy frosts on ground unprotected by snow were responsible for some inconvenience and damage during the period of thawing out. However, traffic was maintained in all sections, including the Alberni Summit.

Considerable improvement, in the form of widening and straightening, was done on the Island Highway between Parksville and Qualicum, leaving the portion north from Qualicum Beach still to be improved.

Construction-work on Palmer Road, No. 224; Kaye Road, No. 221; and Jenkins Road, No. 187, provided access for settlers farming along those routes and the benefit is appreciated.

Preliminary work, clearing, and ditching done on the road near Parksville School has resulted in providing good conditions for subsequent construction.

A further mileage of construction on the road to link Tofino with Ucluelet, consisting of clearing and grading, was carried out during the summer and leaves a balance of approximately 6 miles still to be done. Gravelling and ditching on past years' construction was carried on and after another season's work in this manner a road suitable for travel at any time will be available between Ucluelet and Long Beach, which will encourage tourists to holiday adjacent to its wonderful beach, consisting of 14 miles of hard sand over which an automobile may be driven.

The remaining section of this road, Long Beach to Tofino, consists of 6 miles of the hardest kind of construction, but with the base of supplies established at Tofino, 2½ miles from the initial point for construction, it is hoped that clearing may be completed this season, and also a considerable portion graded.

Traffic.—Year by year the volume, speed, and weight of traffic using the roads increase and many roads are too narrow and tortuous for comfort and safety. Logging operations along highways cause considerable additional expense for maintenance and the difficulty of regulating them without hampering private enterprise is considerable.

Bridges.—Twenty-four bridges were reconstructed during the year, and on those situated on main highways, such as Island Highway and Canadian Highway, deck-planks were laid longitudinally with the traffic. Where this has been done the improved surface is very noticeable and often remarked upon.

No large bridges were constructed during the year.

Eighty structures were dealt with in the way of maintenance, the work consisting of repairing substructures and repairing decks.

At Bridge No. 23, French Creek, 550 loads of rock were placed round piers and at toe of approach fills as safeguard from erosion. The river is continually cutting its north bank just above the bridge.

Buildings.—Alterations to accommodate larger trucks were made to buildings which were originally built for horses and wagons.

Railway Crossings.—A new crossing over the E. & N. Railway Company's tracks at Superior Road, Mile 82.4, was constructed.

Work has been commenced laying steel on the Central Lake Branch of the E. & N. Railway, thus adding five more crossings to the list.

Heavier traffic is anticipated on the Central Lake Road, No. 10, due to the construction of a mill which is proceeding at the lake.

REPORT OF ENGINEER, DISTRICT No. 2.

DISTRICT ENGINEER'S OFFICE,
COURT-HOUSE, NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., July 18th, 1925.

P. Philip, Esq.,
Deputy Minister and Public Works Engineer,
Parliament Buildings, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I beg to submit herewith annual report of work done in the above district during the fiscal year 1924–25.

Burnaby District.—Hastings-Barnet Road: The chief work undertaken during the year in this district consisted of the reconstruction of the Hastings-Barnet Road. Approximately 1.5 miles of this highway at the big bluffs were reconstructed and gravelled. The work was of a heavy nature, as the old road along the bluffs was very narrow and had a number of dangerous turns.

The cost was approximately $16,000, and this expenditure has been quite justified, by the use that has been made of this highway by the traffic from the north side of the Fraser Valley as far east as Mission and westerly to Vancouver, thus relieving the congestion which existed between Port Coquitlam and Vancouver via Westminster.

This highway has considerable merit from a scenic point of view, and it is reasonable to suppose that within a short time it will increase in importance as a main trunk road leading to Vancouver.

Relief-work: To provide relief for the unemployed, work was undertaken, where possible, during the winter months throughout the district.

On the Hastings-Barnet Road those portions not already improved during the summer were widened to 24 feet for a distance of approximately 4 miles. On this fifty men were employed for about two months at standard wages.

About 200 men were employed for a period of six weeks clearing Government land near Oakalla Prison Farm.

A section of storm-sewer on Kingsway was reconstructed, the old wooden box having been pulled up and replaced with vitrified-clay pipe.

Chilliwack District.—No new construction-work was carried out on roads in this district during the fiscal year.

Trans-Provincial Highway: This highway was widened in many places where the road was too narrow for the existing traffic. The drainage was improved and a number of old timber culverts removed and replaced with metal pipe. Approximately 16,000 cubic yards of gravel were used for repairing the roads.

Columbia Valley Road: This road was widened from the main highway to Cultus Lake, a distance of 1½ miles. Cultus Lake has recently been opened up as a summer resort and the traffic is very heavy in this district during the summer months.

River-bank Protection: No additional work was carried out on the Vedder river-bank protection. The December freshet was very heavy, bringing down more timber than has been experienced for some years. Numerous log-jams were formed in the river. The wing-walls constructed last year proved very satisfactory. In most cases the silt and gravel washed down by the river has been held, forming bars that are now protecting the previously scoured-out sections of the river-bank.

Approximately 100 cubic yards of rock were torn out of the rock wall by large drift-logs during the high-water period.

Bridges: The Vedder Canal pile-trestle bridge, 1,220 feet in length, including two 150-foot Howe trusses, was constructed and completed by contract during the month of March.

Very little maintenance was required to the bridges in this district.

Ferries: The Agassiz-Rosedale Ferry "Sea Wolf" still continues to render excellent service, meeting all public demands. New protection-piles were driven at both landings, replacing the old piles, which were dangerous owing to their rotten condition.

Delta District.—The major works carried out during the year were as follows:—

Boundary Bay Road (40B), Asphaltic Macadam Paving: In the section of the Boundary Bay Road which runs from Parmiter Road to Morley Road, a distance of 0.85 mile. Base: The old macadam base, 10 feet wide, was scarified and spread to a width of 16 feet and flushed with a liquid asphalt binder, ⅜ gallon per square yard. The old metal was then covered with a run-of-bank gravel for a consolidated thickness of 2½ inches and the surface flushed with asphaltic binder, 1 gallon per square yard. Top: Washed screened gravel varying in size from 1½ to 2½ inches was added and compacted 2½ inches in depth and flushed with asphalt, 1⅛ gallons per square yard. The surface voids were filled with crushed gravel, ⅜ to ¾ inch, rolled and flushed with a layer of stone chips and coarse sand. This paving has proved quite satisfactory up to the present time.

Scott Road (18B), Asphalt Penetration: Two sections of the Scott Road were paved 16 feet wide; one section from the Newton Road north 0.47; the other, New Westminster Bridge, south 0.67 mile.

The existing rock and gravel base was scarified and flushed with a liquid asphalt binder, ⅜ gallon per square yard. This was covered with screened gravel to a compacted depth of 2½ to 3 inches, flushed with an asphaltic binder, 1 gallon per square yard, and blinded with stone chips.

Trans-Provincial Highway, South Approach, New Westminster Bridge: The highway approach under the Canadian National Railway has been greatly improved by constructing an additional 26-foot span, which divides the highway into two openings through the trestle. This provides one for the north-bound and one for the south-bound traffic, greatly reducing the dangerous condition previously existing at this point, where heretofore both north- and south-bound traffic had to use the one opening through the trestle.

General: The maintenance of the gravel roads on the Trans-Provincial Highway required more attention owing to the increased motor traffic. Grading operations were carried out diligently, especially during the dry summer months. The roads were kept in good condition throughout the year.

Bridges: The Canoe Pass Bridge was reconstructed owing to the scouring-out of the river-bed. Three piers and two Howe trusses, 100 feet and 120 feet in length, were rendered unsafe. These were replaced by locating a new foundation for the piers and erecting 120-foot and 160-foot Howe-truss spans.

Two of the new piers (B and C) constructed consisted of a cluster of seventy-five piles in each pier, each line of piles braced by 6- by 8-inch timber, making a solid platform on top of the pier. The piles were 110 feet in length with 34 to 40 feet penetration; average diameter of piles at cut-off being 20 inches. The whole pier above low water was timber-sheeted and the pier-noses covered with sheet iron.

Owing to the river being tidal at the bridge crossing the ice-flow is carried both up and down channel, at times subjecting the piers to terrific strain. Last winter at one stage of the tide the ice piled up from bank to bank, nearly 10 feet high. Careful watch was kept and we are now satisfied that this type of pile-pier construction is amply justified on the grounds of strength and economy of first cost.

Dewdney District.—The major works carried out during the year were as follows:—

Dewdney Trunk Road, No. 2, Paving: This section of the Dewdney Trunk runs from Westminster City limits to Port Coquitlam City. A total length of 3.75 miles was paved with asphaltic macadam (penetration) 5 inches thick, 16 to 17 feet wide.

This new pavement replaced an old worn-out macadam surface, which was found impossible to repair economically with any degree of success. Traffic statistics show that this highway has become more and more important as a trunk road leading to Vancouver and at present accommodates a heavy car and truck traffic.

As the contract for this work carries a five-year guarantee, the Province will be relieved from the heavy maintenance expenditures on this road for that period of time.

Ioco–Port Moody Road, Paving: The increasing importance of the town of Ioco as an industrial centre made it imperative that steps be taken to provide adequate highway connection. As a start towards this objective, 1 mile only of this road, which is 3.5 miles long, was paved this year with asphaltic macadam (penetration) 5 inches thick, 12 to 13 feet wide. The remaining 2.5 miles will be paved in 1925–26.

Dewdney Trunk, No. 7, Widening: Two miles of this road, from the east boundary of Municipality of Mission to Dewdney Station, are on a dyke. This embankment, which only averaged about 12 feet wide on top, was widened to 24 feet and regravelled. A P. & H. shovel was used in making the new embankment.

Relief-work: Considerable work was done by relief gangs in widening roads during the winter months, the most important of which was on the Dewdney Trunk in Port Moody City, the River Road near Whonnock, and the Salvaster Road north of Hatzic.

River-bank Protection, South Lillooet: Two bad "S" bends in this river were straightened out by digging new channels with a P. & H. drag-line hired from the Dykes Department. The new channels have worked satisfactorily and are giving the relief hoped for.

Ferries: The Mission–Matsqui Ferry has given good service. During the cold spell in winter the ferry was not operated owing to floating ice in the Fraser. The ferry-boat itself was completely overhauled this spring.

General: The usual maintenance was carried out this year. The roads were all kept in good condition. A little trouble was experienced when the frost was coming out of the ground. No doubt more trouble would have been experienced had not the traffic regulations been strictly enforced. Extensive regravelling of the Salvaster and River Roads has been done.

Bridges: In general, the bridges are in good condition and no great amount has been spent on them this year. Lampart Bridge, 340 feet long, was reconstructed.

Surveys: A new highway has been located between Deroche and Harrison Bay.

New Westminster District.—District Lot 172: The River Road in District Lot 172 was flush-coated with a light coat of Tarvia "X."

Considerable ditching was done on most of the streets and other general repairs were carried out.

North Approach, New Westminster Bridge: The steep earth side-hill slope of the approach has been sloughing in after the frost and rainy season each year, and it was found necessary to eliminate this trouble by cribbing the part affected. The cribbing is of 8- by 16-inch timbers, held in place by cross-ties spaced 8 feet apart. The cribbing is 11 feet maximum height and 200 feet long.

North Vancouver District.—General: During the past year nothing of outstanding interest occurred in the matter of construction. Our efforts were confined to maintaining the roads, in so far as funds would permit. It was found necessary, during the heavy frosts of last season, to limit the traffic in the Gibson–Sechelt and Squamish section to light grocery delivery-rigs and the mails.

In his report to me General Foreman Wylie frankly expresses his opinion as follows: "As this district is wholly a ward of the Government, I am of the opinion that the Department does not spend enough within its own confines, considering the amounts given to the municipalities. The people living in these unorganized districts are getting all modern appliances, autos and trucks, and that being the case money must be spent in the matter of main highways and trunk roads in order that these settlers may get around amongst each other, as the people living within the richer areas are able to do. I have always felt that too many people are crowding into the cities, and having presentable roads made for settlers is, to my mind, money well spent, as it will make the settlers more contented, prevent their return to the crowded cities, and also encourage other settlers to go on the land.

"As I have now left this district, I will be only too pleased to give any desired information to my successor, and I trust that Mr. Gallaher will have success in the district, that all settlers may be treated fairly, and that no complaints will reach the Department.

"There is only one thing that his attention should be called to—namely, that very often heavy frosts occur in the Gibson–Sechelt and Squamish Districts, and in order to protect the roads all traffic other than the mails and light grocery delivery-rigs should be completely barred from off these roads during the thaw. Notices should be given in the fall of the year, so that the travelling public may be prepared. The damage done to roads during thaws by heavy motors or wagons is immense, much more so in the districts mentioned owing to many of the roads being on clay bottom."

Richmond District.—The most important work undertaken in this district during the year consisted of the paving of Tenth Avenue from Blanca Street to the University grounds, together with such other street-work considered necessary to the development of one unit of the new residential district at University Hill.

For the purpose of developing this unit as a residential area all public utilities were provided—i.e., sewer and water connections, light and telephone, and gas.

Marine Drive: Two portions of this highway which were threatened by undermining, owing to erosion of the cliffs from storm conditions, had to be reconstructed on new locations and moved back some distance from the cliffs Both these new portions of Marine Drive improved greatly the general alignment and grades.

Salmon River Bridge, near Ymir, 60-foot king-truss span.

Subway at east end of Fraser River Bridge, New Westminster, Delta District.

Eburne Bridge: By reason of constant care and maintenance in the way of repairs these bridges came through the ice-flow of last winter fairly well, but the proposed new bridges are urgently required to take care of the situation.

Ladner–Woodward Ferry: This ferry has lost very little time due to ice conditions in the river, but owing to the silting-up of the Ladner Channel considerable difficulty was experienced in maintaining the schedule.

No time should be lost in considering the best method to be followed in providing transportation for the increasing traffic between Ladner and Woodward's. The present ferry service cannot be increased without tremendous expenditure.

A possible solution of the whole matter lies in building a road across the river-flats to a point opposite Woodward's where the channel is deep and where a more frequent ferry service could be operated.

The possibility of bridging the channel is not out of the question in years to come and considerable thought should be given during the coming year to this problem.

Relief-work: During the distress of last winter about 325 men were provided with employment on clearing Government land at the University.

South Vancouver District.—Paving: The following pavements were laid during the year: Fraser Street from Thirty-fourth Avenue to Marine Drive (Riverway), on the east side from Thirty-fourth Avenue to Fifty-ninth Avenue, 7-inch concrete pavement 12 feet wide, with integral curb, and on west side from Fifty-ninth Avenue to Marine Drive (Riverway), 7-inch concrete pavement 18 feet wide, with integral curb. The former stretch is approximately 1½ miles long and the latter ½ mile long.

Yale District.—In the portion of Yale District (No. 3) placed under our supervision the new construction-work carried out is as follows:—

Fraser Canyon Highway: From the Hope Bridge east to the Canadian Pacific Railway, a distance of 0.4 mile, cleared 66 feet wide and the road-bed (graded) 20 feet wide. This included heavy rock-work and eliminated an extremely dangerous curve and heavy grade. The new road has a maximum grade of 3 per cent.

Hope–Rosedale Road: One mile constructed and gravelled from Cheam View north.

Morris Valley Road: A length of 1.77 miles of road was constructed, width 12 feet, cleared 30 feet wide.

Harrison Mills to Agassiz: Considerable surveying was necessary to locate a road between these points over the mountain. Six-tenths of a mile of road were constructed. Heavy side-hill rock-work was encountered from the Agassiz Dam to the summit of the Canadian Pacific Railway tunnel. A 10-per-cent. grade had to be used to get over the summit.

Relief-work, Hope–Rosedale Road: Extensive revision was carried out on the location for the new highway and relief-work was carried on for three months, from January 1st to March 31st. Four camps were built to accommodate 100 men in each camp and were located at Popkum, Cheam View, Laidlaw, and Silver Creek, and 300 to 400 men were employed during the relief-work period.

Most of the men were adaptable to this kind of work and very good results were obtained, although bad weather, which somewhat retarded progress, was experienced for the first six weeks.

The greater part of the work consisted of heavy clearing and stumping. Other sections of the road were drained and some grading was done.

The following is a summary of work done: Clearing, 9.8 miles, 60.35 acres; grubbing, 3.6 miles, 11.5 acres; ditching, 1.25 miles, 1,181 cubic yards; grading, 1.2 miles. Material moved: Earth, 3,542 cubic yards; loose rock, 447 cubic yards; solid rock, 705 cubic yards. Several timber culverts were built.

Hope–Yale Section, Relief-work: Clearing, 0.6 mile, 5.3 acres; grubbing, 2.4 acres; grading, 130 cubic yards solid rock; 1,800 lineal feet of timber cut and hauled to bridge-sites.

Bridges: The Hope Bridge (combined railway and highway) was refloored with 4- by 6-inch timber placed on edge and flush-coated with Tarvia "B." The north approach of bridge was raised and reconstructed to eliminate a dangerous grade.

General repairs were carried out to many bridges in this district.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

REPORT OF ENGINEER, DISTRICT No. 3.

DISTRICT ENGINEER'S OFFICE,
KAMLOOPS, B.C., August 11th, 1925.

P. Philip, Esq.,
Deputy Minister and Public Works Engineer,
Victoria, B.C.

SIR.—I beg to submit annual report for District No. 3 for the fiscal year 1924–25.

Roads.—Maintenance-work was carried out on all roads in the district. The sudden thaw in the spring caused some slight damage and made the expenditure on this work higher than usual.

During the season considerable work was done in widening and gravelling main roads and in diversions for the improvement of same. Work of this nature was done on the Kamloops–Salmon Arm Road, Kamloops–Merritt Road, North Thompson East Side and North Thompson West Side Roads.

The increased use of road machinery is of great benefit in large districts. The cost of doing road-work with machinery is slightly lower, but the greatest benefit is in the saving of time.

In maintenance-work on main roads the use of two tractors and two graders has been found to work very well, one trip over the road doing the necessary spring maintenance-work.

Settlers' roads received considerable attention, and this has become more necessary as it is found that local tourists are travelling much more on side-roads than formerly. Roads such as Fish Lake Road and Paul Lake Road, out of Kamloops, have as heavy motor traffic in the summer season as the main roads.

Timber culverts have been renewed or replaced with pipe, as it has been found that timber culverts are not suitable to stand heavy motor traffic. When the motor traffic warrants it, it has been found more economical, although the first cost is greater, to replace timber culverts with metal pipe.

Trails.—The mileage of trails is small, but work was done on most of them, particularly those to mining properties.

Bridges.—The chief bridge-work done was the completion of the Kamloops West Bridge, a steel and concrete structure, with paved deck, and the Middlesboro Bridge in Merritt, a composite Howe truss on concrete abutments. Considerable renewal work was done on small timber bridges, the life of which is short. A bridge-repair crew was kept going all summer.

Ferries.—All ferries were maintained in good shape, and owing to the increased tie and pole industry on the North Thompson River several of the ferries were taxed to handle the traffic.

General.—The chief road problems in this district are keeping the roads open in the winter during the period of heavy snowfall, especially on the summits between Kamloops and Merritt and Kamloops and Vernon. Some work was done last winter with tractor and snow-plough, but the expenditure was too great to continue the work after every snowfall.

The other problem is the wearing of road surfaces in the long dry summer. The binding material gets dried out and ground into powder and is either sucked out by tires of motor-vehicles or blown away, leaving only the rock or gravel, which makes rough travelling and forms chuck-holes. Even on well-gravelled roads summer maintenance is necessary, but not very satisfactory, and the only solution is a binder such as tar or oil, which will remain in place during all seasons. Labour conditions were good and labour plentiful and competent.

Helpful co-operation was received from the Department in Victoria and from all inspecting officials, also from other departments of the Government and from Federal officials.

Local officials of the Department carried out their duties in a satisfactory manner with the purpose of giving as satisfactory a service to the public as finances will permit.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

REPORT OF ENGINEER, DISTRICT No. 4.

DISTRICT ENGINEER'S OFFICE,
PENTICTON, B.C., September 4th, 1925.

P. Philip, Esq.,
Deputy Minister and Public Works Engineer,
Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I beg to submit herewith annual report of work undertaken in the above district during the fiscal year 1924–25.

Roads (Maintenance, Repairs, and Improvements).—The traffic in this district is increasing very rapidly every year. This especially applies to North and South Okanagan and Similkameen Districts, and the increase in the number of large trucks has aggravated the situation to the extent that it is almost impossible to maintain gravelled roads to take care of this class of traffic. Approximately 2,000 freight-car loads of fruit and produce were moved over roads in the vicinity of Kelowna alone, and this traffic occurs in the dry season when it is impossible to carry out any highway repairs to relieve the situation. I find that gross loads from 8 to 12 tons are quite common and this does not appear to be the limit. I would earnestly suggest as a permanent remedy that no licences be issued for trucks of over 3½ tons in districts where we have only gravel and earth roads.

District Generally.—Considerable improvements and diversions have been made on the main roads throughout the district, including the widening and gravelling of the Kelowna–Vernon Road and extending the Kelowna–Naramata Road.

Several important highway revisions were made in the vicinity of Penticton, eliminating an old 1,700-foot trestle bridge and swing-span and replacing same with a fill and two short trestle bridges, thereby effecting a saving over the original scheme of some $35,000.

Extensive improvements have also been carried out on the main road in Grand Forks–Greenwood District at the crossings of Rock Creek.

In addition to ordinary maintenance-work, about 50 miles of road have been gravelled and approximately 8 miles of settlers' roads constructed. Through the City of Armstrong 1,800 feet of concrete highway 18 feet wide was constructed, the Department contributing half the cost of same.

Generally speaking, very good results have been obtained considering the small appropriation, which, as I have pointed out before, has not been increased during the last seven years, while the traffic has more than trebled during that period. It is only by the use of machinery, of which we will require more and more as time goes on, that we have been able to give reasonable satisfaction to the public. As in the past years, we have been put to considerable expense by damage caused through irrigation-ditches, from which I can see no future relief.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

REPORT OF ENGINEER, DISTRICT No. 5.

DISTRICT ENGINEER'S OFFICE,
COURT-HOUSE, NELSON, B.C., June 10th, 1925.

P. Philip, Esq.,
Deputy Minister and Public Works Engineer,
Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I beg to submit the following descriptive report dealing with the work carried out in Engineering District No. 5 during the fiscal year 1924–25:—

Nelson Electoral District.—Usual maintenance-work was looked after on 4.84 miles of streets and roads and on approximately 2 miles of plank walks, while a stretch of 435 lineal feet of new 4-foot sidewalk was laid on Gore Street.

An extension of Mountain Road for a distance of 2,200 lineal feet constituted the only construction-work undertaken in the Nelson District.

Trail–Castlegar Road—Genelle Diversion.
Constructed by day-labour, 1924.

Harrison–Agassiz Road. Built by day-labour,
Yale District.

Lateral roads and trails requiring attention were repaired and brushed out, and in this connection we received assistance from the Department of Mines to the extent of practically $1,500.

River-bank protection work carried out on the Illecillewaet River consisted of widening and deepening the channel opposite McKinnon's crib and laying brush and rock mattress 130 feet long and 20 feet wide.

Slocan Electoral District.—In the Slocan District we repaired 246 miles of roads, and where requests were made for the cleaning-out of trails these received attention.

The Department of Mines authorized expenditures amounting to about $4,700, and of this amount there was spent $2,158 running a survey for a proposed trail 18 miles long from the Edgewood–Vernon Road at Inonoaklin Crossing to Lightning Peak. An excellent location was obtained, with only a short stretch of 8 per cent. maximum grade, and the whole line extends through a comparatively easy country for trail or road construction.

Trunk-road construction was confined to the construction by day-labour of 2 miles of the Slocan City–Silverton Road near 10-Mile and by contract 10.25 miles of the Edgewood–Vernon Road between Inonoaklin Crossing and Kettle River.

A survey was made for a proposed road from Box Lake to Rosebery, a distance of 21 miles, and an excellent location obtained. The final centre line was run in and about 3½ miles of the right-of-way were slashed during the winter and early spring as a relief measure.

Bridges.—The following new bridges were erected during 1924–25:—

Nelson Electoral District: One 55-foot stringer span over Cottonwood Creek.

Trail Electoral District: Two 30-foot stringer spans—one framed trestle 247 feet long and one framed trestle 84 feet long.

Kaslo Electoral District: Various stringer spans totalling 911 feet.

Revelstoke Electoral District: Various stringer spans totalling 265 feet.

Slocan Electoral District: One 60–65-foot king-truss span over North Fork of Carpenter Creek; one 35-foot stringer span over Kuskanax Creek; one 35-foot stringer span and filled approaches over Goat Creek.

In addition to the foregoing the following bridge-work was undertaken: 357 lineal feet of bridge replaced by culvert and fill, 16 truss bridges examined and overhauled, 292 stringer and trestle bridges repaired, and 13 stringer bridges reconstructed.

The new steel bridge erected over the Columbia River at Revelstoke was opened for traffic in June, 1924, and is giving excellent service to the travelling public.

Ferries.—All ferries in the district continue to give efficient service, and a start was made before the end of the fiscal year to construct approaches for a new ferry across the West Arm of the Kootenay Lake between Harrop and Longbeach, about 14 miles from Nelson.

In conclusion, might I again respectfully urge the necessity of larger maintenance appropriations.

With the opening-up, every year, of new links of main highways, the existing roads at either end of these links are now being subjected to heavy auto traffic, and at many points timber operators are using heavy trucks to take out timber that was only rendered accessible through the construction of our highways.

Again have I to express appreciation for the excellent support and co-operation of all assistants during the year, while I also wish to thank the Department for consideration given to all district matters.

Respectfully submitted.

W. Ramsay,
District Engineer.

REPORT OF ENGINEER, DISTRICT No. 6.

DISTRICT ENGINEER'S OFFICE,
CRANBROOK, B.C., June 6th, 1925.

P. Philip, Esq.,
Deputy Minister and Public Works Engineer,
Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I beg to submit the following general report for Engineering District No. 6 for the fiscal year ended March 31st, 1925:—

The major operations in road-construction were chiefly carried out on the Golden-Yoho Park Highway and on the Trans-Provincial Highway. The former highway was commenced in the previous fiscal year and is being built in sections by contract, about 6 miles having been completed to date. This is a costly and difficult road to build and its progress must of necessity be slow. Great care is being taken with such construction features as crib foundations, rock retaining-walls, guard-rails, drainage, grades, alignment, overhead railway crossings, etc., and the finished product will be in keeping with progressive modern mountain highways.

The Trans-Provincial Highway crosses this engineering district with an east-west trend and is gradually being brought up to modern standard. The portion between Goatfell and Cranbrook has needed the greatest amount of reconstruction and in some places relocation for many miles, and in this section there are yet 6 or 7 miles awaiting construction. Between Miles 29 and 32 west of Cranbrook 2 miles were constructed this fiscal year by day-labour at an average cost of $5,878 per mile, which is considered good value for the type of country traversed. East of Cranbrook on the same highway 1 mile of reconstruction was carried out near Wardner.

In the vicinity of Crowsnest and also at what is known at Hairpin Turn, 7 miles west of Fernie, advantage was taken of the relief to unemployment vote to obtain further improvements to our main road. The work at Hairpin Turn is not quite finished, but when it is, a capital "W" will be eliminated and a gradual 12° curve substituted therefor, with clear sight from one end to the other. A portion of this change is a trestle bridge with centre bent 50 feet high.

A large number of roads were constructed and reconstructed to accommodate farming communities, mining interests, lumbering and other industrial interests, these being so numerous that no particular ones can be singled out for comment here, but all are set forth in detail on the accompanying forms.

The great growth of the town of Kimberley, due to the vast operations of the Sullivan Mine, required special attention of this Department in the many matters coming under its jurisdiction in an unincorporated town. Street-intersection signs known as "Silent Policemen" were installed in Kimberley to good effect. A start was made by clearing the right-of-way on the new diversion of the Cranbrook–Kimberley Road through Blarchmont, a new townsite adjoining Kimberley.

The great question of road maintenance is one which I might say this whole engineering district is strenuously struggling with. It is a struggle, not because of want of interest or assistance from your office, which has always been given freely to us, but because insufficient funds are ear-marked available for maintenance of roads. The fact that each year our mileage of new construction is added to, coupled with the fact that our traffic over the existing roads is tremendously increasing, and our district vote is remaining stationary, forms the chief difficulty of the problem.

A welcome interest in our efforts was shown by the Cranbrook Board of Trade in putting forth a proposal to give a prize or bonus to the sectionman having the best-kept section for the season.

The following trails received attention: Lost Creek, Bugaboo, Jubilee Mountain, Moose Creek, South Fork of Spillimacheen, and Whitefish. I might say that with limited funds no general policy of keeping open the great mileage of trails in this Engineering district could be attempted. Each specific request, however, was investigated with a view to rendering assistance where conditions warranted it and the cost was within the limits of procurable funds.

In bridges, a very great improvement was made near Natal by choosing a new site for Michel Mouth Bridge, which was partly destroyed by flood in the previous fiscal year, and erecting a 120-foot Howe truss. This new site eliminated a narrow dangerous piece of road in solid-rock side-hill and placed the bridge where it could be seen in approach a long distance off. Other satisfactory bridge constructions in the Michel-Crowsnest vicinity were Loop Bridge and Eddy's Bridge, the former having a 120-foot Howe-truss span and the latter a 100-foot Howe-truss span. All the above bridges were constructed on good concrete abutment piers and were carried out entirely by day-labour with economical estimated costs.

Terrace Bridge over Little Canyon, Skeena River, showing 250-foot steel span. In addition there are one 163-foot, two 140-foot, and two 90-foot steel spans, and approximately 440 feet of timber trestle approaches. Total length of bridge, 1,320 feet.

Near Coal Creek, the great coal-mining town of Fernie, French Camp Bridge, with a 60-foot king truss on concrete piers, was satisfactorily built by contract.

Another contract which gave excellent results was the erection of a 90-foot Howe truss on pile piers over the Moyie River at Yahk. A noticeable feature here is the well-built-up riprapped approach fills, cinder-topped. This work proved its value this spring (1925) when the Moyie rose exceptionally high, and no trouble was experienced whatever in the vicinity of Yahk Bridge, where in former years just the ordinary high water caused trouble and expense.

In river-bank protection the most important work of the year was that carried out at Natal in a systematic scheme to confine Michel Creek to a mountain-bounded contour on the west, and keep it away from the low ground of the town, the highway, and the railways on the east. The work consisted of a series of span cribs at the upper end, spaced so as to deflect the river towards the mountainous side; a long crib, rock-filled and well mattressed to keep the river in bounds in passing the part of the town where it had the greater tendency to spread eastward; and a long newly dredged channel (excavated by steam-shovel) to take care of the run-off, directed as above. The scheme had a test this spring and worked satisfactorily.

Some further work was done at West Fernie in the shape of wing-cribs and repairs to pile wall. On St. Mary River something further was done in the way of assisting the river to take the northerly channel about a mile up from its mouth, but owing to a desire to save funds too much dependence has been placed on hoping that the river itself would do the excavation-work. As happens nine times out of ten, this expectation failed, and we have yet to carry out our preconceived scheme of doing enough excavation of the northerly channel and effectively damming the southerly channel to make this river take the course we want it to.

The Golden river-bank protection continued to act effectively, nothing having been spent on it this fiscal year.

Some trouble was experienced at Toby Creek Dam in the vicinity of Athalmer, where an exceptional drop in temperature in December caused the quick formation of anchor ice.

In ferries the most extensive work was done at Donald, where good pile landing approaches were built. The ferries of the district are not of costly or elaborate type; that is, none are equipped with engines or have any paid crew, as none are operated on any of the main highways or through roads. They are suitable, however, for the minor traffic served and are kept in safe repair.

There is little to record regarding work done to Government buildings. A new cell building was built adjacent to the police constable's quarters at Wardner and some general repairs were made to the Fernie Court-house. Our own headquarters yards at Cranbrook were improved by tearing down an old dilapidated building and replacing it with shed type to be uniform with the other sheds that house our plant and tools, and the whole (including the fence) neatly painted grey. A lean-to shed was added to the warehouse at Athalmer and ground was acquired at Brisco and at Golden upon which to later erect housing for equipment.

Equipment.—The one-man tractor grader has proved to be very economical and satisfactory in the maintenance of roads. The cost of shaping up a road with this grader may be taken at about 50 cents per mile per cut. Our roads usually require three cuts, sometimes four. We are thus reshaping our roads in the spring for $1.50 to $2 per mile. Nothing like this has been accomplished with teams or with any other type of equipment that we have tried.

The portable rock-crushing plant is of a most suitable type for transportation in this district, and works splendidly in the quartzite rock-slides which occur along the Trans-Provincial Highway west of Cranbrook, and where gravel-pits are very scarce. Owing to lack of funds, however, we had to close down surfacing-work before we had a chance to get reliable cost data and before we had put the top dressing on the base rock that was placed, thereby causing a good deal of criticism when traffic had to iron out the sharp angular base course.

The Cranbrook Garage continued to give good service and was conducted to give all Government departments the benefit of minimum charges, consistent with making the garage pay its way as a self-contained unit: that is, no particular profit is sought, but no loss is allowed. This is controlled by a monthly statement of profit and loss.

The usual numbers of subdivision plans were submitted for approval and all road provisions were carefully considered before approval was given. The most extensive of these were subdivisions adjacent to Kimberley.

Applications to construct works on public highways consisted of power-lines, electric-light lines, telephone-lines, logging-railways, and gasolene-pumps, pipe-lines, weighing-scales, culverts for irrigation purposes, and gates on little-used roads. Each and every one were considered as to their possible effect upon the safety or convenience of the public and alterations requested where necessary before permit was issued.

Considerable attention was given this year to the question of extraordinary traffic. A form was devised covering the particular information that this office wants, such as the length of time applicant intends to operate, the roads he intends using, the weight of loads, the number of trips a day, and so on. Further, the applicant was asked what he proposed to do in the matter of assisting the Government to keep the road thus subjected to extraordinary traffic in a reasonable state of repair and restore same on cessation of his traffic. By presenting these forms to all whom we found using the roads in this way, we soon created a much better understanding with the operators and obtained considerable co-operation from them.

The policy of not building any more wooden sidewalks was adhered to, and very good rolled cinder sidewalks were laid in Wardner and to the cemetery at Cranbrook.

The following roads were gazetted: West Side Road, Williamson Road, Wills Road, Meadowbrook Settlement Road, and Moyie Lake diversion of the Inter-Provincial Highway.

During the fiscal year a change in the "Constitution Act" necessitated some changes in the administrative boundaries as well as in the filing system.

Forest fires occurred in the mountains near Sheep Creek and between Finlay and Dutch Creeks.

No change was made in the scale of wages and labour conditions remained about normal in Cranbrook and Columbia Districts, but in Fernie, owing to a prolonged strike amongst the coal-miners and rather extensive losses due to the Home Bank failure, many were destitute and Government relief-work was inaugurated for them. As mentioned before, this was carried out in the Trans-Provincial Highway on much-needed improvements.

As to the vagaries of the weather, the following might be recorded: Warm weather and high water came about a month earlier than usual; that is, there was a big run-off about the middle of May, 1924. No special damage was done, but we were forced to rush matters somewhat at the Natal river-bank protection-work and hold in safe condition what had already been done until the rush-water subsided. This added materially to the cost, but was unavoidable.

A further phenomenon occurred in the winter, the Cranbrook paper of December 20th, 1924, stating as follows: "An Indian from Wardner reports that his tepee was blown down during the gale last Sunday night during his absence and that he can find no trace of his wife and child or the tent. Veteran railroad-men state they have never experienced such a sudden change in the weather, which made railroading particularly trying. At Crowsnest the temperature dropped over 70° within a few hours. This drop from 50° above to 20° below was accompanied by an extremely high wind. Three engines were required to pull one train through the pass."

This wind blew many trees down on our roads. A peculiar result of the drop in temperature was the killing of many pine-trees which apparently had the sap started in the warm days and suddenly became frozen. Another result of the drop in temperature was the formation of anchor ice in many of the streams and the endangering of some of our bridges and protection-work. Trouble at Toby Creek Dam was mentioned previously, and the bridges over the Spillimacheen River and Bugaboo Creek were severally wracked, the former so much so that it is now being rebuilt, but, as a matter of fact, it is no economic loss, as its life was done in any event.

In changes in our staff, G. C. Tassie, Assistant District Engineer at Golden, was transferred to Vernon, and H. W. Stevens, who had been Resident Engineer in the Golden-Yoho Park Road construction, succeeded him. Miss Drummond, District Engineer's clerk, was transferred to Vancouver and was succeeded by J. E. Warren.

It is a pleasure to record the loyal and energetic support of all those working with me, each one having put forth his or her individual effort "to trim the ship."

We wish to convey to you and your staff appreciation of your ever kindly assistance.

Respectfully submitted.

REPORT OF ENGINEER, DISTRICT No. 7.

District Engineer's Office,
Prince Rupert, B.C., May 15th, 1925.

P. Philip, Esq.,
Deputy Minister and Public Works Engineer,
Victoria, B.C.

Sir,—I have the honour to submit my report for the fiscal year 1924–25, covering the Atlin, Prince Rupert, and Omineca Electoral Districts.

Roads.—The roads in the three districts were maintained during the year and no difficulties were experienced, except in the Hazelton District during the fall, when heavy rains and heavy traffic caused considerable damage to the roads. This damage was mostly repaired before freeze-up. Gravelling was undertaken on several of the main roads, particularly in the Omineca District.

In the Atlin District the chief construction was the extension of the Indian Mines Wagon-road, the Dunwell Mines Wagon-road, and Salmon River Road extension to the Premier Mine. Under an arrangement with the Department the work was done by the Premier Mining Company on the Salmon River Road extension. Further work was also done on the Telegraph Creek–Dease Lake Road.

In the Prince Rupert Electoral District usual maintenance and repairs were carried out. Weather conditions were favourable and road maintenance expenditure was light. The following new construction was done and charged to "Highway Loan": Grubbing on the Port Clements–Tlell Road with steam-donkey for a distance of 7 miles; 5 miles of new construction on the Kallum Lake Main Road; 5 miles of clearing on the Kaien Island Highway from Prince Rupert Townsite to Galloway Rapids.

Owing to the flood damage in the Bella Coola Valley maintenance was very heavy. The main road from Bella Coola Townsite to the existing wharf was washed out and it was found necessary to commence construction of a new road from the Cannery Wharf to the 4-Mile Bridge. The contract for this work was let to Robertson Bros. and is at present proceeding.

In the Omineca District maintenance and repairs were undertaken. New construction was carried out on the Colley Mountain Road, McDonald Landing Road, and Francois–Ootsa Lake Road. On the Burns Lake–Endako Road 10 miles of new construction were carried out through very heavy material, particularly on the west end. This work on the west end was done by steam-shovel. Eighteen miles still remain to be constructed to connect this link of the Fort George-Hazelton Highway.

Trails were maintained in all districts and several new trails were built in Atlin District.

Bridges.—In Omineca and Atlin very little damage was caused by highway water, but serious damage was done in the Bella Coola Valley in the month of September on account of extraordinary rainfall causing floods in the Bella Coola and Necleetsconnay Rivers. The Necleetsconnay trestle was washed out for a distance of 110 feet and has now been replaced with a suspension bridge. The centre pier of the Clayton Bridge was seriously damaged by high water. The Hagensborg Bridge was completely washed out. Damage was also done to the Canoe Crossing Bridge. Repairs have now been carried out on all of the bridges except the Hagensborg Bridge.

Terrace Bridge was successfully completed. This bridge consists of one 250-foot steel through span, one 160-foot steel deck span, two 140-foot steel deck spans, and two 90-foot steel deck spans, built on concrete piers. The approaches are timber trestles.

A new bridge of 1,030-foot trestle and one 50-foot span was constructed at Delkatla Slough, Queen Charlotte Islands, at a cost of, roughly, $9 per foot. This bridge replaces an old trestle which was in very bad repair.

In the Omineca District repairs were carried out on the Haguelgate Suspension Bridge. Caps on the towers were replaced and new posts were put in. Some repairs were also carried out on the Skeena Suspension Bridge and running-boards were put on the Hazelton Bridge across the Bulkley River. Three new bridges were built across the Endako River—two at Endako and one at Savory. Work was started on the Telkwa River Bridge, which will consist of two concrete piers; one concrete abutment; two 100-foot Howe-truss spans with trestle approach on the north end. This work has been seriously held up on account of weather conditions.

Ferries.—Ferries were all maintained during the year, and on account of the construction of the Terrace Bridge the Terrace Ferry can now be removed and will probably be placed at Remo. A new ferry-landing designed by General Foreman Anderson and installed at Usk was found to be very successful and it is proposed to put in more of these landings.

Wharves.—Maintenance-work was carried out on Prince Rupert and Bella Coola Wharves, although Bella Coola Wharf has now got to a state where maintenance-work is practically useless. The ramp and bridge approach to the Prince Rupert Wharf, owing to being in an unsafe condition, have now been removed and an approach road is being constructed to the wharf. This work is now practically completed and is open for traffic. Further work will be necessary on the Prince Rupert Wharf, as the life of same is practically completed.

River-protection.—Assistance was given to the settlers in Bella Coola Valley to carry out river-protection work at Hagensborg.

Organization.—The whole organization worked in a satisfactory manner, but it is with regret I have to report that Assistant District Engineer T. T. Dunlop, in carrying out his duties in examination of the Smithers Bridge across the Bulkley River, slipped off one of the piers and was drowned. This accident occurred on May 15th, 1924.

Labour.—Labour conditions were satisfactory. Wages were the same as last year and very little difficulty was experienced in getting men at all seasons of the year. Materials were easy to get and prices appear to be reaching normal.

General.—On the whole the work has been carried out in as economical and efficient manner as possible. Every assistance was received from the Department in Victoria and all permanent forces of the Department in this district carried out their duties in a most satisfactory manner.

On January 1st, 1925, a change was made in this district, District Engineer R. M. Taylor was transferred to Kamloops and the undersigned was transferred from Cariboo to this district.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

G. C. MACKAY,
District Engineer.

REPORT OF ENGINEER, DISTRICT No. 8.

DISTRICT ENGINEER'S OFFICE.
PRINCE GEORGE, B.C., June 30th, 1925.

P. Philip, Esq.,
Deputy Minister and Public Works Engineer,
Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit my annual report for the fiscal year ended March 31st, 1925.

This season, one of the earliest known in the Central Interior, marked an early start on our programme, the end of April seeing the majority of main roads in very fair condition.

An effort was made at the outset to further improve our main system, and this work was carried on with good results as far as funds would permit.

Main Roads.—The main Cariboo Road (south from Prince George) was given much attention, principally widening side-hills in heavy cutting to standard width and filling low points preparatory to surfacing, which was laid in short stretches during the winter months.

The Fort George-Hazelton Road between Prince George and Endako was similarly treated, a number of narrow hills having been improved and the original location revised in several sections. Much more of this work is necessary, involving short diversions in order to eliminate bad grades and poor alignment.

Between Vanderhoof and Fort St. James several essential improvements were made, especially on the central portion preparatory work being carried out, so that another season will make the whole road in the graded class.

Another much-desired main road between Prince George and Giscome was pushed ahead, but the heavy work near Willow River again engaged most attention, leaving the last 5 miles for another season.

The main road between McBride and Dunster was improved as far as possible in the vicinity of Baker Creek, but much remains to be done before these two communities are linked together.

McBride Bridge, Fraser River. Constructed by day-labour in winter of 1924–25. One 130-foot span and two 100-foot spans.

THE LIBRARY
OF THE
UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS

North of Prince George the Summit Lake Road was much improved at Salmon River Hill, where the original 16-per-cent. grade was reduced in part to 7 per cent., the top end being left for another season. Widening and grading was carried out in the vicinity of Summit Lake. Apart from the above works, the main roads were well maintained by patrol grader and drags throughout the summer.

Lateral Roads.—A large number of side-roads were constructed or improved at the many small centres along the Grand Trunk Railway.

Peace River District.—Main Roads: The main road from Pouce Coupé to Grande Prairie was regraded and short revisions constructed to improve grade and alignment.

Lateral Roads: New road allowances were opened up and graded where required on Pouce Coupé Prairie. Improvements were also made in the Fort St. John and Hudson Hope Districts.

Bridge-work.—The only large structure erected during the year was at McBride across the Fraser River, this work being essential to open up the main road eastwards, as well as develop the lands on the north side of the river. This bridge is made up of two 100-foot and one 130-foot Howe-truss spans on pile piers, with pile-trestle approaches, local timber being used throughout with the exception of chord-leaves. The work was carried out very efficiently by day-labour, the cost being kept well within the estimates.

A number of smaller bridges were constructed in the district, principally over the Stellako River near Endako, where a 60-foot king-truss span with pile approaches was erected. Repairs were also made to small stringer bridges at various points throughout the district.

Ferries.—The number of ferries in the district is being annually reduced, and the work this year consisted purely of maintenance, with the exception of Isle Pierre, where the old scow ferry was replaced with one of the pontoon type.

General.—The work was carried out by a plentiful supply of day-labour and, judging from results, efficient, conscientious work was obtained. This improvement is being noticed more and more each spring, the usual expensive spring work being less in evidence.

A change was made in the outside staff by a transfer of the General Foreman from Pouce Coupé to Prince George, and vice versa.

Taking everything all round, the work progressed very satisfactorily, with a desire for efficiency by those concerned.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

A. Dixon,
District Engineer.

REPORT OF ENGINEER, DISTRICT No. 9.

District Engineer's Office,
150-Mile House, B.C., June 30th, 1925.

P. Philip, Esq.,
Deputy Minister and Public Works Engineer,
Victoria, B.C.

Sir,—I have the honor to submit my report for the fiscal year 1924–25.

Roads repaired and maintained, 1,840 miles; trails repaired and maintained, 65 miles; new roads constructed, 63 miles; bridges repaired extensively, 72; bridges reconstructed, 31, totalling 765 feet; new bridges built, 18, totalling 935 feet.

Ten ferries were maintained and operated. A new 10-ton standard ferry was built for service at Quesnel.

The most important bridge-work was the repairs to the Chilcotin Suspension Bridge. The 2½-inch main cables on the 320-foot suspension span were shortened to give camber and rigidity to the deck. A new deck and hand-rail truss were put on, also guy-cables, all without closing the bridge to traffic. This bridge, which has been undergoing a series of extensive repairs during the past four years, is now in first-class condition.

The unfinished link on the Quesnel–Prince George Road was practically completed, permitting this road to be open for traffic. There is still considerable work to be done on this highway at the Cottonwood Hills and near Canyon Creek. The gravel surfacing of the road is also necessary.

An additional 3 miles of the "Hanceville Timber" diversion on the Chilcotin Main Road were completed, leaving approximately 2½ miles to finish this piece of work. Twelve miles of that important railway feeder from Bridge Lake to Lone Butte Station, P.G.E., were built; a further 12 miles and this road will connect the Bridge Lake Settlement with the road system. A new road from the west end of Horse Lake, direct to Lone Butte, 2½ miles in length, was built. With the exception of gravelling, the western section of Horsefly Lake Road, 4¼ miles in length, was completed.

The installation of a dredge at Antler Creek and the hauling of heavy machinery from the railway at Quesnel to the dredging-ground made it necessary to do extensive repairs to the roads and bridges between these points.

On January 1st District Engineer G. C. Mackay was transferred to District No. 7 and the undersigned appointed to this district.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

E. S. JONES,
District Engineer.

REPORT OF SUPERVISING ARCHITECT.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS,
VICTORIA, B.C., September 23rd, 1925.

P. Philip, Esq.,
Deputy Minister and Public Works Engineer,
Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I have great pleasure in submitting herewith the annual report of the Architectural Branch for the year ended March 31st, 1925.

CAPITAL EXPENDITURE.

Essondale.—The new power-house at Essondale was commenced and practically completed along with the steam-distribution mains connecting the building with the different units. The building is designed to accommodate two extra boilers, which will be sufficient for the ultimate development of the institution and also supply steam to the Boys' Industrial School at Coquitlam. I have every reason to believe that for design and equipment this building will be second to none in Western Canada.

John Peck, Chief Inspector of Boilers and Machinery, has been responsible for the design of the boiler units, mechanical equipment, and steam mains, the Architectural Branch erecting the buildings and ducts.

The new Acute Building at Essondale was completed and occupied, the construction having occupied over two years. The Province now possesses two of the best units on the American Continent for treatment of mental cases, about which much favourable comment has been made.

Two residences for medical officers were commenced during the year and the Medical Superintendent's House was completed.

Much credit is due the institution, in that these buildings have been erected by patient-labour with the assistance of the institution's staff under our direction.

University of B.C.—The erection of the various permanent and temporary buildings at the University has been continued and rapid progress has been made, particularly on the temporary buildings.

It is a pleasure to bring to your attention the excellent class of workmanship that has been done by the contractors on both the permanent and temporary buildings, and the good feeling and co-operation that have existed between the contractors, their sub-contractors and myself, and the architects for the permanent buildings, Sharp & Thompson. I am convinced that when the buildings are completed they will reflect credit to the Government. The University authorities will be more than satisfied with what has been accomplished for them.

Designs have been made for equipment, and details of furnishings have been prepared in co-operation with the Purchasing Agent, the University authorities, and myself.

Under the direction of Walter Leek, Consulting Mechanical Engineer, and James Muirhead, Inspector of Electrical Energy, designs are being prepared for steam, gas, water and electrical distribution systems to supply the various buildings.

This branch designed and contracts were awarded for the Forest Products Laboratory, another temporary building, and good progress has been made in its erection.

Deaf, Dumb, and Blind School.—An auditorium and gymnasium were erected at this institution from funds bequeathed to it by the late James Braid and a much-needed want has been supplied to this institution. Various repairs, alterations, and the usual maintenance have been carried out to the main building.

Hospital for Incurables, Marpole.—Plans prepared last year for the necessary improvements and alterations have been carried out and a complete transformation of the building has been effected.

Boys' Industrial School.—An auditorium and school-room were erected at this institution, the work being executed by the boys themselves under the direction of their instructors and under our supervision. An excellent building has been erected and great credit is due to the boys and their instructor. The educational feature has been of great value to some of the boys who will benefit when they leave the institution.

Other improvements have been made to the grounds in constructing curbs around the grounds, additional planting, etc. The balance of the cottages, etc., have been redecorated internally.

Plans have been prepared for a swimming-pool and gymnasium as an extension to the auditorium and school-room.

Tranquille.—The new buildings at Tranquille were completed during this year and improvements undertaken on the various buildings and grounds and the farm.

Smithers Court-house.—Plans were prepared for the Court-house at Smithers and contract awarded.

Lock-ups.—A new lock-up at Oliver was erected on the new standard plans. Improvements and renovations were made to existing buildings.

Schools.—Plans for a new twelve-room frame school at Michel were prepared, but the building was not undertaken. The following smaller schools were erected during the year: Four rooms, 1; two rooms, 2; one room, 3; two-room addition, 2; one-room addition, 3.

At the request of the Education Department numerous plans and specifications of our standard school plans were provided various School Boards. Where the Education Department has given grants to non-Provincial undertakings the architect's plans have been examined and approved.

Hospitals.—The Branch has examined various hospital plans in connection with which the Provincial Secretary has made grants. Assistance has been rendered to various Boards and architects in the preparation of the plans.

Valuation.—At the request of the Department of Finance, the Branch has made an inventory of furniture and valuation of property throughout the Province. This took up considerable time and travelling to accomplish in the time at our disposal.

I wish to express my appreciation of the assistance given me by the District Engineers of the Public Works Department, who supplied the information in places where it was not convenient for my staff to visit.

War Memorial, Parliament Buildings.—The Branch prepared the plans for the pedestal of the new War Memorial to be erected in the Parliament Building grounds, supervised the cutting of the stone, and supplied the foundation for the same.

Game Farm, Elk Lake.—A cottage for the Game Warden at Elk Lake Game Farm was started and a barn building erected by our own carpenters.

REPAIRS AND MAINTENANCE.

Parliament Buildings.—The usual maintenance and repairs to the buildings have been efficiently carried out by our staff, and the grounds improved, particularly around the southern part of the grounds, under the direction of the Head Gardener.

Alterations were made in the Printing Department to give better accommodation and enable the work of that Department to be more economically carried out.

Government House.—The old vinery was taken down and partially erected of reinforced concrete, so that the wooden part can easily be repaired without effecting the structure in any way.

Repairs and improvements were made to the Lieutenant-Governor's residence.

Normal Schools, Victoria and Vancouver.—The general maintenance of these buildings has been carried out. A new retaining-wall and boundary fence were erected on the east boundary of the Vancouver site.

Mental Hospitals, Essondale, New Westminster, and Saanich.—The maintenance and repairs of these institutions have been carried out by the institution staff under our direction. At New Westminster in particular some of the old wards were remodelled and placed in first-class condition.

Girls' Industrial School.—General maintenance of the buildings was carried out.

Court-house.—The general maintenance of the various agencies was carried out during the year, at Vancouver and Nelson in particular. Various improvements and alterations were made to more effectively house the staffs of various departments.

Old Men's Home, Kamloops.—In addition to the usual maintenance and repairs, the old cattle-barn was reconstructed on more modern lines.

Prisons, Nelson, Oakalla, and Kamloops.—The usual maintenance of the buildings was carried out by prison help. Great improvements to the grounds were made at Oakalla by the same labour, and improvements in the kitchen and laundry were carried out and a complete new laundry equipment installed. The old wooden gaol was placed on concrete foundations to prevent it from ultimate destruction by dry-rot.

In conclusion, I wish to express my appreciation of the assistance given me by the members of my staff and the various technical officers who have been associated with me, more particularly on the University and Essondale buildings, for their whole-hearted support and assistance and ready co-operation in these and other works in the largest building programme in the history of the Branch.

I also wish to mention the various tradesmen employed on the Parliament Buildings and the various institution staffs for their excellent work on the various maintenance and constructional work carried out during the year.

Attached hereto are photos of several of the more important works executed during the year.

Thanking you for the kindly consideration and co-operation given this Branch in carrying out the year's programme.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

HENRY WHITTAKER,
Supervising Architect.

REPORT OF THE MEDICAL SUPERINTENDENT

For the Twelve Months ended March 31st, 1925.

PART I.—MEDICAL.

The Honourable William Sloan,
Provincial Secretary, Parliament Buildings, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit herewith for your information and consideration the Fifty-third Annual Report of the operations of the Mental Hospitals in the Province of British Columbia.

In order to more readily place before you the movement of population at the Hospital during the year, I am tabulating in brief form Table No. 1 herewith.

Movement of Population.	Male.	Female.	Total.
In Hospital, April 1st, 1924	1,258	526	1,784
On probation at home	41	39	80
Escaped, but not discharged	2	.....	2
Admitted to March 31st, 1925	289	172	461
Total treated during year	1,590	737	2,327
Discharged in full and on probation	171	134	305
Died	96	42	138
Total discharged for year	267	176	443
In residence, March 31st, 1925	1,323	561	1,884

Net increase of population in residence, 100; average daily population in residence, 1,823.29.

Death-rate of total number treated, 5.93 per cent.; discharge rate of admissions, not including deaths, 66.16 per cent.

You will note from these figures that the net resident population of the Hospital has increased by 100 persons in the year just closed, making the resident population at March 31st, 1925, 1,884, with a daily average population in residence at the Hospital throughout the year of 1,823.29. The admission of new patients totalled 461; 289 males and 172 females, being fourteen more than received during the previous fiscal year. This number represents an average monthly admission of 38.4 persons, whereas our monthly discharges and deaths averaged 30.7 persons, leaving a net average increase in resident population of approximately eight persons per month, thus accounting for our total increase in resident population for the year.

It will be of interest to you to note the country of birth of those admitted to the Hospital as shown in Table No. 7. These figures I have analysed, and the results are fairly similar to those of last year; only 155, or 33.6 per cent., of those admitted are Canadian-born. Other parts of the British Empire contributed 179, or 38.8 per cent.; Orientals totalled 20, or 4.3 per cent.; all other countries contributing 107, or 23.2 per cent. From these figures you will note that only one-third of our admissions were Canadians by birth. These figures indicate to me the necessity of a more searching examination of immigrants coming to the country before citizenship is allowed them; otherwise it would seem that, rather than being valuable assets as citizens, they are to become liabilities as residents of public institutions to be maintained at the expense of the Province.

The Dominion Immigration Service, as represented in British Columbia, has co-operated to the fullest extent with us in dealing with the problem of repatriating those who have not Canadian citizenship, and we feel have functioned fully in this regard. However, it would appear that additional facilities should be provided by that Department to more effectively cull out the unfitted before they are admitted to the country.

The various forms of mental illness from which persons were suffering is shown in Table 16. Here again the figures clearly show the very important part played by heredity in the development of mental illness. The two forms of mental diseases—namely, the manic depressive and dementia præcox types—contributed 28.2 per cent. and 22.12 per cent. respectively, or a total of 50.32 per cent. of all admissions. Paranoia, another form of mental disease in which heredity is an outstanding factor, contributed 7.3 per cent.; while epilepsy and the feeble-minded contributed another 13.7 per cent., making a total of 71.32 per cent. of all those admitted in which the heredity factor is an outstanding feature. This must strongly suggest the necessity of some action to prevent the reproduction of the species by persons handicapped in this way. After being conversant with the facts this matter could, by public education and public support, be effectively controlled by a more strict supervision of persons permitted to marry and by sterilization of selected cases in which the heredity factor is clearly present. Syphilis, in the form of general paralysis of the insane, contributed 28 cases, or 6.08 per cent. of the admissions; a figure somewhat lower than in former years, possibly reflecting the results of the treatment of venereal disease carried out by the Venereal Disease Clinics established by the Public Health Department some years ago. Mental diseases arising as a result of bodily illness or injury contributed 55, or 11.9 per cent. of those admitted; while old age caused 33, or 7.1 per cent., to be admitted and who suffered from senile dementia.

There were 443 persons discharged, or died, during the period of this report; the deaths totalled 138, or 5.93 of the total number treated. This figure is nearly 2 per cent. lower than last year and represents about the average death-rate at the Hospital. No epidemic disease made its appearance among the patients during the year. The deaths accounted for 29.9 per cent. of the number admitted, and, in addition to this, we were able to discharge 63, or 13.66 per cent. of the number admitted as recovered and able to return to their various stations and assume their responsibilities again in society. With the efficient assistance of the Dominion Immigration Department, 37, or 8.02 per cent. of the number admitted, were deported as undesirable citizens to their native country for further care and treatment; 205 were discharged into the care of friends, or to private institutions, for care as improved or unimproved, leaving a residue of 100 persons still in the Hospital at the close of the year, thus accounting for our net increase in population.

As noted in last year's report, the largest number became mentally ill between the ages of 35 and 40; 73 being admitted between those ages, thus indicating at least that this is the period in life where the greatest strain is met.

There were two deaths in the institution during the year resulting from suicidal action on the part of the persons in question. One, a case of bichloride poisoning, in which the lady intentionally swallowed bichloride tablets prior to her admission to hospital. In spite of every possible treatment she succumbed three days after arrival. The second case was one of strangulation by a patient who had been in the Hospital some twelve years, had become a chronic case, and was not thought to possess suicidal propensities. In both cases the Coroner conducted inquests and after due investigation and deliberation the jury exonerated the Hospital and staff from any suggestion of neglect or blame in these cases.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.

For full details of the financial operations of the Hospital I respectfully refer you to Part II. of this report, being the financial section, but for your ready reference I wish to direct your attention to a few of the outstanding figures in this section.

The gross operating expenditure for all departments of the Mental Hospital, including inter-departmental trading accounts, represents a total sum of $624,839.80; the net expenditure, however, which represents the cost of the institution to the taxpayer, is $531,063.23, which sum figured against the daily average population of 1,823.29 gives a net per capita cost per day of 79.79 cents per patient, a slight increase over the cost last year. When one considers, however, that in this year a new building was opened and staffed, with the additional cost of heating, lighting, and operating this building to be included, the increase in per capita cost is surprisingly small and is rather less than I personally anticipated. Through diligent attention to the collection of maintenance accounts, together with the ready co-operation of the Provincial Police in gathering data in this connection, has been responsible for the largest maintenance collection ever made in the history of the Mental Hospitals. A total sum of $93,776.57 was collected in this way and remitted to the Treasury; this amount representing an increase of $11,380.95 over the amount collected in the previous year. I wish here to record my appreciation of and thanks to the Superintendent of Provincial Police and his officers for their co-operation in this work.

FARM DEPARTMENT.

This very necessary department of any large institution has functioned quite as satisfactorily as in former years; in fact, it is steadily increasing its output and more nearly approximating the requirements of the Hospital in food-supplies as time goes on. This, I feel, is largely due to the close co-operation of Mr. Moore and the other officers of this department, their energy and efficiency in conducting this portion of the institution. In order to show that the farm is a very essential department of the Hospital and a department essential to the economical operation of the institution, I will draw your attention to the production and cost of some staple articles required at the institution and produced at the farm at cost much less than they could be bought on the market, thus saving the Hospital (and by this the taxpayer) a very considerable sum of money each year. You will note from a perusal of Part III. of this report full details of the operations in this department. I would, however, like to draw your attention to the fact that there are some outstanding production figures in this section. We produced and used 1,047,511.7 lb. of milk at a cost of 33.95 cents per gallon. Some 40 acres of potatoes produced an average crop of 13½ tons per acre, or a total of 540 tons required by the institution at a cost of $6.86 a ton. The institution onion needs were largely met by 1½ acres yielding 14 tons to the acre at a cost of $4.88 per ton; 2¾ acres of carrots produced a crop of 36 tons to the acre at a cost of $2.50 per ton. Our cannery, by the conservation of perishable foods and making them available for winter use, shows a net profit on operation of $3,177.59. These production costs must be a final answer to any person suggesting that a farm department is not essential to the economic operation of a large institution. The production costs in other instances than those cited above are very far below the market costs of such products were it necessary to buy them on the market for the use of the Hospital. The department shows a profit of $16,894.82 on its operations for the year, a figure which is, I think, highly satisfactory.

I am very pleased indeed to record in this report the opening of the new Acute Building for the care of acute cases. This building was finished and occupied on November 1st, 1924. The occupation of this building made it possible to reclassify to a great extent patients in the Hospital, and also enabled us to modernize our methods of reception and treatment to a considerable degree. The top floor of this building has been set aside as a psychopathic admission unit entirely separate in its staff organization and in its care of patients from all other portions of the institution.

We have been fortunate in procuring the services of Miss Van Wyck as Superintendent of Nurses for this department. She is a trained nurse with special post-graduate training in mental diseases and has had a considerable practical experience in mental nursing before joining our staff.

All patients admitted to the Hospital are received in this department where all physical, laboratory, and mental examinations are carried out. The patient is then brought before a staff clinic where his case is studied and recommendations made by the staff as a whole for his further treatment. He is then transferred to whatever department of the Hospital it is felt will best suit his requirements and promote his recovery. Or, if the case is one of short duration and there is a probability of an early discharge, he remains in the psychopathic department pending this discharge. In this way he never comes in contact with the more chronic and institutionalized patients, which is often very much to his advantage. In the five months this system has been in operation we have been highly pleased with the results and feel that the rearrangement has been a very pronounced step forward in the care of our mentally ill. I am embodying in this report pictures of various portions of this building which will, I am sure, impress you with its suitability for the work for which it is designed.

I am also pleased to report that the central heating plant so long needed at the Hospital is now almost completed, and I am enclosing photos of the exterior and interior of this plant for your information. This should provide us with a very great deal more satisfactory and efficient heating service than the Hospital has formerly enjoyed, at the same time removing from close proximity to the Hospital buildings the dirt and noise incidental to such a department.

GENERAL CONDITION OF PLANT.

The mechanical staff of the Hospital has been busily engaged throughout the year in maintaining the condition of the Hospital buildings and equipment. In this connection a great mass of work has been accomplished, much of it not of great magnitude in itself, but together has had a very important bearing on maintaining the plant in good condition. At the Public Hospital for the Insane, where the buildings are older and in many instances very much out of date and difficult to keep up, we have had a great deal of work to do. Ward C, which was badly in need of repair, was completely renovated, being relathed, replastered, refloored, and generally renewed until it is now in as satisfactory a condition as is possible in an old building of this type. This proved to be a very extensive job and kept our staff, with very little outside assistance, busy for a considerable period. In addition to this, the Lawn House was reroofed, new gutters and new foundations were put in, and this building is now in a fairly satisfactory condition. The heating plant also received attention in repairing fire-boxes, renewing piping, and generally improving its condition, the results of which have clearly justified the necessity of the work being done. The painter has been constantly employed, painting the wards throughout the Hospital, keeping the outside buildings in order, and I am pleased to report that this work has been well kept up and the plant, from this point of view, is in good condition.

At the Mental Home, Saanich, the plant has also been well maintained. We found it necessary to make some additions to the radiating surface in the wards to ensure greater comfort to our patients. This work was carried out at a moderate cost and the results have been entirely satisfactory. The wards are much warmer and our fuel-consumption has not been materially altered. The exterior woodwork of the buildings has been painted and the interior cleaned, kalsomined, and painted as required, leaving the plant in a very satisfactory state of repair.

At Essondale, the largest unit of the Hospitals, a correspondingly greater amount of work has been carried forward, both in connection with maintaining the satisfactory state of the buildings and in doing new work in connection with lawns, roads, etc. The buildings as a whole are in a satisfactory state of repair, both internally and externally. This state of affairs is kept up by immediate attention to everything which is out of order and having it replaced or repaired at once. The painters have been continually employed in cleaning and painting the wards and buildings, and these you will find to be in a quite satisfactory state. It is unnecessary for me to enumerate the great volume of work done in connection with the maintenance of the plant, but I am sure you will realize that a plant of this magnitude requires constant, careful attention if it is to be kept in good order. The state of the plant generally is in a very good condition of repair.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

The greatest and most pressing need at the Hospital is still for more bed capacity, and I feel that, after a perusal of our figures and a reference to the attached chart showing the population as compared with the normal bed capacity of the Mental Hospitals at the close of the fiscal year, you will readily appreciate this necessity. You will note further from the attached chart that the normal bed capacity of the Mental Hospitals was 1,600 beds, whereas we had in residence 1,884 persons. This means a very considerable overcrowding, which makes the proper classification of patients most difficult, as well as militating against the proper hygiene and general health of the population as a whole. There is also a very serious risk of patients injuring one another from the irritations of too close contact, and this annoyance, added to their already ill mind, materially delays improvement or recovery in their mental health. We are at the present time especially overcrowded in our women's department at the Public Hospital for the Insane, and it has been necessary to domicile a ward of quiet male cases who are engaged in the care of lawns, etc., and are necessary at the institution, in temporary quarters in the Occupational Building and in the Shops Building. This very greatly increases the difficulty of proper supervision of these people, but, what is of greater importance, seriously increases the fire risk. This state of affairs is entirely unsatisfactory, but under the circumstances no other step seems possible at present. I therefore strongly recommend to you that immediate consideration be given to the provision of more bed accommodation at the Hospital, and I would further recommend that this provision be met by the construction of the permanent Chronic Building for female patients. which will take from three to five years to complete. For this reason I feel that it is extremely important that very early action should be taken, as by the time the building is ready we will have a very material increase in our present population; it may even in the interval be necessary to provide some temporary construction for the housing of patients. As temporary constructions are ultimately very expensive buildings, I feel that every effort should be made to avoid it if possible. I would also like to repeat my recommendation of last year that serious consideration be given the matter of providing an institution for epileptic and feeble-minded persons who are now a portion of the Mental Hospital population, and should properly be segregated in a separate building for their care. There are at least 150 cases in the Mental Hospital population who really belong in such an institution. By using these beds for the insane a very material improvement would be brought about in our housing conditions.

The hay-barn at Colony Farm has passed the possibility of satisfactory repair; it is also at the present time much smaller than is necessary for the storage of hay and straw required for the care of our herd. I feel that consideration should be given to the replacement of this building by a larger and more suitable structure, and would recommend that this matter be kept in mind for future attention.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

I wish especially to acknowledge the work performed by Mrs. Ellis under the auspices of the Red Cross Society in connection with the entertainment of our returned soldier patients at the Hospital. Mrs. Ellis has worked diligently and with much care in carrying on this work. She has provided excellent concerts and at all times has co-operated intelligently with the Hospital staff in this work. I feel that special mention of her work in this report is only a slight recognition of the valuable service she has done.

I wish also to acknowledge to the fullest extent the splendid co-operation and assistance given me by the Assistant Medical Superintendents and also by the heads of the various departments throughout the Hospital. Without their loyal support and co-operation it would be quite impossible to carry on such an organization in any efficient manner whatever. To all other members of the staff and employees of the institution I wish to make grateful acknowledgment of their loyal attention to the duties performed by them at the Hospital.

Acknowledgment is also due the various officials of the Government departments with whom we have had to deal during the year. I would especially mention Mr. Whittaker, Supervising Architect of the Public Works Department; Mr. Hamilton, of the Purchasing Agent's Department; and the officers of the Comptroller's section of the Department of Finance. The relations with these departments have been at all times amicable and the co-operation has been entirely satisfactory and worked to the benefit of the service generally and to the Hospital in particular.

To yourself, your deputy, Mr. White, and other officers of your Department I wish to express my sincere appreciation of your support and sympathetic understanding and assistance accorded me in dealing with the problems relative to the Mental Hospital, without which no superintendent could possibly carry on successfully.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your obedient servant,

H. C. STEEVES,
Medical Superintendent.

Provincial Mental Hospital,
Essondale, B.C., May 26th, 1925.

H. C. Steeves, Esq., B.A., M.D., C.M.,
Medical Superintendent, Essondale, B.C.

Sir,—I have the honour to submit herewith report of work performed in Laboratory during the year ended March 31st, 1925.

Of the 448 tests for syphilis, 27 were positive, or, in other words, 6 per cent. The table of general work done in the Laboratory for the year is as follows:—

Urinalysis—Routine	431
Blood—Wassermann tests for syphilis	448
Blood-counts	45
Spinal fluid—
Wassermann tests	32
Globulin	11
Cell-counts	11
Cultures—Nose and throat	182
Sputa examination for tuberculosis	30
Smears—
Urethral for Gc.	11
Miscellaneous	24
Bacterial counts on milk	12

PART II.—FINANCIAL.

BURSAR'S REPORT.

ESSONDALE, B.C., September 15th, 1925.

H. C. Steeves, Esq., B.A., M.D., C.M.,
General Medical Superintendent of Mental Hospitals,
Essondale, B.C.

SIR,—I have the honour to again submit to you herewith balance-sheets and profit and loss statements, together with various other financial and statistical tables covering the operation of Mental Hospitals in British Columbia, for the fiscal year which closed on March 31st, 1925.

The total gross operating expenditure of the three institutions—namely, New Westminster, Essondale, and Saanich—as shown on Table D, amounting to the sum of $624,839.80, as compared with $585,111.70 for the previous year, an increase of $39,728.10, includes all expenditures by voucher from our appropriations and produce purchased from our institution farm. The increase is chiefly accounted for by the opening of the new Acute Building at Essondale, necessitating extra staff, another large kitchen, and other duplications for the small population to start with. In addition to this we had our ever-increasing patient population.

Whereas last year we had a decrease in our revenue of almost $6,000, this year I am happy to state that we have increased by the sum of $11,380.95, the collections for the year amounting to $93,776.57, the largest collection for any year in the history of the institution.

Net expenditure for all three institutions cost the Province the sum of $531,063.23, which, figured with the total daily average population for these institutions of 1,823.29, gives a net per capita cost of keeping patients of $291.26 per year, or 79.79 cents per day, as compared with 79.29 cents last year. (See Table D.)

A review of comparison of this year's expenditures with those of last year will be of interest to you, and I am herewith quoting you some of the principal headings of each Hospital.

PUBLIC HOSPITAL FOR INSANE, NEW WESTMINSTER.

Salaries.—In the year under review, $83,310.64 was expended, compared to last year of $89,897.30, a reduction of $6,586.66, due to the reduction in the staff and the transfer of patients to Essondale on account of opening the new Acute Building.

Office supplies and travelling expenses are about the same.

Fuel, Water, Light, and Power.—Here we have another reduction of $1,112.71, practically all of which was made up in fuel and was the result of rebricking our boilers in the city institution. The cost of coal was some 20 cents per ton less last year than the previous year, and while this amounted to about $500, the balance was chiefly the result of repairs to plant and attention to firing.

Maintenance and Repairs.—We have charged under this heading for the year the sum of $13,549.91, as compared with $19,534.84 last year, or a reduction of $5,984.93. This is the amount of increase shown in the previous year's statement and report, and is due to remodelling of certain wards and practically puts us back to the regular yearly sum which is necessary to keep up this old institution.

Furniture and Fixtures.—Where in the previous year we expended the sum of $8,300.42 under this heading, the year under review shows $5,939.92, a reduction of $2,360.50, which decrease was accounted for by eliminating the replacing of carpets and draperies, which, however, will have to be replaced either in the current year or, possibly, next year.

Provisions.—This account shows a reduction of $1,376.29, due principally to the transfer of patients to the Essondale Institution.

Under the headings of clothing, boots, and slippers; medical and surgical supplies; and examination, committal, and transportation of patients, an increase is noted over the previous year, which I fully expect to see reduced in the current year. For incidentals and unforeseen items the statement under review shows a substantial reduction of $4,208.63.

UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS

While it is very gratifying to report reductions in expenditures, it must be borne in mind that the population at this institution was reduced in October when the new Acute Building was opened at Essondale, and that there was a corresponding increase under the various headings at Essondale to provide for these transfers.

In summing up the year at New Westminster, it shows that, while expenditures were reduced, this was partly offset by a reduction in population which affects the per capita cost, and with the increase in revenue remitted to the Treasury the net per capita cost was reduced from 80 cents per day to 71½ cents.

Mental Hospital, Essondale.

Salaries.—Where 1924 reports show the sum of $123,593.61 expended, the year under review reached the sum of $134,384.13, an increase of $10,790.52, all of which was due to staffing the new Acute Building. This large sum, however, did not materially affect our gross or net per capita cost, as the increased population and hospital days' treatment bring out a per capita cost under salaries of $128.37 for the year, as against $128.23 last year.

Office supplies and travelling expenses are about the same as formerly.

Fuel, Water, Light, and Power.—These accounts are substantially increased this year by the amount of $4,244.60, partly accounted for in fuel and part in light and power, due to the Acute Building.

Maintenance and Repairs.—No big increase under this heading. The sum of $3,000 is due to the building of the new Annex at Colony Farm, this amount having to be written into current expenditure on account of the loss in value of the old Annex by fire. Construction of retaining-wall and new sidewalks also account for part, while the hundreds of calls for miscellaneous maintenance repairs and renewals about the institution and the opening of the new building account for the balance.

Furniture and Fixtures.—Only $8,349.29 was expended this year under this heading, as compared to $10,171.44 the previous year, there being practically nothing purchased on account of the Acute Building, which was furnished completely through capital expenditure under the Department of Public Works.

Substantial increases are noted in expenditures under provisions, clothing, medical supplies, and incidentals and unforeseen accounts, and are to be expected owing to the transfer of patients from the city on the opening of the Acute Building; but this increase was again offset with additional hospital days' treatment and also in our net per capita cost, with an increase in the revenue remitted to the Treasury amounting to over $6,500 over last year, so that the net per capita cost shows a small increase of 82.9 cents per day, as compared with 76.6 cents last year. This is a remarkable figure when you consider every charge pertaining to the institution is included therein, with the exception of new capital expenditures properly authorized and handled outside of this Department.

Capital Expenditures, Essondale.

The cost of building the new Acute Building at Essondale amounted to the sum of $623,168.87, this sum being obtained from the Department of Public Works and capitalized as an asset to building account in our books, $77,663.69 being the total cost of furnishing this new institution. The sum of $5,192.02 was expended for the construction of cottages at Essondale for the medical staff.

Saanich Mental Home.

This institution expended during the year very similar to that of last year. Patients in residence increased from the daily average of 139.69 to 156.28. The gross maintenance was reduced from $383.68 per capita for last year, or $1.048 per day, to $375.70, or $1.029, for the year under review. There was an increase in salaries owing to the increase in staff to provide for additional population transferred to that institution. The increase in maintenance and repairs is due to the remodelling, cleaning, and painting unoccupied portions of the building for the residence of these new patients, and there is also an increase in provisions and incidental accounts. Practically all other headings show a reduction from former years.

I am pleased to report that the work of this Department is at present up to date and in good order, as evidenced by the satisfaction expressed by the Provincial Government auditors on their recent visit, when the books were audited and our methods examined. While the past year has been a heavy one for all concerned, due, chiefly, to the furnishing, equipping, and operating of the new unit, all the staff have worked with great co-operation, and I wish to take this opportunity of thanking my assistants in both office and stores and to express my appreciation for their services to the institution and to myself during the year.

The assistance of departmental heads, together with your own co-operation in all things pertaining to our work, has materially aided me in performing the duties of this office.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

PART III.—COLONY FARM.

FARM SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

ESSONDALE, B.C., April 1st, 1925.

Dr. H. C. Steeves, B.A., M.D., C.M.,
Medical Superintendent, Mental Hospitals.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit my report on the agricultural operations of the institution for the fiscal year ended March 31st, 1925. Production in practically all sections exceeded that of any previous year and the institution requirements in dairy and field produce were satisfied in every case.

Crops.—Weather conditions during the growing season were normal. No exceptionally large crops were harvested, although average yields were maintained, with the possible exceptions of roots and silage. The potato-crop produced some 538 tons of really excellent quality. After considerable experience we have confined ourselves to two varieties which we consider, from the point of view of uniform size and care and economy in handling in the kitchens, superior for institutional use. These varieties are Epicure for early use and Carman No. 1 for the main crop. With a reasonable amount of care in the treatment of seed and spraying of the plant, these two varieties have proved exceptionally free from disease.

Onions—another crop raised solely for the use of the institutions—gave an excellent yield at a very moderate cost. They were harvested in perfect condition.

Root and silage crops suffered to some extent from midsummer drought and the yield per acre was under average, with a consequent increase in cost of production. The clover and peas, oats and vetches silage crops were normal but not large enough to compensate for the falling-off in the corn-crop. As a result the cost of production of this crop exceeded that of last year by $1.40 per ton.

Dairy and Herds.—The constantly increasing requirements of the institution were satisfied throughout the year. The gross production was 1,047,511.7 lb. of milk, an increase over last year of 101,155 lb. The quality was slightly better than that of previous years. We were able to maintain a herd average of over 15,000 lb. of milk and slightly over 500 lb. of butter-fat per cow for the year. The cost of production was a fraction of a cent per gallon more than in the previous year. This was due to the enhanced cost of those feeds which we were unable to raise on the farm and also to the fact that we carried during the year a number of aged cows for breeding purposes, their milk yield not being more than sufficient to pay the cost of their upkeep.

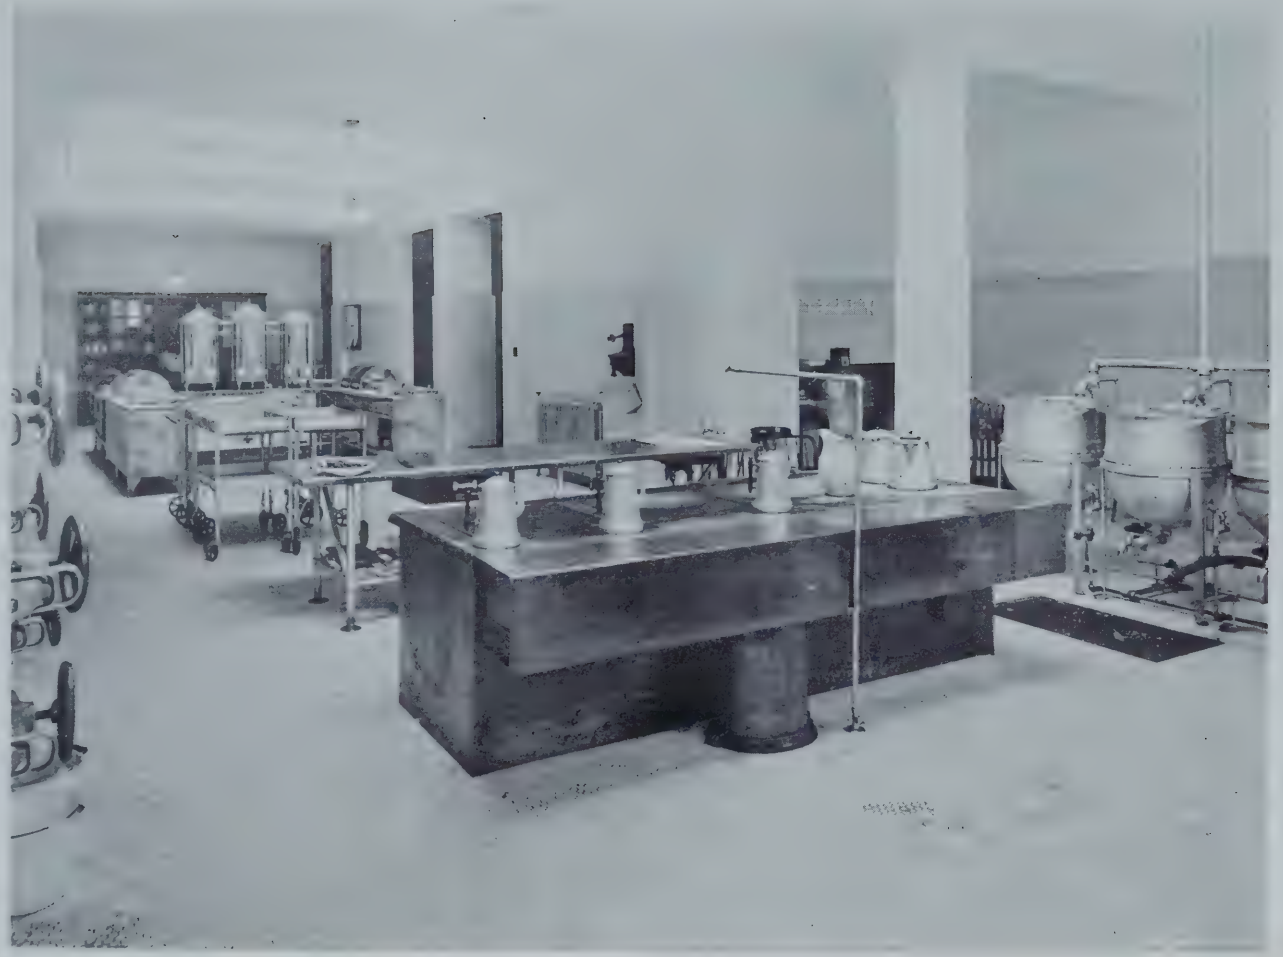
A source of some loss to the farm is our practice of slaughtering all animals that for any reason become undesirable and not putting them on the market at a possible profit in their inventory value.

The young bulls disposed of in the Province have been sold, in many cases, at less than the cost of raising them. Nothing but stock from the very highest producers has been offered in the hope that dairying interests in the Province would reap the benefit.

All inventories have been most carefully revised and it is thought that the figures shown represent the actual market value of the animals. In this connection, I am glad to report that we have now reached the point where we are able to raise young stock at cost which does not result in any appreciable loss on their transfer to the mature classes.

The herd now includes some 185 head, the largest the farm has ever maintained, and this figure has been reached by natural increase from our own cows. The health of the herd is excellent. We continue free from tuberculosis and have suffered fewer casualties from any cause than in any previous year.

Work-horses.—We continue to maintain the same high-class standard in our force of work-horses. It might be pointed out that half our horse strength is engaged exclusively in development-work for the institutions. In all, 44,686 hours of horse-labour were performed during the year at a gross cost of 36½ cents per hour. The horse-labour was augmented to some extent by the use of one small tractor when conditions were suitable.



Kitchen and servery, Acute Building, Essondale.

Sheep.—Circumstances prevented our extending this desirable section. It is hoped that within the next few years we shall have sufficient new land cleared to enable us to increase the flock and make it more profitable.

Hogs.—This section, I am glad to report, continues to make a very satisfactory showing and is more than justifying the considerable expense involved in its recent extension. The herd is gaining in numbers to such a point that further equipment will soon be essential. At a most reasonable cost, we have been able to supply the institutional demands in full for fresh and salt pork and sausage and almost in full for ham and bacon. In spite of the low prices at which these products were charged, the section shows a very substantial profit.

At this date we have on hand 194 hogs at the Essondale piggery and 151 at New Westminster These are all pure-bred Yorkshires and the breeding stock is all registered. It is interesting to note that for institution use we find it necessary to kill an average of slightly above one hog of 220 lb. per day. Little or no attempt has been made to sell breeding stock, all the energies of the section being required to fill the needs of the institutions.

This section has not been extended, although it is not yet equal to meeting the demands made on it. The year's operations show a small profit on a very moderate output.

Nursery and Truck-garden.—I still consider that too large a proportion of the available labour in this section is devoted to supplying nursery stock to schools, etc., in the Province. I am pleased, however, to report that this condition has been considerably improved since my last report. Larger quantities of vegetables and fresh fruit were supplied to the institution and cannery, of better quality and in more opportune season.

Cannery.—This section enjoyed a successful year and its output shows a very material increase over the previous year. It unquestionably offers a satisfactory and economical method of conserving all surplus fruits and perishable vegetables from the garden and farm and contributes naturally to the farm profits.

I wish to bring to your attention and to express my thanks for the unfailing loyalty and support which I have received at the hands of all those engaged with me in this branch of your institution.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

P. H. MOORE,
Farm Superintendent.

BURSAR'S REPORT.

ESSONDALE, B.C., September 15th, 1925.

H. C. Steeves, Esq., B.A., M.D., C.M.,
General Medical Superintendent of Mental Hospitals,
Essondale, B.C.

SIR,—In reviewing the balance-sheets and Profit and Loss Accounts of Colony Farm operations for the fiscal year ended March 31st, 1925, I am very pleased to bring to your attention the handsome profit shown by the farm for the period under review, exclusive of patient-labour, which amounted to $16,894.82, an increase of $1,112.32 in profit over the previous year.

In the examination of the balance-sheets and comparison with former year, it will be noticed that there is a small increase in assets, such as Land Account, due to clearing operations which increased the value and brought more acreage into cultivation; also fencing and equipment.

Inventories of live stock under Assets Account shows a marked increase of some $10,216.79 in this accounting period, due to increased herd and hog departments, although carefully revised and revalued to actual market values by the Farm Superintendent. Sundry produce and nursery inventories are greatly reduced this year, in comparison to last, by the sum of $5,173.08, most of which is accounted for in the amount and value of feed on hand at March 31st.

Dairy and Herd Department.—This department of the farm showed a profit of $8,359.11 for the year, on a production of 1,047,511.7 lb. of milk produced at a cost of 33.95 cents per gallon, as compared with production and cost of last year of 946,356.7 lb. at 33⅓ cents per gallon, an increased production at a less rate per gallon.

Yearling Department (Cattle).—This department shows a loss of $816.27, about half of which occurs through loss by death, and the other half, or, to be exact, $437.12, through loss due to transfer of yearlings into Matured Cow Department. Last year, and in fact in all previous years, a heavy loss has occurred through the transfer to Mature Cow Account, and this year it is the lowest since the inception of the farm. In 1924 report it showed a loss of $3,542.30 as compared with $437.12 shown in this accounting period, and it appears the farm is now able to produce young stock for a reasonable figure of valuation, which must be gratifying to Superintendent Moore, yourself, and others concerned.

Calves Department (Cattle).—An abstract of loss for this department shows calves vealed responsible for $323.17, compared with $339.49 last year, and $324.98 loss through the sale of calves distributed throughout the Province.

Work-horse and Labour Department.—In the Horse Department a small loss of $235 was sustained, due to deaths and revaluation, but in the Horse-labour Department a good profit was made of $6,047.22 at a cost of 36½ cents per horse-hour. This cost was somewhat higher than last report, which showed 31⅛ cents per horse-hour.

Hog Department.—This department has again demonstrated that is a profit-maker, besides being a very useful one to the farm and institution. Profits for the year total $5,422.29, as compared with $3,300.01 last year. Sales were increased and inventories of live stock and produce on hand at March 31st also increased.

Poultry Department.—The loss which has occurred in this department for some years past has now been changed to a profit of $53.52 this year, and this branch of the farm is self-sustaining. Inventory of birds remain about the same as last year, while expenses for the year were somewhat higher, a better market price was received for their fresh eggs, which are so necessary in the sick wards of our institution.

Cannery Department.—This branch of our farm has again experienced a successful season, showing a profit of $3,177.59, as compared with $5,380.49 last year. While our production was somewhat higher, our expenses were also increased, and our inventories of produce on hand at March 31st, 1925, were only about $150 higher than the corresponding date last year.

Truck-garden and Nursery.—This very necessary branch shows a substantial profit of $8,892.71, as compared with $7,892.08 for last year. Trees and shrubs supplied to public institutions in the Province amounted to 4,871.80 in the year under review, as compared to $7,039.75 supplied last year.

Field-crop Department.—Under this heading we have statements of production and expenditures of all field crops such as potatoes, oats, hay, ensilage, onions, carrots, roots, pasturage, etc.

Potato-crop production was reduced from 1,339,330 lb. last year to 1,076,440 lb. in this report. While expenses this year are reduced by $1,055.09, the yield per acre and the cost per ton figured at $6.83, as compared with $7.06 last year.

Oat-crop: The profit on this crop about doubled and everything else in proportion.

Hay-crop: Last year we had 108.52 acres in hay, whereas this year we had 56 acres. Our profit was $1,267.66 this year, as compared with $776 last year; the yield per acre increased from 2.40 tons last year to 2.68 tons this year, and the cost per ton last year was $9 as compared with $9.55 in this report.

All other crops had more or less profit and compared favourably with other years.

Shrinkage and rot, which last year was almost nil, shows a loss of $1,266 for the year under review, due to silage, small potatoes, and hay.

General Expenses of Maintenance and Administration.—This heading, which includes all maintenance vouchers and administration expenses, bears the repairs, painting, and upkeep of buildings, and naturally is the heaviest account of the farm, has increased from $24,382.56 last year to $25,989.14 for this year, which is practically the amount of the proportion of headquarters vote recently established. This vote is divided as follows: One-half of total cost to Mental Hospital, Essondale; one-quarter to Public Hospital for Insane, New Westminster; one-eighth to Mental Home, Saanich; and one-eighth to Colony Farm; and covers salaries of Medical Superintendent, Bursar, and office staff and office supplies.

There was quite a reduction in the expenses last year over the year before, and owing to very necessary repairs and painting omitted this year this heading will be obliged to bear some extra expense in the coming current year to bring the farm up to the standard of efficiency in appearance and general state of its buildings as it is the custom for us to maintain.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

GOWAN MACGOWAN,
Bursar.

TRANQUILLE SANATORIUM.

REPORT OF THE MEDICAL SUPERINTENDENT.

TRANQUILLE, B.C., April 1st, 1925.

The Honourable William Sloan,
Provincial Secretary, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit for your consideration the Fourth Annual Report of Tranquille Sanatorium, covering the fiscal year ended March 31st, 1925.

A total of 407 patients received treatment during the year. There were 181 admissions and 172 discharges, making an increase of nine in the patient-population at the end of the year. There were 245 available beds; the largest number in residence was 237 and the average was 221.

In last year's report I commented on the large number of advanced cases applying for admission. During the year under consideration there has been another marked decrease in the percentage of incipient cases amongst our admissions. The explanation, so far as the Sanatorium is concerned, is that very few applications for incipients were received. It is not difficult to understand why there are more advanced cases applying for admission, as the total number of applications is increasing, and many patients become advanced cases before they have symptoms which they consider sufficiently grave to necessitate consulting a physician. It is difficult to understand why there should be a decrease, not only in percentage, but in actual numbers of the early cases seeking admission, as both physicians and the public are becoming, year by year, better and better acquainted with the early symptoms and signs of the disease.

The explanation is partly due, perhaps, to the fact that more accurate methods of diagnosis in the last few years have resulted in many cases, which would have been termed incipient before, being classified as advanced. This is not, however, the full explanation, which should be sought, and conditions remedied, if possible.

The statistical table on discharges would indicate that our results are satisfactory and shows an increase over last year in the percentage of cases becoming apparently arrested. Our results cannot improve materially until the percentages of early cases amongst our admissions increase.

DENTAL SERVICE.

This is a service the good effects of which cannot be easily measured. It is generally recognized now that many complaints which were formerly obscure and difficult to treat are due to infection around the teeth.

Oral hygiene is playing such an important part in the health of every community that a dental clinic is something which no institution of this size and nature can afford to be without.

LABORATORY.

A laboratory technician was employed last fall, but his field of activities has been limited owing to some unavoidable delay in securing full equipment. Many pieces have now been installed and before another year has passed we expect to be able to report that some line of research-work is being followed. We will probably delay any definite move until the National Research Council has mapped out the work to be undertaken in the various centres.

SURGICAL.

Surgery has been playing a more prominent rôle in the treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis each year.

During the year just ended collapse of one lung by artificial pneumothorax was considered desirable in quite a large number of cases. At the beginning of the year there were twenty-three cases receiving this treatment, with satisfactory results. During the year the treatment was attempted in thirty-six cases. In fourteen of the cases collapse of any therapeutic value was not obtainable; in the remaining twenty-two collapse was produced. Good results were obtained in ten and fair in five cases. Seven cases were not benefited by the treatment and five of these seven cases have died. The total number of refills given during the year was 857.

Sauerbruck's thoracoplastic operation was performed on four cases, making a total of eleven since the operation was first performed here. When it is taken into consideration that some of these operations were undertaken as a last resort, the results have been very satisfactory.

The services of the consulting surgeons have been necessary for many other cases.

X-RAY DEPARTMENT.

We continue to make good use of this department. Some of the equipment is becoming rather antiquated and it should be brought up to date within the next year or two.

The two Sun-lamps are in constant use and a portable one should be added for the use of patients who cannot be moved easily to the treatment-room.

LAUNDRY.

This department handles a large volume of work, the monthly average being over 29,000 pieces. The old wooden machines have now been replaced by metal ones, with one exception. An electrically operated press and a larger mangle would facilitate the work and make possible a reduction of staff.

FINANCIAL.

There has been a reduction of 40 cents per day in the gross per capita cost, as compared with last year, which is very gratifying, in view of the fact that a heavy depreciation was charged to our maintenance account.

Owing to a marked reduction in the number of Department of S.C.R. cases, and a corresponding falling-off in revenue, the net cost has necessarily been higher. As pointed out in last year's report, there is still extensive repair-work necessary to put the buildings in good condition. It is proposed to complete a certain amount of this work each year. As these repairs are paid out of our maintenance account, it is hoped that we will be able to deduct the amount paid for repairs of a permanent nature in any one year from our normal depreciation for that year. The condition and appearance of both buildings and grounds are gradually being improved. This work adds to our costs, as compared with present-day operating expenses of older institutions, where these improvements are completed.

SANATORIUM FARM.

The financial showing of the farm is much more satisfactory than for the previous year. The farm has in the past year been reaping the benefits of moneys spent in improving the ranch, and which in the previous report appeared as a loss. From now on there should be a profit sufficient to pay interest on the capital investment. The farm justifies its existence, even if it only manages to break even, financially. It would be practically impossible to secure our milk satisfactorily from an outside source. Our meat-supply is also much more satisfactory than we could procure on the market.

There are many reasons why it would not seem a profitable undertaking for the farm to attempt to supply us with all our vegetables, although the general opinion might be that it should.

Sheep-raising appears to be a very profitable branch of the farm's activities. The present flock is too small to require the full time of one man, and is rather a nuisance, as it has to be taken care of close to the buildings the year around. By increasing the flock to 1,000 head it would be possible to summer them on the range profitably. The farm could supply all lamb and mutton required by the Sanatorium and the returns would pay off the original investment in the first year.

BUILDING OPERATIONS.

No new buildings were erected at the Sanatorium during the year.

At the farm an implement-shed and blacksmith-shop were completed and put into use. A feed-room and two large cement silos were built on to the dairy-barn. The piggery was completed and the improvement in the results in this department more than justified the expense of the building. In connection with the piggery, and under the same roof, was built a slaughter-house, where the butchering can be done under sanitary conditions.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

Last year I drew the attention of the Department to the need for more accommodation for advanced cases. The situation is becoming more acute and the handling of applications for admission is a difficult problem. More accommodation is necessary at once, if the Government is going to be able to cope with the tuberculosis situation as it exists in the Province to-day.

The new quarters for female employees, which is now under consideration, should be proceeded with as soon as possible.

The advantages of a gravity water-supply are many and the matter should not be allowed to rest until the system is installed.

The room at present used as an auditorium is quite inadequate for our needs, and, besides, is very poorly ventilated. The Government should consider the erection of a suitable building.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

Donations received at Christmas from various individuals and organizations are acknowledged with thanks. It is regretted that there has been a marked falling-off in the number of these donations in the last two or three years.

The military branch of the Y.M.C.A. arranged for moving pictures once a week throughout the winter months, and again provided an orchestra to play on Christmas Day, all of which was appreciated.

The visiting committee of the Red Cross from Kamloops kept up their welcome visits. A number of entertainments were put on by the various organizations in Kamloops; some of whom also provided enjoyable motor-rides for patients. To all these we extend our sincere thanks.

The visits of the various clergymen who conducted services and otherwise contributed to the welfare of the patients were greatly appreciated.

For their valuable advice and assistance I tender to Dr. J. S. Burris and Dr. R. W. Irving, consulting surgeons, my cordial thanks. I take this opportunity of thanking my assistant physicians and expressing my appreciation of the co-operation of all the members of the staff of the Sanatorium.

In conclusion, I thank you, sir, for the support and assistance I have had from your Department.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your obedient servant,

A. D. LAPP,
Medical Superintendent.

BURSAR'S REPORT.

TRANQUILLE, B.C., March 31st, 1925.

The Medical Superintendent,
Tranquille Sanatorium, Tranquille, B.C.

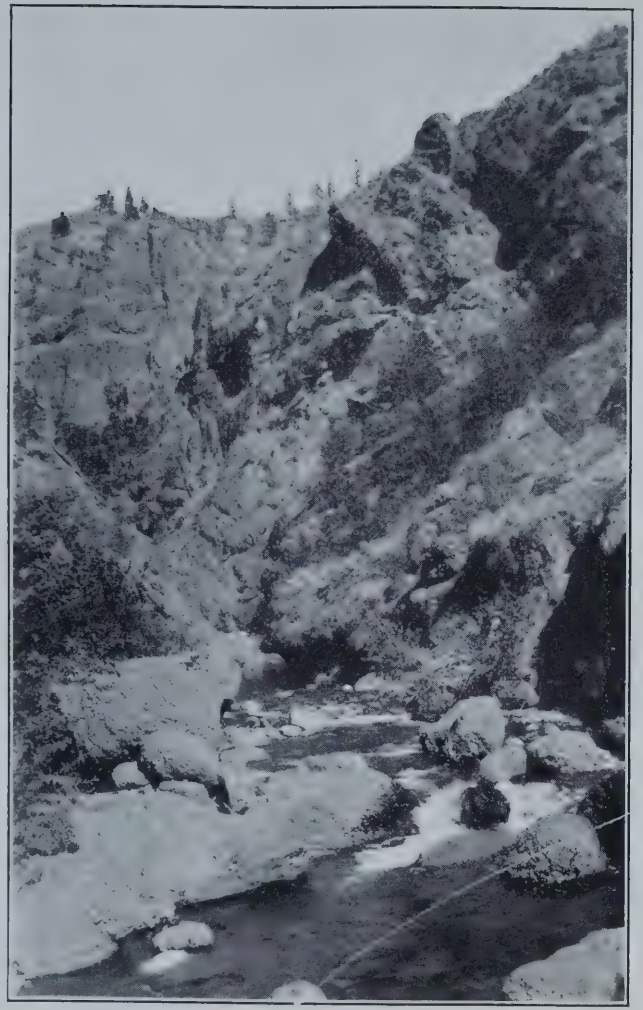
SIR,—I have the honour to submit herewith the Balance-sheets and the Profit and Loss Accounts covering the fiscal year ended March 31st, 1925.

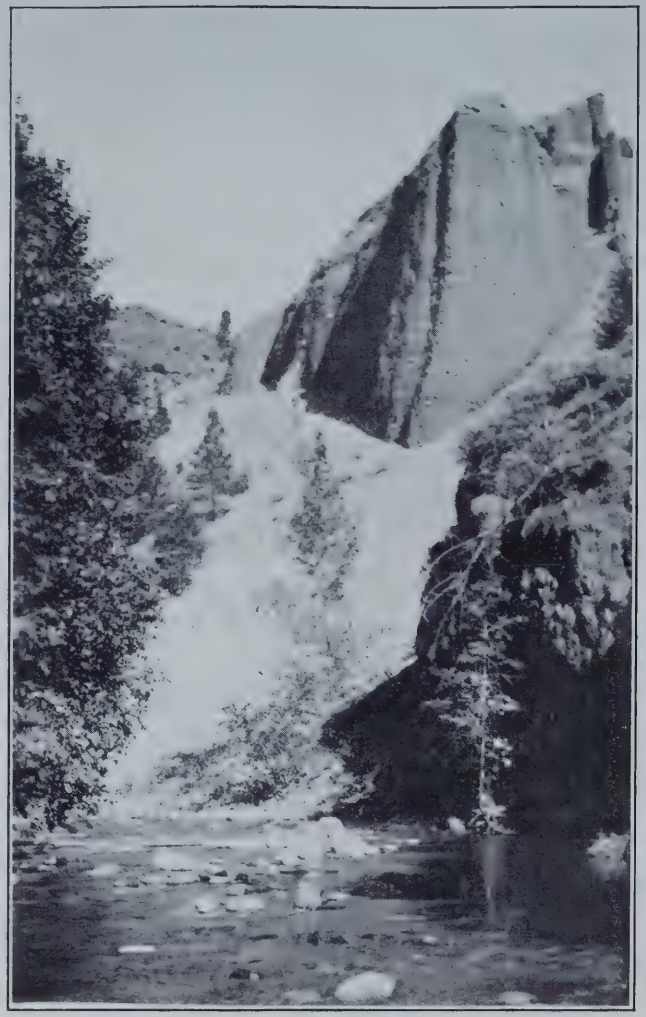
In examining the operating accounts you will note a considerable reduction in expenditure in comparison with last year. The fuel account, provisions, and repairs to buildings have shown the greatest decrease, and other departments are in the same category, although to a lesser degree. In view of this reduction it is well to keep in mind that the efficiency of the institution has not been impaired in any way. During the coming year our expenditure on repairs to buildings will increase, in view of the relathing and replastering of the Main Building, which is now under consideration.

The net per capita cost of maintenance has shown an increase over the previous year and is attributable to a falling-off in our revenue, the donation account showing the greatest decrease. The patients paid for by the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment are still reducing in number and those paid for by the different municipalities are increasing, but not enough to fully offset the reduction in military patients. Our collections from private patients remains practically the same.

The gross cost of maintenance for the year amounted to $300,350.17 and our revenue from maintenance of patients to $100,311.08, making the net per capita cost $2.47 per day.

The total days' treatment given was 80,753 and the average population 221.21, which is higher than any previous year.





Scenes on Tranquille Creek, near Sanatorium.

UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS

During the year six municipalities have paid for the maintenance of seventy-eight patients, at the rate of $2.50 per day; while the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment has maintained eighty-five military patients at the monthly per capita rate, and thirty-seven patients have contributed towards their own maintenance, according to what they were able to afford. We have carried on the free list 207 patients who were unable to contribute anything toward their own maintenance, a total of 407 patients having received treatment.

To patients who were unable to procure necessary clothing we distributed 164 suits of pyjamas, 9 nightshirts, 65 shirts, 95 pairs of socks, 82 suits underwear, 27 bath-robes, 33 pairs shoes, 26 pairs slippers, 14 pairs trousers, 17 suits, and various other articles of clothing and toilet necessities.

The year has been quite a busy one in the Occupational Therapy workshops, 116 patients (96 male and 20 female) having taken advantage of the classes, and great credit is due the instructor for the quantity and the quality of the work turned out. The following is a list of the work accomplished, a total of 783 pieces having been completed:—

Reed-work: 115 trays; 20 sewing-baskets; 18 fruit-baskets; 20 table lamp-stands; 10 dresser lamp-stands; 10 flower-baskets; 10 doll-cradles; 15 lamp-shades; 4 bed-trays; 10 pin-trays.

Pine-needle work: 2 table lamp-stands; 60 flower-baskets; 20 trays; 20 fruit-baskets; 15 flower-vases; 40 pin-trays; 10 doll-cradles; 10 glove-boxes.

Bead-work: 150 hand-bags; 25 chains, neck and fob; 100 butterflies.

Wood-work: 75 picture-frames; 15 trays, inlaid; 1 music-cabinet; 1 writing-desk; 6 tables; 1 boat.

At present there is very little market for this work, which is to be regretted, as better sales would encourage the workers, giving them the ambition to continue and providing the funds to purchase material.

I again take this opportunity of thanking you for the valuable support you have given me in my work, also to my staff I wish to express my appreciation for the efficient and faithful services given.

I have, etc.,

A. WHITECROSS,

Bursar.

FARM SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

Tranquille, B.C., March 31st, 1925.

The Medical Superintendent,
Tranquille Sanatorium, Tranquille, B.C.

Sir,—I have the honour to submit herewith my report for the operations of the Tranquille Sanatorium Farm for the year ended March 31st, 1925.

This has been a very favourable year for the farm in many respects. The run-down land on the recently purchased ranch has been much improved and an excellent crop has been gathered on the major part of it. A third of this land still requires considerable work done on it in the way of building up the soil and the eradication of weeds before the soil is brought to its full producing value. The amount of work required to restore worn-out soil to its original productiveness is always underestimated. Our silage-crops, hay, and roots were generally good, the potatoes alone being the exception. The small potato-crop was due in a large degree to the fact that the land, badly infested with weeds, was used with a view of clearing up the land by intensive cultivation. Another favourable factor in producing last year's crop was the unusual amount of rainfall at regular intervals throughout the summer. This not only aided in a natural way, but also helped to keep up the irrigation-water supply.

Four good crops of alfalfa-hay were taken off, which swelled the total of 787 tons of all kinds of hay. There was also 650 tons of ensilage put up, mostly corn, although a considerable amount of oats, peas, and vetch silage was also produced. So abundant was our crop that over 225 tons of ensilage and 120 tons of hay were left over at the end of the fiscal year. Judging by the amount of work put on the new ranch during the past year, it would be reasonable to anticipate a greatly increased crop for the coming year.

The farm owns 120 horses. Some of these, sixty in number, were included in the Cooney purchase, and were of very ordinary type and were not suited either for the needs of the ranch or the market. It was felt that something should be done to improve the standard of these animals, so the breeding stock was divided into two groups—one of the saddle-horse type and one of agricultural type. With the first group was placed a thoroughbred stallion of splendid breeding, and with the other group a Shire stallion of more than usual quality. That was two years ago and the offspring are showing a marked improvement over the dams. Early in the spring of 1924 ten pure-bred Clydesdales were purchased as the beginning of a pure-bred herd. These are a very good type of animal and they are well suited to present-day demands. A further effort has been made to improve the herd by culling out undesirables, with the result that nineteen head have been successfully disposed of.

The Work-horse Department might be divided into two classes—harness-horses and saddle and pack-horses. An exceptionally large number of harness work-horses have to be kept in order to carry on the improvements mentioned in the foregoing paragraphs, as well as ordinary farm-work. It is also necessary to use a great number of saddle and pack horses to look after and maintain the storage-water supply and also to care for and handle the range stock, both of cattle and horses. It will be noticed that this farm is unique in its way, inasmuch as it is being run as a mixed farm and a dairy-farm as well as a ranch. The ranch comprises over 18,000 acres, with a front that extends for nearly 20 miles along the north shore of Kamloops Lake. The range stock pasture over this area and back into the timber reserve for 15 miles.

Our watershed for irrigation purposes extends over a large area—at some points being 30 miles distant from the institution. Storage-dams and ditches have to be built and maintained to supplement the natural creek supply in the late summer months. This is a very wild, rough, unsurveyed country, varying in altitude from 3,000 to 6,000 feet, and accessible only by pack-train. It is necessary to construct, maintain, and blaze many trails to carry on the work.

The beef herd has been greatly improved in quality: First, by pruning out inferior animals; secondly, by the use of good bulls; thirdly, by the introduction of a few pure-bred dams; and, fourthly, by more and better feed. At the close of this year we could boast of over sixty head of pure-bred cattle, mostly Herefords. It has been found that the pure-bred stock stand range conditions better than our grades and come in in a much better condition. The baby beef of a year old will bring almost as much as the 2-year-old steers of a year ago. This improved result is due entirely to two causes—breed and feed.

In March, 1924, fifty head of ewes of ordinary farm breeding were purchased at Calgary for $12 per head. While a few of these aborted, due to change of food and climate and shipping, still a very fair crop of lambs was obtained, and the buck lambs sold averaged, together with the wool-clip, the purchase price of the dam. This year the lambs commenced coming in February and by the end of March the farm was assured of a 100-per-cent. crop.

Hogs are ever a profitable department and the good housing conditions under which they are kept reflected very favourably on this year's results and proved conclusively the wisdom of building the new hoggery. It was found that the litters born during the fall and winter months did equally as well as those born in the spring and early summer.

The dairy herd has been able to produce sufficient milk to supply the needs of the Sanatorium. The total production for the year was 554,221.8 lb., of which the Sanatorium used 466,130 lb. It should be pointed out that the dairy equipment is now sufficient to produce a very much larger quantity of milk at a very small additional cost as soon as the needs of the institution demand it, which would greatly increase the profits of this department. The dairy herd, male and female, old and young, all told, totals eighty-two head, all of which are pure-bred except nine. The aim has been to produce a utility herd of high-producing cows at the lowest possible cost. These animals are handled and fed as nearly as possible along commercial lines and not as a record-producing or show herd. One cow of our own breeding, "Alexandra Korndyke Aaggie," has produced a yearly record of 23,939 lb. milk and 966.2 lb. butter. "Mercena Molley Hengerveld," two years ago produced a yearly record of 17,105 lb. milk; last year she produced 18,375 lb. and this year she will soon close her test with over 21,000 lb. milk. Another cow which deserves special mention is "Alexandra Birdie May," with a record of 19,748 lb. milk and 870 lb. butter; while five cows—herself, her two daughters and two sisters—produced an average of 19,675 lb. milk and 805.2 lb. butter per cow for the year. "Alexandra Ormsby Birdie," one of the five, as a junior 2-year-old produced a yearly record of 18,312 lb. milk and 715 lb. butter. The cows of this family are also persistent producers, giving good records every year. Twenty of the herd averaged 17,875 lb. milk and 769.9 lb. butter, while twenty-six cows on Record of Performance averaged 16,754 lb. milk and 726 lb. butter.

The following is a list of Record of Performances produced by the herd:—

Stella Korndyke Butter Girl	17,075	733.7

The following list of Record of Performance is now being applied for at Ottawa:—

	Milk Production. Lb.
Balcomo Ormsby Rose	13,140.8
Cinderella of Detchon Farm	14,172.2
Brema DeKol Hengerveld	13,753.3
Balcomo Dolly Canary	10,057.7
Brema DeKol Korndyke	17,146.1
Alexandra Queen Hengerveld	15,013.5
Alexandra Betty Waldorf	16,047.4
Alexandra Orne Belle	19,681.9
Lucy DeKol Pontiac	14,001.9
Inka Darkness Hengerveld	21,306.7
Alexandra Foxalina 2nd	10,010.9
Sarah Posch Korndyke	14,961.8
Mina Posch Pontiac	15,883.4
Johanna Butter Girl Pontiac	14,049.3
Excellency Hengerveld Echo	17,523.7
Easter Belle DeKol	18,719.5
Stella Korndyke Butter Girl	18,937.6

It is interesting to note that only two cows went below 11,000 lb. in the entire herd—"Alexandra Foxalina 2nd," a junior 2-year-old, and "Balcomo Dolly Canary"—and they produced over 10,000 lb. each.

The health of the herd has been good during the last year, although some little difficulty was experienced during the later part of last year and the beginning of this year in getting the cows to breed, but this condition has been corrected and the herd is now in excellent shape. Our herd is tested twice a year for tuberculosis, but not a reactor has been found in the herd for many years.

The dry climate of this locality is very suitable for the raising of turkeys, so last spring a few turkey hens were purchased and sufficient turkeys were raised to supply the needs of the Sanatorium for Tranksgiving and Christmas. It is intended next year to raise from 400 to 500 turkeys, as they procure a large part of their living from weeds, grass, and insects.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

D. W. STRACHAN,
Farm Superintendent.

SANATORIUM FARM REPORT.

TRANQUILLE, B.C., March 31st, 1925.

The Medical Superintendent,
Tranquille Sanatorium, Tranquille, B.C.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit herewith the Balance-sheet with Profit and Loss Accounts for the year ended March 31st, 1925.

It is very gratifying to be again in a position to show a profit on the farm operating accounts, and it is quite safe to predict that this condition will continue. The heavy expenditures of the past few years, building up the soil, ditch and flume repairs, fencing, etc., on the recently acquired portions, are now beginning to show results.

The Live-stock and Field-crop Departments have been very successful and profitable during the past year and good profits are shown.

The farm buildings are now all in good shape, which adds greatly to the efficient handling of the different varieties of stock. One building still necessary is a calf-barn, and this matter is receiving consideration and will no doubt be erected during the coming year.

The Sanatorium has been able to absorb 466,130 lb. of our total milk production, 29,932 lb. of beef, and 9,223 lb. of pork, besides 12 tons of vegetables.

I have, etc.,
A. WHITECROSS,
Bursar.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF

THE DEPARTMENT OF RAILWAYS

FOR THE

YEAR ENDED DECEMBER 31ST

1924

PRINTED BY AUTHORITY OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

VICTORIA, B.C.:

To His Honour WALTER CAMERON NICHOL,

Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of British Columbia.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOUR:

I have the honour to present herewith the Annual Report of the operations and activities of the Railway Department of the Government of British Columbia for the year ended December 31st, 1924.

W. H. SUTHERLAND,

Minister of Railways.

Victoria, B.C., October 31st, 1925.

REPORT OF DEPARTMENT OF RAILWAYS.

VICTORIA, B.C., December 31st, 1924.

Hon. W. H. Sutherland,
Minister of Railways, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I beg to submit the Eighth Annual Report of the Railway Department covering the year 1924.

The staff of the Department at December 31st, 1924, consists of Deputy Minister and Chief Engineer of Railways, Chief Inspector of Rolling-stock and Equipment, two Assistant Inspectors, Chief Clerk, Draughtsman, and two stenographers.

In addition to supervision of all railways subject to Provincial Statutes, the Department has control of the maintenance and operation of the combined railway and highway bridge over the Fraser River at New Westminster and approaches thereto.

A detailed statement is set forth hereunder.

(1.) CANADIAN NORTHERN PACIFIC TERMINALS.

During the twelve months ended December 31st, 1924, estimates amounting to $6,288.96 were paid out of the funds deposited with the Provincial Treasurer by the Railway Company under section 7 of the "Canadian Northern Pacific Railway Terminals Act, 1917"; this expenditure was devoted chiefly to the station at False Creek terminals, Vancouver. The total sum paid out of the funds covering the years 1913–24 amounts to $7,946,965.57.

(2.) CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAY CONSTRUCTION.

(a.) Vancouver Island.—No further construction-work has been undertaken on the main line, the head of steel remaining at Mile 74, south end of Cowichan Lake. A branch line from Deerholme at Mile 57.9 (main line) to Cowichan Bay, a distance of 7 miles, is under construction.

(b.) Kamloops–Kelowna Line.—No construction-work has been done on this line during the year.

(3.) FRASER RIVER BRIDGE, NEW WESTMINSTER—RENEWALS AND REPAIRS.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

Interlocking—A trap circuit was installed to take care of interference to bridge-track circuit caused by rails being bolted direct to new steel-plate floor on bridge approaches over Front Street. Eleven reactor bonds were installed. These bonds have a capacity of 1,500 amperes. Detector-bars at all switches and torpedo machines were taken out and electric locks installed.

In May the Canadian National Railway completed installation of interlocking on west approach to bridge. This is being maintained and operated by the bridge employees.

Home Signal No. 5, B.C. Electric west approach, was moved west 300 feet to allow for C.N. trains using west approach.

Swing-span.—In January an auxiliary plant was installed to operate swing-span in case of failure of electric power, consisting of a Fairbanks-Morse 45-horse-power semi-Diesel engine and 550-volt direct-current generator, the tower having been enlarged by the Dominion Bridge Company for this purpose.

An auxiliary break for swing-span was installed in January by the Dominion Bridge Company.

In February a hot-water system supplied by Taylor-Forbes, Limited, was installed by Spring & Sibley. In March a coal-hoist was installed by the Heaps Engineering Company.

Port Mann Trestle Approach.—At the end of 1923 the Canadian National Railway completed filling in the trestle from the Pacific Highway undercrossing east for a distance of 550 feet to connect with existing fill.

An inspection of the highway and railway approach west of the Pacific Highway showed that it was no longer in a safe condition for traffic, and a contract to renew this section by replacing the old pile structure with frame-bents and heavier stringers was let to the Nickson Construction Company; work was started in November.

Bridge-painting.—The usual programme of bridge-painting was carried out.

Bridge Reinforcement.—The Dominion Bridge Company completed their contract for the reinforcement of the steel spans in September. The Resident Engineer's final report on the work is as follows:—

"Westminster Bridge Repairs—Reinforcement Contract No. 8265.

"I beg to report the completion of the above contract and herewith submit final report.

"General.—This contract, being let in two parts and under the following items, was commenced on November 6th, 1923; the first part consisting of Items Nos. 1, 2, 3, and part of 6, was let previous to November 1st, 1923; the second part, consisting of Items Nos. 4, 5, part of 6, 7, and 8, being let on January 14th, 1924. The following are the items referred to:—

1. Spread-span approaches.
2. (a.) Adjustment of bearings, 380-foot fixed span.
   (b.) Swing-span machinery.
3. Trusses for cabin extension.
4. Reinforcing main trusses.
5. Reinforcement of floor beams.
6. Strengthening highway girders.
7. Spread-span truss.
8. Lower railway laterals.

"Representatives of the Dominion Bridge Company, including the erection foreman, engineer, and assistant foreman, arrived on November 1st, 1923, and preparations, consisting of building a boiler-house, installing compressor, laying air-line, and building office, commenced on November 6th, 1923, with a view to making Item No. 3 the initial point of commencement. Whereas the above items were not followed consecutively, it is proposed to so deal with them in this report.

"Item No. 1.—This item included the removal of the steel-trough flooring from the approach girder-spans and the replacing of same with I-beams surmounted and tied together by ½-inch steel plates, on which the rails were laid and secured by cast-steel clips, the I-beams being connected and riveted to the web of the girders and the plates riveted to the I-beams. Work commenced on the west approach on November 28th, 1923; this approach was completed on February 14th, 1924, and the east approach on March 28th, 1924. Between the above dates no work was done from December 1st, 1923, to January 4th, 1924, owing to the non-arrival of steel. The method employed was by means of a gantry which was erected over the track, and, owing to the necessity of having interference to traffic at a minimum, all assembling was done at night, the bridge being closed to traffic from 12.30 a.m. to 6.30 a.m. Owing to the necessity of disconnecting by the cutting of rivets in the old trough flooring, it was necessary to use false-work under both approaches to carry traffic during operations. This work proceeded to completion without hitch, and an improvement over original plans which should be noted was the substitution of U-bolts for bolts through rail-clips.

"Item No. 2 (a.) Adjustment of Bearings, 380-foot Fixed Span.—The purpose of this item was to allow proper expansion and contraction of the steelwork to take place by readjusting the rollers. This work commenced on November 16th and was completed on December 6th, 1923. The method employed was by reinforcing the end posts with plates and angles, also it was necessary to cut the ribs of bed castings and dress sides of granite piers to obtain the necessary bearing for the jacks. Four 100-ton jacks were used on each side of span.

"(b.) Swing-span Machinery.—This work included the placing of a brake on the driving-shaft which controls the opening and closing of the swing-span, also the replacing of the rail-lifts and the installation of a new latch mechanism. This item was commenced on January 23rd, 1924, and completed, with the exception of the rail-lifts, on February 15th. As the ties on the railway floor were to be renewed, the rail-lifts could not be completed till these were placed. The rail-lifts were eventually placed on May 25th, the work being done at night, and were completed on May 30th.

"Item No. 3. Trusses for Cabin Extension.—This was the point of commencement of the contract. Two trusses were placed to relieve the bending in the centre chord of the swing-span caused by the weight of cabin and machinery, and to provide for the extra weight caused by the installation of a new auxiliary plant in the cabin for the turning of the swing-span. (See Work Order No. 3.) The progress on this work was slow owing to the difficulty of assembling the steel under the cabin at points not easily accessible. This work was commenced on November 10th and completed on November 27th, 1923. Two small changes from original plans were found necessary, one where a strut fouled a beam and another where it was necessary to cope out to avoid bearing on top laterals.

"Item No. 4. Reinforcing Main Trusses.—This item, which includes reinforcements for heavier traffic to the 380-foot fixed span, 380-foot swing-span, and the five 159-foot fixed spans, was commenced on May 16th, 1924. The major portion of this work consisted of replacing the lattice-bars in posts with web-plates. This was unavoidably slow owing to the necessity of having to adjust the scaffolds up and down the posts three times—namely, (1) to cut existing rivets, (2) to drill through plates and angles, and (3) to rivet same. At the end of each of the 159-foot fixed spans the lower chords were reinforced and a diaphragm placed to receive rods in tension to transmit part of load from bottom chord to top chord. Further, in order to reinforce the top chords on the swing-span, two 2-inch square rods were installed in each of the top chords, supported on cast-steel saddles and secured through diaphragms placed in the top chords. In order that the swing-span might now be jacked at the ends, four vertical rods were installed at each of the four corners of the span to relieve certain members of their dead-load stress during installation. On July 15th the span was jacked up 3½ inches and the rods tightened, the web-plates of the top chords being subsequently reinforced with cover-plates. This item was commenced on May 18th, 1924, and completed on September 9th, 1924. During operations it was noted that, while work was being done on the swing-span and on the south side of the swing-span, the work was delayed every time the span opened, due to the necessity of disconnecting the air-line, with its consequent delay to the riveters. Further work under this item consisted of installing small trusses between panel points on both 380-foot spans for the purpose of stiffening at highway-level.

"Item No. 5. Reinforcement of Floor-beams.—Included in this work was the reinforcement of the floor-beams on the 380-foot fixed span, 380-foot swing span, five 159-foot fixed spans, and four railway stringers on the 225-foot spread-span. The major portion occurred on the 380-foot spans. Cover-plates were placed on the bottom of each floor-beam and plates and fillers on each side of the web-plates, requiring a very large number of rivets for each plate. On the swing-span the loading-girder was reinforced with angles and seats to further distribute the load, this being a slow and difficult piece of work owing to the difficulty of access and the fouling of the swing-span machinery. On the 225-foot spread-span the four railway stringers were reinforced top and bottom with cover-plates. The 159-foot fixed spans having a different type of floor-beam, connection at posts were reinforced with heavy plates. This item was commenced on March 28th and was completed on June 5th, 1924.

"Item No. 6. Strengthening Highway Girders.—This item, which was let in two separate parts, included the strengthening of eight spans by means of cover-plates on top and bottom of plate girders and by bottom laterals. The first part, which included cover-plates on five spans, was commenced on December 6th, 1923, and completed on January 7th, 1924. The second part, which included cover-plates on the three remaining spans and laterals on all eight spans, was commenced on August 4th and completed on September 5th, 1924.

"Item No. 7. Spread-span Truss.—Commenced on June 8th, 1924; the purpose being to correct excessive vibration, a system of bracing consisting of several trusses and braces connecting to the posts was erected. Erection was done by means of a movable gin-pole on the highway connected with a portable engine. This item, which also included inclined struts bracing the highway, was completed on August 12th, 1924.

"Item No. 8.—This item included the placing of lower railway laterals on the deck-plate girders on the east and west approaches and bracing same. Further, it included the renewing of bed and shoe plates at abutments. Difficulty was encountered in attempting to remove the anchor-bolts which broke and new ones had to be substituted. This item was commenced on July 21st and completed on August 12th, 1924.

"In general, it may be remarked that the steel arrived from Montreal in good shape, and in two cases only were there any errors of shop-work. One, in regard to four side-plates for reinforcing one of the floor-beams (Item No. 5), requiring new plates to be substituted; and second, due to the closing error during the erection of the trusses on Item No. 7, necessitating the use of small fillers.

"The following improvements were effected during the course of the above construction, some of which were supplemental to the above and others in connection with the interlocking system, and for which work orders were issued:—

"Work Order No. 1. Change of Location of Signal at North-west Approach.—This work in connection with interlocking plant consisted of preparing concrete base and moving and erecting signal on same.

"Work Order No. 2. Moving Watchman's Shelter on Fixed Span.—The purpose of this work was to provide the watchman with a safety-platform, so that he might control highway traffic without danger of being run down. It consisted of moving the shelter back from the highway, strengthening its supports, and providing new rods.

"Work Order No. 3. Extension of Cabin on Swing-span.—Please refer to Item No. 3 of main contract, this work being a continuation of same for the purpose of housing the new auxiliary plant. A two-story addition to the present cabin was built of similar heavy construction to withstand the vibration, the upper room being required to house fuel-tank, and to allow piston-rods of engine to be withdrawn when necessary, trap-door through floor being provided for this purpose. This work also included several necessary improvements to present cabin, such as housing in machinery, reshingling roof, lining outbuildings, building platforms and railings, and erecting coal-hoist.

"Work Order No. 4. Installing Engine, Generator, and Boiler in Cabin Extension.—This work order covered the work of lifting into place from highway-level to cabin above and placing and bolting down the engine and generator on the bed-timbers, securing same to the steel. Further, this work included assistance given in coupling up and installing the above.

"Work Order No. 5.—This was an emergency order, as, while operating the swing-span, a shaft was broken and the Dominion Bridge Company's labour and equipment were necessary to lift and load same for conveyance to machine-shop and on return to unload and place shaft in position.

"Work Order No. 6.—To provide for the erection of a timber 3 by 16 inches, 26 feet long, on the B.C. Electric towers to act as a guide to the operator when closing the swing-span.

"Work Order No. 7.—This work order covered miscellaneous work in connection with the interlocking system, including the cutting of guard-rails at insulation joints, conveying and laying guard-rails, and, especially, loading for shipment the old trough flooring. This was, owing to the weight of steel and the location in which it was loaded, relatively expensive, but had the steel been taken out in smaller sections and conveyed to a better loading location, the charge against Item No. 1 of the main contract would have been much greater, and, also, owing to the number of rivets to be cut and the method required to be followed for safety purposes during operations on Item No. 1, it was considered the better way.

"Work Order No. 8.—This work order is supplemental to Item No. 1 and covers all work done on the spread-span approaches not included on the original plans. Provision had not been made for Jordan guard-rail and wheel guard-rail, and it was found necessary to place same, together with the necessary plates, clips, and bolts, entailing a further large amount of drilling through the plates. Further, owing to the sharp curvature on this portion of the bridge, rail-braces were required to prevent spreading rails. Drainage-holes through the plates to allow the rain-water to run off the solid floor were also drilled.

"Work Order No. 9.—Owing to the continual breakage of bolts through the castings at the bottom pinion for operating the swing-span and the consequent danger of failure of the machinery, new castings were installed with bolts having high tensile strength, and with such reinforcements as to prevent the movement of castings which was previously causing the failure of the bolts.

"Work Order No. 10.—For providing an extension to the present sidewalk round the end post at the south end of the spread-span, in order that the public may not be required to step from sidewalk to highway, with its consequent danger from automobiles. This entailed steel supports for the wooden stringers consisting of a steel bracket from post, an I-beam between posts, and a steel channel and plate connected to the highway girder and supported by a small steel pedestal on the end post, together with the necessary woodwork to complete sidewalk.

"The above work orders were completed at such times as labour and equipment were available from the main contract, having in view the location of the equipment so as to avoid extra cost in moving same. The equipment was moved and site cleaned on September 16th, 1924.

"The total cost of this work amounted to $139,775.05.

"J. M. STEWART, Resident Engineer."

Tie Renewals.—A contract for renewing the ties on the bridge was let to the Dominion Bridge Company in December, 1923, and completed in October, 1924. To give the requisite increase in strength for the heavier loading, the new ties were made 2 inches deeper throughout. The cost of this work was $14,038.36 and included the removal and replacing of the motors and buildings on the swing-span, rebuilding the platform at the Great Northern Railway approach, and the adjustment of interlocking machinery.

(4.) EQUIPMENT INSPECTION DEPARTMENT.

CHIEF INSPECTOR'S REPORT.

Boiler inspections and examinations were limited to some extent by the closing-down, during the first and latter parts of the year, of a considerable number of the logging and mining railways, but advantage was taken of these periods by some of the companies to do a considerable amount of overhauling to their equipment and placing it in a condition to comply with the Department's regulations.

A great improvement has been shown in the condition of road-beds, tracks, and equipment over last year, and a large percentage of the companies operating under the jurisdiction of the Department are now complying with the regulations. Several new railways have been built, and the recommendations and regulations of the Department were carried out in practically all cases.

A considerable amount of work has been done along the lines of safety-first instruction, and the Department's Inspectors have received the heartiest co-operation and assistance from the management and employees of the railways in carrying out this work.

Following is a report of inspection-work performed during the year 1924:—

"Year ended December 31st, 1924.

Hydrostatic tests applied to boilers	172
Internal inspections of boilers	82
Engineers examined	31
Engineers' certificates issued	21
Conductors examined	46

REPORT OF CHIEF INSPECTOR OF MACHINERY.

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., April 1st, 1925.

E. S. H. Winn, Esq.,
Chairman, The Workmen's Compensation Board.
Vancouver, B.C.

SIR,—In accordance with the provisions of the "Boiler Inspection Act" and the 1924 amendment thereto, I have the honour to submit to you the Twenty-third Annual Report of the operation of the Steam-boilers and Machinery Inspection Service for the year ended March 31st, 1925, with comparative statistics for the year 1924.

The personnel of the service at present consists of the Chief Inspector, eleven Inspectors, one clerk, one record and filing clerk, and two stenographers and typists, located as follows: Chief Inspector, four Inspectors, one clerk, one record and filing clerk, one stenographer and typist at head office, New Westminster; one Inspector in Victoria; five Inspectors and one stenographer and typist in Vancouver; and one Inspector at Nelson.

During the year the following changes in staff have taken place:—

Mr. Bath, Inspector in Vancouver office, left the service November 15th, 1924, on account of ill-health. This vacancy has not yet been filled.

Miss Bond, clerk, New Westminster office, left the service March 25th, 1925. Miss Eddy was then promoted to Miss Bond's position and Miss McMurphy promoted from stenographer and typist to record clerk, the position formerly held by Miss Eddy, and Miss Coupland transferred from Victoria to New Westminster.

Since the 1924 amendment to the Act, transferring the direction of administration from the Minister of Public Works to the Workmen's Compensation Board, the following changes have been made with a view to further centralizing control at head office:—

Two accounts were opened at the Canadian Bank of Commerce—one in account with the Minister of Finance and the other in account with the Workmen's Compensation Board Boilers and Machinery Inspection Department.

All moneys collected are daily deposited to the credit of the Minister of Finance in Account No. 1. A statement of deposits and bank remittances to the Treasury Department, signed by the bank manager and by the Chief Inspector of Machinery, is forwarded to the Treasury Department by the Chief Inspector on the second day of each subsequent month.

With respect to Account No. 2, requisitions are made monthly by the Chief Inspector through the Workmen's Compensation Board to the Treasury Department for the amount to cover the succeeding month's estimated expenditure. A cheque for this amount is forwarded by the Finance Department to this office and deposited in the Workmen's Compensation Board Boilers and Machinery Inspection Account. All disbursement cheques are drawn on this account and signed by one of the members of the Workmen's Compensation Board and by the Chief Inspector of Machinery.

With respect to the Inspection Service the following changes have been made:—

The collection of accounts by the District Inspectors have been discontinued and all collections made by the Chief Inspector.

All records of Inspectors which were heretofore kept in the district offices are now being kept in head office. Inspectors make three copies of their reports, one of which is sent to the owner of the steam plant, one placed in the Inspector's file, and one sent to head office, together with the boiler certificate. The records are then examined and, if the fees have been paid, repairs completed, and there is a certificated engineer in charge, the certificate for the boiler is issued by the Chief Inspector; this change makes all information available at head office, whereas the former system required the Chief Inspector to get in touch with the District Inspector, in many cases, before a complete record could be furnished. It also relieved the Inspector of the responsibility of collecting fees and of a considerable amount of clerical work.

With respect to engineers' examinations, it has been considered that these could be more uniformly conducted by confining the general examinations to the head office, New Westminster, the Victoria office, and the Nelson office.

As in the past, first-class examinations are being held at head office only. This arrangement is also being confined, as far as possible, to examinations for second-class certificates, with a proviso that second-class examinations may be held in Victoria and Nelson if it is considered advisable.

Examinations for grades below second-class will be held at outlying points by the Inspectors at the time they are in the district making inspections of the boilers, when applications have been approved by the Chief Inspector and forwarded by him to the Inspector in time to make the necessary arrangements.

The Inspection Service has been relieved of work in connection with the upkeep of the Government ferries and of the work in connection with the installation and upkeep of steam plants in Government institutions, except to complete work now in hand at Essondale Mental Hospital, Tranquille Sanatorium, and at the British Columbia University. This department has taken over the inspection of all boilers, machinery, and pressure-vessels coming under the jurisdiction of the "Workmen's Compensation Act." This work in the outlying districts has been performed by our service for some years; the additions consist of work in the cities which was formerly done by the Factory Inspection Service.

The following is a summary of the work performed in the office of the Chief Inspector for the year ended March 31st, 1925, as compared with the work performed during the year ended March 31st, 1924:—

I am pleased to be able to report that there have been no boiler-explosions during the year. One accident resulting in personal injury occurred in September at the Cameron Lumber Company's mill, Vancouver Island. The fly-wheel of the mill engine exploded on account of failure of the governor to function properly. This governor was the Gardner type and when examined by Mr. Kay was found to have become defective, due to a broken part not having been replaced and the thread being stripped from the nut at the bottom of the spindle. This nut was held in place by a cotter-pin, which had ultimately worn through, allowing the valve to drop. This action should have shut off the steam and stopped the engine, as provision is made in the construction of the governors for such a contingency, by casting a bar across the bottom of the valve-chamber, on which the valve (a piston type) should come to rest with the steam-ports closed. Unfortunately, at some previous time this bar had been broken out and not replaced; therefore the valve passed down through the chamber leaving the steam-port full open. The oiler in attempting to stop the engine by closing the throttle-valve was struck by small pieces of the flying metal. Fortunately his injuries were not of a serious nature.

This case is cited at some length as a warning to engineers to make frequent examinations of governors, as fly-wheel explosions are often as destructive to life and property as are boiler-explosions.

Notwithstanding the provisions of the Act that all safety-valves should be of registered design, twenty-three boilers were found with safety-valves defective in construction, seven of which were considered dangerous, four had safety-valves overloaded, and twelve were found with safety-valves inoperative.

Three boilers were being operated without steam-pressure gauges, 306 with defective gauges, and twenty-nine with gauges inoperative.

To emphasize the importance of frequent tests of steam-gauges and safety-valves by the engineer, I may cite a case which occurred during the year, where a boiler being prepared for inspection was found to have a leaky safety-valve and main stop-valve. In order to apply the hydrostatic test, blank flanges were placed between the main stop-valve and the boiler and between the safety-valve and the boiler. Later the chief engineer gave orders to the shift engineer to get up steam on this boiler and cut it in on the main line, when the pressure equalled that of the other boilers. The shift engineer went off watch before the pressure was high enough for the boiler to be cut in. He repeated the chief engineer's orders to the engineer taking over the shift. At the proper time this man opened the main stop-valve, after which the pressure continued to rise in the boiler, which was allowed 100 lb. working-pressure. When the gauge indicated 120 lb. he called the chief engineer, who suggested the gauge might be defective and ordered one taken off one of the other boilers. By the time this was done the pressure had raised to 180 lb.

About this time some one remembered that the flanges above-mentioned had not been taken out and steps were at once taken to lower the pressure. A little further delay would have resulted in a serious explosion. Fortunately the boiler was not seriously damaged. It should be the general practice of all engineers, when steaming up boilers after a shut-down, to test the water-glass and safety-valve as soon as there is sufficient steam in the boiler. It is also advisable that the safety-valves should be tested by each engineer when he comes on shift.

The total number of new boilers put into operation during the year was 88, 56 of which were built in British Columbia, 15 in Eastern Canada, and 17 in the United States.

Second-hand boilers imported from Eastern Canada, 10; from the United States, 4; inspection of boilers unclassified, 62; first inspections, 124.

The number of boilers registered to March 31st, 1925, was 4,084; inspections completed, 3,110; inspections, external only, 79; internal only, 2; boilers reported as "not operating," 192; boilers registered on which no inspection has been made, 701.

The number of plates tested for new boilers was 333, of which only one was rejected as unfit for boiler-construction.

Boilers built under Inspector's supervision during the year, 56.

In addition to the usual work of this office, under the provisions of the "Boiler Inspection Act," we have during the year undertaken extra work as follows: Supervision of repairs to Ladner–Woodward, Mission–Matsqui, and Agassiz–Rosedale Ferries; supervision of repairs in connection with the steam plants in Government Buildings; supervision of the new central heating plant for the Essondale Mental Hospital; and continued inspection for the Workmen's Compensation Board.

Appended you will find a summary of the total work done by the District Inspectors, as well as their separate reports, together with a summary of work done for the Workmen's Compensation Board.

In conclusion, I desire to thank the Honourable the Minister of Public Works and the Workmen's Compensation Board for their active interest in and support of this office, and also to thank the members of the staff for the efficient and cheerful manner in which they have carried out their work during the year.

Trusting this report will meet with your approval,

I have, etc.,

JOHN PECK,
Chief Inspector.

REPORT OF THE CHIEF EXAMINER.

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., April 1st, 1925.

E. S. H. Winn, Esquire,
Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit to you the following report with respect to examinations of candidates for engineers' certificates for the year ended March 31st, 1925:—

During the year I have received 717 applications for examination for the different grades of certificates.

On March 31st, 1924, I had on hand 301 applications, making a total of 1,020. Of these, 639 have been examined; 130 applicants have had their fees returned, as their testimonials did not show the necessary service qualifications required by the Act. This leaves on the "Accepted for Examination" file 251 application forms.

SENIOR INSPECTOR'S REPORT, DISTRICT A.

New Westminster, B.C., April 1st, 1925.

John Peck, Esq.,
Chief Inspector of Machinery, New Westminster, B.C.

Sir,—I have the honour to submit my annual report for the year ended March 31st, 1925.

During the year I have been principally engaged as Engineer Surveyor on the examination of new designs for boilers, engines, structural steel-work for boiler settings, safety-valves and fittings, power-plant steam and oil-fuel piping, submitted by the manufacturers and the designing engineers, and calculating the working-pressure allowable.

Some interesting work was encountered in connection with the designs for the Imperial Oil Company's new cracking-stills, on which they require a working-pressure of 390 lb. and a temperature of 800° F. The shell-plates are to be 2 inches thick and the longitudinal seams are double butt-strap type, with unusual rivet sizes and dispositions. After much thought had been given the whole question the design was conditionally approved for one installation.

Monthly examinations of candidates for engineers' certificates held in this office occupied my time for about one week in each month. Applicants for special certificates were examined at any time they applied, at or between the regular examinations.

I made a special inspection trip in November to Barkerville to inspect two boilers built in Germany for Kafue Gold Dredging Company. The company asked for a special inspection and paid all expenses.

The following is my tabulated report:—

Number of drawings and specifications calculated for new boilers	159
Number of new boilers inspected built in Germany	2
Number of first inspections	2
Number of inspections, external and internal	9
Number of inspections completed	11
Total horse-power of boilers inspected	1,430
Miles travelled by the Inspector	1,566
Work done for other departments—
Workmen's Compensation Board designs (days)	3
Work in connection with "Eena" and "Beaver" (days)	7
Work in connection with Essondale new steam plant (days)	10

Inspector.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT, DISTRICT A (NORTH).

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., April 3rd, 1925.

John Peck, Esq.,
Chief Inspector of Machinery, New Westminster, B.C.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit to you my report for the year ended March 31st, 1925.

There has been no serious accident, due to boilers or engines, in this district during the past year and I found the plants generally in a satisfactory condition.

A number of inspections were made in connection with the Workmen's Compensation Board and much improvement is being made towards accident-prevention.

Trusting this report meets with your approval,

I have, etc.,

J. B. TAIT,
Inspector.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT, DISTRICT A (SOUTH).

New Westminster, B.C., April 7th, 1925.

John Peck, Esq.,
Chief Inspector of Machinery, New Westminster, B.C.

Sir,—I have the honour to submit my annual report for the year ended March 31st, 1925.

This being my first year in the service and in a district only generally known to me, it gives me much pleasure to record the willing assistance rendered by all with whom I came in contact.

It is gratifying to note the appreciation of the Department by the public, and I trust my efforts in the service shall prove cumulative of this good spirit.

Many plants visited gave evidence of the economic conditions of the year, but everybody concerned is anxious to minimize accidents by improving methods of installation and employing reliable and competent help.

In addition to field inspections, I have assisted with the examination of engineer candidates held monthly at this office and sundry works connected with the Department.

Thanking yourself and my co-workers for the willing advice and assistance freely given,

I have, etc.,

S. H. Excell,
Inspector.

SENIOR INSPECTOR'S REPORT, DISTRICT B.

Victoria, B.C., March 31st, 1925.

John Peck, Esq.,
Chief Inspector of Machinery, New Westminster, B.C.

Sir,—I have the honour to submit herewith my report for the year ended March 31st, 1925.

I am pleased to report that no fatal accidents occurred during the year. No accidents of even a serious nature have been reported.

Most of the defects noted in the tabulated report were of the nature usually found in the course of our duties, but several defects of quite a serious nature were located at various plants. A number of these were seriously cracked plates over the fires in return-tube boilers.

I inspected three boilers for the Dominion Government at the Esquimalt Graving Dock. These boilers were 48 years old and had not previously been inspected by us. They were in poor condition owing to their age.

The tabulated report will give you an idea of the work done.

I have, etc.,

John D. Kay,
Inspector of Steam-boilers, District B.

Remarks.

Examinations were held monthly in Victoria and bi-monthly in Nanaimo.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT, DISTRICT B.

VANCOUVER, B.C., April 3rd, 1925.

John Peck, Esq.,
Chief Inspector of Machinery, New Westminster, B.C.

SIR,—I beg to enclose herewith my annual report for the year ended March 31st, 1925.

During the year my work was confined to Vancouver Island, as far as Headquarters on the eastern side, the western coast as far as Port Alice, and the various places south of these two points.

Engineers' examinations were held at various places and I assisted with examinations in Victoria.

There were few accidents to boilers during the year, only one of any importance being boiler No. 21125-B.C. This was a return-tubular boiler with a treble-riveted lap longitudinal seam, and the plate cracked on a line along the edge of the rivet heads. This crack could not be seen from the inside and was detected by a leak through the test-slot.

I was moved the beginning of March from Victoria to Vancouver office, where I now have my headquarters.

Trusting my report meets with your approval,

I have, etc.,

L. DUCKITT,
Inspector of Steam-boilers, District B.

Remarks.

I held examinations at various places and assisted with examinations at Victoria.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT, DISTRICTS B AND D.

VANCOUVER, B.C., April 3rd, 1925.

John Peck, Esq.,
Chief Inspector of Machinery, New Westminster, B.C.

SIR,—I have to submit to you my report for the year ended March 31st, 1925.

During this period I have visited every part of Vancouver Island and conducted engineers' examinations in many parts of the Island.

The most interesting thing to be noted is that some of the older industries are about to introduce more efficient power plants. This is very desirable.

Most of the plants were in fairly satisfactory condition.

Much good work is being done in protecting machinery, and with our closer attention to this, good results will no doubt accrue.

I trust the above report will meet with your approval.

I have, etc.,

JOHN CLARK,
Inspector of Steam-boilers, Districts B and D.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT, DISTRICT C.

Nelson, B.C., April 1st, 1925.

John Peck, Esq.,
Chief Inspector of Machinery, New Westminster, B.C.

Sir,—I have the honour to submit my report for the year ended March 31st, 1925.

Apart from the usual number of small accidents to boilers, such as cracks on circumferential seams at the rivets and on the flanges on locomotive fire-boxes, there have been few accidents during the year.

There was an accident to an engine which was fitted with a riding cut-off valve actuated by an inertia governor. This valve broke into a number of pieces, allowing the engine to race, with a result that the main pulley on the line-shaft was broken. No one was injured.

Appended you will find tabulated report.

SENIOR INSPECTOR'S REPORT, DISTRICT D.

VANCOUVER, B.C., April 1st, 1925.

John Peck, Esq.,
Chief Inspector of Machinery, New Westminster, B.C.

SIR,—Enclosed please find tabulated report for the year 1924–25.

During the year past there has been very little to report out of the ordinary, other than the change from the Public Works Department to the Workmen's Compensation Board.

The elimination of districts will, I think, make the work easier in the outlying territory, and should save considerable time during the course of the year.

Another welcome change is the collection of all fees by the head office. This will make for better collections, as where payments are slow a letter from the Chief Inspector will have more weight than from an Inspector with whom the delinquent is more or less personally acquainted.

There have been no serious accidents in this district during the year, but danger has been averted by the discovery of cracks in lap-seam boilers by means of the test-slots. Some action should be taken in the matter of new boilers with lap-seams, so that in time this type of construction can be eliminated entirely.

Trusting that my work has been satisfactory to you,

I have, etc.,

GEORGE O. MADIGAN,
Inspector of Steam-boilers, District D.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT, DISTRICT D.

Vancouver, B.C., April 3rd, 1925.

John Peck, Esq.,
Chief Inspector of Machinery, New Westminster, B.C.

Sir,—I beg to submit my annual report for 1924–25.

The statement varies but little with those of past years, except that it notes for the first time the local manufacture of water-tube boilers of large capacity and high pressure. Three large Sterling type and one Kidwell type were made at a local shop and, especially with the former, results have been quite satisfactory.

During the months of August, September, and October I was on leave of absence by doctor's orders. Mr. Bath resigned from the service on my return at the end of October, thus this office was understaffed for five months of the year.

Since the beginning of 1925 work for the Compensation Board has occupied any spare time which the existing dullness of trade has permitted. In this regard it has to be noted that a line of endeavour so far-reaching in its incidents and multifarious in its nature must be very effectively controlled if confusion to the public, as well as to the officials, is to be averted.

Appreciating your unfailing kindness and sympathy during the past year,

I have, etc.,

Fred Biggam,
Inspector of Steam-boilers, District D.

Remarks.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT, DISTRICT D.

VANCOUVER, B.C., March 31st, 1925.

John Peck, Esq.,
Chief Inspector of Machinery, New Westminster, B.C.

SIR,—Please find enclosed my annual report for 1924–25.

A feature of the observed defects is the cracked shell-plates in old lap-seam boilers. Two of these samples may be seen in Vancouver at the Pioneer Laundry and Robertson & Hackett Sawmill. The crystallization is unmistakable and the probability of a boiler-explosion is brought nearer. I notice that this type of boiler is being heavily penalized elsewhere, and I am informed that in some quarters its use is prohibited entirely. So long as our laws permit the building of lap-seam boilers for the higher pressures used in modern industry, no Inspector is free to interfere with the subsequent operation of such units, under conditions which produce crystallization, until such crystallization is manifest, and then he is limited to ordering repairs with a possible reduction in pressure. The fatal weakness in this system is of course that hardening of the plate occurs without being noticed, cracks will develop under cover of the laps, and as in hundreds of cases a major accident results. I wish to say here that steam science and the safety movements have left lap-seam construction in boilers far behind, and as one of the body to whom our public looks for some leadership in this matter, I am of the opinion that action is overdue and we should without delay seek such amendments to the "Boiler Inspection Act" as will immediately lessen the menace and ultimately remove this danger to life and property.

Other items observed during the past year were of the wear-and-tear order and capable of rectification by our prescribed methods.

I have, etc.,

J. O'Neill,
Inspector of Steam-boilers, District D.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT, DISTRICT E.

New Westminster, B.C., April 6th, 1925.

John Peck, Esq.,
Chief Inspector of Machinery, New Westminster, B.C.

Sir,—I beg to submit my report for the year 1924–25.

I am pleased to inform you that there have been no accidents to engines or boilers resulting in personal injury to any one, although there have been several cases of damaged boilers.

Two boilers which had been placed over Dutch ovens had so badly deteriorated under this method of firing that they had to be condemned.

Your decision to forbid this method of setting I consider to be in the best interests of safety and economy.

In addition to the work tabulated below, I inspected guards on machines in 116 plants and made requests for 417 guards.

Examinations were held in Vernon, Kamloops, Revelstoke, Prince Rupert, Prince George, Smithers, Telkwa, and Hutton.

Trusting that this may meet with your approval,

I have, etc.,

JAS. DAVIDSON,
Inspector of Steam-boilers, District E.

Superintendent of Provincial Police.

REPORT OF
SUPERINTENDENT OF PROVINCIAL POLICE, 1924.

Hon. A. M. Manson, K.C.,
Attorney-General, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I have the honour to forward herewith my Annual Report for the year ended December 31st, 1924.

STRENGTH AND DISTRIBUTION.

At midnight of December 31st, 1924, the strength of the Force stood as follows: 8 officers; 178 non-commissioned officers and men; 45 automobiles; 3 motor-cycles; 7 launches; 6 power-boats.

Pursuant to the "Police and Prisons Regulation Act" of 1923, the reorganization of the Force originally proposed is practically complete. The Force is now divided into four Divisions designated by the letters "A," "B," "C," and "D," and for further convenience "A" Division is again divided inot two Subdivisions—Victoria and Vancouver. Headquarters remains at Victoria.

The following table shows the distribution of the Force as at December 31st:—

	Superintendent.	Assistant Superintendent.	Inspectors.	Sub-Inspectors.	Staff-Sergeants.	Sergeants.	Corporals.	Constables.*	Probationers.	Automobiles.	Motor-cycles.	Launches.	Power-boats.

* In addition to the permanent staff, Special Constables were employed as occasion arose.

In the Province there are six divisional headquarters offices, sixteen district headquarters offices, and eighty-three detachments. A list of detachments with their officers is shown as Appendix V. on page 24 of this report.

On October 1st last year I considered it advisable for better policing to take the Clinton and Lillooet Detachments out of the Lillooet District and place them under the direction of the N.C.O. in charge of the Yale District. On October 16th the headquarters of the Boundary Police District were moved to Penticton, this being done owing to the increasing importance of the Penticton area. On November 1st the Cranbrook Police District was merged into the Fernie District. During the year the Campbell River Detachment was reopened, the officer at Clayoquot was moved to Ucluelet, and a new detachment opened at that point. New detachments were also opened in "D" Division at Finlay Forks and Telegraph Creek. The detachments at Alice Arm, Boundary, Clayoquot, Huntingdon, Hutton, Quathiaski Cove, Rolla, and Swanson Bay were closed during the year. With the inception of a regular launch patrol certain coastal offices might be safely discontinued.

ENLISTMENTS, DISCHARGES, ETC.

The following are the particulars regarding enlistments, discharges, etc., during the year 1924: Enlistments, 8; resignations, 6; dismissals, 4; discharges, nil; deaths, 2.

On April 1st, 1924, all officers were required to complete three-year engagement sheets, and the six resignations referred to took place prior to the completion of the forms.

The death of Constable H. Avison, Prince George District Headquarters, is deeply regretted. Avison was a loyal, efficient, and trusted police officer and his loss will be felt.

I also regret to report the death of a newly joined Constable, C. C. Canning, Smithers District Headquarters Office.

APPOINTMENTS.

On January 31st, 1924, Inspector Walter Owen was appointed a Justice of the Peace for the Province of British Columbia.

On February 1st, 1924, Inspector Owen was appointed Assistant Superintendent, and Deputy Inspectors W. R. Dunwoody, W. L. Fernie, and T. W. S. Parsons were appointed Inspectors, and Chief Contable Forbes Cruickshank was appointed to the rank of Sub-Inspector.

On April 1st, 1924, Chief Clerk Geo. A. Hood (Headquarters) was appointed to the rank of Sub-Inspector.

BUILDINGS.

The present policy permits the construction annually of some three new lock-up buildings. These buildings being of a type standardized by the Public Works Department have been found most suitable for the purpose. However, there is still a large number of officers of this Force throughout the Province who have to provide their own accommodation, an unfairness which I have found impossible to overcome up to the present. As an example, certain N.C.O.'s who must purchase their own fuel, water, and light, and also rent suitable accommodation themselves, are far worse off than their subordinates stationed at detachments where these privileges are provided. To meet the situation I am hoping to be able to introduce a system of allowances equitable to all ranks.

UNIFORMS.

The material and badges having been delivered, I hope to have the entire Force uniformed within a few months. As the design selected appears to be both comfortable and workmanlike the officers are expected to present a very smart appearance.

DRILLS AND LECTURES.

Although the value of drills and lectures is recognized as tending towards increased efficiency, it has been found difficult to take men away from their stations for this purpose. However, it is hoped that a course of training will be instituted at Headquarters upon subjects covered by the individual officer in his work on detachment.

CRIMINAL INVESTIGATION.

The Force is badly handicapped for the want of a department dealing exclusively with criminal investigation. A nucleus exists—the finger-print branch—but infinitely more is needed. The prevailing custom of detailing an officer to superintend a particular case has been successful up to a point, but the fact of removing an executive officer from his regular work invariably creates local disorganization. This was particularly noticeable during the closing days of 1924, when Sub-Inspector Cruickshank, then engaged on cases of extreme importance, was continually absent from the Vancouver Subdivision.

In order to better protect the public interests a separate department should be formed immediately, and to this end I am preparing the necessary dispositions.

IDENTIFICATION BUREAU.

The work in connection with the Identification Bureau, commenced at the beginning of the year, is rapidly increasing. This branch was efficiently organized by Corporal W. J. Voisey, who reports as follows:—

BRITISH COLUMBIA PROVINCIAL POLICE,
IDENTIFICATION BUREAU, HEADQUARTERS,
VICTORIA, B.C., December 31st, 1924.

Col. J. H. McMullin,
Superintendent, British Columbia Police, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit a report on the operation of the British Columbia Criminal Identification Bureau for the year ended December 31st, 1924.

The Bureau commenced operations on January 1st, 1924. Previous to this time no system of classifying and filing finger-prints, nor of maintaining records of criminals passing through the Provincial Prisons and our own Police Force, had been adopted.

The finger-prints of all prisoners confined at the Oakalla Prison Farm and the Nelson Provincial Gaol had been taken since 1917 and allowed to accumulate there. Upon the inauguration of the Headquarters Bureau this accumulation, to the number of 7,180, was transferred to me. I immediately commenced classifying and filing, and at the end of the year 1,733 had been completed. Record-cards have also been made in each instance and indexed alphabetically. These show the criminal record of each prisoner whose prints have been filed. I am endeavouring to complete the prints at an early date; however, I consider it more important to first deal with new prints coming in.

The total number of prints on file, with a corresponding number of record-cards containing the full criminal history of the individual, now amounts to 3,200, and the following table sets out in detail how they were obtained. Finger-print records received from all sources during the year ended December 31st, 1924.

GENERAL.

During the year I visited every divisional and many district headquarters offices and detachments. Efficient police-work is being performed and a satisfactory relationship exists between the Force and the public it serves. I also noticed a spirit of loyalty and comradeship among the men which cannot but favourably react upon the quality of their work.

A Provincial Police organization is usually presumed to be occupied with purely rural problems, but the physical characteristics of British Columbia require its Force to be conversant with everything lying within the range of practical police-work. On the Pacific our men must be sailors, navigators, and engineers. In the Kootenays and on Vancouver Island they must understand mines and mining; in Central British Columbia the cattle industry; and in the newly opened North every angle of frontier life. In addition to all this, our officers perform an immense amount of urban duty, particularly in Victoria, Vancouver, and the outlying municipalities. Once a city prisoner is committed for trial the subsequent proceedings are in Provincial hands, a fact necessitating complete understanding of all the varying conditions identified with modern society.

At present it is exceedingly difficult to cope with certain prevailing coastal conditions, and I strongly urge that our existing water-craft be augmented by the addition of two fast motor-launches, capable of operating over a wide area and carrying machine-guns in addition to their usual equipment. These launches—one based at Victoria and the other at Prince Rupert—are an immediate necessity. The first cost of such vessels, probably between $10,000 and $12,000 each, is not provided for in our estimates. However, in the light of recent events, their innovation is fully justified.

Pleasant relations exist between other Provincial Forces and ourselves, and I again take the opportunity of expressing my warm admiration and thanks to Colonel Bryan, the officers, N.C.O.'s, and men of the Alberta Provincial Police. Illustrative of our co-operative efforts is the fact that many Alberta Provincial Policemen have been sworn in as British Columbia Policemen, and vice versa, an excellent arrangement which permits freedom of action to either Force along the Interprovincial Boundary.

Whenever opportunity offered, many municipal forces have rendered valuable assistance, and we have reciprocated.

During the last Legislature amendments to the "Police and Prisons Regulation Act" contained a section enabling any municipality so desiring to take advantage of our wider organization and be Provincially policed. This section reads as follows:—

"34. (1.) Notwithstanding the provisions of any general or special Act, the Municipal Council of any municipality may, on terms and conditions approved by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, enter into an agreement with the Superintendent, under which the Superintendent shall take charge of the policing of that municipality; and thereupon the Provincial Police Force shall act in policing that municipality and in maintaining law and order therein.

"(2.) All moneys due from a municipality under any agreement entered into pursuant to subsection (1) shall be paid into the Consolidated Revenue Fund; and in the absence of any special appropriation of the Legislature available for the purpose all expenses incurred by the Superintendent in policing the municipality, including the salaries, pay, and allowance of the members of the Provincial Police Force assigned for duty therein, shall be payable from the Consolidated Revenue Fund."

Upon that officer taking over the British Columbia Division, I interviewed Superintendent Knight, and as a result a working arrangement satisfactory to both Forces now exists between the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and ourselves.

Our dealings with the various United States authorities cover a period of many years. Federal, State, and County Forces seem only too willing to co-operate, and during 1924 we received generous and valuable assistance from New York, California, Montana, Washington, and other States.

The Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railway Police organizations are in continual touch with our own. This liaison is particularly noticeable in "C" and "D" Divisions, where a mutual and beneficial understanding between the Canadian National Railway and British Columbia Police has been successfully built up. In many essentials railway practice differs from Provincial, and I am extremely satisfied with the existing relationship. Mr. Page, Chief of the Canadian National Railway Investigation Department, and his Winnipeg assistant, Superintendent Hesketh, have been most kind and sympathetic in their dealings with our executives; in fact, a desirable unification of effort has been the direct result.

CONDUCT AND DISCIPLINE.

With few exceptions, the conduct of the Force during 1924 was excellent. Only four members were dismissed for cause.

By reason of its physical formation British Columbia offers great difficulties to close supervisory control. Mountain ranges separate each Division and often the individual detachment. This throws many of our N.C.O.'s and men entirely upon their own resources, and that men so placed have not failed to arrive at decisions warranted by the facts is borne out by testimony received from the most unexpected quarters. Many of these commendatory letters indicate a spirit of service upon which both the Province and its police may be congratulated.

From time to time I have had great pleasure in commending in our monthly General Orders certain members of the Force for outstanding and notable work in the course of their duties. The following names have been mentioned during the year:—

January 8th, 1924. Constable Sperry Cline, Hazelton Detachment, for resource and initiative displayed in the capture of Charles Kilby, who was wanted for the theft of a sum of money.

February 5th, 1924. Corporal Kier, Duncan Detachment, and Corporal Voisey, i/c Finger-print Bureau, for their skill in establishing the identity from latent finger-prints of George Hannay, who is alleged to have entered and robbed a store at Duncan, B.C.

March 5th, 1924. Inspector W. R. Dunwoody, Officer Commanding "B" Division, and Staff-Sergeant Fraser, for smart work in gathering evidence and tracking down Dan and Robert Cress, who while masked had violently robbed two men near Spencer, on the International Boundary-line.

April 8th, 1924. Sergeant W. Spiller, Corporal A. Saint, and Constable R. P. Ponder, all of Prince Rupert District Headquarters, for courageously attempting to save the captain of the fishing-launch "Narbathong," who had been overcome by the fumes from the engine in his launch. While his cabin was still full of the deadly fumes these three officers worked with splendid disregard for their own safety.

July 3rd, 1924. Constable F. G. Brown, i/c Waldo Detachment, for particularly smart work in effecting the arrest of George Thomas on a charge of horse-stealing. In order to make this capture Constable Brown followed the horse-tracks from Waldo, B.C., to a point near Rexford, Montana.

August 4th, 1924. Constable S. S. Saunders, i/c Cranbrook Detachment, for his demonstration of courage and ingenuity in disarming an individual who was apparently of unsound mind.

September 8th, 1924. Sergeant Carter and Constables McConnell and Robertson, for their excellent work in effecting the arrest of Gus Marchand, alias Mike Hearns, who had committed numerous depredations in the Vernon area.

September 8th, 1924. Constable H. C. Clarke, Williams Lake, and Constable Ian McRae, Hanceville, for their determination and untiring efforts to bring about the arrest of John Solomon (Indian), wanted at Williams Lake on serious charges. Solomon was taking every precaution to evade arrest and had an excellent knowledge of the area in which he sought refuge.

September 8th, 1924. Constable A. W. Collins, while temporarily stationed at Ocean Falls Detachment, was the victim of a brutal assault, serious injuries to the head and face resulting. His assailants managed to get his revolver and would undoubtedly have shot the officer had not the safety-catch been on the gun at the time. They broke away, but Constable Collins later sought them out, and in again endeavouring to effect their arrest received further serious injuries. These men then managed to get clear away but were later arrested at different points in the Province. Constable Collins's action in repeatedly attempting to arrest these men and his forbearance in not using his revolver are worthy of high praise. Although badly injured the Constable remained on duty.

December 7th, 1924. Corporal Service and Probationer Thiis, Smithers District Headquarters, for great coolness and courage in effecting the arrest of an armed man at Smithers. The fugitive had held up a citizen of Smithers and made his escape to the bush, where Probationer Thiis shortly succeeded in locating him. Despite the fact that he was armed and under cover the Constable unhesitatingly advanced into the bush and effected his capture.

I have also been pleased to receive from outside sources commendatory letters on behalf of the following officers for valuable and timely assistance rendered by them: Constable W. A. Walker, i/c Yahk Detachment; Constable Geo. Williams, i/c Port Alice Detachment; Constable S. W. Dawson, i/c Campbell River Detachment; Constable W. H. Hadley, i/c Alert Bay Detachment.

ASSISTANCE TO OTHER DEPARTMENTS.

There appears to be no general appreciation of the varied duties police are called upon to carry out. Apart from their natural function—the prevention and suppression of crime—members of the British Columbia Police are both requested and expected to perform a multiplicity of labours only partially identified with the preservation of law and order. In addition, then, to a function which includes the pursuit of crime from inception to judicial completion, we are particularly charged with the enforcement of some fifty quasi-criminal Provincial Statutes and certain other statutory legislation of a special order. A reference to Appendix II. on page 21 of this report will give an idea of the volume of the work, whilst the following summarizes its nature:—

DEPARTMENT OF THE ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

Assize Courts.—Police were on special duty at Courts of Assize held in the Province during the year.

"Deserted Wives' Maintenance Act."—In common with other social legislation, this Statute has been successfully invoked in a number of instances.

"Fire Marshal Act."—For the purposes of the Act all unorganized areas are divided into districts, the detachment officer in charge being ipso facto a deputy fire marshal. Every fire occurring in these districts is duly investigated and reported upon by the Provincial Police.

"Game Act."—The entire responsibility of enforcing this Act lies with the Force, and its present satisfactory observation may be credited to the extreme keenness of many individual officers. In addition to submitting special reports upon administrative matters, investigating applications for permission to operate fur-farms, issuing export fur permits and game licences, collecting the sum of $128,573.80 in revenue, some ninety-eight detachments report monthly on local game conditions.

"Government Liquor Act."—Besides performing our own specific duties connected with arrests and prosecutions in unorganized territory, we fully co-operate with and render a great deal of assistance to the Enforcement Branch of the Liquor Control Board.

"Motor-vehicle Act."—As a result of its ever-increasing volume, the Department shoulders an immense amount of work in connection with mechanical transportation. All licences are issued by the police and our total collections amounted to no less a sum than $888,924.85.

Whilst enforcement in unorganized districts is not called upon to encounter the many obstacles confronting municipal authorities, the latter could afford us much more support. I refer to the necessity of a greater insistence upon the Act's basic requirements—a proper display of licence-plates and an observation of lighting, rules of the road, and speeding regulations. After all, this should not be considered as expecting too much from the smaller municipalities, particularly as they receive a proportion of revenue derived under the Act.

It might be added that in view of the very large revenue obtained from this source I feel a proportion should be deducted and applied to traffic-control purposes. The Force could well use half a dozen specialists for this work.

"Moving Pictures Act."—Reports upon all premises licensed under the Act are regularly submitted.

"Pool-rooms Act."—The Force supervises all pool-rooms operating in unorganized districts and in 1924 reported upon 103 premises. As the average proprietor realizes that his licence is too valuable an asset to jeopardize by non-compliance with the regulations, we experience but very little trouble from this source.

Village Municipalities.—While the Act permits them internal administrative freedom, the policing of village municipalities is a distinct Provincial charge. This throws a great deal of additional work upon our N.C.O.'s, who appear to have acquitted themselves most satisfactorily. However, the growth of these municipalities, especially in the North, warrants a slight increase in our strength.

"Women's and Girls' Protection Act."—The control provisions provided for have been availed of in towns adjoining Indian reserves. In many instances the issuance of certificates has prevented the necessity of further police action—an excellent state of affairs and some proof of this Statute's preventive value.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

Among the services performed by the Force for this Department is that of enforcing the "Brand Act," "Animals Act," "Pound District Act," "Line Fences Act," and regulations pertaining to noxious weeds, dairies, egg-marking, and apiaries. In country districts we are particularly interested in all matters relating to cattle-marking, hide inspections, and contagious diseases of animals; in fact, the men patrol hundreds of miles in this connection.

Officers in touch with conditions regarding line fences suggest that the Act might be amended. As they are prohibitive in cost to men of limited means, the present arbitrary constituents of a legal fence seem scarcely necessary in unsettled districts.

"Sheep Protection Act."—This law has been properly enforced in all proclaimed districts.

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION.

From time to time assistance has been rendered to the various School Inspectors. Our men are constantly in touch with rural conditions and are often in a position to supply valuable information to these officials.

DEPARTMENT OF FISHERIES.

During the fishing season special patrols supervise licence collection along the entire Coast. Technical reports on the salmon run and various hatcheries are also submitted by officers who, from long practice, may be fairly classed as experts.

DEPARTMENT OF LABOUR.

The Force is in close touch both with labour and labour conditions and in many instances they have been able to secure overdue wages for men which they might otherwise have lost.

A strict attention to camp sanitary regulations has also gone far towards bettering living conditions in remote portions of the Province. They have prevented much unnecessary hardship to injured men by insisting upon employers keeping their first-aid kits up to date.

DEPARTMENT OF LANDS.

At the Minister's request many investigations have been carried out. During the fire season we closely co-operate with the Forest Branch. The Force not only undertakes preventive duty, but it procures fire-fighters and institutes proceedings against those violating the regulations.

DEPARTMENT OF MINES.

For public convenience, Constables in certain districts act as Deputy Mining Recorders.

DEPARTMENT OF THE PROVINCIAL SECRETARY.

"Dentistry Act."—Numerous inquiries touching unauthorized practitioners were made on behalf of the College of Dental Surgeons of British Columbia.

"Health Act."—The sanitary inspection of camps is one of our most important duties, and during the year 1924 492 inspections were undertaken on behalf of the Provincial Board of Health. The necessity of painstaking and thorough work has been impressed upon all ranks, and the generally healthy condition prevailing in mining, mill, and logging camps indicates a close attention to these instructions.

Indigent, Aged, and Sick Persons.—Reports of destitution, etc., receive immediate attention, suitable relief being provided wherever necessary. The most deserving cases not infrequently attempt to shield their distress, and as work of this nature requires both kindness and tact the manner of its performance reflects great credit on our N.C.O.'s and men.

Industrial and Subnormal Boys' School.—The Force is in constant touch with and carries out investigations for the Superintendent of this institution and for the Superintendent of Neglected Children.

"Mental Hospitals Act"—In unorganized territory the necessary preliminaries in lunacy cases are invariably undertaken by the Force. Suspects are interviewed, taken under control, brought up for medical examination, committed, and escorted to the Mental Hospital. This is often arduous and tiring work, and that the Force displays a kindly attitude in dealing with these unfortunates is amply evidenced by the appreciatory comment brought to my attention.

"Mothers' Pensions Act."—The Provincial Police reported upon and submitted recommendations in 153 cases.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

All detachment officers make a point of reporting road conditions to District Engineers. This advantageous arrangement appears to be fully appreciated by the officials concerned, who on their part unfailingly reciprocate by assisting the police. Successful prosecutions have also been launched by request of the Provincial Inspector of Boilers and the Road Department.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

The Force collected many thousands of dollars by way of licence and other taxation for the Treasury Department, some of which—but for its local knowledge—would be lost to the Province. In Appendix III. will be found particulars of revenue collected by the British Columbia Police during the year 1924.

DOMINION STATUTES.

The enforcement of Dominion Statutes mainly devolves upon the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and investigators attached to the Department concerned. However, my own point of view is that, whatever its nature, a dereliction coming within a policeman's purview also comes within his sphere of activity, and that preliminary action should be taken immediately. This attitude is equally that of the entire Force and many convictions have been obtained as a result. Generally speaking, our field has been opium and narcotic drugs, both European and Chinese immigration, criminal contagious diseases, shipping, contagious diseases of animals, customs and excise, explosives, Indians, migratory birds protection, naturalization, the postal service, paroled prisoners, ticket-of-leave, quarantine, railways, and the telegraph service. It has been a great pleasure to co-operate with the various Dominion officials concerned. They have been sympathetic towards us, only too ready to assist, and unfailingly appreciative of any effort put forth on their behalf.

"CORONERS ACT."

The Force was associated with 250 Coroners' inquests and inquiries. We invariably undertake the bulk of the work in this connection and are called upon to arrange and present the witnesses and generally to superintend the proceedings.

Deaths by drowning, 89; deaths by accident, 124.

I attach hereto a statement of Criminal Statistics for the past year.

In conclusion, I wish to express the appreciation of myself and all ranks of this Force to you for the warm personal interest you have always taken in matters pertaining to the welfare of the Provincial Police.

I also wish to take this opportunity of expressing my appreciation of the work of Assistant Superintendent Walter Owen and all members of the Force for their very hearty and loyal co-operation.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your obedient servant,
J. H. McMULLIN,
Superintendent.

CRIMINAL STATISTICS.

Appendix I. on page 18 of this report gives details of criminal offences dealt with by the British Columbia Provincial Police during the year 1924. Only those cases which have been brought to a conclusion are shown. The total number of cases entered was 2,724, with 2,331 convictions, a percentage of 85.57, which is very high and indicates a careful preparation of the cases on the part of the officers.

The following is a summary of the more outstanding and interesting cases which have occurred during the year:—

ROYAL BANK ROBBERY AT LADNER, B.C.

Forming one of a number of daring robberies involving a loss of approximately $750,000 which occurred in the North-western United States and Canada during 1922 and 1923, a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada in the Municipality of Ladner, B.C., was entered on March 28th, 1922, and bonds to the extent of $130,000 stolen therefrom. The various Western Canadian Provincial Police Forces were immediately interested, and, acting in conjunction with United States officers, finally traced these crimes to an organized gang of criminals, all of whom were ex-convicts.

Our associations with the Alberta Provincial Police were particularly close, and an arrangement was entered into with Colonel Bryan to share any expenses which might be incurred in prosecuting this matter to a finish. As a result Assistant Superintendent Owen, of this Force, proceeded to Edmonton and Lethbridge, Alberta, and to Minneapolis, where he joined Assistant Superintendent Nicholson, of the Alberta Provincial Police. The offices of the Finger-print Bureau of the Minneapolis Police Department and the local Burns Detective Agency were visited by these officers, who then left for Minot, North Dakota, from whence, after obtaining information touching one Whitey Kline, a suspect, they returned to Lethbridge for consultation with Inspector Bavin, of the Alberta Provincial Police.

Subsequent instructions were received by Assistant Superintendent Nicholson from his Commissioner to accompany Assistant Superintendent Owen to Great Falls, Montana, where another suspect, Johnny Reed, was in gaol. His connection with other bank robberies having been established, the fact of awaiting extradition to Canada appears to have induced Reed to assist the authorities in clearing up certain outstanding features of the case.

On March 21st Sheriff Gordon and Assistant Superintendents Nicholson and Owen accompanied Reed some 125 miles in a blinding snow-storm to a cache north-east of Great Falls, Montana, where, after working for several hours in the frozen ground, a bundle of registered bonds were recovered. These were stolen from an Alberta branch of the Union Bank at Foremost and approximated $100,000 in value.

The party then returned to Canada, subsequently arriving in Vancouver, where Reed led them to another cache. This proved to be situated in Stanley Park and a grip containing $83,850 of registered bonds stolen from the Ladner Bank was located.

On May 19th, 1924, Johnny Reed appeared before His Honour Judge Cayley, County Criminal Court, Vancouver, and pleaded guilty to participating in the Ladner Bank robbery. Although declining to implicate any of his associates, he had assisted in the recovery of over $900,000—the proceeds of robberies extending from the Pacific Coast to Eastern Ontario—and on these grounds sentence was suspended.

Soon after this Assistant Superintendent Owen was able to conclusively connect Whitey Kline with the Ladner robbery. He proceeded to Minot with a view to extradition, but was forestalled by his quarry, who, rather than face a Canadian jury, preferred pleading guilty to a North Dakota charge, for which he was sentenced to five years in the State Penitentiary. Escaping from custody, Kline fled to South Dakota, where he was immediately rearrested and sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment with hard labour for another bank robbery.

These investigations involved an immense amount of hard and painstaking work—apart from our Alberta confrères, Assistant Superintendent Owen travelled some 29,000 miles—and reflects the greatest credit upon all concerned.

The Gillis Murders.

The Force was confronted with the elucidation of a major criminal problem when a derelict Canadian launch was driven ashore on the United States Coast in September, 1924. This vessel, the "Beryl G.," owned by William J. Gillis, was recovered by the U.S. lighthouse-keeper at Turn Point, Washington, on September 17th, 1924. There was no one on board; everything was in disorder; blood-stains showed on the forward hatch and starboard bulwark; there were bullet-holes through the cabin door and starboard side, while more blood was on the cook-stove, the settee, and cabin floor. In fact, everything pointed to an unusual occurrence of extreme violence.

Local inquiry being made, Sub-Inspector Cruickshank was placed in charge of the case and left for Seattle and Tacoma on September 29th. After three months' continuous investigation in the United States this officer was finally able to reconstruct the entire story. It seems that William J. Gillis, with his son William, had undertaken to deliver 350 cases of liquor from a vessel lying off Cape Beale to Sidney Island, near Victoria, where transfer was to be made to a United States "rum-runner." His plans evidently leaked out and arrangements were made by a gang consisting of three Americans and one Canadian of Polish extraction to raid and steal his cargo. On the night of September 15th, 1924, it is alleged the Canadian, Paul Stromkins (who owned a motor-boat), took Owen B. Baker, Charles Morris, and Harry F. Sowash to a cove on Sidney Island, where Baker, Sowash, and Morris boarded the "Beryl G." Stromkins, who was subsequently arrested on November 25th, 1924, confessed that he heard two shots and that Baker came back for him in the dinghy. He brought his launch alongside the "Beryl G." and soon after saw the dead bodies of William J. Gillis and his son. The liquor was then transhipped, after which the bodies were tied together and thrown overboard, the "Beryl G." itself being cast adrift.

Charles Morris was arrested on November 25th, 1924, by the Seattle Police Department and three other men, C. Chetwood, Ray J. Kraemer, and Harry Morris were held for complicity. Owen Baker and Harry F. Sowash escaped for the time being, but were afterwards captured in New York and New Orleans respectively.—Unconcluded.

Royal Bank Robbery at Nanaimo, B.C.

On December 12th, 1924, a gang of seven men held up the Royal Bank branch at Nanaimo, B.C., and effected a spectacular escape with $42,000 of the bank's funds. On a general alarm being given City and Provincial officers immediately instituted a pursuit, while an aeroplane from the Canadian Air Force, Vancouver, H.M.C.S. "Patrician," and several privately owned speed-launches also attempted to locate and prevent the bandits from leaving Canadian jurisdiction.

Briefly, the surrounding circumstances were as follows: At 2.30 p.m., as two strangers entered the bank by its main and west entrance, the accountant's attention was attracted by an unusual noise. Immediately "covered" by these men, he was marched to the vault and ordered to open the safe. However, its combination being known only to the manager, their request lacked compliance. Still "covered," Mr. R. Husband was then directed to and compelled to remain in another position. Entering the teller's cage, the robbers then rifled the tills of $42,000. For twenty-five minutes the bandits with their associates completely controlled the bank and made such disposition of its clients as their scheme required. Their final escape was in a high-powered car.

Through assistance rendered by private individuals, U.S. Sheriffs and Police, it was ascertained that a number of strange men had arrived at Bellingham, Washington, on the 10th, left the day following, and returned late on December 12th, their subsequent movements being traced to the outskirts of Seattle. Sub-Inspector F. Cruickshanks (who was in Seattle) proceeded to Anacortes on the morning of the 13th and by Monday, the 15th, had definitely succeeded in establishing the suspects' identity. On December 24th, 1924, by request of the Honourable the Attorney-General, A. M. Manson, the following arrests were effected by American officials in the State of Washington: Ross C. Watson at Seattle; T. H. Johnson, William Bagley, and George Rossi at Tacoma; and C. H. Schively at Montesano, all of whom, with the exception of Schively, being held for extradition. In his case proceedings were left in abeyance pending the completion of a sentence imposed for a Federal offence.

As this matter is still sub judice further particulars cannot be given at this time. However, I cannot omit an expression of my appreciation of the work performed in its connection by Sub-Inspector Cruickshank, those N.C.O.'s and men who assisted him, together with the Police and Sheriffs of the State of Washington, without whose cordial and willing co-operation these men would still be at large.

THE LIARD RIVER MURDER.

Last spring the Department of Indian Affairs received word that a young northern Indian had been callously murdered by his fellow-tribesmen. To avoid unnecessary duplication of work and expense, Colonel R. S. Knight, Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Commanding the British Columbia District, kindly arranged to have this and other matters investigated by a patrol he was sending in to the British Columbia-Yukon boundary.

In May, 1924, Inspector Sandys-Wunsch, with two Royal Canadian Mounted Police Constables, reached Fort Liard via Wrangell, Alaska, and within a few days not only found the remains of Atol, or Moccasin, a young Indian boy who had been brutally tied up and left on the ice to die, but succeeded in arresting Dan Loot, Jimmy Loot, Clem Loot, Big Alec, and a woman named Edie for their share in the offence. These nomadic Indians—Nahanees of Denè stock—firmly believe in magic and witchcraft, and it is because he was suspected of their practice that Atol was cruelly done to death. The whole conduct of this investigation reflects great credit upon the officers concerned, particularly so when it is remembered that natives are singularly uncommunicative when questioned on the subject of their tribal belief.

Inspector Sandys-Wunsch, Royal Canadian Mounted Police, brought his prisoners out and they are now awaiting trial.

THE "LILLUMS" AND "HADSELL" LIQUOR THEFTS.

The violent seizure of cargoes of liquor from rum-running vessels has been defined in underworld argot as "hi-jacking," and during 1923 and 1924 we received several complaints of such robberies, the "Lillums" and "Hadsell" cases being among the most outstanding.

The first named was held up at Hope Bay, B.C. Some months later—March, 1924—another boat, the "Kayak," while awaiting a load of liquor to be delivered by the "Hadsell," was fired at, boarded, and the crew imprisoned. Using the "Kayak" as a decoy, the "Hadsell" on arrival was subjected to a heavy rifle fire, and then captured with her crew and cargo, Davidson, a member of the "Hadsell's" crew, being shot and wounded. The "hi-jackers" after transferring the cargo turned the "Hadsell" adrift, leaving the "Kayak" with both captured crews aboard.

After an immense amount of work by Sub-Inspector Cruickshank, Sergeant Robert Owens, and the men of the Victoria Police District, the following men: Milo, Theo., and Ariel Eggers, P. K. Kelly and Chas. Pfluger, were positively identified with one or both of these offences. Kelly and Pfluger were arrested in the United States, brought to Canada, tried, and each sentenced to two years' imprisonment in the British Columbia Penitentiary. Theodore Eggers was arrested in Atlanta, Georgia, and subsequently escaped, while Milo and Ariel were captured in San Francisco. The brothers, aided by confederates, broke custody and in the mêlée Ariel was killed and a United States Sheriff wounded. Milo Eggers escaped and is now being sought for by the United States Federal authorities.

The Janet Smith Case.

On July 26th, 1924, a young Scotswoman, Janet Smith, employed at 3851 Osler Avenue, in the Municipality of Point Grey, was discovered dead in the basement by Sing Wong Fung, the Chinese cook. He immediately advised his employer, Mr. F. L. Baker, who in turn notified the Municipal Police. The municipal officers duly investigated and on July 28th, 1924, an inquest was held by the Coroner, Dr. Brydone-Jack. The story offered to the jury ran as follows:—

Miss Smith was found lying dead on the laundry floor. There was a bullet wound in her temple and by her side an automatic revolver. Dr. A. H. Hunter, subsequently corroborated by Dr. R. H. Mallin, deposed making an autopsy that morning—the day of the inquest—and finding evidence of embalming, a fact which added considerable difficulty to his examination. However, in his opinion, death ensued upon a gunshot wound in the head. Jas. Edwards, undertaker, then swore to receiving police instruction on the 26th and embalming the body that day. After hearing additional evidence from the Municipal Police, Mr. F. L. Baker, the house-boy, and others, the jury returned a verdict of self-inflicted but accidental death. This conclusion was generally regarded as unsatisfactory, and the Provincial Police were subsequently instructed to undertake further investigation.

By August 30th, 1924, after an immense amount of work, the Provincial Police gathered a large number of witnesses. Six medical experts re-examined the remains, and on September 4th, 1924, Dr. Brydone-Jack held a second inquest, Mr. Craig, K.C., representing the Honourable the Attorney-General. After hearing forty-eight witnesses the second jury found:—

"Janet Smith was wilfully murdered in the course of her employment in the laundry basement of 3851 Osler Avenue by being shot through the head with a revolver, but by whom fired we have no evidence to show. To this verdict we wish to add that the want of any proper investigation when the tragedy was discovered was responsible for this prolonged inquiry and caused great suffering to innocent persons and probably shielded guilt. We exonerate Chief Simpson and Constable Fish (Point Grey Municipal Police) entirely. It is regretted that the reading of picked extracts from the deceased's diary tended to defame her pure and unsullied memory."

Since September, 1924, to date, the Force has been unremitting in its attempts to solve the mystery surrounding Miss Smith's death. These efforts have been further fortified by the able assistance of Mr. M. B. Jackson, K.C., who received special instruction to that end from the Honourable the Attorney-General. As set forth in the second finding, our work is severely handicapped by the hurried and incomplete initial investigation; however, the Force continues to devote its energies toward solving this mystery.

The Corbett Murder.

At 2 p.m. on April 14th, 1924, District Engineer O. W. Smith informed our Cumberland Police Detachment that Arthur Corbett, restaurant proprietor of Courtenay, had shot and seriously wounded two persons. Constable R. Matthews reached Courtenay, some 12 miles away, ascertained that Mrs. Mary Corbett and a man named Luther Spencer Teed were dangerously wounded, and arrested Corbett, all within twenty minutes of receiving the call. Teed died at 2.35 p.m. and his assailant was thereupon charged with murder. As Mrs. Corbett died also, a second charge was preferred, that of killing Teed being traversed. Arraigned at the Nanaimo Spring Assize on May 14th, 1924, Arthur Corbett was found guilty of murder and sentenced to be hanged in August. This sentence was later commuted to life imprisonment.

The Jones Murder.

On July 18th, 1923, as Constable W. V. Fenton, i/c Ladner Detachment, drove past the Bank of Commerce Building, Main Street, Vancouver, B.C., he saw Chung Sam Bow, a Chinese, shoot and kill John C. Jones, a B.C. Telephone lineman. Stopping his car, our officer pursued, arrested, and disarmed the then escaping Chinaman. Between July, 1923, and October, 1924, the accused, who faced five—and was convicted at three—Assize trials, now awaits execution.

THE WITCHERLEY MURDER.

On March 22nd, 1924, in their home at Port Coquitlam Municipality, two people, Albert and Edith Witcherley, were found to have been murdered under particularly brutal circumstances. Immediate investigation was commenced by Chief of Municipal Police McKinley and by two members of the Provincial Police Force who shortly followed him to the Witcherley residence. It would seem the woman had been attacked and killed, and that her husband, who returned later, was first shot and then savagely beaten with a sledge-hammer. This dastardly affair appears to have been actuated by revenge, and in an attempt to locate its source we have communicated with not only Canadian but English police officials. To further stimulate public interest a reward of $1,000 has been also offered.

THE GEORGE CLARK MURDER.

Following a dispute over some liquor, William Athoe shot and killed George Clark at Beaton, B.C., on May 23rd, 1924. Athoe was arrested by Constable F. F. O'Halloran, of Arrowhead Detachment, the same day and charged with murder. Subsequently tried before Mr. Justice McDonald, the accused was found guilty of manslaughter and sentenced to eight years' imprisonment with hard labour.

THE CALDER MURDER.

On July 20th, 1924, David R. Calder, Thomas O. Allen, and others were drinking in the former's house, some 5 miles west of Revelstoke, B.C. Becoming quarrelsome, Calder assaulted his wife, whereupon Allen interfered. Both men then obtained rifles and, firing his, Allen wounded Calder in the groin. Seventeen days later Calder died and Allen was arrested by Constable Markland, of the Revelstoke Detachment. Arraigned on a charge of murder at the Revelstoke Assize, November 13th, 1924, Allen was found not guilty and discharged.

REX VS. MANTOKU SAKATA—ATTEMPTED MURDER.

On April 27th, 1924, Mantoku Sakata committed a brutal assault with a 7-lb. hammer on two fellow-countrymen, Mr. and Mrs. Fuyomoto, near Cumberland, Vancouver Island. Sakata was subsequently arrested by Nanaimo City Police Constable D. Tweedhope and Provincial Constable Bradner at Ladysmith. Subsequently arraigned on two counts—one of which was traversed—Sakata was found guilty of assaulting Fuyomoto and sentenced to six months' imprisonment, retroactive from the date of his arrest. In connection with this case the Imperial Japanese Consul rendered us great assistance.

MURDER OF AN UNKNOWN MAN.

On October 28th, 1924, two Coast Indians discovered human remains near Klewnuggit Light, Grenville Channel. Corporal Saint, B.C. Police, investigated and returned with an adult male skeleton to District Headquarters, Prince Rupert. There was a bullet-hole in the skull obviously not self-inflicted. The condition of the teeth in the skull appears to be our only clue. In the upper jaw there are three artificial teeth backed with gold held by gold crowns on the canines. The right second molar is missing. This information has been made the subject of innumerable inquiries among dental surgeons, however, without success.

REX VS. MCFADDEN.

Corporal Kier arrested W. E. McFadden for attempting to murder Alice McFadden at Sahtlam, Vancouver Island, on August 14th, 1924. There seems to have been domestic trouble which finally culminated in the husband firing a rifle at his wife. Arraigned at the Fall Assize, McFadden was discharged and returned to Oakalla Prison Farm, there to complete a two-year sentence previously imposed by Judge McIntosh for attempted suicide.

THE PAYETTE MURDER.

On October 11th, 1924, William Payette murdered his wife at Notch Hill, B.C. There had been domestic trouble between the husband and wife for years and they were separated. Mrs. Payette operated the Notch Hill Hotel. Payette, who was drinking and quarrelsome, stayed at the house as an ordinary guest for three weeks, and it was there he pursued and struck his wife with a poker. Accused made no attempt to escape and on arrest fully confessed to Sergeant Adam and Constable Chadwick, of the British Columbia Police. Found guilty and sentenced to death at Kamloops Fall Assize, Payette appealed and has been granted a new trial.

Murder of Leslie Dickie at Nanaimo, B.C.

Although not strictly our concern, mention should be made of an investigation undertaken by the Nanaimo Chief of Police, John Shirass, and Staff-Sergeant Stephenson, British Columbia Police. Influenced by a "healer," Leslie Dickie, a hard-working and respected citizen of Nanaimo, appears to have developed extreme religio-mania, a mental attitude reacting upon and finally dominating his entire household.

On November 8th, 1924, when Dickie was in a peculiar frame of mind, some chance remarks of his bothered Mrs. Dickie to the extent that her youngest son interfered and was promptly knocked down. On Sunday, November 9th, 1924, the Nanaimo City Police were advised of an unusual condition prevailing at the Dickie residence and promptly investigated. Disturbing a quasi-religious service as they entered, the police officers discovered the whole family, with two leaders of a sect styling themselves Pentecostal Brethren, kneeling and praying, whilst on a table, surrounded by partially consumed food, lay a dead child dressed in ordinary clothing. As the father manifested an abnormal condition and the others were chary of giving any information, the Coroner and medical officers were called in, Dickie meanwhile being removed in custody. Subsequently a post-mortem examination established the child's unnatural death, and Dickie was charged with murdering his 2-year-old son.

An extraordinary state of affairs was revealed at the preliminary inquiry. It seems that after abstaining from food for several hours Dickie called every one to the kitchen early on Sunday morning. Bidding them fix their eyes on the rising sun and "behold the Glory of God," Dickie placed his hand on the mouth and nose of the child, then in Mrs. Dickie's arms. A few minutes later he announced its death.

This case is still sub judice.

Stabbing Affray on S.S. "Santa Maria."

On Sunday, April 21st, 1924, Michael McMahon was stabbed by three Chileans—Santibanes, Maturana, and Nave—on board an oil-tanker then lying in Esquimalt Harbour. Sergeant Robert Owens, of Victoria District Headquarters Office, investigated, and, seeing the "Santa Maria" putting to sea, hired a gasolene-launch, pursued and boarded her. The crew being mustered, McMahon then identified the accused, who were arrested and brought ashore.

On April 22nd, 1924, Santibanes and Nave received three and one months' imprisonment respectively, and Maturana was handed over to the immigration authorities for deportation.

REPORT

Of the Minister of Justice upon the Statutes of the Legislative Assembly of the Province of British Columbia passed during the Session of 1922.

By Command.

J. D. MacLEAN,
Provincial Secretary.

Provincial Secretary's Office.

At Government House,
Victoria, B.C., 17th December, 1923.

Sir,—I am directed by His Honour to transmit to you herewith, for the information of the Government, a certified copy of a Minute of Council dated the 10th instant, approving the Statutes of the Province of British Columbia passed in the twelfth year of His Majesty's reign, 1922.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your obedient servant,

H. J. S. MUSKETT,
Private Secretary.

The Honourable the Provincial Secretary.

P.C. 2427.

Certified copy of a Report of the Committee of the Privy Council, approved by His Excellency the Governor-General on the 10th December, 1923.

The Committee of the Privy Council have had before them a report, dated 31st October, 1923, from the Minister of Justice, submitting that he has examined the Statutes of the Province of British Columbia passed in the twelfth year of the reign of His Majesty, 1922, and received by the Secretary of State of Canada on the 29th December, 1922, and that he is of opinion that these Statutes may be left to such operation as they may have.

The Committee, on the recommendation of the Minister of Justice, advise that a copy hereof, together with a copy of the annexed report of the Minister of Justice, be transmitted to the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia for the information of his Government.

E. J. LEMAIRE,
Clerk of the Privy Council.

His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia.

Department of Justice, Canada.

Ottawa, 31st October, 1923.

To His Excellency the Governor-General in Council:

The undersigned has the honour to report that he has examined the Statutes of the Province of British Columbia passed in the twelfth year of the reign of His Majesty, 1922, and received by the Secretary of State of Canada on 29th December, 1922, and he is of opinion that these Statutes may be left to such operation as they may have.

The undersigned recommends that a copy of this report, if approved, be transmitted to the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia for the information of his Government.

Humbly submitted.

(Sgd.) Lomer Gouin,
Minister of Justice.

REPORT

Of the Minister of Justice upon the Statutes of the Legislative Assembly of the Province of British Columbia passed during the Session of 1923.

By Command.

J. D. MacLEAN,
Provincial Secretary.

Provincial Secretary's Office.

At Government House,
Victoria, B.C., 26th January, 1925.

Sir,—I am directed by His Honour to transmit herewith, to be laid before the Government, a certified copy of a Minute of Council, dated the 15th instant, approving a report of the Minister of Justice upon the Statutes of the Legislature of the Province of British Columbia passed in the year 1923.

I have the honour to be,
Sir,
Your obedient servant,

H. J. S. MUSKETT,
Private Secretary.

The Honourable the Provincial Secretary.

P.C. 66.

Certified Copy of a Minute of a Meeting of the Committee of the Privy Council, approved by His Excellency the Governor-General on the 15th January, 1925.

The Committee of the Privy Council have had under consideration the report of the Minister of Justice, dated 12th January, 1925, upon the Statutes of the Province of British Columbia passed in the year 1923, and received by the Secretary of State of Canada on the 18th January, 1924.

The Committee, concurring in the views of the Minister of Justice as set out in said report, advise that a copy hereof and of the annexed report be transmitted to His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia for the information of his Government.

All of which is respectfully submitted for Your Excellency's approval.

E. J. LEMAIRE,
Clerk of the Privy Council.

His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia.

P.C. 66.

Department of Justice, Canada.

Ottawa, 12th January, 1925.

To His Excellency the Governor-General in Council:

The undersigned has the honour to report that he has examined the Statutes of the Province of British Columbia passed in the year 1923, and received by the Secretary of State of Canada on 18th January, 1924, and he is of opinion that these Statutes may be left to such operation as they may have.

The undersigned has had under consideration the petitions of the Canadian National Railways, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, the Union Steamship Company of British Columbia, Limited, and the Powell River Company, Limited, praying for the disallowance of the "Fuel-oil Tax Act," chapter 71 of the Statutes of British Columbia, 1923, upon the following grounds:—

(1.) That it imposes an indirect tax and is therefore beyond the powers of the Legislature as defined in subsection (2) of section 92 of the "British North America Act";

(2.) That it is ultra vires as being in effect a Customs and Excise tax which by section 122 of the "British North America Act" may be imposed only by the Parliament of Canada; and

(3.) That it is in conflict with Dominion interests and policy in respect of interprovincial and foreign trade.

The undersigned is disposed to think that so far as these petitions raise questions as to the validity of the Act the matter may be left to the determination of the Courts, and that in so far as any conflict with Dominion interests and policy is concerned the circumstances are not such as to suggest the advisability of disallowance.

The undersigned recommends that a copy of this report, if approved, be transmitted to the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia for the information of his Government.

Humbly submitted.

Minister of Justice.

To His Honour WALTER CAMERON NICHOL,

Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of British Columbia.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOUR:

The undersigned has the honour to present the Report of the Provincial Game Warden for the year ended December 31st, 1924.

A. M. MANSON,

Attorney-General.

Attorney-General's Department,

Victoria, B.C., May, 1925.

OFFICE OF SUPERINTENDENT OF PROVINCIAL POLICE,

VICTORIA, B.C., May, 1925.

Honourable A. M. Manson, K.C., M.P.P.,

Attorney-General, Victoria, B.C.

SIR,—I have the honour to submit herewith my Report as Provincial Game Warden for the year which ended December 31st, 1924.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your obedient servant,

J. H. McMULLIN,

Superintendent of Provincial Police.

REPORT OF PROVINCIAL GAME WARDEN, 1924

Familiarity with and a continual patrol of every portion of British Columbia undoubtedly enables the Provincial Police Department to enforce the "Game Act" at a minimum of cost; moreover, it is rare to find an up-country officer who is not personally interested in game conservation, and it is to this individual attitude that the excellent results obtained in 1924 may be largely attributed.

The Force consisted of eight officers and 178 non-commissioned officers and men on December 31st, 1924. During the previous twelve months it laid 317 informations and secured 283 convictions under the "Game Act," besides collecting fines amounting to the sum of $4,768 and further revenue arising from the sale of confiscated furs. (See Appendix B on page 33.)

Submitted from the various Police Divisions the following reports accurately describe the game conditions prevailing in British Columbia during the year 1924:—

"A" DIVISION (VANCOUVER ISLAND).

VICTORIA DISTRICT.

BY SERGEANT R. OWENS, N.C.O. I/C.

GAME ANIMALS.

Bear.—From reports received it would appear that there are fewer bears in this district than in 1923. Some were seen in the Duncan and Cowichan area, also along the west coast. However, they are seldom hunted.

Deer.—That deer are increasing in numbers may be attributed partly to the "buck-only law" and partly to the fact that a great deal of illegal shooting has been suppressed. Although a certain type of hunter continues to shoot and leave does in the wood, the Game Wardens displayed commendable activity in this connection and instances were few and far between.

Elk.—The elk on the Shaw Creek Reserve are reported as steadily increasing and they have not been molested except by their natural enemies. Although the smaller bands on the Little Nitinat River, headwaters of Nixon Creek, and the San Juan River have not been seen by the Game Warden, their trails show that they are increasing.

FUR-BEARING ANIMALS.

Marten.—Very few marten have been seen in any part of the district.

Racoon.—These have retained their numbers; in fact, numerous complaints have been received that racoon are killing chickens in the Sooke District.

Otter.—Reported as scarce.

Beaver.—Very scarce throughout.

Mink.—Very few in any part of the district.

Wolverine.—Very scarce.

Fisher.—Very scarce.

Skunk.—No skunk in any part of this district.

Weasel.—These are fairly plentiful in parts.

Muskrat.—No muskrat to be found in any part of the district, except around Cowichan Lake, where they are reported as being on the increase.

GAME BIRDS.

Pheasants.—Pheasants are fairly plentiful and more than holding their own. The winter was mild and as a result no dead birds were reported. The amendment to the "Game Act" giving farmers the right to shoot pheasants destroying their crops appears to have had no ill effect on their numbers. In regard to hen pheasants the law was rigidly enforced and a number of convictions obtained.

Pheasants turned out at Shawnigan Lake and Jordan River are reported as on the increase. These birds have an inclination to travel and several have been seen 4 and 5 miles from where they were released. In parts the hen birds are reported outnumbering the cocks by as high as 20 to 1. For the 1925 season I would recommend that the open season on cocks be shortened and there be an open season on hens for a week or ten days.

Grouse (Blue).—Noted as "plentiful" in the Highland District, Sooke Lake, Shawnigan Lake, Malahat, East and West Sooke, and Jordan River. A scarcity is again reported at Sidney and Duncan. To prevent extermination I would recommend that Duncan and Sidney areas be kept closed and in other parts of the district a short open season with a late opening date. The opening date for both blue and willow grouse should be the same.

Grouse (Willow).—The above remarks also apply to willow-grouse, both as to districts and recommendations. This would materially assist in checking up hunters and prevent the killing and leaving of willow-grouse.

Quail.—These are reported in large numbers, and in some instances complaints were received as to gardens being damaged. A short open season is recommended.

Bob-white Quail.—Very few of these birds have been seen in the Victoria District.

Partridges.—Reported as very numerous in North and South Saanich, Oak Bay, and Sidney. None reported from other areas.

MIGRATORY GAME BIRDS.

Ducks.—Although ducks throughout the district are reported as being less than last year, a slight increase has been noted among the American scaup and ring-necked species.

Geese and Brant.—Very few of these have been seen in any part of the district.

Snipe.—Few seen.

DESTRUCTION OF VERMIN.

Cougars.—These are reported as being somewhat on the increase in some areas—Cowichan Lake and Sooke. Every effort is being made to reduce their numbers by persistent hunting both by the Game Wardens and the sheepmen.

Wolves.—No trouble has been caused by these for some time.

Cat (Domesticated).—These are the worst pest and are responsible for the destruction of large numbers of young birds. Every effort is being made to reduce their numbers by trapping and shooting.

PROTECTION.

There is no outstanding feature during the year 1924 under this heading. The Game Regulations, 1924, being considered by the best type of hunters as affording the best protection for the game in this district. A few minor alterations have been suggested and are included in this report.

The Shaw Creek Game Reserve affords ample protection not only for the elk, but also for a large number of smaller game. This reserve is well patrolled by Constable G. B. Simpson both summer and winter. A number of convictions under the "Game Act" were obtained early in The season. These were mostly in connection with doe deer and hen pheasants and the effect was excellent.

A few complaints of pit-lamping were received. On investigation these turned out to be Indians digging clams along the water-front.

As a considerable number of both old and young birds are killed during the mating and hatching season by dogs and cats, I would recommend that temporary Game Wardens be employed during that season.

PROPAGATION.

The muskrats sent by the Game Conservation Board to Cowichan Lake are steadily on the increase. Several local people have requested that others be liberated on their property.

Duncan area asks that new blood be introduced among the pheasants in that district.

Shawnigan Lake, Jordan River, and Cowichan Lake pheasants are increasing rapidly.

SUMMARY.

The game conditions on the whole throughout the district are very good indeed, and, with the protection of the different species in the districts indicated in the foregoing, should improve for the 1925 season.

The "Migratory Birds Act" and the "Game Act" are being strictly enforced by all officers in this district, and by their co-operation and efficiency infractions are being reduced to a minimum.

NANAIMO DISTRICT.

BY STAFF-SERGEANT A. T. STEPHENSON, N.C.O. I/C.

The "Game Act" is well enforced throughout the Nanaimo Police District by my officers. Pit-lamping for deer, common a few years ago, is now largely eradicated owing to the strict enforcement of the Act.

A temporary Game Warden was appointed in the Nanaimo District, with headquarters at Nanaimo, during the open season for game birds and deer, but owing to his inexperience in game-work his services during 1924 were not up to standard. I would recommend that the services of an experienced man be procured, if possible, during the open season for 1925.

GAME ANIMALS.

Bear.—Bear are fairly numerous in the Nanaimo Police District, and I would suggest that open season for 1925 be the same as for 1924 and also that the bag limit be cut down.

Deer.—These were more plentiful in 1924 than they have been for some time.

Elk.—There are a few elk located at Quatsino, Comox, and north of Horne Lake, but they do not seem to be increasing. Possibly due to the depredations of cougar, very few calves were seen during 1924.

GAME BIRDS.

Grouse (Willow).—Fairly plentiful in this district and appear to be on the increase.

Grouse (Blue).—Plentiful.

Pheasants.—Pheasants are increasing all through this district, and on the northern end of the Island the hens outnumber the cocks by 10 to 1 or more. There should be a short season on hen birds.

Ducks.—Very plentiful throughout the whole of this district and appear to be increasing in numbers.

Geese.—Fairly plentiful in this district. Hunters complain that the season opens too late. They state that before the opening date of the shooting season the geese have all migrated South.

Brant.—Very plentiful in this district.

FUR-BEARING ANIMALS.

Mink.—These are not very plentiful in the Nanaimo District, but at the northern end of the Island they appear to be fairly numerous.

Marten.—Marten are getting scarce in the whole of the district.

Otter.—These are very scarce.

Beaver.—These appear to be on the increase again in this district, but would recommend that the season be kept closed for some time. A few complaints were received at this office of beaver doing damage to property.

Coon.—Seem to be fairly plentiful throughout the district.

NOXIOUS ANIMALS.

Panther.—These are fairly numerous in the district around Parksville, Campbell River, and Cumberland.

SPECIAL PATROLS.

One special patrol was made into the Nimkish District during the year 1924. These patrols are only made when conditions warrant the same.

GAME RESERVES.

The only game reserve in the Nanaimo Police District is at Strathcona Park, near Campbell River.

"A" DIVISION (MAINLAND).

VANCOUVER SUBDIVISION.

BY SUB-INSPECTOR F. CRUICKSHANK, OFFICER COMMANDING.

Through various amendments to the "Game Act" at the close of the 1923 season Constables in this Division have been able to carry on their work in a more efficient manner, and this year we have not had any great number of complaints, and the complaints received have been in the minority compared with previous years.

TEMPORARY GAME WARDENS.

As it was found that temporary officers appointed during the open season in past years had proven themselves unsatisfactory, I recommended this year that only one such officer be appointed. It is felt that the policy of appointing these men should be carefully considered for the coming year, as I am of the opinion that no great amount of benefit is derived by the Department from their services.

LICENCE FEES AND ROYALTY.

The revenue derived from licences under the Act, as well as royalty collected on fur, compares favourably with the moneys received from this source in past years.

In connection with the issuance of firearms licences, considerable complaint has been raised this year by the hunters, who are of the opinion that a metal tag of some description should accompany each licence. They advance on behalf of their complaint the statement that through continual use, and as the licence is subject to getting wet from time to time, it naturally is spoilt within a short period after it is issued, and it might be mentioned that in a great number of cases reports have been received that licences have been lost.

FUR TRADE.

In regard to the present method of collecting royalty, I feel that the stamping of fur should be done away with, as this procedure is and has been subject to numerous complaints from the fur-traders. These gentlemen claim that through the stamping of their fur the same depreciates in value on outside markets. There is no doubt in my mind that the stamping of muskrat and weasel pelts affect their value.

Through various sources complaints of a flimsy nature have been received as to bootlegging of fur in Vancouver, but it may be mentioned that not in one instance has there been any complaint lodged upon which an investigation could be conducted. Personally, I am of the opinion that there is, to a certain degree, some bootlegging of fur being carried on, but I do not think the Department is losing any great amount of revenue through this source. Evading the payment of royalty can be done in a number of ways, and I may say it is a very difficult matter to prevent this practice altogether, although steps have been and are being taken to keep this bootlegging down to the lowest possible minimum.

GAME ANIMALS.

In dealing with the big game I have to mention the fact that along the Coast in my Division the following big-game animals only are found, and I am dealing with these animals separately:—

Deer.—Through the protection afforded the doe deer during the last three years the deer have increased in nearly every part of the Vancouver Subdivision. On Bowen, Gambier, and the other smaller islands in the Howe Sound area many fine buck deer were taken during the open season, and I do not think that the number killed will in any way affect the stand of these animals. In the various inlets along the Coast deer are fairly plentiful, but would be more so if the pit-lamping could be stopped, as I feel that the pit-lamp or jack-light is responsible.

In a number of instances our officers found left in the woods does which had been shot, and it is regretted that this should be the case, as it is a shame to see this destructive work. It is a very difficult matter to apprehend the hunter or hunters responsible for this, but I am hoping that in this coming year we will be able to cope with this situation, and an example should be made of any person found shooting or in possession of a doe deer. There is very little doubt in my mind that does far outnumber the bucks, and there is a possibility of the farmers and ranchers along the Coast asking that the season be opened on does this coming year. The shooting of doe deer, if allowed, should be confined to a limited period and with a bag of only one doe allowed per hunter.

It is a very difficult matter to keep a check on the number of deer killed per hunter, and in this connection I might mention that some sort of a tag system could no doubt be worked satisfactorily.

Mountain-goat.—These animals, being quite able to take care of themselves, appear to be on the increase, and as they are not hunted by the sportsmen in this district to any great extent, there is no cause to shorten the open season in effect this year. Goat no doubt suffered considerably through numerous forest fires in the Powell River area, and this could also be said in respect to the deer in this district.

Bear (Grizzly and Black).—Very few grizzly bear were taken during the past year, and it might be mentioned that black bear do not appear to catch the eye of the average hunter, and are naturally left unmolested and are increasing in every part of the district. In and around the Burnaby Municipality black bear have done considerable damage to bee-hives and orchards, and I feel that, as this district is so near Vancouver, steps should be taken by the Department to thin these animals out, as if this is not done more complaints will be received each year. It might be mentioned that these animals have been seen very close to Port Moody, as well as near Lozells Station in Burnaby, and it is becoming a common occurrence to see these animals throughout these districts.

GAME BIRDS.

Pheasants.—During the past years these birds have increased, and the season of 1924 was one of the best the sportsmen have had in this district for a number of years. Prior to the opening of the season pheasants were noticed by our officers in large numbers throughout the district. The weather conditions throughout the season protected the birds, as well as the fact of the duck season opening on the same day.

No doubt it will be a matter of interest to know that the Game Warden at Port Moody noticed on one of his patrols a pure white hen pheasant. Although I have known of these "freaks" being found from time to time, this is the first instance of the kind, to my knowledge, in my district.

A very peculiar point in regard to pheasants is that, in respect to damage to crops of the farmer, a few years ago numerous complaints were received, but during the past season only two or three complaints or requests from farmers to shoot pheasants doing damage were received, these requests coming from the Delta Municipality and another from the Coquitlam District.

European Partridge.—These birds are slightly increasing and I would not recommend the opening of the season, other than in the Delta Municipality, on these birds during the coming year.

It was noticed that partridges are getting hold in the Sumas Prairie country, and apparently the birds there have migrated from the State to the south. A request was received by the Game Conservation Board that the season be opened in this locality, and I feel that the Board quite wisely refused this request, and I do not think that the season should be opened until the birds have increased in such numbers as will warrant shooting, which I may say is not the case at the present time.

Throughout the Surrey Municipality and the rest of the Delta Municipality and Electoral District partridges can be seen here and there, but there are not enough birds in these localities to warrant shooting, although the partridge is a bird that can very well take care of itself.

Quail.—In the Delta Municipality quail are about holding their own and, I feel, will never increase to such numbers as will warrant an open season unless a good amount of breeding stock is liberated. In the North Vancouver District these birds are, to say the least, holding their own, but it is felt that through the ravages by cats that are left to hunt for themselves by campers and loggers these birds will not increase to any great number, and until steps are taken to trap or get rid of domestic cats running wild in the bush in this and other districts I do not think that these birds will increase in such numbers as will warrant shooting.

Grouse (Blue and Willow).—Excellent blue-grouse shooting was obtained during the past season, whereas the willow is again decreasing in many parts of the district, and the season will have to be closed on these birds shortly if we wish to assure the sportsmen that he will have shooting of these birds in years to come.

The season, although the blue grouse were very plentiful, was closed on Bowen Island, due to the fact that a petition was sent in to the Game Conservation Board for some pheasants, with the understanding that if these birds were liberated the grouse season would be closed. A number of pheasants as a result were turned loose on the island, and from reports received are doing exceptionally well. Blue grouse are reported plentiful in the North Vancouver District and on Gambier Island and the birds taken were in the best of condition.

Willow-grouse bags were very small and, as stated before, the season should be closed on these birds this coming year.

MIGRATORY GAME BIRDS.

Ducks.—Prior to the opening of the season, mallards, pintail, widgeon, and teal could be seen in large numbers off the foreshore of Lulu and Sea Islands and in the Delta District, and a large number of birds were also noted in the Sumas District. After the opening day, however, very poor bags were obtained, although in some parts of the district good shooting was had and the birds killed were in good condition. Wood-ducks were seen near Chilliwack, but from reports at hand they were not as plentiful as last year.

Taking into consideration the weather conditions, the season this year on wild fowl was about the same as last year, and the birds appeared to be in about equal numbers, with no noted increase or decrease.

Swans.—A very unusual thing occurred this year in respect to these birds. It was reported that in the neighbourhood of 200 swans were seen off the foreshore of Sea Island, but I feel that this report cannot be considered reliable, although I may say I do know that some twenty or thirty swans were observed by our Game Wardens during the course of their patrols in the above-mentioned area. Unfortunately, however, some hunters could not leave these birds alone, and as a result two were prosecuted for killing a swan and one hunter for having a swan in his possession. It is to be regretted that some hunters appear not to have any regard as to what they are shooting at.

Geese and Brant.—These birds appeared in good numbers this year, and no doubt this shooting season has been one of the best the sportsmen have had in this district on these birds for some considerable time. Geese were reported as being very plentiful in the Knight Inlet District, whereas excellent brant-shooting was obtained at Boundary and Mud Bays.

FUR-BEARING ANIMALS.

Beaver.—Very few of these animals are to be found in my Division and should be protected.

Marten.—Could not be considered plentiful, but from reports received trappers in the district have caught a considerable number.

Mink.—These animals are about holding their own and are found in fairly large numbers throughout the district.

Muskrats.—In many parts of the district muskrats are practically trapped out, whereas in some portions they are still to be found in fair numbers, but nothing compared to the number a few years ago.

Otter.—A few of these animals are to be found in the district.

Racoon.—I would consider that these animals are plentiful and in some instances have been killing domestic fowl.

Skunk.—Fairly plentiful throughout the district.

Weasel or Ermine.—Plentiful.

In regard to fur-bearing animals, it is felt that if pit-lamping can be stopped, which is a very difficult problem, the fur-bearers, especially along the Coast and the islands adjacent thereto, would have a much better chance of increasing. Pit-lamping of these animals to my mind is responsible for the noted decrease during the past few years.

NOXIOUS ANIMALS AND BIRDS.

Cougars, coyotes, and wolves are found in the Vancouver District. Cougars can be considered as being fairly plentiful, and it might be mentioned that coyotes during the past two years have migrated into the lower mainland regions of the district, and steps should be taken to take care of the situation as there is very little doubt in my mind that these animals are killing a good many pheasants and grouse.

Wolves are not found in this district, with the exception of the northern portion, where they have been doing considerable damage not only to the game, but also to the stock of farmers.

It is considered that the present system of paying bounties on predatory animals has proven a failure, and I would recommend that expert noxious-animal hunters be employed to carry on the work of keeping cougars, wolves, and coyotes in check, as if this is not done I venture to say that within a few years predatory animals in this district will have increased and thereby cause a great depletion in the game found in the district.

In regard to noxious birds, a few years ago bounty was paid for the destruction of crows, eagles, big-horned owls, and snowy owls, and although a large number of these birds were killed they still appear to be as numerous as ever and are on the increase. The suggestion made above in respect to predatory animals applies also in regard to noxious birds.

SPECIAL PATROLS.

During the past year no special game patrols were made outside of the district, with the exception of the trip made by the launch "Watla" to the Gulf Islands to investigate a complaint of alleged pit-lamping going on in the vicinity of Tumbo Island. Owing to weather conditions, however, no success was had on this trip, although reliable information was obtained that considerable pit-lamping had been carried on during the fall of the year, and that this practice has been carried on for a number of years.

As usual, Constables in the district paid particular attention to game-work while out on their police patrols throughout their respective districts. The following Constables were almost continually engaged in making game patrols throughout the year being reported on, namely: W. V. Fenton and W. J. McIntosh, Langley Detachment; H. C. Pyke, Chilliwack Detachment; W. H. Cameron, Ladner Detachment; J. G. Cunningham, W. Clark, and D. C. Campbell, Vancouver Detachment; A. H. Silk, Mission Detachment; J. Murray, Port Moody Detachment; P. Corrigan, Pitt Meadows Detachment.

Constables W. H. Hadley, A. C. Sutton, and C. F. Kearns, of Alert Bay, Powell River, and Vananda Detachments, respectively, made a large number of patrols on game-protection work.

GAME RESERVES.

The following reserves are to be found in my Division: Nelson, Captain, and Hardy Islands; Burnaby, Deer, and Trout Lakes.

The first-named reserve was made for the purpose of protecting the deer on Hardy Island, of which there are a large number. The other reserves are natural resting-places for wild fowl, and it might be mentioned that on Burnaby Lake at certain periods of the year thousands of ducks of nearly every species can be seen, and this lake is certainly an ideal place for a resting area for the birds. Special attention has been paid to these reserves, many patrols having been made to see that no violation of the Act and regulations occurred.

ENFORCEMENT.

Again I might mention that every possible step was taken to see that the game laws were observed in my Division, although a few extra-qualified gamemen could be used to good advantage, and I may say that more of the permanent officers would have been sent out on game-work, but this was impossible owing to the Assizes during the fall of the year and various other police matters cropping up, and unfortunately I was unable to spare any extra men.

"B" DIVISION.

By Inspector W. R. Dunwoody, Officer Commanding.

I have the honour to submit herewith my annual report on game conditions in "B" Division for the year 1924, as requested in your Circular No. 974 of the 3rd February, 1925.

Owing to so many amendments to the "Game Act" being made at every session of the Legislature, I would respectfully suggest that immediately after the House is prorogued the "Game Act" be consolidated for the convenience of the Police, as it is very difficult for the ordinary Constable to look up all the amendments, so that he can understand them properly. In a great many instances it is many months after an amendment comes into force before the Constables get copies of the same.

Temporary Game Wardens.

Two temporary Game Wardens were engaged in the Kootenay Valley from May 26th to December 15th, 1924. This was considered necessary owing to the alleged destruction of game, particularly elk, by Indians during the summer months in previous years. No Indians were found hunting in this district during the summer of 1924. I have no record in this office of either of these men obtaining evidence to warrant a prosecution, and I am doubtful whether the expense incurred in having these men on patrol is warranted. Charles Shuttleworth, of Penticton, was employed in the Boundary District for one month for the purpose of hunting cougar. He obtained very good results, having bagged five cougar during that period. The above were all the temporary Game Wardens employed in this Division during 1924.

Licence Fees and Royalty.

The Police and Game Wardens in this Division collected the sum of $8,456.70 in licence fees and $820.31 in royalties during the year 1924. No doubt more royalties would have been collected only that trapping in the greater portion of this Division is prohibited.

Fur Trade.

Owing to trapping being restricted south of the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway during 1924, there was practically nothing doing in this trade during that time.

Game Animals.

Moose, Elk, Mountain Sheep and Goat.—In the North-east Kootenay and Fernie Districts moose and elk are increasing, as well as mountain sheep and goat. In the West Kootenay District there are a few elk. These are in the Lardeau country and across the Slocan Lake from New Denver.

Bear (Black and Grizzly).—These are also plentiful in the districts and are apparently on the increase throughout the Division.

Deer (Mule and White-tailed).—These are increasing. It seems to be the opinion of some hunters that too many bucks are being killed, which causes a great many barren does, and suggest that they should be allowed to kill one buck and one doe in the open season. Other hunters state that the "buck law" is the best there has ever been in this Province.

Caribou.—There are a few caribou in the North-east Kootenay District.

Game Birds.

Pheasants.—In the Similkameen and South Okanagan Valleys pheasants are doing well from a hunter's point of view, but the farmers are complaining that the pheasants are destructive to their crops. At Harrop and Creston, in the West Kootenay District, pheasants seem to be doing fairly well.

Hungarian Partridge.—Reported in the Boundary, West Kootenay, and Fernie Districts and are especially plentiful in the Boundary District. These are also destructive to crops and a number of complaints have been received.

Grouse (Blue and Willow).—Plentiful throughout the Division, more having been killed this year than during the past five seasons, and there were sufficient survivors to furnish good foundation stock for breeding purposes for 1925.

Ducks and Geese.—Very plentiful in the North-east Kootenay District and also in the West Kootenay District, around the Kootenay Flats. The Creston Rod and Gun Club planted considerable wild rice on Kootenay Flats during the year and seem to have been well repaid for their trouble.

FUR-BEARING ANIMALS.

All fur-bearing animals are on the increase in this Division, but I would not suggest any open season for another two years.

Beaver are doing exceptionally well. I have received a number of complaints of them damming up small streams and flooding low-lying lands. Several permits have been issued to farmers to trap beaver, but apparently they have not been very successful.

Mink and marten seem to be increasing and are getting a good foundation for further increase.

NOXIOUS ANIMALS.

From reports, cougar are increasing in this Division, also coyotes, and are killing off great numbers of deer, game birds, and small fur-bearing animals. A number of people are under the impression that they have no right to trap these animals, thinking they are fur-bearing. These noxious animals are bound to increase, especially coyotes, unless a larger bounty is placed on them, as it does not pay a trapper to go out after them under present conditions. When there was an open season on fur-bearing animals more noxious animals were trapped, and something must be done in the near future to check the increase of such animals.

SPECIAL PATROLS.

The police have not made many special patrols during the year, excepting when they have gone to investigate applications for permits to trap beaver doing damage to meadow lands, etc.

GAME RESERVES.

In this Division we have three game reserves—Elk River, Nelson, and Vaseaux Lake, in the South Okanagan, where a bird sanctuary has been declared.

The Elk River Game Reserve has become a splendid sanctuary for wild life, they seeming to know that here they are immune from molestation. All the high ranges are swarming with goat and it is a question whether or not there are too many in this place, as they are crowding the sheep from their old ranges.

The game reserve near Nelson should include the West Arm of the Kootenay Lake from P. Burns's slaughter-house to Willow Point. This area was not included in the regulations last year. This should be done, as it is very dangerous to human life for any person to be shooting in this vicinity.

It is suggested by the N.C.O. in charge of the Fernie District that the district known locally as the South Fork, where great numbers of deer crowd in from the surrounding country during the winter, should be made a game reserve.

ENFORCEMENT.

The provisions of the "Game Act" have been rigidly enforced in this Division, and I am of the opinion that the present system of having the police enforce the Act is more effective than the old system of Game Wardens. Where Game Wardens are employed, in nearly every instance it is the Provincial Police who obtain information to prosecute under the "Game Act."

During the year 1924 there were forty-two prosecutions in this Division under the "Game Act," with thirty-five convictions and seven dismissals.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

I would like to mention that Constables Ira J. Brown, of Fernie; F. H. Butwell, of Golden; and R. M. Robertson, of Penticton, have proved efficient Game Wardens and seem to take a great interest in their work.

"C" DIVISION.

By Inspector W. L. Fernie, Officer Commanding.

I have the honour to submit herewith my annual report of conditions, etc., in this Division (Interior) under the "Game Act" for the year 1924.

The "Game Act" would appear to be satisfactory with the exception, of course, of trap-lines. One request was received during the year from a Mr. J. W. Campbell, of Horsefly (Cariboo), who was acting on behalf of several other trappers in that district, that trap-lines be registered. This application was more or less in the way of affording trappers protection from others who might wish to "jump" their trap-lines. Mr. Campbell pointed out that in the event of a trapper wishing to rest his trap-line for a year or two, for the purpose of allowing the fur-bearing animals an opportunity of increasing, there was nothing to stop another trapper claiming the trap-line if no traps were set thereon. This of course would be unfair to the trapper who was conscientiously working towards conservation, and who should be encouraged in so doing.

The trading of trap-lines would also appear to be another matter which should have more attention. I am of the opinion that a trapper no doubt can sell or dispose of his cabins and equipment, but has he any right to sell or give the right to any other party to trap on that area where his cabins and equipment are?

Temporary Game Wardens.

During this year six temporary Game Wardens were employed in this Division at the beginning of the open season. Three of these Game Wardens were released during December, the remainder still being employed. Splendid work was performed by these men, particularly the men stationed at Kelowna, Vernon, and the 100-Mile House. I am of the opinion, however, that Game Wardens appointed through the recommendation of Game Associations throughout the Province should be given every opportunity to show that they are worthy of the position. Should they not be found satisfactory or active enough in their work they should not be re-employed.

Licence Fees and Royalty.

The present licence fees and royalties appear to be satisfactory.

Fur Trade.

The fur-trade business would seem to be much the same as the last few years. In this Division the Cariboo country is about the only district where activity in this direction is noted. Catches would seem to be on a par with last year, although it is early yet to get definite information on this matter.

Game Animals.

In spite of the many articles appearing in newspapers of this Province regarding the decrease of game, there is no doubt that a great many of these articles would appear to be written by people who seem to have no knowledge whatever of game conditions. From reports received throughout the year from Game Wardens and Constables in this Division, and also from conversation with farmers and settlers in all parts of this Division, there is undoubtedly a marked increase in big game in so far as the Interior is concerned. The following is compiled from reports received from the different points of this Division:—

Moose.—In the Cariboo District these animals are very plentiful and have greatly increased during the last two or three years. In the Kamloops District there is a band in the Criss Creek District, near Savona, which is doing well and increasing. In the North Thompson District moose have been noticed this last two years, evidently coming from the Upper and Lower Clearwater Districts.

Caribou.—These are very plentiful in the Cariboo District and in good condition. In the Kamloops District (North Thompson), near the Clearwater and Myrtle Lakes, they are plentiful and increasing. Recently they have been observed in the Blue River and Avola sections. A large band is also reported in that country to the north of the Adams Lake District.

Elk.—In the Yalakom Reserve, near Lillooet, these animals are increasing satisfactorily and are now spreading out in small bands. During October, 1924, 1,000 lb. of coarse salt for a salt-lick was spread out in Paradise Valley (part of the reserve) for these animals. This salt-lick was provided by the Game Conservation Board in an attempt to divert the elk from destroying trees and pastures belonging to Indians in that district, and would appear to have achieved its purpose.

Mountain-sheep.—These appear to be holding their own in the Cariboo District. In the North Thompson, particularly near Albreda, they are reported plentiful. In the Vernon District, near Fintry, on the west side of the Okanagan Lake, favourable reports have been received concerning a flock of sheep which has been there for some years.

Mountain-goat.—In the Cariboo District generally they are reported as holding their own, the only noticeable increase being in the Clearwater District, near Mahood Lake. They are reported as being plentiful in the regions of Shuswap and Adams Lake. At Sugar Lake, in the Vernon District, they are also reported as being plentiful.

Bear.—These animals are reported very numerous throughout the whole Interior and no doubt have increased very rapidly the last few years.

Deer.—Deer are undoubtedly on the increase throughout the whole Interior, reports in abundance having been received to verify this information. Bucks are reported scarce in the Okanagan District (both North and South), and it would appear advisable to reduce the bag limit this coming season or some other steps be taken to give them protection.

Game Birds.

Grouse.—Willow and blue grouse in the Cariboo District, on the average, are reported plentiful. Franklin grouse in the Barkerville area are still reported plentiful, although they would appear to be getting thinned out. In the Kamloops District both blue and willow grouse are reported plentiful. In the Vernon District willow and blue grouse are reported plentiful, although in some parts blue grouse are reported as not so numerous as in previous years. In the Yale District reports are very satisfactory with regard to these birds. Ashcroft vicinity is the only place where they are becoming scarce, which, of course, is not a suitable place for these birds; no doubt they have migrated to other parts near by where they have better feeding and protection.

Hungarian Partridge.—These are reported plentiful in the Okanagan and are on the increase. They are a hardy bird and winter well. It would appear that they are spreading throughout the Okanagan from the south to the north of this valley.

Pheasants.—These are undoubtedly on the increase throughout the whole Interior, at least as far north as Clinton. There is a reported shortage of cocks in the Okanagan District, particularly at Kelowna, which no doubt is due to the season having been open for cocks in that locality for the last few years. These birds appear to do splendidly in the Interior, the only drawback being the wintering of these birds. The winter, the last two years, has been rather severe, with a very heavy snowfall, and it would appear that the pheasants are unable to obtain feed during that period. At all points where the pheasants are numerous instructions were issued to purchase grain, if necessary, for these birds during the severe weather, and I am satisfied that everything possible has been done for their protection during the winter, in spite of the many criticisms that one reads, almost daily, during the cold weather in the Provincial newspapers.

Ducks.—Reports on these migratory birds would appear to conflict. In the Cariboo country they were reported this year as being plentiful, and in the Barkerville area they were reported as being more numerous this year than in the last few years. In the Kamloops District they were reported as being numerous, but not as plentiful as in previous years. In the Vernon District they were reported as being plentiful, with no noticeable increase.

Geese.—Favourable reports have been received from all over the Interior concerning these birds and there is no doubt that they are increasing. Concerning the above migratory birds, it would appear probable that with the advent of the automobile, with which sportsmen can travel rapidly from one lake to another, the large lakes near the public highways in this Interior are being avoided by migratory birds on their southern flights.

Swans.—It would appear necessary to add a little regarding these birds. It is of interest to hear that they have been observed in different parts of the Province. Game Warden Hughes reports that several flocks visited Exeter Lake in the spring and also again in the fall of this year. Game Warden Turner reports that several flocks of swans were seen in Swan and Spectacle Lakes in the Barkerville area. Swans were also reported at Salmon Arm and also at Kelowna. Everything is being done to protect these birds, and it might not be out of place to mention here that two prosecutions were lodged during the year concerning these birds, both of which were successful.

FUR-BEARING ANIMALS.

There is a persistent demand for a close season in the Cariboo District. Trappers in this district have been expecting that a close season would be proclaimed and appear disappointed that something has not been done. Reports from Game Wardens and Constables in the Cariboo country and also the North Thompson District are unanimous in their request for a close season for a period of three or four years. In other parts of this Division where the trapping has been closed there is no noticeable increase in fur-bearing animals, other than beaver. Beaver are the only fur-bearing animals that appear to be increasing in the closed areas and the increase is very noticeable.

NOXIOUS ANIMALS.

Coyotes and cougar are reported on the increase in the Vernon District by Game Warden Quesnel. Cougar are also reported numerous near Sicamous, on the shores of the Shuswap Lake, but action has been taken by the Game Conservation Board in this area and it is hoped will be successful. Coyotes are reported as being more numerous in the Merritt District than in previous years. Coyotes are also reported as being numerous in the Quesnel District.

SPECIAL PATROLS.

Numerous patrols have been made throughout the year in the interests of game, and all temporary Game Wardens have more or less been making special patrols each month in their respective districts. A special patrol was made by Game Warden Hughes during October to Quesnel Dam. Infractions were supposed to have occurred in this vicinity, but no action could be taken. It is expected that an officer will be stationed at Likely during this coming year and no doubt will be able to give this district more attention. Several patrols to trap-lines were undertaken during the trapping season, chiefly to settle disputes. A proposal has been received from the Forest Branch for a joint patrol to be made by a Forest Branch officer and a Provincial Constable in the spring or early summer of 1925 through the Chilcotin country in the interests of forest and game protection. This matter is now under consideration at present and it is hoped that such a patrol will be undertaken. The district to be patrolled will be through regions that have not been visited before and it is hoped to gather interesting data from this patrol.

GAME RESERVES.

I would again recommend that the Bowron Lake quadrangle be proclaimed a reserve for moose. All opposition, as far as can be learned, has been withdrawn and the inhabitants are anxious for it being proclaimed. The recommendation I made last year with regard to Paul Lake and the Momitch Lake country, the first place being near Kamloops and the latter near Adams Lake, I am still in favour of.

ENFORCEMENT.

The enforcement of the "Game Act" in this Division has been carried on with undiminished vigour. The following summary of prosecutions is of interest: Prosecutions (all of which were successful, netting fines amounting to $825), 54; withdrawal, 1; pleaded "Guilty" and given suspended sentence, 2; dismissals, 3; pleaded "Guilty" and which were dismissed, 3; total of prosecutions for the year, 63.

The above record speaks well for the way in which the officers concerned prepared their cases.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

In concluding my report, I would like to draw your attention to the interest taken by the Constables and Game Wardens in the welfare of the game in this Province, and to whose untiring efforts I am able to compile this report. All of which I respectfully submit.

"D" DIVISION.

By INSPECTOR T. W. S. PARSONS, OFFICER COMMANDING.

THE "GAME ACT."

Based upon personal observation and from information supplied, many alterations designed to assist the enforcement of the Act have been submitted at various times. In this connection I feel officers stationed in the Fort George and Hazelton Police Districts, particularly Corporal T. Van Dyk, deserve especial mention, for it is from these men most of the data presented was obtained. Many of the suggestions put forward have since been incorporated in the Act, an encouraging sign pointing both to an intelligent interest in and technical knowledge of their work.

While the police liberally devote their time and energy towards making our game protection a success, one weakness is exposed in the class of service we are able to give; id est, our inability to supply a reliable propagative survey.

Local plentitude is seldom an argument for general plentitude, and although by piecing several reports together an approximate idea can be formed, actually the matter is one for the expert, to which end the appointment of at least one trained conservator in every police division is recommended.

The duties of such an official should comprise in lecturing school-children upon the British Columbia "Game Act" and its intentions, the control of trap-line registration, the survey alluded to above, and supervision of the fur trade. Obviously a high standard of intelligence with special attributes would be expected from such an appointee.

During the year 1924 a very marked interest has been shown in this Act by members of the Provincial Police and the Gun Clubs throughout the Division, between whom a close co-operation is being established.

LICENCE FEES AND ROYALTIES.

The licence fees for the Division show an increase over 1923, and royalties a slight falling-off. It is suggested that the present system of marking pelts be changed as the fur-markers now in use can be too easily duplicated.

THE FUR TRADE.

The extremely speculative nature of this business during the past few years now appears to have resolved itself into more prosaic channels. Fur of a fixed grade calls for a fixed price, and with values set either in New York or London, dealers are compelled to trade on an ordinary percentage basis.

GAME ANIMALS.

Interior.—Big game, especially moose and caribou, is unquestionably increasing and large herds of these species have been seen at several points.

Coast.—The only big game in the Coast District are mountain-goat and deer. Both species are numerous and easily obtained.

GAME BIRDS.

Interior.—Grouse are very plentiful. Prairie-chicken show a steady increase, the latter being due to the close season. At Prince George the Mongolian pheasants recently imported have shown a satisfactory increase and will prove a valuable asset to the community. Mr. J. H. Johnson still maintains a deep interest in their welfare.

Coast.—Pheasants on the Queen Charlotte Islands increased during the year and a short open season is recommended for 1925.

Geese and Ducks.—These have increased and a slight change in the open season has been recommended.

FUR-BEARING ANIMALS.

During the year a better quality of fur has been marketed and one hears far less of "unprime" fur than formerly. The actual fur stand itself shows no serious diminution, and with the inauguration of registered trap-lines I have every confidence that the Northern Interior will never be deprived of one of its principal resources.

NOXIOUS ANIMALS.

Wolves and coyotes are reported to be on the increase throughout the Division, especially in the Fort George and Telegraph Creek area.

GAME RESERVES.

There are three game reserves in this Division—Fort George, Kaien Island, and Kunghit Island.

ENFORCEMENT.

Interior.—During the year eighteen prosecutions were instituted and sixteen convictions obtained by the Provincial Police in the Hazelton, Fort George, and Peace River Districts. This unusual reduction in prosecutions may be fairly ascribed to the excellent work performed by our officers.

Coast.—Twelve convictions were secured in the Prince Rupert District, and although this shows an improvement over former years, I am still convinced that many violations of the "Game Act" occur along the Coast. Until a proper system of boat patrols is maintained, frequent complaints as to trappers and hunters operating during the close season may be anticipated.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

In closing this report, I wish to express appreciation of the vigilance of the N.C.O.'s and men throughout this Division. Considering the vast area they are called upon to patrol—some 250,000 square miles—the work performed during the year has been very creditable indeed.

Number of pheasants hatched	1,500
Number lost by trampling of hens, vermin, etc.	350
Number of birds strayed from field	100
Number of birds in pens at present time	1,030

The pheasant-eggs were distributed as follows: Percy Wood, South Port, P.E.I., 1 setting; Colonel Victor Spencer, Lytton, 2 settings; B. H. McNeil, Canim Lake, 2 settings; Hon. E. A. Smith, Shediac, New Brunswick, 2 settings; W. K. Finlayson, Sicamous, 2 settings; W. Fooks, Victoria, 1 setting.

After sufficient eggs had been collected a number of stock birds were turned out, some with broods, others to raise a late brood. Number of birds shipped up to December 1st, 1924, 19, as follows: One Mongolian cock to W. Fooks, Victoria; five cocks and ten hens to Tranquille; one cock and two hens to Hon. E. A. Smith, Shediac, New Brunswick.

Over 100 wild duck reared and eighty at present on hand.

GAME CONSERVATION BOARD.

REPORT OF F. BUTLER, SECRETARY, ON OPERATIONS OF BOARD, 1924.

Throughout the year 1924 the Game Conservation Board has continued its policy of trying to better conditions for the protection and conservation of the wild life of British Columbia.

Many difficult problems have confronted the Board, and in order to show what has been done or what the Board intends to do during the coming year these different problems are being dealt with in this report.

Before dealing with these matters it is felt that mention should be made of the fact that the Board's chief aim is to protect and conserve the wild animal and bird life of the Province along sane and reasonable lines.

REGISTRATION OF TRAP-LINES AND GUIDES.

Under the amendments to the "Game Act" passed in 1923, provision was made for the making of regulations pertaining to the registration of trap-lines and guides, and during the year under review the Board has given very careful attention to this matter in an endeavour to have these regulations approved and promulgated.

In considering these regulations, the Board has tried, wherever possible, to work in the best interests of the white and Indian trappers and the guides. The policy of registering trap-lines, being a new one, has naturally been a very difficult matter to deal with, but no doubt by the 1925 trapping season these regulations will have been passed and put into force.

COLLECTION OF ROYALTY ON FUR.

The system now in vogue in respect to the collection of royalty on pelts of fur-bearing animals trapped in the Province has proven a failure, and the Board, acting in conjunction with the Provinces to the east, is endeavouring to devise some means whereby a better check may be kept on the collection of this tax.

GAME RESERVES.

As the Board has felt that in order to protect the game in a number of districts in the Province reserves or sanctuaries are necessarily required, careful attention has been given to a number of areas which have been brought to the notice of the Board, and recommendations will be made shortly to the Department with a view of having different areas of land suitable for the purpose set aside as game reserves.

RETURNS OF LICENCE-HOLDERS.

As in the past no reliable data or information has been obtained by the Game Department in respect to the amount of game killed each year, regulations as provided for under the present "Game Act" will be recommended, and under these regulations every licence-holder no doubt will be required to surrender his licence upon expiry thereof to the Board, with a full statement on the back of such licence showing the game that has been killed or taken by the licensee.

LICENCE-TAGS.

The issuance of tags with all firearms licences has been considered and a recommendation that these tags be again issued with licences has been made to the Department. The Board in making this recommendation was of the opinion that not only would such a system enable our game officers to better enforce the provisions of the "Game Act," but it would also be a means of identification and in a way would enable the farmer to prevent trespassing on his property if he should desire not to have hunters going over or hunting on his land.

PUBLIC SHOOTING-GROUNDS.

During the past year throughout various States and in some of the Eastern Provinces public shooting-grounds have been made, and the Board is of the opinion that such steps should be taken in this Province, and with this object in view an investigation will be made of various districts in the Province.

FUR-FARMING.

Every assistance has been given to fur-farmers and prospective fur-farmers. All possible literature has been obtained and furnished to applicants desiring information on this industry. In a number of cases where the farmer has not had sufficient funds to obtain breeding stock the Board has granted special permission to take a specified number of fur-bearing animals during the close season on the understanding that the permittee returns to the Board, within a limited period after such stock is taken, a number of live animals equal to the number captured or trapped under such special permission.

During the year under review the Board has answered some 1,200 letters of inquiry in regard to fur-farming. These inquiries have not only been received from people residing in the Province, but from the other Provinces in Canada, the United States, South America, and England.

BANDING OF MIGRATORY BIRDS.

Early in the year trapping operations were conducted on Lulu and Sea Islands, near Vancouver, for the purpose of banding migratory game birds, and it is pleasing to note that, although a number of obstacles had to be overcome, some sixty-five ducks and one snow-goose were banded. From returns so far received one duck banded was killed near Cordova, Alaska, another in the State of Washington, and two in the neighbourhood where they were originally banded. The duck killed at Cordova, Alaska, was banded in March, 1924, and was reported as having been killed in October of the same year. As far as the records show, the snow-goose was the first ever banded and considerable difficulty was experienced by the banders in capturing this bird.

The Board has under consideration at the present time the matter of establishing a permanent banding-station, as it is felt that a large amount of reliable information can be obtained by carrying on this work, which is being done in co-operation with the Dominion Parks Branch, Ottawa, and the Biological Survey, Washington, D.C., U.S.A.

PROVINCIAL BIRD-HOUSE COMPETITION.

In co-operation with the Dominion Parks Branch, the Board during the past two years has held a bird-house competition amongst the school-children in the Province, and it is gratifying to note that a good deal of interest has been taken by the competitors in providing houses for insectivorous birds.

PROPAGATION.

(a.) Pheasants.—Due to the operations of the Pheasant Farms near Victoria, some 2,000 pheasants were liberated in various parts of the Province, and from observations in the field during the past open season the sportsmen have had one of the best seasons for hunting these birds.

Considerable complaint was received from the farmers throughout the country as to damage by pheasants, and in this connection the Board endeavoured to employ all possible means to curtail this damage, as it is felt that the farmer should be given every assistance where these birds are causing him harm.

(b.) Muskrats.—Other work carried on under the Board's direction was that in connection with the trapping alive of muskrats within the boundaries of the Burnaby Lake Game Reserve. A number of these animals were taken alive and shipped to points on Vancouver Island, where, from reports received, they are increasing. It is to be noted that, so far as records show, muskrats have never been found on Vancouver Island in the wild state until those shipped by the Board were liberated. There are many suitable places on the Island for muskrats and the Board intends to carry on this work each year.

(c.) Mountain-goat.—Through the courtesy of the Dominion Parks Branch, the Board was successful in obtaining four mountain-goat, these animals being liberated on the Shaw Creek Game Reserve, Vancouver Island, and where it is hoped they will increase. It is the intention of the Board to endeavour to obtain a further number of these animals for liberation on Vancouver Island.

CONTROL OF PREDATORY ANIMALS AND NOXIOUS BIRDS.

The control of predatory animals and noxious birds has also been given attention by the Board, with the result that in a number of cases where complaints had been received special men were employed to carry on the work of destroying vermin, and in one instance, which is worthy of mention, a good deal of success was obtained by the hunter so employed. This hunter accounted for five cougar within the short period of three weeks from the time he commenced his operations.

Recommendations have been received and considered in regard to again putting a bounty on crows and other noxious birds, but from past experience the Board is of the opinion that the system of paying bounties was not a beneficial one, and steps will be taken shortly to have a check kept on the noxious birds in the various districts in the Province where they are known to be doing damage to game.

MEETINGS OF BOARD.

During the year 1924 the Board has held a number of meetings which have been open to the sportsmen and the general public, and it is felt, to a great extent, that these meetings have been very beneficial, as they have taken place in various parts of the Province, and the Board has had a very good opportunity to keep in close touch with the sportsmen, farmers, and the general public in respect to conserving the wild life of British Columbia.

Through meetings held in Vernon, Kelowna, Penticton, and Vancouver, the Board received a large amount of data and first-hand information in regard to the conditions in respect to game in the districts surrounding these cities, which otherwise would not have been possible.

MEMBERS OF BOARD.

The members of the Board as at present constituted are as follows: M. B. Jackson, K.C., Chairman, Victoria; J. A. Buckham, M.L.A., Golden; T. B. Booth, Nanaimo; C. J. White, Vancouver; Dr. P. D. McSween, New Westminster.

It is to be regretted that Mr. J. F. Guimont, of Cranbrook, resigned as a member of the Board, as this gentleman did an enormous amount of good while a member and the Board feels the loss of his valuable advice and assistance.

GAME REGULATIONS.

It is to be regretted that the Game Regulations for the season 1924–25 were not distributed at an earlier date, but the Board intends in future to see that these regulations are fixed early in the spring.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

On behalf of the Board, I wish to express appreciation to the Superintendent of Provincial Police, his officers and Constables, and to the Game Associations and sportsmen throughout the Province for the assistance rendered during the year under review.
